23 ²³But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, ²⁴which see not, nor hear, nor know; and the God in whose hand thy breath is, ²⁵and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified:

24 Then was the part of the hand sent from him; and this writing was written.

25 ¶ And this is the writing that was written, MĒ/NĒ, MĒ/NĒ, TĒ/KEL, U-PIĀR'SIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing: MĒ/NĒ; God hath ²⁶numbered thy kingdom, and finished it.

27 TĒ/KEL; ²⁷Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.

28 PE'RES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the ²⁸Mēdeš and ²⁹Pēr'sians.

29 Then commanded Bēl-shāz'zar, and they clothed Dān'el with scarlet, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 ¶ ³⁰In that night was Bēl-shāz'zar the king of the Chāl-dē'an's slain.

31 ³¹And Dā-r'us the Mē'di'an took the kingdom, ³²being ³³about three-score and two years old.

CHAPTER 6.

Daniel is cast into the den of lions.

IT pleased Dā-r'us to set ³⁴a over the kingdom an hundred and twenty princes, which should be over the whole kingdom;

2 And over these three presidents; of whom ³⁵Dān'el was first: that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

3 Then this Dān'el was preferred above the presidents and princes, ³⁶because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

4 ¶ ³⁷Then the presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Dān'el concerning the kingdom; but ³⁸they could find none occasion ³⁹nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Dān'el.

jel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and princes ¹ assembled together to the king, and said thus unto him, ² King Dā-rī'us, live for ever.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counsellors, and the captains, have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm ² decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any God or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, establish the decree, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the ¹ law of the Mēdes and Pēr'sjans, which ² altereth not.

9 ¹ Wherefore king Dā-rī'us signed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Dān'jel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and ¹ his windows being open in his chamber ² toward Jē-ryū-sā-lēm, he kneeled upon his knees ³ three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Dān'jel praying and making supplication before his God.

12 ¹ Then they came near, and spake before the king concerning the king's decree; Hast thou not signed a decree, that every man that shall ask a petition of any God or man within thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing ¹ is true, according to the law of the Mēdes and Pēr'sjans, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they and said before the king, That Dān'jel, ^m which ^{is} of the children of the captivity of Jū'dah, ⁿ regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast signed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, ^o was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Dān'jel to deliver him: and he laboured till the going down of the sun to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Mēdes and Pēr'sjans ^{is}, That no decree nor statute which the king establisheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Dān'jel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Dān'jel, ^p Thy 17 ¹ And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den; ² and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords; that the purpose might not be changed concerning Dān'jel.

18 ¶ Then the king went to his palace, and passed the night fasting: neither were ⁴ instruments of musick brought before him: ⁵ and his sleep went from him.

19 Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Dān'jel: and the king spake and said to Dān'jel, O Dān'jel, servant of the living God, ¹ is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then said Dān'jel unto the king, ² O king, live for ever.

22 ¹ My God hath sent ² his angel, and hath ³ shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him ⁴ innocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king, have I done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Dān'jel up out of the den. So Dān'jel was taken up out of the den, ¹ and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God.

24 ¶ And the king commanded, ² and they brought those men which had accused Dān'jel, and they cast them into the den of lions, them, ³ their children, ⁴ and their wives; and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces, or ever they came at the bottom of the den.

25 ¶ ¹ Then king Dā-rī'us wrote unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 ¹ I make a decree, That in every dominion of my kingdom men ² tremble and fear before the God of Dān'jel: ³ for he ^{is} the living God, and stedfast for ever, and his kingdom ⁴ that which shall not be ⁵ destroyed, and his dominion ^{shall} be even unto the end.

27 He delivereth and rescueth, ² and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Dān'jel from the ⁵ power of the lions.

28 So this Dān'jel prospered in the reign of Dā-rī'us, ¹ and in the reign of ² Cō'rus the Pēr'sjan.

CHAPTER 7.

1 Daniel's vision of the four beasts, 9 and of God's kingdom.

IN the first year of Bēl-shāz'zar king of Bāb'ylon Dān'jēl ¹ had a dream and ^a visions of his head upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and told the sum of the ² matters.

2 Dān'jēl spake and said, I saw in my vision by night, and, behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts ^b came up from the sea, diverse one from another.

4 The first was ^c like a lion, and had eagle's wings: I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, ⁵ and it was lifted up from the earth, and made stand upon the feet as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

5 ^a And behold another beast, a second, like to a bear, and ⁴ it raised up itself on one side, and it had three ribs in the mouth of it between the teeth of it: and they said thus unto it, Arise, devour much flesh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo another, like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl; the beast had also ^a four heads; and dominion was given to it.

7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts that were before it; ^a and it had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and, behold, ^a there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things.

9 ¶ ^a I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and ⁱ the Ancient of days did sit, ^j whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, ^k and his wheels as burning fire.

10 A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: ^l thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which the horn spake: ^m I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.

12 As concerning the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away: yet ⁵ their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

13 I saw in the night visions, and, behold, ^a one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.

14 ^a And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is ^a an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Dān'jēl was grieved in my spirit in the midst of my ^b body, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I came near unto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me, and made me know the interpretation of the things.

17 These great beasts, which are four, are four kings, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 But ^a the saints of the ⁷ most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 Then I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was diverse ^b from all the others, exceeding dreadful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass; which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with his feet;

20 And of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, and before whom three fell; even of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that spake very great things, whose look was more stout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, ^a and the same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them;

22 ^a Until the Ancient of days came, ^b and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 ^a And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise: and another shall rise after them; and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings.

25 ^v And he shall speak great words against the most High, and shall ^w wear out the saints of the most High, and ^x think to change times and laws: and ^y they shall be given into his hand ^z until a time and times and the dividing of time.

26 But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end.

27 And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, ^a whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all ^b dominions shall serve and obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Dān'iel, my cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I ^b kept the matter in my heart.

CHAPTER 8.

Daniel's vision of the ram and he goat.

IN the third year of the reign of king Bēl-shāz'zar a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Dān'iel, after that which appeared unto me at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at ^a Shū'shan in the palace, which is in the province ^b of E'lām; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ū'lā-i.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns: and the two horns were high; but one was higher than ¹ the other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; ^c but he did according to his will, and became great.

5 And as I was considering, behold, an he goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and ^d touched not the ground: and the goat had ³ a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up ^d four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed exceeding great, ^e toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the f pleasant land.

10 ^g And it waxed great, even ⁴ to the host of heaven; and ^h it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, ⁱ he magnified himself even ⁵ to the prince of the host, and ⁶ by him the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And ⁷ an host was given him against the daily sacrifice by reason of transgression, and it cast down the truth to the ground; and it practised, and prospered.

13 ¶ Then I heard ^j one saint speaking, and another saint said unto ⁸ that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression ⁹ of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred ¹⁰ days; then shall the sanctuary be ¹¹ cleansed.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when I, even I Dān'iel, had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ū'lā-i, which called, and said, ^k Gā'bri-el, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and ^l fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: but he touched me, and ¹² set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Mē'di-a and Pēr'siā.

21 And the rough goat is the king of Grê'çjâ : and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king.

22 Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, when the transgressors ¹³ are come to the full, a king ^m of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, but ⁿ not by his own power : and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty and the ¹⁴ holy people.

25 And through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand ; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by ¹⁵ peace shall destroy many : he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes ; but he shall be ^o broken without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true : ^p wherefore shut thou up the vision ; for it shall be for many days.

27 And I Dăn'jel fainted, and was sick certain days ; afterward I rose up, ^q and did the king's business ; and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

2 In the first year of his reign I Dăn'jel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to ^b Jêr-emî'ah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jê-rû'sā-lēm.

3 ¶ And I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes :

4 And I prayed unto the LORD my God, and made my confession, and said, O Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments ;

5 ^c We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments :

princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, ^e righteousness ² belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day ; to the men of Jū'dah, and to the inhabitants of Jê-rû'sā-lēm, and unto all Is'ra-el, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 To ^j the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him ;

10 Neither have we obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, ^k all Is'ra-el have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice ; therefore the curse is ^l poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Mō'ses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he ⁱ hath confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil : for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jê-rû'sā-lēm.

13 As it is written in the law of Mō'ses, all this evil is come upon us : yet ³ made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the LORD watched upon the evil, and brought it upon us : for the LORD our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth : for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people forth out of the land of E'gypt with a mighty hand, and hast ⁴ gotten thee renown, as at this day ; we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 ¶ O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jê-rû'sā-lēm, thy holy mountain : because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jê-rû'sā-lēm and thy people are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary that is desolate, for the Lord's sake.

18 O my God, incline thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, and behold our desolations, and the city ⁵ which is called by thy name: for we do not ⁶ present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hearken and do; defer not, for thine own sake. O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Is'ra-el, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was speaking in prayer, even the man Gā'brī-el, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, being caused to fly ⁷ swiftly, touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Dān'jēl, I am now come forth ⁸ to give thee skill and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the ⁹ commandment came forth, and I am come to shew thee: for thou art ¹⁰ greatly beloved: therefore understand the matter, and consider the vision.

24 ¹¹ Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, ¹² to finish the transgression, and ¹³ to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and ¹⁴ prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy.

25 Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment ¹⁵ to restore and to build Jē-ru'sā-lēm unto the Mēs-si'ah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street ¹⁶ shall be built again, and the ¹⁷ wall, even ¹⁸ in troublous times.

26 And after threescore and two weeks shall Mēs-si'ah be cut off, ¹⁹ but not for himself: ²⁰ and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war ²¹ desolations are determined.

27 And he shall confirm ²² the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation

CHAPTER 10.

Daniel seeth a glorious vision.

IN the third year of Cŷrus king of Pēr'si'a a thing was revealed unto Dān'jēl, whose name was called Bēl-te-shāz'zar; and the thing was true, but the time appointed was ¹ long: and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

2 In those days I Dān'jēl was mourning three ² full weeks.

3 I ate no ³ pleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, which is ⁴ Hid'de-kel;

5 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold ⁵ a certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with fine gold of Ū'phāz:

6 His body also was like the beryl, and his face ⁶ as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet like in colour to polished brass, and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Dān'jēl alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great quaking fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ⁸ saw this great vision, and there remained no ⁹ strength in me: for my ⁶ comeliness was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, then was I in a deep sleep on my face, and my face toward the ⁹ ground.

10 ¶ ¹⁰ And, behold, an hand touched me, which ⁷ set me upon my knees and upon the palms of my hands.

11 And he said unto me, O Dān'jēl, ⁸ a man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and ⁹ stand upright: for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had spoken this word unto me, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he unto me, ¹⁰ Fear not, Dān'jēl: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to chasten thyself before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 But the prince of the kingdom of Për'sjā withstood me one and twenty days: but, lo, ^fMi'chaël, ¹⁰one of the chief princes, came to help me; and I remained there with the kings of Për'sjā.

14 Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befall thy people in the latter days: for yet the vision is for many days.

15 And when he had spoken such words unto me, ^gI set my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And, behold, one like the similitude of the sons of men ^atouched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, by the vision my sorrows are turned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can ¹¹the servant of this my lord talk with this my lord? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 And said, O man greatly beloved, ⁱfear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong. And when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to ^jfight with the prince of Për'sjā: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grē'c'jā shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and there is none that ¹²holdeth with me in these things, but Mi'chaël your prince.

2 And now will I shew thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Për'sjā; and the fourth shall be far richer than they all: and by his strength through his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grē'c'jā.

3 And ^ca mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and ^ddo according to his will.

heaven; and not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others beside those.

5 ¶ And the king of the south shall be strong, and one of his princes; and he shall be strong above him, and have dominion; his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of years they ¹shall join themselves together; for the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the north to make ²an agreement: but she shall not retain the power of the arm; neither shall he stand, nor his arm: but she shall be given up, and they that brought her, and ³he that begat her, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots shall one stand up ⁴in his estate, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the king of the north, and shall deal against them, and shall prevail:

8 And shall also carry captives into E'gypt their gods, with their princes, and with ⁵their precious vessels of silver and of gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 But his sons ⁶shall be stirred up, and shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and one shall certainly come, ⁷and overflow, and pass through: ⁷then shall he return, and be stirred up, even to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be moved with choler, and shall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he shall set forth a great multitude; but the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his ⁸heart shall be lifted up; and he shall cast down many ten thousands: but he shall not be strengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall set forth a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come ⁹after certain years with a great army and with much riches.

14 And in those times there shall many stand up against the king of the south: also ⁹the robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the north shall come, ⁴and cast up a mount, and take ¹⁰ the most fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither ¹¹ his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that cometh against him shall do according to his own will, and none shall stand before him: and he shall stand in the ¹² glorious land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 He shall also set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and ¹³ upright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, ¹⁴ corrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, neither be for him.

18 After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many: but a prince ¹⁵ for his own behalf shall cause ¹⁶ the reproach offered by him to cease; without his own reproach he shall cause it to turn upon him.

19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fort of his own land: but he shall stumble and fall, and not be found.

20 Then shall stand up ¹⁷ in his estate ¹⁸ a raiser of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he shall be destroyed, neither in ¹⁹ anger, nor in battle.

21 And ²⁰ in his estate shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And with the arms of a flood shall they be overflowed from before him, and shall be broken; yea, also the prince of the covenant.

23 And after the league made with him he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and shall become strong with a small people.

24 He shall enter ²¹ peaceably even upon the fattest places of the province; and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers; he shall scatter among them the prey, and spoil, and riches: yea, and he shall ²² forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a time.

25 And ²³ he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast devices against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat shall destroy him,

29 At the ²⁵ time appointed he shall return, and come toward the south; but it shall not be as the former, or as the latter.

30 ¶ ²⁶ For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be grieved, and return, and have indignation against the holy covenant: so shall he do; he shall even return, and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall place the abomination that maketh desolate.

32 And such as do wickedly against the covenant shall be ²⁸ corrupt by flatteries: but the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.

33 And they that understand among the people shall instruct many: yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little help: but many shall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall, to try ²⁹ them, and to purge, and to make them white, even to the time of the end: because it is yet for a time appointed.

36 And the king shall do according to his will; and he shall exalt himself, and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvelous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, nor the desire of women, nor regard any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

38 But ³¹ in his estate shall he honour the God of ³² forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and ³³ pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in the ³⁴ most strong holds with a strange god, whom he shall acknowledge and increase with glory: and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for ³⁵ gain.

40 And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him: and the king of the north shall come against him like a whirlwind, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships; and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and pass over.

41 He shall enter also into the ³⁶ glorious land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hand, even E'dom, and Mō'ab, and the chief of the children of Ām'mōn.

42 He shall ³⁷ stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of E'gypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of E'gypt: and the Lib'y-ans and the E-thi-o'pi-ans shall be at his steps.

44 But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace ^b between the seas in the ³⁸ glorious holy mountain; yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

LORD by Hō-sē'ā. And the LORD said to Hō-sē'ā, Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms and children of whoredoms: for ^b the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the LORD.

3 So he went and took Gō'mer the daughter of Dīb'lā-īm; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the LORD said unto him, Call his name Jéz're-el; for yet a little while, and I will ¹avenge the blood of Jéz're-el upon the house of Jē'hū, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Iš'ra-el.

5 And it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Iš'ra-el in the valley of Jéz're-el.

6 ¶ And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name ²Lō-ru'ha-mah: for ³I will no more have mercy upon the house of Iš'ra-el; ⁴but I will utterly take them away.

7 But I will have mercy upon the house of Jū'dah, and will save them by the LORD their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 ¶ Now when she had weaned Lō-ru'ha-mah, she conceived, and bare a son.

9 Then said God, Call his name ⁵Lō-ām'ni: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 ¶ Yet ⁶the number of the children of Iš'ra-el shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; and it shall come to pass, that ⁶in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are ^athe sons of the living God.

11 Then shall the children of Jū'dah and the children of Iš'ra-el be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jéz're-el.

13 And I will visit upon her ^bthe days of Bā'al'im, wherein she burned incense to them, and she ^cdecked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she went after her lovers, and forgot me, saith the LORD.

14 ¶ Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and ^dbring her into the wilderness, and speak ¹⁰comfortably unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and ^ethe valley of A'chôr for a door of hope: and she shall sing there, as in the days of her youth, and as in the day when she came up out of the land of E'gypt.

16 And it shall be at that day, saith the LORD, that thou shalt call me ¹¹Ish'i; and shalt call me no more ¹²Bā'al-i.

17 For ^pI will take away the names of Bā'al'im out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And in that day will I make a ^qcovenant for them with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground: and ^rI will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to ^slie down safely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever: yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in lovingkindness, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulness: and ^ethou shalt know the LORD.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, ^uI will hear, saith the LORD, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth;

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hear Jĕz're-el.

23 And ^vI will sow her unto me in the earth; and I will have mercy upon her that had not obtained mercy; and I ^wwill say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAPTER 3.

The desolation of Israel foreseen.

THEN said the LORD unto me, Go yet, love a woman beloved of her friend, yet an adulteress, according to the love of the LORD toward the children of Īs'ra-el, who look to other gods, and love flagons ¹ of wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley, and an ²half homer of barley:

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt ^aabide for me many days; thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt not be for another man: so will I also be for thee.

4 For the children of Īs'ra-el shall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without ³an image, and without an ^bephod, and without teraphim:

5 Afterward shall the children of Īs'ra-el return, and ^cseek the LORD their God, and ^dDā'vid their king; and shall fear the LORD and his goodness in the ^elatter days.

CHAPTER 4.

1 God's judgments against the sins of the people, 6 and of the priests.

HEAR the word of the LORD, ye children of Īs'ra-el: for the LORD hath a ^acontroversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor ^bknowledge of God in the land.

3 Therefore ^cshall the land mourn, and ^devery one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man strive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they ^ethat strive with the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall ^fin the day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee in the night, and I will ²destroy thy mother.

6 ¶ ^gMy people are ³destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sin of my people, and they ⁴set their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there shall be, like people, like priest: and I will ⁵punish them for their ways, and ⁶reward them their doings.

10 For ^hthey shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit whoredom, and shall not increase: because they have left off to take heed to the LORD.

11 Whoredom and wine and new wine ¹take away the heart.

12 ¶ My people ask counsel at their ^jstocks, and their staff declareth unto them: for ^kthe spirit of whoredoms hath caused them to err, and they have gone ^awhoring from under their God.

13 They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good: ^ltherefore your daughters shall commit whoredom, and your spouses shall commit adultery.

14 ⁷I will not punish your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses when they commit adultery: for themselves are separated with whores, and they sacrifice with harlots: therefore the people that doth not understand shall ⁸fall.

15 ¶ Though thou, Īs'ra-el, play the harlot, yet let not Jū'dah offend; ^mand come not ye unto Ġil'gāl, neither go ye up to ⁹Béth-ā'ven, ⁿnor swear, The LORD liveth.

16 For Īs'ra-el slideth back as a backsliding heifer: now the LORD will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

17 Ē'phrā-īm is joined to idols: ^o let him alone.

18 Their drink ¹⁰ is sour: they have committed whoredom continually: her ¹¹ rulers with shame do love, Give ye.

19 The wind hath bound her up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

CHAPTER 5.

God's judgments against Israel.

HEAR ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Īs'ra-el; and give ye ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because ye have been a snare on Mīz'pah, and a net spread upon Tā'bōr.

2 And the revolvers are profound to make slaughter, ¹ though I have been a rebuker of them all.

3 ^a I know Ē'phrā-īm, and Īs'ra-el is not hid from me: for now, O Ē'phrā-īm, thou committest whoredom, and Īs'ra-el is defiled.

4 ² They will not frame their doings to turn unto their God: for the spirit of whoredoms is in the midst of them, and they have not known the LORD.

5 And the pride of Īs'ra-el doth testify to his face: therefore shall Īs'ra-el and Ē'phrā-īm fall in their iniquity; Jū'dah also shall fall with them.

6 They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD; but they shall not find him: he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall ^b a month devour them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the cornet in Gīb'e-ah, and the trumpet in Rā'mah: cry aloud at ^c Bēth-ā'ven, after thee, O Bēn'ja-min.

9 Ē'phrā-īm shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Īs'ra-el have I made known that which shall surely be.

10 The princes of Jū'dah were like them that ^d remove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ē'phrā-īm is oppressed and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after ^e the commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ē'phrā-īm as a moth, and to the house of Jū'dah as ^f rottenness.

14 For I will be unto Ē'phrā-īm as a lion, and as a young lion to the house of Jū'dah: I, even I, will tear and go away; I will take away, and none shall rescue him.

15 ¶ I will go and return to my place, ⁵ till they acknowledge their offence, and seek my face: in their affliction they will seek me early.

CHAPTER 6.

God exhorteth Israel to repentance.

COME, and let us return unto the LORD: for ^a he hath torn, and ^b he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up.

2 After two days will he revive us: in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 ^c Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us ^d as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth.

4 ¶ O Ē'phrā-īm, what shall I do unto thee? O Jū'dah, what shall I do unto thee? for your ¹ goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I hewed them ^e by the prophets; I have slain them by ^f the words of my mouth: ² and thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired ^g mercy, and ^h not sacrifice; and the ⁱ knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

7 But they ³ like men have transgressed the covenant: there have they dealt treacherously against me.

8 Gīl'e-ād is a city of them that work iniquity, and is ⁴ polluted with blood.

9 And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so the company of priests murder in the way ⁵ by consent: for they commit ⁶ lewdness.

10 I have seen an horrible thing in the house of Īs'ra-el: there is the whoredom of Ē'phrā-īm, Īs'ra-el is defiled.

11 Also, O Jū'dah, he hath set an harvest for thee, ^j when I returned the captivity of my people.

CHAPTER 7.

A reproof of manifold sins.

WHEN I would have healed Īs'ra-el, then the iniquity of Ḓphrā-im was discovered, and the ¹wickedness of Sā-mā'ri-ā: for they commit falsehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers ²spoileth without.

2 And they ³consider not in their hearts that I remember all their wickedness: now ^atheir own doings have beset them about; they are ^bbefore my face.

3 They make the king glad with their wickedness, and the princes ^cwith their lies.

4 They ^{are} all adulterers, as an oven heated by the baker, ^dwho ceaseth ^efrom raising after he hath kneaded the dough, until it be leavened.

5 In the day of our king the princes have made ^{him} sick ^fwith bottles of wine; he stretched out his hand with scorn.

6 For they have ⁷made ready their heart like an oven, whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night; in the morning it burneth as a flaming fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges; all their kings ^gare fallen: ^hthere is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ḓphrā-im, he ⁱhath mixed himself among the people; Ḓphrā-im is a cake not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth ^{it} not: yea, gray hairs are ^jhere and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Ḓs-ra-el testi-fieth to his face: and they do not return to the LORD their God, nor seek him for all this.

11 ¶ Ḓphrā-im also is like a silly dove without heart: they call to Ḓg'gypt, they go to Ās-sūr'i-ā.

12 When they shall go, I will spread my net upon them; I will bring them down as the fowls of the heaven; I will chastise them, as ^kthe congregation hath heard.

13 Woe unto them! for they have fled from me: ^ldestruction unto them! because they have transgressed against me: though I have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lies against me.

14 ^mAnd they have not cried unto me with their heart, when they howled upon their beds: they assemble themselves for corn and wine, and they rebel against me.

15 Though I ⁿhave bound and strengthened their arms, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

SET the trumpet to ^sthy mouth. He shall come ^tas an eagle against the house of the LORD, because they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

2 ^uḒs-ra-el shall cry unto me, My God, we know thee.

3 Ḓs-ra-el hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew ^vit not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

5 ¶ They call, O Sā-mā'ri-ā, hath cast thee off; mine anger is kindled against them: ^whow long will it be ere they attain to innocency?

6 For from Ḓs-ra-el was it also: the workman made it; therefore it ^xis not God: but the calf of Sā-mā'ri-ā shall be broken in pieces.

7 For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: it hath no ^ystalk: the bud shall yield no meal: if so be it yield, the strangers shall swallow it up.

8 Ḓs-ra-el is swallowed up: now shall they be among the Gēn'tiles as a vessel wherein ^zis no pleasure.

9 For ^{aa}they are gone up to Ās-sūr'i-ā, a wild ass alone by himself: Ḓphrā-im hath hired ^{ab}lovers.

10 Yea, though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall ^{ac}sorrow ^{ad}a little for the burden of ^{ae}the king of princes.

11 Because Ḓphrā-im hath made many altars to sin, altars shall be unto him to sin.

12 I have written to him ^{af}the great things of my law, but they were counted as ^{ag}a strange thing.

13 ^{ah}They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat ^{ai}it; but the LORD accepteth them not; now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: they shall return to Ḓg'gypt.

14 For Ḓs-ra-el hath forgotten his Maker, and ^{aj}buildeth temples; and Jū'dah hath multiplied fenced cities: but I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAPTER 9.

Distress and captivity of Israel for their sins.

REJOICE not, O Īs'ra-el, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a reward ¹ upon every cornfloor.

2 The floor and the ² winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in ^a the LORD's land; ^b but Ē'phrā-īm shall return to Ē'gypt, and ^c they shall eat unclean things in Ās-sūr-ā.

4 They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD, neither shall they be pleasing unto him: their sacrifices shall be unto them as ^a the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread for their soul shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will ye do in the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the LORD?

6 For, lo, they are gone because of ³ destruction: Ē'gypt shall gather them up, Mēm'phis shall bury them: ^a the pleasant places for their silver, nettles shall possess them: thorns shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of recompence are come; Īs'ra-el shall know it: the prophet is a fool, the ⁵ spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The watchman of Ē'phrā-īm was with my God: but the prophet is a snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred ⁶ in the house of his God.

9 They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days of ^a Ġib'e-ah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I ⁷ found Īs'ra-el like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as the firstripe in the fig tree at her first time: but they went to ^a Bā'al-pē'or, and separated themselves unto that shame; and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ē'phrā-īm, their glory shall fly away like a bird, from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet will I bereave them, that there shall not be a man left: yea, woe also to them when I ^a depart from them!

13 Ē'phrā-īm, as I saw Tȳ'rus, is planted in a pleasant place: but Ē'phrā-īm shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

CHAPTER 10.

Israel reproved and threatened for idolatry.

ĪS'RA-EL is ¹ an empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himself: according to the multitude of his fruit he hath increased the altars; according to the goodness of his land they have made goodly ² images.

2 ³ Their heart is divided; now shall they be found faulty: he shall ⁴ break down their altars, he shall spoil their images.

3 For now they shall say, We have no king, because we feared not the LORD; what then should a king do to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment springeth up as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Sā-mā'ri-ā shall fear because of ^a the calves of Bēth-ā'ven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and ⁵ the priests thereof that rejoiced on it; for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also ^a carried unto Ās-sūr-ā for a present to ^b king Jā'reb: Ē'phrā-īm shall receive shame, and Īs'ra-el shall be ashamed of his own counsel.

7 As for Sā-mā'ri-ā, her king is cut off as the foam upon ⁶ the water.

8 The high places also of Ā'ven, ^c the sin of Īs'ra-el, shall be destroyed: the thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars; and they ^d shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

9 O Īs'ra-el, thou hast sinned from the days of Ġib'e-ah: there they stood: the battle in Ġib'e-ah against the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10 ^e It is in my desire that I should chastise them; and the people shall be gathered against them, ⁷ when they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer that is taught, and loveth to tread out the corn; but I passed over upon ⁸ her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

12 ¹ Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; break up your plough ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13 ² Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy fortresses shall be spoiled, as Shalman spoiled ³ Beth-arbel in the day of battle: the mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So shall Beth-el do unto you because of ⁴ your great wickedness: in a morning shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.

Israel's ingratitude to God.

4 I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and I was to them as they that ¹ take off the yoke on their jaws, and ² I laid meat unto them.

5 ³ He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, because ⁴ they refused to return.²

6 And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them, because of their own counsels.

7 And my people are bent to backsliding from me: though they called them to the most High, ³ none at all would exalt him.

10 They shall walk after the LORD: he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble from the west.

11 They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of Assyria: and I will place them in their houses, saith the LORD.

12 Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful ⁴ with the saints.

CHAPTER 12.

Ephraim and Judah reproved.

Ephraim feedeth on wind, and followeth after the east wind: he daily increaseth lies and desolation; ² and they do make a covenant with the Assyrians, and ³ oil is carried into Egypt.

2 The LORD hath also a controversy with Judah, and will ¹ punish Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompense him.

3 ⁴ He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and by his strength he ² had power with God:

4 Yea, he had power over the angel, and prevailed: he wept, and made supplication unto him: he found him in ⁵ Beth-el, and there he spake with us;

5 Even the LORD God of hosts; the LORD is his memorial.

6 Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually.

7 ⁸ He is ³ a merchant, the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to ⁴ oppress.

8 And Ephraim said, Yet I am become rich, I have found me out substance: ⁵ in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me ⁶ that were sin.

9 And I that am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feast.

10 I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes, ⁷ by the ministry of the prophets.

11 Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in ² Gilgal; yea, their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

12 And Jacob fled into the country of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep.

13 And by a prophet the LORD brought İs'ra-el out of E'gypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

14 E'phrā-im provoked him to anger ⁸most bitterly: therefore shall he leave his ⁹blood upon him, and his ⁶reproach shall his Lord return unto him.

CHAPTER 13.

God's anger for Ephraim's impiety.

WHEN E'phrā-im spake ^atrembling, he exalted himself in Bā'al, he died.

2 And now ¹they sin more and more, and have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding, all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let ²the men that sacrifice kiss the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the LORD thy God from the land of E'gypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for there is no saviour beside me.

5 ¶ I did know thee in the wilderness, in the land of ³great drought.

6 According to their pasture, so were they filled; they were filled, and their heart was exalted; therefore have they forgotten me.

7 Therefore I will be unto them as a lion: as a leopard by the way will I observe them:

8 I will meet them as a bear that is bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: ⁴the wild beast shall tear them.

9 ¶ O İs'ra-el, thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me ⁵is thine help.

10 ⁶I will be thy king: where is any other that may save thee in all thy cities? and thy judges of whom thou saidst, Give me a king and princes?

11 ⁷I gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.

12 ^aThe iniquity of E'phrā-im is bound up; his sin is hid.

O İS'RA-EL, ^areturn unto the LORD thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

9 ^fWho is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for ^gthe ways of the LORD are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.

JOEL.

CHAPTER 1.

Joel, declaring sundry judgments of God, exhorteth to observe them.

THE ^aword of the LORD that came to Jō'el the son of Pē-thū'el.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land. ^bHath this been in your days, or even in the days of your fathers?

3 ^cTell ye your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.

7 He hath ^glaid my vine waste, and ^hbarked my fig tree: he hath made it clean-bare, and cast it away; the branches thereof are made white.

8 ¶ ⁱLament like a virgin girded with sackcloth for ^jthe husband of her youth.

9 ^jThe meat offering and the drink offering is cut off from the house of the LORD; the priests, the LORD's ministers, mourn.

10 The field is wasted, ^kthe land mourneth; for the corn is wasted: ^lthe new wine is ^mdried up, the oil languisheth.

11 ⁿBe ye ashamed, O ye husbandmen; howl, O ye vinedressers, for the wheat and for the barley; because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 The vine is dried up, and the fig tree languisheth; the pomegranate tree, the palm tree also, and the apple tree, ^oeven all the trees of the field, are withered: because ^pjoy is withered away from the sons of men.

14 ¶ ^pSanctify ye a fast, call a ^qsolemn assembly, gather the elders and ^rall the inhabitants of the land into the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD, 15 ^rAlas for the day! for the day of the LORD is at hand, and as a destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

16 Is not the meat cut off before our eyes, ^syea, ^tjoy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The ^useed is rotten under their clods, the garners are laid desolate, the barns are broken down; for the corn is withered.

18 How do ^vthe beasts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, because they have no pasture; yea, the flocks of sheep are made desolate.

19 O LORD, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the ^wpastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burned all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field ^xcry also unto thee: for ^ythe rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

CHAPTER 2.

1 Terribleness of God's judgments: 12 Joel exhorteth to repentance.

BL^{ow} ye the ¹trumpet in Zi'ōn, and ^asound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for ^bthe day of the LORD cometh, for ^cit is nigh at hand;

2 ^cA day of darkness and of gloominess, a day of clouds and of thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains: ^da great people and a strong; ^ethere hath not been ever the like, neither shall be any more after it, ^feven to the years ^gof many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before them; and behind them a flame burneth: the land is as the garden of E'dēn before them, and behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them.

4 The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, as a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained: ^a all faces shall gather ^b blackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks:

8 Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the ^a sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall enter in at the windows like a thief.

10 The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 And the LORD shall utter his voice before his army: for his camp is very great: ^b for he is strong that executeth his word: for the day of the LORD is great and very terrible; and ^c who can abide it?

12 ¶ Therefore also now, saith the LORD, ^d turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning:

13 And ^e rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the LORD your God: for he is ^f gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 ^g Who knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave ^h a blessing behind him; even a meat offering and a drink offering unto the LORD your God?

15 ¶ Blow the trumpet in Zí'ôn, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly:

16 Gather the people, ⁱ sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, ^j gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: ^k let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep ^l between the porch and the altar, and let them say, ^m Spare thy people, O LORD, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should ⁿ rule over them: wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 ¶ Then will the LORD ^o be jealous for his land, ^p and pity his people.

19 Yea, the LORD will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will 29 And also upon ⁿ the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit.

30 And ^o I will shew wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come.

32 And it shall come to pass, that ^p whosoever shall call on the name of the LORD shall be delivered: for ^q in mount Zí'ôn and in Jé-ru'sā-lēm shall be deliverance, as the LORD hath said, and in ^e the remnant whom the LORD shall call.

CHAPTER 3.

God will be known in his judgments.

FOR, behold, in those days, and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Jū'dah and Jē-ru'sā-lēm,

2 ^a I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into ^b the valley of Jē-hōsh'a-phāt, and ^c will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Īs'ra-el, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have ^d cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for an harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and what have ye to do with me, ^e O Tÿre, and Zī'don, and all the coasts of Pāl'es-tine? ^f will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompense me, ^g swiftly and speedily will I return your recompence upon your own head;

5 Because ye have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly ^h pleasant things:

6 The children also of Jū'dah and the children of Jē-ru'sā-lēm have ye sold unto ⁱ the Grē'çians, that ye might remove them far from their border.

7 Behold, I will raise them out of the place whither ye have sold them, and will return your recompence upon your own head:

8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Jū'dah, and they shall sell them to the ^j Sā-bē'ans, to a people far off: for the LORD hath spoken it.

from Zī'ōn, and utter his voice from Jē-ru'sā-lēm; and the habitations of the shepherds shall mourn, and the top of Cār'mel shall wither.

3 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of ^a Dā-mās'cus, ^b and for four, I will not ^c turn away the punishment thereof; ^d because they have threshed Gīl'eād with threshing instruments of iron:

4 But I will send a fire into the house of Hāz'a-el, which shall devour the palaces of Bēn-hā'dād.

5 I will break also the bar of Dāmās'eus, and cut off the inhabitant from ³the plain of Ā'ven, and him that holdeth the sceptre from ⁴the house of Ē'dēn: and ⁵the people of Sŷr'āa shall go into captivity unto Kīr, saith the LORD.

6 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of ⁹Gā'zā, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they ⁵carried away captive the whole captivity, to deliver them up to Ē'dom:

7 But I will send a fire on the wall of ⁴Gā'zā, which shall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Āsh'dōd, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Āsh'ke-lōn, and I will turn mine hand against Ēk'rōn: and the remnant of the Philis'tines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Tŷrus, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they delivered up the whole captivity to Ē'dom, and remembered not ⁶the brotherly covenant:

10 But I will send a fire on the wall of Tŷrus, which shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Ē'dom, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he did pursue his brother ⁵with the sword, and ⁷did cast off all pity, and his anger did tear perpetually, and he kept his wrath for ever:

12 But I will send a fire upon Tē'man, which shall devour the palaces of Bōz'rah.

13 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of the children of Ām'mōn, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have ⁸ripped up the women with child of Gīl'e-ād, that they might enlarge their border:

14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of ⁴Rāb'bah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battle, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind:

15 And ⁷their king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the LORD.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for ²Nāz'a-rites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Is'ra-el? saith the LORD.

16 And he that is ⁶ courageous among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, saith the LORD.

CHAPTER 3.

Necessity of God's judgments against Israel.

HEAR this word that the LORD hath spoken against you, O children of Is^rael, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of E^gyp^t, saying,

2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth: ^atherefore I will ¹punish you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? will a young lion ²cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no gin ^{is} for him? shall one take up a snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a ^btrumpet be blown in the city, and the people ³not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, ^aand the LORD hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but ^che revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord God hath spoken, ^awho can but prophesy?

9 ¶ Publish in the palaces at Āsh^dōd, and in the palaces in the land of E^gyp^t, and say, Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Sā^mā^ri^ā, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the ⁵oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, saith the LORD, who store up violence and ⁶robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; ^eAn adversary there shall be even round about the land; and he shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the LORD; As the shepherd ⁷taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; so shall the children of Is^rael be taken out that dwell in Sā^mā^ri^ā in the corner of a bed, and ⁸in Dā^mās^us in a couch.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Israel reproved for oppression, 4 for idolatry, 6 and for their incorrigibility.

HEAR this word, ye king of Bā^lshān, that are in the mountain of Sā^mā^ri^ā, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink.

2 The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks.

3 And ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her: and ¹ye shall cast them into the palace, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ ^aCome to Beth^{el}, and transgress; at ^bĠil^gāl multiply transgression; and ^cbring your sacrifices every morning, and your tithes after ²three years:

5 And ³offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish ^athe free offerings: for ⁴this liketh you, O ye children of Is^rael, saith the Lord God.

6 ¶ And I also have ^egiven you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

7 And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water; but they were not satisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

9 ⁹I have smitten you with blasting and mildew: ⁵when your gardens and your vineyards and your fig trees and your olive trees increased, the palmerworm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

10 I have sent among you the pestilence ⁶after the manner of E^gyp^t:

your young men have I slain with the sword,¹ and have taken away your horses; and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

11 I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew ^h Sōd'om and Gō-mōr'rah,ⁱ and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

12 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Is'ra-el: and because I will do this unto thee,^j prepare to meet thy God, O Is'ra-el.

13 For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the ^s wind,^k and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness,^l and treadeth upon the high places of the earth,^m The LORD, The God of hosts, is his name.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Lamentation for Israel. 4 Exhortation to repentance.

HEAR ye this word which ^a I take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Is'ra-el.

2 The virgin of Is'ra-el is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord God; The city that went out by a thousand shall leave an hundred, and that which went forth by an hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Is'ra-el.

4 ¶ For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Is'ra-el,^b Seek ye me, ^c and ye shall live:

5 But seek not ^d Bēth'-el, nor enter into Gil'gāl, and pass not to ^e Bē'er-shē'bā: for Gil'gāl shall surely go into captivity, and Bēth'-el shall come to nought.

6 Seek the LORD, and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Jō'seph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Bēth'-el.

7 Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,

8 Seek him that maketh the ^f seven stars and Ō-rī'on, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that ^g calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth:^h The LORD is his name:

12 For I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take ³ a bribe, and they ^l turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

13 Therefore the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 ^m Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the LORD, the God of hosts, shall be with you, ⁿ as ye have spoken.

15 ^o Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: ^p it may be that the LORD God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Jō'seph.

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord, saith thus; Wailing shall be in all streets; and they shall say in all the highways, Alas! and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and ^q such as are skilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards shall be wailing; for ^r I will pass through thee, saith the LORD.

18 ^s Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light.

20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

21 ¶ ^t I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not ⁴ smell in your solemn assemblies.

22 Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the ⁵ peace offerings of your fat beasts.

26 But ye have borne ⁷ the tabernacle of your Mō'lōch and Chī'ūn your images, the star of your god, which ye made to yourselves.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Dā-mās'eus, saith the LORD, whose name is The God of hosts.

CHAPTER 6.

1 The wantonness of Israel ¹ shall be plagued with desolation.

WOE to them that ¹are at ease in Zī'ōn, and trust in the mountain of Sā-mā'ri-ā, which are named ²chief of the nations, to whom the house of Is'ra-el came!

2 Pass ye unto ^aCāl'ueh, and see; and from thence go ye to ^bHā'math the great: then go down to Gāth of the Phī-lis'tines: be they better than these kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that ^cput far away the evil day, and cause the ^dseat of violence to come near;

4 That lie upon beds of ivory, and ^estretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall;

5 That ^fchant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of musiek like Dā'vid;

6 That drink ^gwine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments: but they are not grieved for the ^haffliction of Jō'sepi.

7 ¶ Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed.

8 The Lord GOD hath sworn by himself, saith the LORD the God of hosts, I abhor the excellency of Jā'eob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city with all ⁱthat is therein.

9 And it shall come to pass, if there remain ten men in one house, that they shall die.

10 And a man's uncle shall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? and he shall say, No. Then shall he say, Hold thy tongue: for ^jwe may not make mention of the name of the LORD.

11 For, behold, the LORD commandeth, and he will smite the great house with ^kbreaches, and the little house with clefts.

CHAPTER 7.

1 The judgment of the grasshoppers, 4 and of the fire, are diverted by the prayer of Amos. 10 Amaziah complaineth of Amos.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me; and, behold, he formed ¹grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and, lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee: ²by whom shall Jā'eob arise? for he is small.

3 ^aThe LORD repented for this: It shall not be, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and, behold, the Lord GOD called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee: by whom shall Jā'eob arise? for he is small.

6 The LORD ^brepented for this: This also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

7 ¶ Thus he shewed me: and, behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by a plumbline, with a plumbline in his hand.

8 And the LORD said unto me, Ā'mos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumbline. Then said the Lord, Behold, ^cI will set a plumbline in the midst of my people Is'ra-el: ^dI will not again pass by them any more:

9 ^eAnd the high places of Is'raac shall be desolate, and the sanctuaries of Is'ra-el shall be laid waste; and ^fI will rise against the house of Jēr-o-bō'am with the sword.

10 ¶ Then Ā-mā-zī'ah ^gthe priest of Bēth'-el sent to ^hJēr-o-bō'am king of Is'ra-el, saying, Ā'mos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Is'ra-el: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Ā'mos saith, Jēr-o-bō'am shall die by the sword, and Is'ra-el shall surely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also Ā-mā-zī'ah said unto Ā'mos, O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Jūd'ah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13 But ¹prophesy not again any more at Bēth-el: ²for it is the king's ³chapel, and it is the ⁴king's court.

14 ¶ Then answered A'mos, and said to A'm-a-zī'ah, I was no prophet, neither was I ¹a prophet's son; ²but I was an herdsman, and a gatherer of ³sycomore fruit:

15 And the LORD took me ¹as I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Is'ra-el.

16 ¶ Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Is'ra-el, and ¹drop not thy word against the house of I'saac.

17 ¹Therefore thus saith the LORD; ²Thy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land: and Is'ra-el shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

CHAPTER 8.

4 Oppression of the poor reproved. 11 A famine of God's word threatened.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and behold a basket of summer fruit.

2 And he said, A'mos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me, ¹The end is come upon my people of Is'ra-el; I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And the songs of the temple ¹shall be howlings in that day, saith the Lord GOD: there shall be many dead bodies in every place; they shall cast them forth ²with silence.

4 ¶ Hear this, O ye that swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail,

5 Saying, When will the ³new moon be gone, that we may sell corn? and ⁴the sabbath, that we may ⁵set forth wheat, ⁶making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and ⁷falsifying the balances by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The LORD hath sworn by ¹the excellency of Jā'qob, Surely ²I will never forget any of their works.

8 ¹Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood; and it shall be cast out and drowned, ²as by the flood of E'gypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, ¹that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; ¹and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 ¶ Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but ¹of hearing the words of the LORD:

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

13 In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst.

14 They that swear by ¹the sin of Sā-mā'ri-ā, and say, Thy god, O Dān, liveth; and, The ²manner of Bē'er-shē'bā liveth; even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

1 Certainty of Israel's desolation. 11 Restoring of the tabernacle of David.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the ¹altar: and he said, Smite the ²lintel of the door, that the posts may shake: and ³cut them in the head, all of them; and I will slay the last of them with the sword: he that fleeth of them shall not flee away, and he that escapeth of them shall not be delivered.

2 ¹Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; ²though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down:

3 And though they ¹hide themselves in the top of Cār'mel, I will search and take them out thence; and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them:

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, ¹thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and ²I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord GOD of hosts is he that toucheth the land, and it shall ¹melt, and all that dwell therein shall mourn: and it shall rise up wholly like a flood; and shall be drowned, as by the flood of E'gypt.

6 It is he that buildeth his ¹stories in the heaven, and hath founded his ²troop in the earth; he that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name.

7 Are ye not as children of the E-thi-ô-pi-ans unto me, O children of *I*s-ra-el? saith the LORD. Have not I brought up *I*s-ra-el out of the land of *E*gypt? and the Phi-lis-tines from o Caphtor, and the Syr-i-ans from k Kir?

8 Behold, ¹the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I ²will destroy it from off the face of the earth; saying that I will not utterly destroy the house of *Jā*cob, saith the LORD.

9 For, lo, I will command, and I will ⁵sift the house of *I*s-ra-el among all nations, like as corn is sifted in a sieve, yet shall not the least ⁶grain fall upon the earth.

JONAH.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Jonah, sent to Nineveh, fleeth to Tarshish. 4 He is overtaken by a tempest, 11 thrown into the sea, 17 and swallowed by a fish.

NOW the word of the LORD came unto ^aJō'nah the son of ^āmit-tā-i, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nīn'e-veh, that ^bgreat city, and cry against it; for ^ctheir wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jō'nah rose up to flee unto ^dTār'shish from the presence of the LORD; and went down to ^eJōp'pā; and he found a ship going to Tār'shish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tār'shish ^ffrom the presence of the LORD.

4 ¶ But the LORD ¹sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was ²like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and cast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jō'nah was gone down into the sides of the ship; and he lay, and was fast asleep.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, ^ocall upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

8 Then said they unto him, ⁱTell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; What is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, I am an Hē'brew; and I fear ³the LORD, the God of heaven, which hath made the sea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men ⁴exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

11 ¶ Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea ⁵may be calm unto us? for the sea ⁶wrought, and was tempestuous.

12 And he said unto them, Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that ⁷for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless the men ⁷rowed hard to bring it to the land; ^abut they could not; for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O

LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and ⁴lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jō'nah, and cast him forth into the sea: and the sea ⁸ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly, and ⁹offered a sacrifice unto the LORD, and made vows.

6 I went down to the ⁴bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life from ⁵corruption, O LORD my God.

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: ^dand my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

4 And Jō'nah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and ^ahe cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nin'e-veh shall be overthrown.

5 ¶ So the people of Nin'e-veh ^bbelieved God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nin'e-veh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, ^cand sat in ashes.

6 And the LORD God prepared a ²gourd, and made it to come up over Jō'nah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jō'nah ³was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jō'nah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.

MICAH.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Micah sheweth the wrath of God against Jacob for idolatry: 10 he exhorteth to mourning.

THE ^a word of the LORD that came to ^b Mi'cah the Mō'ras-thite in the days of Jō'tham, Ā'hāz, and Hēz-ē-ki'ah, kings of Jū'dah, which he saw concerning Sā-mā-ri-ā and Jē-ry'sā-lēm.

2 ¹ Hear, all ye people; hearken, O earth, and ² all that therein is: and let the Lord God be witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For, behold, ^c the LORD cometh forth out of his place, and will come down, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

5 For the ^d transgression of Jā'eqb is all this, and for the sins of the house of Iṣ'ra-el. What is the transgression of Jā'eqb? is it not Sā-mā-ri-ā? and what are the high places of Jū'dah? are they not Jē-ry'sā-lēm?

1 Or, defraud.

Behold, against ^d this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: for this time is evil.

4 ¶ In that day shall one take up a parable against you, and lament ² with a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly spoiled: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he removed it from me! ³ turning away he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall ^e cast a cord by lot in the congregation of the LORD.

6 ^f Prophecy ye not, say they to them that prophesy: they shall not prophesy to them, that they shall not take shame.

7 ¶ O thou that art named the house of Jā'qob, is the spirit of the LORD ^g straitened? are these his doings? do not my words do good to him that walketh ^h uprightly?

8 Even ⁱ of late my people is risen up as an enemy: ye pull off the robe ^j with the garment from them that pass by securely as men averse from war.

9 The ^k women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses; from their children have ye taken away my glory for ever.

10 Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your ^l rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man ^m walking in the spirit and falsehood do lie, saying, I will prophesy unto thee of wine and of strong drink; he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 ¶ I will surely assemble, O Jā'qob, all of thee; I will surely gather the ⁿ remnant of Is'ra-el; I will put them together as the sheep of Bōz'rah, as the flock in the midst of their fold: they shall make great noise by reason of the multitude of men.

13 The breaker is come up before them: they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it: and their king shall pass before them, and the LORD on the head of them.

4 Then ^c shall they cry unto the LORD, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themselves ill in their doings.

5 ¶ Thus saith the LORD ^d concerning the prophets that make my people err, that ^e bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him.

6 ¶ Therefore night shall be unto you, ^f that ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, ^g that ye shall not divine; and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their ^h lips; ⁱ for there is no answer of God.

8 ¶ But truly I am full of power by the ^j spirit of the LORD, and of judgment, and of might, ^k to declare unto Jā'qob his transgression, and to Is'ra-el his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jā'qob, and princes of the house of Is'ra-el, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 They build up Zi'ōn with ^l blood, and Jē-ru'sā-lēm with iniquity.

11 ¶ The heads thereof judge for reward, and ^m the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money: ⁿ yet will they lean upon the LORD, ^o and say, Is not the LORD among us? none evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zi'ōn for your sake be ^p plowed as a field, ^q and Jē-ru'sā-lēm shall become heaps, and the mountain of the house as the high places of the forest.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Establishment of Christ's kingdom. 3 The peace, 6 restoration, 8 kingdom, 11 and victory of the church.

BUT ^a in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

2 And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jā'qob; and he ^b will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zi'ōn, and the word of the LORD from Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

3 ¶ And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ^cplowshares, and their spears into ¹pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, ^dneither shall they learn war any more.

4 ^eBut they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the LORD of hosts hath spoken it.

5 For ^fall people will walk every one in the name of his god, and ^gwe will walk in the name of the LORD our God for ever and ever.

6 In that day, saith the LORD, ^hwill I assemble her that halteth, ⁱand I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted;

7 And I will make her that halted a remnant, and her that was cast far off a strong nation: and the LORD ^jshall reign over them in mount Zi'ōn from henceforth, even for ever.

8 ¶ And thou, O tower of ²the flock, the strong hold of the daughter of Zi'ōn, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion; the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

9 Now why dost thou cry out aloud? is there no king in thee? is thy counsellor perished? for pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail.

10 Be in pain, and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zi'ōn, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou shalt dwell in the field, and thou shalt go even to Bāb'y-lon; there shalt thou be delivered; there the LORD shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 ¶ Now also many nations are gathered against thee, that say, Let her be defiled, and let our eye look upon Zi'ōn.

12 But they know not the thoughts of the LORD, neither understand they his counsel: for he shall gather them as the sheaves into the floor.

13 Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zi'ōn: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs brass: and thou shalt beat in pieces many people: ^kand I will consecrate their gain unto the LORD, and their substance unto the Lord of the whole earth.

8 ¶ And the remnant of Jā'cōb shall be among the Ġēn'tiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of ⁶sheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lifted up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

CHAPTER 6.

1 God's controversy, for unkindness, 6 for ignorance, 10 for injustice, 16 and for idolatry.

HEAR ye now what the LORD saith; Arise, contend thou ¹ before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, ^a the LORD's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for the LORD hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with ^b Israel.

3 O my people, ^b what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

4 For I brought thee up out of the land of ^c Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee ^d Moses, Aar^{on}, and Mir^{iam}.

5 O my people, remember now what ^e Ba^{lah} king of Mo^{ab} consulted, and what ^f Ba^{lah}am the son of Be^{or} answered him from ^g Shit^{tim} unto Gil^{gal}; that ye may know the ^h righteousness of the LORD.

6 ¶ ⁱ Wherewith ^j shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves ^k of a year old?

7 ^l Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? ^m shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my ⁿ body for the sin of my soul?

8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what ^o is good; and what doth the LORD require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to ^p walk humbly with thy God?

9 The LORD's voice crieth unto the city, and ^q the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 ¶ ^r Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the ^s scant measure that ^t is abominable?

1 The church, complaining of her small number, 3 and the general corruption, 5 putteth not confidence in man, but in God. 8 She triumpheth, 14 is comforted.

WOE is me! for I am as ¹ when they have gathered the summer fruits, as the grape gleanings of the vintage: ² there is no cluster to eat: ³ my soul desired the firstripe fruit.

2 The ⁴ good man is perished out of the earth: and ⁵ there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; ⁶ they hunt every man his brother with a net.

3 ¶ That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, ⁷ the prince asketh, and the judge ⁸ asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth ⁹ his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up.

4 The best of them ¹⁰ is as a brier: the most upright ¹¹ is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

5 ¶ Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

6 For ¹² the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law; a man's enemies ¹³ are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore I will look unto the LORD; I will wait for the God of my salvation: my God will hear me.

8 ¶ ¹⁴ Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, the LORD ¹⁵ shall be a light unto me.

9 I will bear the indignation of the LORD, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.

10 ⁴ Then she that is mine enemy shall see it, and shame shall cover her which said unto me, Where is the LORD thy God? mine eyes shall behold her: now ⁵ shall she be trodden down as the mire of the streets.

11 In the day that thy walls are to be built, in that day shall the decree be far removed.

12 In that day also he shall come even to thee from Ās-sŷr'i-ā, ⁶ and from the fortified cities, and from the fortress even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 ⁷ Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, for the fruit of their doings.

14 And the LORD hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be sown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven image and the molten image: I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.

³ The horseman lifteth up both ² the brightsword and the glittering spear: and there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcases; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses:

⁴ Because of the multitude of the whoredoms of the wellfavoured harlot, ^a the mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms, and families through her witchcrafts.

⁷ And it shall come to pass, that all they that look upon thee shall flee from thee, and say, Nīn'e-veh is laid waste: who will bemoan her? whence shall I seek comforters for thee?

⁹ ^a Ē-thī-ō-pi-ā and ^b Ē-gypt were her strength, and it was infinite; Pūt and Lūbim were ^c thy helpers.

¹² All thy strong holds shall be like ^e fig trees with the firstripe figs: if they be shaken, they shall even fall into the mouth of the eater.

¹³ Behold, thy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be set wide open unto thine enemies: the fire shall devour thy bars.

14 Draw thee waters for the siege, fortify thy strong holds: go into clay, and tread the mortar, make strong the brickkiln.

15 There shall the fire devour thee; the sword shall cut thee off, it shall eat thee up like ^athe cankerworm: make thyself many as the cankerworm, make thyself many as the locusts.

16 Thou hast multiplied ^bthy merchants above the stars of heaven: the cankerworm ^cspoileth, and fleeth away.

HABAKKUK.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Unto Habakkuk, complaining of the iniquity of the land, 5 is shewn the fearful vengeance by the Chaldeans.

THE burden which Hā-bāk'kūk the prophet did see.

2 O LORD, how long ^ashall I cry, and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not save!

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention.

4 ^bTherefore the law is slack'd, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore ^cwrong judgment proceedeth.

5 ¶ Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvelously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe, though it be told you.

6 For, lo, ^d*I* raise up the Chāldē'ans, that bitter and hasty nation, which shall march through the ^ebreadth of the land, to possess the dwellingplaces that are not theirs.

7 They are terrible and dreadful: ^ftheir judgment and their dignity shall proceed of themselves.

8 ^gTheir horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more ^hfierce than the evening wolves: and their horsemen shall spread themselves, and their horsemen shall come from far; they shall fly as the eagle that hasteth to eat.

9 They shall come all for violence: ⁱtheir faces shall sup up as the east wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the sand.

12 ¶ Art thou not from everlasting, O LORD my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. O LORD, thou hast ordained them for judgment; and, O ⁱmighty God, thou hast ^jestablished them for correction.

13 Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on ^kiniquity: wherefore lookest thou upon them that deal treacherously, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makest men as the fishes of the sea, as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

1 Unto Habakkuk, waiting for an answer, is shewn that he must wait in faith. 5 Judgment upon the Chaldeans for their sins.

I WILL ^astand upon my watch, and set me upon the ^btower, and will watch to see what he will say ^cunto me, and what I shall answer ^dwhen I am reproved.

2 And the LORD answered me, and said, ^b Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

3 For ^c the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry.

4 Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the ^d just shall live by his faith.

5 ¶ ^e Yea also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire ^f as hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapech unto him all people:

6 Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, ^g Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himself with thick clay!

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them?

8 Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoil thee; because of men's ^h blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 ¶ Woe to him that ⁱ coveteth an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the ^j power of evil!

1 Habakkuk's prayer: 3. God's majesty in delivering his people. 17. Stability of the prophet's faith.

A PRAYER of Hā-bāk'kūk the prophet upon ^d Shī-gī'q-noth.

2 O LORD, I have heard ^e thy speech, and was afraid: O LORD, ^f revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.

3 God came from ^g Tē'man, and the Holy One from mount Pā'ran, Sē'lah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise.

4 And his brightness was as the light; he had ^h horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, and ⁱ burning coals went forth at his feet.

6 He stood, and ^j measured the earth: he beheld, and ^k drove asunder the nations; and the everlasting mountains were scattered, the perpetual hills did bow: his ways are everlasting.

7 I saw the tents of ^l Cū'shan ^m in affliction: and the curtains of the land of Mid'ian did tremble.

8 ⁿ Was the LORD displeased against the rivers? was thine anger against the rivers? was thy wrath against the sea, that thou didst ride upon thine horses and thy chariots ^o of salvation?

9 Thy bow was made quite naked, according to the oaths of the tribes, even thy word. Sē'lah. Thou didst cleave the ^p earth with rivers.

10 The mountains saw thee, and they trembled: the overflowing of the water passed by: the deep uttered his voice, and lifted up his hands on high.

11 The sun and moon stood still in their habitation: ¹¹ at the light of thine arrows they went, and at the shining of thy glittering spear.

12 Thou didst march through the land in indignation, ¹² thou didst thresh the heathen in anger.

13 Thou wentest forth ¹³ for the salvation of thy people, even for salvation with thine anointed; thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked, ¹² by discovering the foundation unto the neck. Sē'lah.

14 Thou didst strike through with his staves the head of his villages: they ¹³ came out as a whirlwind to scatter me: their rejoicing was as to devour the poor secretly.

15 Thou didst walk through the sea with thine horses, through the ¹⁴ heap of great waters.

11 ¶ Howl, ye inhabitants of ^b Māk'tesh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear silver are cut off.

13 Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation: they shall also build houses, but ^h not inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, but ⁱ not drink the wine thereof.

14 ¶ The great day of the LORD is near, it is near, and hasteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the LORD: the mighty man shall cry there bitterly.

14 ¶ Sing, O daughter of Ziv'ōn; shout, O Īs'ra-el; ^u be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

15 The LORD hath taken away thy judgments, he hath cast out thine enemy: ^v the king of Īs'ra-el, even the LORD, ^w is in the midst of thee: thou shalt not see evil any more.

16 In that day it shall be said to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, Fear thou not: and to Ziv'ōn, ^x Let not thine hands be ^y slack.

17 The LORD thy God in the midst of thee ^{is} mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; ^z he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing.

18 I will gather them that ^a are sorrowful for the solemn assembly, who are of thee, to whom ^{ab} the reproach of it was a burden.

19 Behold, at that time I will undo all that afflict thee: and I will save her that halteth, and gather her that was driven out; and ^{ac} I will get them praise and fame in every land ^{ad} where they have been put to shame.

20 At that time ^{ae} I will bring you again, even in the time that I gather you: for I will make you a name and a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, saith the LORD.

HAGGAI.

CHAPTER 1.

2 Haggai, reproving the people's negligence, 7 inciteth them to the building of the house, 12 and promiseth God's assistance therein.

IN the second year of Dā-rī'us the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD ^a by Hāg'ga-i the son of Shē-āl'ti-el, ^b governor of Jū'dah, and to Jōsh'u-ā the son of ^c Jōs'-g-dēch, the high priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the LORD ^d by Hāg'ga-i the prophet, saying,

4 Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your cieled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; ^e Consider your ways.

7 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Consider your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the LORD.

9 Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, I did ^b blow upon it: Why? saith the LORD of hosts. Because of mine house that ^c is waste; and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore ^d the heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I ^e called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 ¶ Then Zê-rûb'ba-bêl the son of Shê-âl'ti-el, and Jôsh'u-â the son of Jôs'e-dêch, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Hâg'ga-i the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him, and the people did ^h fear before the LORD.

13 Then spake Hâg'ga-i the LORD's messenger in the LORD's message unto the people, saying, ⁱ I am with you, saith the LORD.

14 And ^j the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zê-rûb'ba-bêl the son of Shê-âl'ti-el, ^k governor of Jû'dah, and the spirit of Jôsh'u-â the son of Jôs'e-dêch, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; ^l and they came and did work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God.

14 Then answered Hâg'ga-i, and said, ^o So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the LORD; and so is every work of their hands; and that which they offer there is unclean.

ZECHARIAH.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Zechariah exhorteth to repentance. 7 Vision of the horses. 12 Comfortable promises made to Jerusalem. 18 Vision of four horns, and four carpenters.

IN the eighth month, ^a in the second year of Dā-rī'us, came the word of the LORD ^b unto Zēch-a-rī-ah, the son of Bēr-e-chī'ah, the son of Id'dō the prophet, saying,

2 The LORD hath been ^c sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Turn ^e ye unto me, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; ^d Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the LORD.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

11 And they answered the angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and, behold, all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD answered and said, ^k O LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jē-ru'sā-lēm and on the cities of Jū'dah, against which thou hast had indignation ^l these three-score and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the angel that talked with me with ^m good words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am ⁿ jealous for Jē-ru'sā-lēm and for Zī'ōn with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the heathen that are at ease: for ^o I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; ^p I am returned to Jē-ru'sā-lēm with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and ^q a line shall be stretched forth upon Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; My cities through ⁴ prosperity shall yet be spread abroad; ^r and the LORD shall yet comfort Zī'ōn, and ^s shall yet choose Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

18 ¶ Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, ^t These are the horns which have scattered Jū'dah, Is'ra-el, and Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

20 And the LORD shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Jū'dah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gēn'tiles, which ^u lifted up their horn over the land of Jū'dah to scatter it.

3 And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, ^c Jē-rū/sā-lēm shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her ^d a wall of fire round about, ^e and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 ¶ Ho, ho, come forth, and flee from the land of the north, saith the LORD: for I have ^f spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

7 Deliver thyself, O Zī'ōn, that dwellest with the daughter of Bāb'-y-lon.

8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that ^g toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants: and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

10 ¶ Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zī'ōn: for, lo, I come, and I ^h will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 ⁱ And many nations shall be joined to the LORD in that day, and shall be ^j my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and ^k thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

1 Vision of four chariots. 9 By the crowns of Joshua are shewn Christ the Branch, and his church and kingdom.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were ^a red horses; and in the second chariot black horses;

3 And in the third chariot ^b white horses; and in the fourth chariot grised and ¹ bay horses.

4 Then I answered ^c and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the angel answered and said unto me, ^d These are the four ² spirits of the heavens, which go forth from ^e standing before the Lord of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are therein go forth into ^f the north country; and the white go forth after them; and the grised go forth toward the south country.

7 And the bay went forth, and sought to go that they might walk to and fro through the earth: and he said, Get you hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my ^a spirit in the north country.

9 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Hēl'da-l, of Tō-bi'jah, and of Jē-dā'jah, which are ^a come from Bāb'y-lon, and come thou the same day, and go into the house of Jō-si'ah the son of Zēph-a-ni'ah;

11 Then take silver and gold, and make ^j crowns, and set them upon the head of Jōsh'u-ā the son of Jōs'e-dēch, the high priest;

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold ^k the man whose name is The ^l BRANCH; and he shall ³ grow up out of his place, ^m and he shall build the temple of the LORD:

13 Even he shall build the temple of the LORD; and he ⁿ shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and ^o he shall be a priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Hē-lem, and to Tō-bi'jah, and to Jē-dā'jah, and to Hēn the son of Zēph-a-ni'ah, ^p for a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And ^q they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 7.

1 The captives enquire of fasting: 4 Zechariah reproveh their hypocritical fasting. 8 They are exhortet to repentance.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Dā-ri'us, that the word of the LORD came unto Zēch-a-ri'ah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chis'leu;

2 When they had sent unto the house of God Shē-rē'zer and Rē-gem-mē'lech, and their men, ¹ to pray before the LORD,

3 And to ^a speak unto the priests which were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, ^d did not ye eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 ^e Should ye not hear the words which the LORD hath cried ^f by the former prophets, when Jē-ry/sā-lēm was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited ^g the south and the plain?

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Zēch-a-ri'ah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, ^h Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:

10 And oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor; and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and ⁱ pulled away the shoulder, and ^j stopped their ears, that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his spirit ^k by the former prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear; so they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts:

14 But I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations whom they knew not. Thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the ^l pleasant land desolate.

CHAPTER 8.

1 Jerusalem's restoration. 9 They are encouraged to the building by God's favour.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; ^a I was jealous for Z'ōn with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.

3 Thus saith the LORD; I am returned unto Z'ōn, and will dwell in the midst of Jē-ry/sā-lēm: and Jē-ry/sā-lēm ^b shall be called a city of truth; and ^c the mountain of the LORD of hosts ^d the holy mountain.

4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; ^e There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jĕ-ru'sā-lēm, and every man with his staff in his hand ¹for very age.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If it be ²marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, ³should it also be marvellous in mine eyes? saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and from ³the west country;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jĕ-ru'sā-lēm: ⁹and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and in righteousness.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; ¹Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of ²the prophets, which were in ³the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days ⁴there was no hire for man, nor any hire for beast; neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 For the seed shall be ⁵prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to ⁶possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were ⁷a curse among the heathen, O house of Jūdah, and house of ĩs'ra-el; so will I save you, and ⁸ye shall be a blessing: ⁹fear not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; ¹As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, ²and I repented not:

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jĕ-ru'sā-lēm and to the house of Jūdah: fear ye not.

22 Yea, many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jĕ-ru'sā-lēm, and to pray before the LORD.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you.

CHAPTER 9.

1 God defendeth his church. 9 Zion exhorted to rejoice for the coming of Christ.

THE burden of the word of the LORD in the land of Hā'drāch, and ²Dā-mās'cus shall be the rest thereof: when ³the eyes of man, as of all the tribes of ĩs'ra-el, shall be toward the LORD.

2 And ⁴Hā'math also shall border thereby; ⁵Týrus, and ⁶Zi'dōn, though it be very ⁷wise.

3 And Týrus did build herself a strong hold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and fine gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord will cast her out, and he will smite ⁹her power in the sea; and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 ¹Āsh'ke-lōn shall see it, and fear; ²Gā'zā also shall see it, and be very sorrowful, and Ĕk'rōn; for her expectation shall be ashamed; and the king shall perish from Gā'zā, and Āsh'ke-lōn shall not be inhabited.

6 And a bastard shall dwell in Āsh'dōd, and I will cut off the pride of the Phī-lis'tines.

7 And I will take away his ¹blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he, shall be for our God, and he shall be as a governor in Jū'dah, and Ēk'rōn as a Jēb'u-site.

8 And ¹I will encamp about mine house because of the army, because of him that passeth by, and because of him that returneth: and no oppressor shall pass through them any more: for now ²have I seen with mine eyes.

9 ¶ Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zī'ōn; shout, O daughter of Jē-ru'-sā-lēm: behold, ³thy King cometh unto thee: he is ⁴just, and ⁵having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.

10 And I will cut off the chariot from Ē'phrā-īm, and the horse from Jē-ru'-sā-lēm, and the battle bow shall be cut off: and he shall speak ⁶peace unto the heathen: and his dominion shall be ⁷from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the ends of the earth.

11 As for thee also, ⁸by the blood of thy covenant I have sent forth thy ⁹prisoners out of the pit where in is no water.

12 ¶ Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope: even to day do I declare that I will render double unto thee;

13 When I have bent Jū'dah for me, filled the bow with Ē'phrā-īm, and raised up thy sons, O Zī'ōn, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man.

14 And the LORD shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth as the lightning; and the Lord God shall blow the trumpet, and shall go with whirlwinds of the south.

15 The LORD of hosts shall defend them; and they shall devour, and ¹subdue with sling stones; and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine; and they ²shall be filled like bowls, and as ³the corners of the altar.

16 And ⁴the LORD their God shall save them in that day as the flock of his people: for ⁵they shall be as the stones of a crown, ⁶lifted up as an ensign upon his land.

2 For the ²idols have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie and have told false dreams; they comfort in vain: therefore they went their way as a flock, they ³were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, and I ⁴punished the goats: for the LORD of hosts ⁵hath visited his flock the house of Jū'dah, and hath made them as his goodly horse in the battle.

4 Out of him came forth the corner, out of him ⁶the nail, out of him the battle bow, out of him every oppressor together.

5 ¶ And they shall be as mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the LORD is with them, and ⁷the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Jū'dah, and I will save the house of Jō'seph, and I will bring them again to place them; for I have mercy upon them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the LORD their God, and will hear them.

7 And they of Ē'phrā-īm shall be like a mighty man, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad; their heart shall rejoice in the LORD.

8 I will ⁸hiss for them, and gather them; for I have redeemed them: and they shall increase as they have increased.

9 And I will sow them among the people: and they shall remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again.

10 ⁹I will bring them again also out of the land of Ē'gypt, and gather them out of Ās-sūr-ī-a; and I will bring them into the land of Ġīl-gād and Lēb'a-non; and ¹⁰place shall not be found for them.

11 And he shall pass through the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deeps of the river shall dry up: and the pride of Ās-sūr-ī-a shall be brought down, and ¹¹the sceptre of Ē'gypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the LORD; and they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the LORD.

CHAPTER 11.

OPEN thy doors, O Lēb'a-non, that the fire may devour thy cedars.

² Howl, fir tree; for the cedar is fallen; because the ¹ mighty are spoiled: howl, O ye oaks of Bā'shān; for ² the forest of the vintage is come down.

⁴ Thus saith the LORD my God; Feed the flock of the slaughter;

⁵ Whose possessors slay them, and ^a hold themselves not guilty: and they that sell them ^b say, Blessed be the LORD; for I am rich: and their own shepherds pity them not.

⁶ For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but, lo, I will ³ deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

⁷ And I will feed the flock of slaughter, ⁴ even you, ^c O poor of the flock. And I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called ⁵ Bands; and I fed the flock.

⁸ Three shepherds also I cut off ^d in one month; and my soul ⁶ loathed them, and their soul also abhorred me.

⁹ Then said I, I will not feed you: ^e that that dieth, let it die; and that that is to be cut off, let it be cut off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh ⁷ of another.

¹⁰ ¶ And I took my staff, even Beauty, and cut it asunder, that I might break my covenant which I had made with all the people.

¹¹ And it was broken in that day: and ⁸ so the poor of the flock that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the LORD.

¹² And I said unto them, ⁹ If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. So they ^f weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.

CHAPTER 12.

¹ Jerusalem a cup of trembling and a burdensome stone to the confusion of her adversaries. ⁶ Victorious restoring of Judah. ¹⁰ Repentance of Jerusalem.

THE burden of the word of the LORD for Īs'ra-el, saith the LORD, which stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and ^a formeth the spirit of man within him.

² Behold, I will make Jē-ry'sā-lēm a cup of ¹ trembling unto all the people round about, ² when they shall be in the siege both against Jū'dah and against Jē-ry'sā-lēm.

³ ¶ And in that day will I make Jē-ry'sā-lēm ^b a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

⁴ In that day, saith the LORD, ^c I will smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Jū'dah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

⁵ And the governors of Jū'dah shall say in their heart, ³ The inhabitants of Jē-ry'sā-lēm shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts their God.

⁶ ¶ In that day will I make the governors of Jū'dah like an hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf: and they shall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jē-ry'sā-lēm shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jē-ry'sā-lēm.

⁸ In that day shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm; and * he that is feeble among them at that day shall be as Dā'vid; and the house of Dā'vid shall be as God, as the angel of the LORD before them.

9 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm.

10 ¶ And I will pour upon the house of Dā'vid, and upon the inhabitants of Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm, the spirit of grace and of supplications: and they shall look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourn for him, as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him, as one that is in bitterness for his firstborn.

11 In that day shall there be a great mourning in Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm, as the mourning of Hā-dād-rīm'mon in the valley of Mē-gīd'don.

12 And the land shall mourn, every family apart; the family of the house of Dā'vid apart, and their wives apart; the family of the house of Nā'than apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the house of Lē'vī apart, and their wives apart; the family of Shīm'ē-ī apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

CHAPTER 13.

1 Fountain of purgation for Jerusalem, 2 from idolatry, and false prophecy. 7 Death of Christ, and trial of a third part.

IN that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of Dā'vid and to the inhabitants of Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm for sin and for unclean-ness.

2 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither

CHAPTER 14.

1 Destruction of Jerusalem. 3 Coming of Christ, and grace of his kingdom. 12 Plague of Jerusalem's enemies. 15 The remnant shall turn to the Lord. 20 and their spoils shall be holy.

BEHOLD, the day of the LORD cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations against Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm to battle; and the city shall be taken, and the houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the LORD go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

4 ¶ And his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of Olives, which is before Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south.

5 And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto A'zāl: yea, ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the earthquake in the days of Ūz-zī'ah king of Jū'dah: and the LORD my God shall come, and all the saints with thee.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, ³that the light shall not be ⁴clear, nor ⁵dark:

7 But ⁶it shall be one day which shall be known to the LORD, not day, nor night: but it shall come to pass, that at evening time it shall be light.

8 And it shall be in that day, that living ^awaters shall go out from Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm; half of them toward the ⁷former sea, and half of them toward the hinder sea: in summer and in winter shall it be.

9 And the LORD shall be ⁱking over all the earth: in that day shall there be ^jone LORD, and his name one.

10 All the land shall be ⁸turned as a plain from Ġēbā to Rīm/mōn south of Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm: and it shall be lifted up, and ⁹inhabited in her place, from Bēn/ja-min's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, ^kand from the tower of Hā-nān/e-el unto the king's wine-presses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be ^lno more utter destruction; but Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm ¹⁰shall be safely inhabited.

12 ¶ And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all the people that have fought against Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that ^ma great tumult from the LORD shall be among them; and they shall lay hold every one on the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

16 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm shall even ⁿgo up from year to year to worship ^othe King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep ^pthe feast of tabernacles.

17 ¶ And it shall be, that whoso will not come up of ^{all}the families of the earth unto Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

18 And if the family of Ē/ġypt go not up, and come not, ¹³that have no rain; there shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite the heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

19 This shall be the ¹⁴punishment of Ē/ġypt, and the punishment of all nations that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

21 ¶ Yea, every pot in Jĕ-ry/sā-lēm and in Jū'dah shall be holiness unto the LORD of hosts: and all they that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shall be no more the ^aCā'nān-ite in the ⁱhouse of the LORD of hosts.

on you, and I will curse your blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will ¹ corrupt your seed, and ² spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and ³ one shall take you away with it.

4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Lē'vi, saith the LORD of hosts.

5 ⁶ My covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him ^c for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did ^a turn many away from iniquity.

7 ^e For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: ^f for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye have ² caused many to ⁴ stumble at the law; ye have corrupted the covenant of Lē'vi, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 Therefore have I also made you contemptible and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but ⁶ have been partial in the law.

10 ^h Have we not all one father? ⁱ hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

11 ¶ Jū'dah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Is'ra-el and in Jē-ru'sā-lēm; for Jū'dah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he ⁶ loved, and ⁷ hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, ⁷ the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jā'cōb, and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 ¶ Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And ^a did not he make one? Yet had he the ^a residue of the spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek ^a a godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal ¹⁰ treacherously against the wife of his youth.

16 For ¹ the LORD, the God of ¹ Is-¹ra-el, saith ¹¹ that he hateth ¹² putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

17 ¶ Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?

CHAPTER 3.

1 Of the messenger, majesty, and grace of Christ.
7 Of the rebellion, 8 sacrilege, 13 and infidelity of the people. 16 Promise of blessing to them that fear God.

BEHOOLD, ^a I will send my messenger, and he shall ^b prepare the way before me: ^c and the LORD, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, ^d even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, ^e he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abate the day of his coming? and ^f who shall stand when he appeareth? for ^g he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' sope:

3 And ^h he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and he shall purify the sons of Lē'vi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may ⁱ offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

4 Then shall the offering of Jū-dah and Jē-rū'sā-lēm be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in ¹ former years.

5 ^j And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, ^k and against false swearers, and against those that ^l oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

17 So all the generations from Ā'brā'hām to Dā'vid are fourteen generations; and from Dā'vid until the carrying away into Bāb'ý-lon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Bāb'ý-lon to Christ are fourteen generations.

was on this wise: When as his mother Mā'rý was espoused to Jō'seph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Hō'ly Ghōst.

19 Then Jō'seph her husband, being a just man, and not willing ^cto make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily.

20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Jō'seph, thou son of Dā'vid, fear not to take unto thee Mā'rý thy wife: ^afor that which is ²conceived in her is of the Hō'ly Ghōst.

21 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name ^aJē'SUS: for ^ahe shall save his people from their sins.

22 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23 ^aBehold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and ^athey shall call his name Ēm-mān'ū-el, which being interpreted is, ^aGod with us.

24 Then Jō'seph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife:

25 And knew her not till she had brought forth her firstborn son: and he called his name Jē'SUS.

CHAPTER 2.

1 Wise men enquire after Christ: 11 they worship him, and offer presents. 13 Joseph fleeth into Egypt with Jesus and Mary. 16 Herod slayeth the children at Bethlehem: 19 Christ brought out of Egypt.

NOW when ^aJē'sus was born in Bēth'lē-hēm of Jū-dā' in the days of Hēr'od the king, behold, there came wise men ^bfrom the east to Jē-ry'sā-lēm,

2 Saying, ^cWhere is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his ^astar in the east, and are come to worship him.

3 When Hēr'od the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jē-ry'sā-lēm with him.

4 And when he had gathered all the ^achief priests and ^ascribes of the people together, ^ahe demanded of them where Christ should be born.

5 And they said unto him, In Bēth'lē-hēm of Jū-dā': for thus it is written by the prophet,

6 And ^athou Bēth'lē-hēm, in the land of Jū'dā, art not the least among the princes of Jū'dā: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that ^aI shall ¹rule my people Īs'ra-el.

7 Then Hēr'od, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

8 And he sent them to Bēth'lē-hēm, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 ¶ And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mā'r'y his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Hēr'od, they departed into their own country another way.

13 And when they were departed, behold, the angel of the Lord appeareth to Jō'seph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Ē'gypt; and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Hēr'od will seek the young child to destroy him.

14 When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Ē'gypt:

15 And was there until the death of Hēr'od: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Ē'gypt have I called my son.

16 ¶ Then Hēr'od, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bēth'lē-hēm, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently enquired of the wise men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jēr'ē-m'y the prophet, saying,

18 In Rāmā was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rā'chel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

19 ¶ But when Hēr'od was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeareth in a dream to Jō'seph in Ē'gypt, 20 Saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Is'ra-el: for they are dead which sought the young child's life.

21 And he arose, and took the young child and his mother, and came into the land of Is'ra-el.

22 But when he heard that Ārchē-lā'us did reign in Jū-dæ'ā in the room of his father Hēr'od, he was afraid to go thither: notwithstanding, being warned of God in a dream, he turned aside into the parts of Galī-lee:

23 And he came and dwelt in a city called Nāz'a-rēth: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nāz'a-rēne.

CHAPTER 3.

1 John preacheth: his office, 5 and baptism: 7 he rebuketh the Pharisees. 13 Christ baptized by John in Jordan.

IN those days came Jōhn the Bāp'tist, preaching in the wilderness of Jū-dæ'ā,

2 And saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he that was spoken of by the prophet Ē-sā'as, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

4 And the same Jōhn had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and his meat was locusts and wild honey.

5 Then went out to him Jē-rū'sā-lēm, and all Jū-dæ'ā, and all the region round about Jōr'dān,

6 And were baptized of him in Jōr'dān, confessing their sins.

7 ¶ But when he saw many of the Phār-isees and Sād'du-pees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance:

9 And think not to say within yourselves, We have Ā-brā-hām to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Ā-brā-hām.

10 And now also the ax is laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

11 I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with the Hō'l'y Ghōst, and with fire:

12 ¶ Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

13 ¶ Then cometh Jē'sus ^rfrom Gāl'ī-lee to Jōr'dan unto Jōhn, to be baptized of him.

14 But Jōhn forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?

15 And Jē'sus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to ^s fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him.

16 And ^rJē'sus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw ^uthe Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him:

17 And ^vlo a voice from heaven, saying, ^wThis is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Christ fasteth, is tempted, and overcometh: 17 he beginneth to preach: 18 he calleth Peter and Andrew: 23 he teacheth in the synagogue, and healeth the diseased.

THEN was ^rJē'sus led up of ^bthe spirit into the wilderness to be ^ctempted of the devil.

2 And when he had ^afasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

3 And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

4 But he answered and said, ^eIt is written, ^fMan shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

5 Then the devil taketh him up into ^gthe holy city, and setteth him on a pinnacle of the temple,

6 And saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, ^hHe shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in ⁱtheir hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

7 Jē'sus said unto him, It is written again, ^jThou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

8 Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them;

9 And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

10 Then saith Jē'sus unto him, Get thee hence, Sā'tan: for it is written, ^kThou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

11 Then the devil ^lleaveth him, and, behold, ^mangels came and ministered unto him.

12 ¶ Now ⁿwhen Jē'sus had heard that Jōhn was ^ocast into prison, he departed into Gāl'ī-lee;

14 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by E-sā'jas the prophet, saying,

17 ¶ From ^rthat time Jē'sus began to preach, and to say, ^sRepent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

18 ¶ And ^tJē'sus, walking by the sea of Gāl'ī-lee, saw two brethren, Sī'mon ^ucalled Pē'tēr, and An'drew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

19 And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I ^vwill make you fishers of men.

20 And ^wthey straightway left ^xtheir nets, and followed him.

21 And ^ygoing on from thence, he saw other two brethren, Jāmes ^zthe son of Zēb'e-dee, and Jōhn his brother, in a ship with Zēb'e-dee their father, mending their nets; and he called them.

22 And they immediately left the ship and their father, and followed him.

23 ¶ And Jē'sus went about all Gāl'ī-lee, teaching ^ain their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

24 And his ^bfame went throughout all Sūr'ā: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes of people from Gāl'ī-lee, and from Dē-cāp'ō-lis, and from Jē-ru-sā-lēm, and from Jū-dā'a, and from beyond Jōr'dan.

CHAPTER 5.

3 Who are blessed. 13 The disciples called the salt of the earth, and light of the world: Christ urgeth on them a good example, etc.

AND seeing the multitudes, ^ahe went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

2 And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

3 Blessed ^bare the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed ^e are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed ^d are the meek: for ^e they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed ^e are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed ^e are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed ^h are the pure in heart: for ⁱ they shall see God.

9 Blessed ^e are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed ^k are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are ye, when ^{men} shall revile you, and persecute ^{you}, and shall say all manner of evil against you ¹ falsely, for my sake.

12 Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great ^{is} your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 ¶ Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

14 Ye ^{are} the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a ² bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that ^{men} they may see your good works, and glorify ⁱⁿ your Father which is in heaven.

17 ¶ Think ^o not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

18 For verily I say unto you, ^p Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 Whosoever ^q therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach ^{them}, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed ^r the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said ^s by them of old time, ^t Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment:

22 But I say unto you, That whosoever ^t is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, ⁴ Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou ⁵ fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.

23 Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and thou rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee;

24 Leave ^u there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

25 Agree ^v with thine adversary quickly, whiles ^w thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison.

26 Verily I say unto thee, ^x Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing.

27 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery:

28 But I say unto you, That whosoever looketh ^y on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

29 And ^z if thy right eye ^o offend thee, pluck it out, and cast ^{it} from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not ^{that} thy whole body should be cast into hell.

30 And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast ^{it} from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not ^{that} thy whole body should be cast into hell.

31 It hath been said, ^a Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement:

32 But I say unto you, That ^b whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery.

33 ¶ Again, ye have heard that it hath been said ⁷ by them of old time, ^c Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but ^d shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths:

34 But I say unto you, ^e Swear not at all; neither by heaven; for it is ^f God's throne:

35 Nor by the earth; for it is his footstool: neither by ^{Jē-rū-sā-lēm}; for it is the city of the great King.

36 Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black.

37 But ^glet your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil.

38 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, ^hAn eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

39 But I say unto you, ⁱThat ye resist not evil: ^jbut whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have ^{thy} cloke also.

41 And whosoever ^kshall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 Give to him that asketh thee, and from ^lhim that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, ^mThou shalt love thy neighbour, ⁿand hate thine enemy.

44 But I say unto you, ^oLove your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray ^pfor them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

45 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

46 For ^qif ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?

47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more ^rthan others? do not even the publicans so?

48 Be ^sye therefore perfect, even as ^tyour Father which is in heaven is perfect.

CHAPTER 6.

1 Of alms, 5 prayer, 14 forgiveness. 19 Our treasure. 24 Of God and mammon.

TAKE heed that ye do not your ^ualms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward ^vof your Father which is in heaven.

2 Therefore ^wwhen thou doest ^xthine alms, ^ydo not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

3 But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret himself shall reward thee openly.

5 ¶ And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites ^{are}: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

6 But thou, when thou prayest, enter ^binto thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father ^cwhich seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, ^duse not vain repetitions, as the heathen ^{do}: ^efor they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

8 Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your ^fFather knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.

9 After this manner therefore pray ye: ^gOur Father which art in heaven, ^hHallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, ⁱas ^{it is} in heaven.

11 Give us this day our ^jdaily bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

13 And ^klead us not into temptation, but ^ldeliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

14 For ^mif ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

15 But ⁿif ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

16 ¶ Moreover ^owhen ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face;

18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

19 ¶ Lay ^pnot up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

20 But ^qlay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 The ^rlight of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, ^show great is that darkness!

24 ¶ No ^tman can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. * Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I say unto you, ⁴ Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 Behold * the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?

28 And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

29 And yet I say unto you, That even Söl'o-mon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things do the Gen'tiles seek :) for * your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

33 But * seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

34 Take therefore no ⁵ thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

6 ¶ Give ^d not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.

7 ¶ Ask, ^e and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:

8 For ^f every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

9 Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?

10 Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

11 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much ^g more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?

12 Therefore all things ^h whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this ⁱ is the law and the prophets.

13 ¶ Enter ^j ye in at the strait gate: ^k for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat:

14 ^l Because strait ⁱ is the gate, and narrow ⁱ is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

15 ¶ Beware ^l of false prophets, which ^m come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they ⁿ are ravening wolves.

16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. ^o Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

17 Even so ^p every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither ^{can} a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

21 ¶ Not every one that saith unto me, ^q Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we ^r not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?

23 And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: ^s depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

24 ¶ Therefore ^t whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock :

25 And ^u the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house ; and ^v it fell not : for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand :

27 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house ; and it fell : ^w and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to pass, when Jē'sus had ended these sayings, ^x the people were astonished at his doctrine :

29 For ^y he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

CHAPTER 8.

² Christ cleanseth the leper. ⁵ healeth the centurion's servant. ¹⁴ Peter's mother in law, ¹⁶ and many other diseased ; ²³ stilleth the tempest.

WHEN he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2 And, ^a behold, there came a leper and worshipped him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

3 And Jē'sus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will ; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

4 And Jē'sus saith unto him, ^b See thou tell no man ; but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer the gift that ^c Mō'ses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

5 ¶ And ^d when Jē'sus was entered into Cā-pēr-nā-ūm, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him,

6 And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented.

7 And Jē'sus saith unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 The centurion answered and said, Lord, I ^e am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof : but ^f speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me ; and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth ; and to another, Come, and he cometh ; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

10 When Jē'sus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Is'ra-el.

13 And Jē'sus said unto the centurion, Go thy way ; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour.

14 ¶ And ^j when Jē'sus was come into Pē'tēr's house, he saw ^k his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her : and she arose, and ministered unto them.

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Ē-sā'as the prophet, saying, Himself ^m took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

18 ¶ Now when Jē'sus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side.

20 And Jē'sus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests ; but ^o the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

21 And ^p another of his disciples said unto him, Lord, ^q suffer me first to go and bury my father.

23 ¶ And when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And, ^s behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves : but he was asleep.

25 And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us : we perish.

26 And he saith unto them, Why ^t are ye fearful, O ye of little faith ? Then ^u he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea ; and there was a great calm.

27 But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him !

29 And, behold, they cried out, saying, What ^w have we to do with thee, Jē'sus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 And there was a good way off from them an herd of many ^z swine feeding.

31 So the devils ^v besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine.

32 And he said unto them, Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and, behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the possessed of the devils.

34 And, behold, the whole city came out to meet Jē'sus: and when they saw him, they ^z besought him that he would depart out of their coasts.

1 Christ cureth the palsy, 9 calleth Matthew, 10 justifieth himself for eating with publicans and sinners: 21 he healeth the bloody issue; 23 raiseth to life the ruler's daughter; 27 giveth sight to two blind men, etc.

AND he entered into a ship, and passed over, ^a and came into his own city.

2 And, ^b behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jē'sus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; ^d thy sins be forgiven thee.

3 And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 And Jē'sus ^c knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

5 For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

6 But that ye may know that the ^f Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house.

from thence, he saw a man, named Māt'thew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

15 And Jē'sus said unto them, Can ⁿ the children of the bridechamber mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and ^o then shall they fast.

16 No man putteth a piece of ⁱ new cloth unto an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.

18 ¶ While ^p he spake these things unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live.

19 And Jē'sus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples.

20 ¶ And, ^q behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment:

21 For she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole.

22 But Jē'sus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; ^r thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

23 And ^s when Jē'sus came into the ruler's house, and saw ^t the minstrels and the people making a noise,

24 He said unto them, ^u Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.

25 But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

26 And ² the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

27 ¶ And when Jē'sus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, ^v Thou son of Da'vid, have mercy on us.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jē'sus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And ^w their eyes were opened; and Jē'sus straitly charged them, saying, See ^x that no man know it.

31 But ^y they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.

32 ¶ As ^z they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Is'ra-el.

34 But the Phā'rī-sees said, He casteth out devils through the prince of the devils.

35 And ^a Jē'sus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.

36 ¶ But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they ³ fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then saith he unto his disciples, ^b The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few;

38 Pray ^c ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.

his brother; Jāmes ^{the son of} Zēb'g-dee, and Jōhn his brother;

3 Phil'ip, and Bār-thōl'ō-mew; Thōm'as, and Māt'thew the publican; Jāmes ^{the son of} Āl-phā'eus, and Lēb-bā'eus, whose surname was ² Thiād-dā'eus;

4 Si'mon ^{the} Cā'nāan-ite, and Jū'-das ^{the} Is-cār'iot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jē'sus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of ^{the} Gēn'tiles, and into ^{any} city of ^{the} Sā-mā'r'ī-tang enter ye not:

6 But ^{ye} go rather to the ^{lost} sheep of the house of Is'ra-el.

7 And ^{as} ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

8 Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give.

9 ³ Provide neither gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses,

10 Nor scrip for ^{your} journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet ⁴ staves: ^{for} the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, enquire who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an house, salute it.

13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, ⁵ shake off the dust of your feet.

15 Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sōd'om and Gō-mōr'rā in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 ¶ Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: ⁶ be ye therefore wise as serpents, and ⁵ harmless as doves.

17 But beware of men: for they will deliver you up to the councils, and ⁷ they will scourge you in their synagogues;

18 And ^{ye} shall be brought before governors and kings for my sake, for a testimony against them and the Gēn'tiles.

19 But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye shall speak: for ⁸ it shall be given you in that same hour what ye shall speak.

20 For ^{it} is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you.

21 And ⁹ the brother shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the child: and the children shall rise up against their parents, and cause them to be put to death.

22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: ^abut he that endureth to the end shall be saved.

23 But ^rwhen they persecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not ^hhave gone over the cities of Is'ra-el, till ^gthe Son of man be come.

24 The disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If they have called the master of the house ^rBê-êl'ze-bûb, how much more shall they call them of his household?

26 Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known.

27 What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the house tops.

28 And ^tfear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell.

29 Are not two sparrows sold for a ^sfarthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father.

30 But ^uthe very hairs of your head are all numbered.

31 Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows.

32 Whosoever ^vtherefore shall confess me before men, ^whim will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.

33 But ^xwhosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven.

34 Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword.

35 For I am come to set a man at variance ^yagainst his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

36 And a man's foes shall be they of his own household.

37 He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me.

38 And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 He ^zthat findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.

CHAPTER 11.

2 John sendeth his disciples to Christ. 7 The testimony of Christ concerning John. 20 Christ upbraideth the unthankfulness and impotence of Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum, etc.

AND it came to pass, when Jê'sus ^Ahad made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 Now ^awhen Jôhn had heard in ^bthe prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples,

3 And said unto him, Art thou he ^cthat should come, or do we look for another?

4 Jê'sus answered and said unto them, Go and shew Jôhn again those things which ye do hear and see:

5 The ^dblind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the ^epoor have the gospel preached to them.

6 And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be ^foffended in me.

7 ¶ And ^gas they departed, Jê'sus began to say unto the multitudes concerning Jôhn, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, ^hand more than a prophet.

10 For this is he, of whom it is written, ⁱBehold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than Jôhn the Bâp'tist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And ^jfrom the days of Jôhn the Bâp'tist until now the kingdom of heaven ¹suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For ^kall the prophets and the law prophesied until Jôhn.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is Ē-l'ās, which was for to come.

15 He ^m that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 ¶ But ^a whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows, 17 And saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For Jōhn came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, ^a a friend of publicans and sinners. ^a But wisdom is justified of her children.

20 ¶ Then ^a began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not:

21 Woe unto thee, Chō-rā'zin! woe unto thee, Bēth-sā'l-dā! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tÿre and Sī'dōn, they would have repented long ago ^a in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Tÿre and Sī'dōn at the day of judgment, than for you.

23 And thou, Cā-pēr'na-ūm, ^a which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sōd'om, it would have remained until this day.

24 But I say unto you, That it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sōd'om in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 ¶ At that time Jē'sus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou ^a hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes.

26 Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight.

27 All ^a things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither ^a knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him.

28 ¶ Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

29 Take my yoke upon you, ^a and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly ^a in heart: and ^a ye shall find rest unto your souls.

30 For ^a my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

CHAPTER 12.

Christ reproveth the blindness of the Pharisees concerning the sabbath.

AT that time ^a Jē'sus went on the sabbath day through the corn; and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 But when the Phār'ī-sees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day.

3 But he said unto them, Have ye not read ^b what Dā'vid did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him;

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat ^c the shewbread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, ^a but only for the priests?

5 Or have ye not read in ^e the law, how that on the sabbath days the priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are blameless?

6 But I say unto you, That in this place is ^d one ^d greater than the temple.

7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, I ^d will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless.

8 For the ^e Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day.

9 And ⁱ when he was departed thence, he went into their synagogue:

10 ¶ And, behold, there was a man which had his hand withered. And they asked him, saying, ^j Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath days? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and ^k if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out?

12 How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath days.

13 Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth; and it was restored whole, like as the other.

14 ¶ Then ^l the Phār'ī-sees went out, and ^l held a council against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But when Jē'sus ^m knew it, ⁿ he withdrew himself from thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all;

16 And charged them that they should not make him known:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Ē-sā'ias the prophet, saying,

18 Behold ^o my servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased: I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gën'tiles.

19 He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name shall the Gën'tiles trust.

22 ¶ Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, inasmuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of Dä-vid?

24 But when the Phār'isees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Bē-ēl'ze-būb the prince of the devils.

25 And Jē'sus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand:

26 And if Sā'tan cast out Sā'tan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?

27 And if I by Bē-ēl'ze-būb cast out devils, by whom do ye your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you.

29 Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.

30 He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

31 ¶ Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Hō'ly Ghōst shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Hō'ly Ghōst, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit.

34 O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 ¶ Then certain of the scribes and of the Phār'isees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee.

39 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jō'nas:

40 For as Jō'nas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 The men of Nīn'e-veh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of Jō'nas; and, behold, a greater than Jō'nas is here.

42 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Sōl'o-mon; and, behold, a greater than Sōl'o-mon is here.

43 When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished.

45 Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation.

46 ¶ While he yet talked to the people, behold, his mother and his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him.

47 Then one said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee.

48 But he answered and said unto him that told him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49 And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren!

50 For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.

CHAPTER 13.

3 Of the sower and the seed. 10 Why Christ spake in parables. 18 The exposition of the parable of the sower. 24 Divers other parables, etc.

THE same day went Jē'sus out of the house, ^a and sat by the sea side.

2 And ^b great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that ^c he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow;

4 And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up:

5 Some fell upon ^d stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth:

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no ^e root, they withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them:

8 But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some ^f an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.

9 Who ^g hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?

11 He answered and said unto them, Because ^h it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

12 For ⁱ whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of E-sā'ias, which saith, By ^j hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive:

15 For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears ^k are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

16 But ^l blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

17 For verily I say unto you, That many ^w prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 ¶ Hear ^y ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh ^z the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.

20 But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with ^a joy receiveth it;

21 Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by ^b he is offended.

22 He ^c also that received seed among ^d the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.

23 But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, ^e his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.

30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but ^f gather the wheat into my barn.

31 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, ^g The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds : but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ Another ^w parable spake he unto them ; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three ¹ measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

34 All these things spake Jē'sus unto the multitude in parables ; and without a parable spake he not unto them :

35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, ^z I will open my mouth in parables ; ^y I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then Jē'sus sent the multitude away, and went into the house : and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 He answered and said unto them, He that ^z soweth the good seed is the Son of man ;

38 The ^a field is the world ; the good seed are the children of the kingdom ; but the tares are ^b the children of the wicked one :

39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil ; ^c the harvest is the end of the world ; and the reapers are the angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire ; so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, ^d and they shall gather out of his kingdom all ² things that offend, and them which do iniquity ;

42 And ^e shall cast them into a furnace of fire : there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

43 Then ^f shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field ; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and ^g selleth all that he hath, and ^h buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls :

46 Who, when he had found ⁱ one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered ^j of every kind :

48 Which, when it was full, they

49 So shall it be at the end of the world : the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire : there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

51 Jē'sus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things ? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure ^k things new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Jē'sus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 And ^l when he was come into his own country, he taught them in their synagogue, insomuch that they were astonished, and said, Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works ?

55 Is ^m not this the carpenter's son ? is not his mother called Mā'ry ? and ⁿ his brethren, ^o Jāmes, and Jō'sēs, and Sī'mon, and Jū'das ?

56 And his sisters, are they not all with us ? Whence then hath this man all these things ?

57 And they ^p were offended in him. But Jē'sus said unto them, A ^q prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

58 And ^r he did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

CHAPTER 14.

¹ Herod's opinion of Christ. ³ John Baptist beheaded. ¹⁵ Five thousand fed, etc.

AT that time ^a Hēr'od the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jē'sus, ² And said unto his servants, This is Jōhn the Bāp'tist ; he is risen from the dead ; and therefore mighty works ¹ do shew forth themselves in him.

3 ¶ For ^b Hēr'od had laid hold on Jōhn, and bound him, and put him in prison for Hēr'ō'di-as' sake, his brother Phī'l'ip's wife.

4 For Jōhn said unto him, ^c It is not lawful for thee to have her.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, ^d because they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Hēr'od's ^e birthday was kept, the daughter of Hēr'ō'di-as danced ² before them, and pleased Hēr'od.

7 Whereupon he promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she, being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here Jōhn Bāp'tist's head in a charger.

9 And the king was sorry: ^f nevertheless for the oath's sake, and them which sat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he sent, and beheaded Jōhn in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a charger, and given to the damsel: and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jē'sus.

13 ¶ When ^a Jē'sus heard of it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart: and when the people had heard thereof, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jē'sus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and ^h was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

15 ¶ And when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is now past; send the multitude away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themselves victuals.

16 But Jē'sus said unto them, They need not depart; ⁱ give ye them to eat.

17 And they say unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes.

18 He said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he ^j blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the fragments that remained twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten were about five thousand men, beside women and children.

22 ¶ And straightway Jē'sus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away.

23 And ^k when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: ^l and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night Jē'sus went unto them, walking on the sea.

29 And he said, Come. And when Pē'tēr was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jē'sus.

30 But when he saw the wind ³ boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jē'sus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore ⁿ didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come into the ship, the ^o wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou ^p art the Son of God.

34 ¶ And ^q when they were gone over, they came into the land of Ġēn-nēs'a-rēt.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased;

36 And besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment: and as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

CHAPTER 15.

1 Of God's commandments, and men's traditions. 10 Christ sheweth what defileth a man: 29 he healeth great multitudes, etc.

THEN ^a came to Jē'sus scribes and Phā'rī-sees, which were of Ġē-ru/sā-lēm, saying,

2 Why ^b do thy disciples transgress ^c the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God commanded, saying, Honour ^d thy father and mother: and, ^e He that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother, ^f It is a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me;

6 And honour not his father or his mother, he shall be free. Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 Ye ^g hypocrites, well did Ē-sā'jas prophesy of you, saying,

8 This ^h people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching ⁱfor doctrines the commandments of men.

10 ¶ And ^jhe called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand:

11 Not ^kthat which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Phār'ī-sees were offended, after they heard this saying?

13 But he answered and said, Every ^lplant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let ^mthem alone: ⁿthey be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 Then ^oanswered Pē'tēr and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 And Jē'sus said, ^pAre ye also yet without understanding?

17 Do not ye yet understand, that whatsoever ^qentereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18 But ^rthose things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man.

19 For ^sout of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.

21 ¶ Then Jē'sus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sī'dōn.

22 And, behold, a woman of Cā'nāan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of Dā'vid; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.

24 But he answered and said, ^tI am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Is'ra-el.

25 Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.

26 But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to ^udogs.

27 And she said, Truth, Lord: yet

28 Then Jē'sus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

29 And ^vJē'sus departed from thence, and came nigh ^wunto the sea of Gāl'ī-lee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there.

30 And ^xgreat multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jē'sus' feet; and he healed them:

31 Inasmuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Is'ra-el.

32 ¶ Then ^yJē'sus called his disciples unto him, and said, I ^zhave compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And ^ahis disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?

34 And Jē'sus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground.

36 And ^bhe took the seven loaves and the fishes, and ^cgave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

37 And they did all eat, ^dand were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full.

38 And they that did eat were four thousand men, beside women and children.

39 And ^ehe sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the coasts of Māg'da-lā.

CHAPTER 16.

1 The Pharisees require a sign. 5 Of the heaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees, etc.

THE Sād'du-cess came, and tempting desired him that he would shew them a sign from heaven.

2 He answered and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red.

3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the ^b signs of the times?

4 A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jō'nas. And he left them, and departed.

5 And ^a when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread.

6 ¶ Then Jē'sus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Phār'īsees and of the Sād'du-ceeds.

7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread.

8 Which when Jē'sus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye among yourselves, because ye have brought no bread?

9 Do ye not yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

10 Neither ^a the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

11 How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Phār'īsees and of the Sād'du-ceeds?

12 Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Phār'īsees and of the Sād'du-ceeds.

13 ¶ When Jē'sus came into the coasts of Cæs-a-rē'a Phīlip'pī, he asked his disciples, saying, ^a Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?

14 And they said, ^a Some say that thou art Jōhn the Bāp'tist: ^b some, Ē-lī'as; and others, Jēr-ē-mī'as, or one of the prophets.

15 He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am?

16 And Sī'mon Pē'tēr answered and said, ^a Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

17 And Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Sī'mon Bār-jō'nā: ^a for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but ^b my Father which is in heaven.

18 And I say also unto thee, That ^a thou art Pē'tēr, and ^a upon this rock I will build my church; and ^b the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

19 And ^a I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

20 Then charged he his disciples that they should tell no man that he was Jē'sus the Christ.

21 ¶ From that time forth began Jē'sus to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jē-ru-sā-lēm, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

22 Then Pē'tēr took him, and began to rebuke him, saying, ¹ Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall not be unto thee.

23 But he turned, and said unto Pē'tēr, Get thee behind me, Sā'tan: thou ^a art an offence unto me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men.

24 ¶ Then ^a said Jē'sus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

25 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

26 For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or ^a what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

27 For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father ^a with his angels; ^b and then he shall reward every man according to his works.

CHAPTER 17.

1 The transfiguration of Christ: 14 he healeth the lunatick: 24 he payeth tribute.

AND ^a after six days Jē'sus taketh Pē'tēr, James, and Jōhn his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart,

2 And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light.

3 And, behold, there appeared unto them ^b Mō'ses and Ē-lī'as talking with him.

4 Then answered Pē'tēr, and said unto Jē'sus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Mō'ses, and one for Ē-lī'as.

5 While ^a he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, ^a This is my beloved Son, ^b in whom I am well pleased; ^c hear ye him.

6 And ^a when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid.

7 And Jē'sus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Je'sus only.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, Je'sus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen again from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying, ^h Why then say the scribes that Ê-lî'as must first come?

11 And Je'sus answered and said unto them, Ê-lî'as truly shall first come, and restore ⁱ all things.

12 But ^j I say unto you, That Ê-lî'as is come already, and they knew him not, but have ^k done unto him whatsoever they listed. Likewise shall also the Son of man suffer of them.

13 Then the disciples understood that he spake unto them of Jôhn the Bâp'tist.

14 ¶ And ^l when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying,

15 Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for oftentimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

17 Then Jê'sus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And Jê'sus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

19 Then came the disciples to Jê'sus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Jê'sus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, ^m If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

21 Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting.

22 ¶ And ⁿ while they abode in Gâl-î-lee, Jê'sus said unto them, The Son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of men:

23 And they shall kill him, and the third day he shall be raised again. And they were exceeding sorry.

24 ¶ And ^o when they were come to Că-pêr'nă-um, they that received ¹ tribute money came to Pê'têr, and said, Doth not your master pay tribute?

26 Pê'têr saith unto him, Of strangers. Jê'sus saith unto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithstanding, lest we should ² offend them, go thou to the sea, and cast an hook, and take up the fish that first cometh up; and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find ^{2a} a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

CHAPTER 18.

1 Christ teacheth to be humble. 7 Touching offences, 21 and forgiving one another.

AT ^a the same time came the disciples unto Jê'sus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?

2 And Jê'sus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them,

3 And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ^b ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 Whosoever ^c therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And ^d whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me.

6 But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 ¶ Woe unto the world because of offences! for ^e it must needs be that offences come: but ^f woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!

8 Wherefore ^g if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire.

9 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.

10 Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their ^h angels do always ⁱ behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

11 For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost.

12 How ^j think ye? if a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray?

13 And if so be that he find it, verily I say unto you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not astray.

14 Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

15 ¶ Moreover ^aif thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou ^bhast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that ^min the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell ⁿit unto ^othe church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an ^oheathen man and a publican.

18 Verily I say unto you, ^pWhatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

19 Again ^qI say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, ^rit shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there ^sam I in the midst of them.

21 ¶ Then came Pē'tēr to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? ^tuntil seven times?

22 Jē'sus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, ^uUntil seventy times seven.

23 ¶ Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand ^vtalents.

25 But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to ^wbe sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and ^xworshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But the same servant went out,

9 And ^aI say unto be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

10 ¶ His disciples say unto him, If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry.

11 But he said unto them, All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.

12 For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

13 ¶ Then there were brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jē'sus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 ¶ And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

17 And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

18 He saith unto him, Which? Jē'sus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, 19 Honour thy father and thy mother: and, thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

21 Jē'sus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me.

22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶ Then said Jē'sus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 But Jē'sus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ Then answered Pē'tēr and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?

28 And Jē'sus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Is'ra-el.

29 And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

30 But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.

CHAPTER 20.

1 Of the labourers in the vineyard. 17 Christ foretold his passion: 29 teacheth his disciples to be lowly, 29 and giveth sight to two blind men.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the marketplace,

4 And said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise.

6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

8 So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first.

9 And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny.

10 But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more; and they likewise received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they murmured against the Goodman of the house, 12 Saying, These last ² have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 But he answered one of them, and said, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst not thou agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that thine is, and go thy way: I will give unto this last, even as unto thee.

15 Is ^b it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? ^c Is thine eye evil, because I am good?

16 So ^d the last shall be first, and the first last: ^e for many be called, but few chosen.

17 ¶ And ^f Jē'sus going up to Jē-ry'sā-lēm took the twelve disciples apart in the way, and said unto them,

18 Behold, ^g we go up to Jē-ry'sā-lēm: and the Son of man shall be betrayed unto the chief priests and unto the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death,

19 And ^h shall deliver him to the Gēn'tiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify him: and the third day he shall rise again.

20 ¶ Then ⁱ came to him ^j the mother of Zēb'ē-dee's ^k children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him.

21 And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my two sons ^l may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom.

22 But Jē'sus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the ^m cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the ⁿ baptism that I am baptized with? They say unto him, We are able.

23 And he saith unto them, ^o Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to ^p give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 And ^q when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation against the two brethren.

25 But Jē'sus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the princes of the Gēn'tiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them.

26 But ^r it shall not be so among you: but whosoever ^s will be great among you, let him be your minister;

29 And ^y as they departed from Jēr'ī-chō, a great multitude followed him.

30 ¶ And, behold, two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jē'sus passed by, cried out, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of Dā'vid.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, because they should hold their peace: but they cried the more, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of Dā'vid.

32 And Jē'sus stood still, and called them, and said, What will ye that I shall do unto you?

33 They say unto him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 So Jē'sus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes: and immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him.

CHAPTER 21.

1 Christ rideth into Jerusalem upon an ass: 12 driveth the buyers and sellers out of the temple: 18 curseth the fig tree. 23 Parable of the two sons: 33 of the husbandmen.

AND ^a when they drew nigh unto Jē-ry'sā-lēm, and were come to Bēth'pha-gē, unto ^b the mount of Ol'ives, then sent Jē'sus two disciples,

2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The ^c Lord hath need ^d of them; and straightway he will send them.

4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, ^e saying,

5 Tell ye the daughter of Sī'ōn, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.

6 And ^f the disciples went, and did as Jē'sus commanded them,

7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and put ^g on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.

8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others ^h cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, ⁱ Hō-sān'nā to the son of Dā'vid: ^j Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hō-sān'nā in the highest.

10 And ^k when he was come into Jē-ru'sā-lēm, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?

11 And the multitude said, This is Jē'sus the ^l prophet of Nāz'a-rēth of Gāl'ī-lee.

12 ¶ And ^m Jē'sus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the ⁿ moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves, 13 And said unto them, It is written, ^o My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ^p ye have made it a den of thieves.

14 And ^q the blind and the lame came to him in the temple; and he healed them.

15 And when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying, Hō-sān-nā to ^r the son of Dā'vid; they were sore displeased,

16 And said unto him, Hearest thou what these say? And Jē'sus saith unto them, Yea; have ye never read, ^s Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?

17 ¶ And he left them, and went out of the city into ^t Bēth'ā-n'y; and he lodged there.

18 Now in the morning as he returned into the city, he hungered.

19 And when he saw ^u a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And presently the fig tree withered away.

20 And when the disciples saw ^v it, they marvelled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered away!

21 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, ^w If ye have faith, and ^x doubt not, ye shall not only do this which is done to the fig tree, ^y but also if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done.

22 And ^z all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive,

23 ¶ And ^{aa} when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and said, ^{ab} By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 And ^{ac} Jē'sus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in like wise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?

26 But if we shall say, Of men; we fear the people; ^b for all hold Jōhn as a prophet.

27 And they answered Jē'sus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

28 ¶ But what think ye? A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard.

29 He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he repented, and went.

30 And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of his father? They say unto him, The first. Jē'sus saith unto them, ^c Verily I say unto you, That the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For ^d Jōhn came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: but ^e the publicans and the harlots believed him: and ye, when ye had seen it, repented not afterward, that ye might believe him.

33 ¶ Hear another parable: ^f There was a certain householder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, ^g and went into a far country:

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, ^h that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And ⁱ the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again, he sent other servants more than the first: and they did unto them likewise.

37 But last of all ^j he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, ^k This is the heir; ^l come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance.

39 And ^m they caught him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?

41 They ⁿ say unto him, ^o He will miserably destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall render him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Jē'sus saith unto them, ^a Did ye never read in the scriptures, The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lord's doing, and it is ^a marvellous in our eyes?

43 Therefore say I unto you, ^a The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 And whosoever ^a shall fall on this stone shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, ^a it will grind him to powder.

45 And when the chief priests and Phārīsees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them.

46 But when they sought to lay hands on him, they feared the multitude, because they ^a took him for a prophet.

CHAPTER 22.

1 The marriage of the king's son. 21 Tribute to be paid to Cæsar. 23 Christ silenceth the Sadducees.

AND Jē'sus answered ^a and spake unto them again by parables, and said,

2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son,

3 And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come.

4 Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: ^a my oxen and ^a my fatlings ^a are killed, and all things ^a are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they ^a made light of ^a it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise:

6 And ^a the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

7 But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth ^a his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city.

8 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were ^a not worthy.

9 Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.

10 So those servants went out into the highways, and ^a gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 ¶ And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man

^h which had not on a wedding garment:

12 And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment? And he ^a was speechless.

13 Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast ^a him ^a into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 For ^a many are called, but few ^a are chosen.

15 ¶ Then ^a went the Phārīsees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Hē-rō'dī-ans, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cæ'sar, or not?

18 But Jē'sus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a ^a penny.

20 And he saith unto them, Whose ^a is this image and ^a superscription?

21 They say unto him, Cæ'sar's. Then saith he unto them, ^a Render therefore unto Cæ'sar the things which are Cæ'sar's; and unto God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard these words, they ^a marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ The ^a same day came to him the Sād'du-cess, ^a which say that there is no resurrection, and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, ^a Mō'ses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first, when he had married a wife, deceased, and, having no issue, left his wife unto his brother:

26 Likewise the second also, and the third, unto the ^a seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.

29 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, Ye do err, ^a not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but ^a are as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God, saying,

32 I ^e am the God of Ābrā-hām, and the God of Īśaac, and the God of Jā'cob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitude heard this, they ^w were astonished at his doctrine.

34 ¶ But when the Phārī-sees had heard that he had put the Sād'ducees to silence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was ^v a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying,

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jē'sus said unto him, ^wThou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and great commandment.

39 And the second is like unto it, ^xThou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

40 On ^ythese two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

41 ¶ While ^zthe Phārī-sees were gathered together, Jē'sus asked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The son of Dā'vid.

43 He saith unto them, How then doth Dā'vid ^ain spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 The ^bLORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

45 If Dā'vid then call him Lord, how is he his son?

46 And ^cno man was able to answer him a word, neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

CHAPTER 23.

Of the scribes and Pharisees' good doctrine, but evil examples of life.

THEN spake Jē'sus to the multitude, and to his disciples,
2 Saying, ^aThe scribes and the Phārī-sees sit in Mō'ses' seat:

3 All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for ^bthey say, and do not.

4 For ^cthey bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 But ^dall their works they do for to be seen of men: ^ethey make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

6 And ^slove the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rāb'bi, Rāb'bi.

8 But ^tbe not ye called Rāb'bi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren.

9 And call no man your father upon the earth: ^ufor one is your Father, which is in heaven.

10 Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, even Christ.

11 But ^vhe that is greatest among you shall be your servant.

12 And ^wwhosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

13 ¶ But ^xwoe unto you, scribes and Phārī-sees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in.

14 Woe unto you, scribes and Phārī-sees, hypocrites! ^yfor ye devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.

15 Woe unto you, scribes and Phārī-sees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves.

16 Woe unto you, ^z*ye* blind guides, which say, ^aWhosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor!

17 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, ^bor the temple that sanctifieth the gold?

18 And, Whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever sweareth by the gift that is upon it, he is ^cguilty.

19 Ye fools and blind: for whether ^dis greater, the gift, or ^ethe altar that sanctifieth the gift?

20 Whoso therefore shall swear by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 And whoso shall swear by the temple, sweareth by it, and ^fby him that dwelleth therein.

22 And he that shall swear by heaven, sweareth by ^gthe throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 Woe unto you, scribes and Phārī-sees, hypocrites! ^hfor ye pay tithe of mint and ⁱanise and cummin, and

^a have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

24 Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.

25 Woe unto you, scribes and Phār'-ī-sees, hypocrites! ^u for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess.

26 Thou blind Phār'-ī-see, cleanse first that which ^v is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also.

27 Woe unto you, scribes and Phār'-ī-sees, hypocrites! ^w for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.

28 Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 Woe unto you, scribes and Phār'-ī-sees, hypocrites! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous,

30 And say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.

31 Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ^x ye are the children of them which killed the prophets.

32 Fill ^y ye up then the measure of your fathers.

33 Ye serpents, ye ^z generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?

34 ¶ Wherefore, ^a behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and ^b some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and ^c some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city:

35 That ^d upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, ^e from the blood of righteous A'bel unto the blood of Zāch-a-ri'as son of Bār-a-chi'as, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar.

36 Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation.

37 O Jē-ri/sā-lēm, Jē-ri/sā-lēm, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I ^f have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!

38 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate.

39 For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say,

CHAPTER 24.

Destruction of the temple foretold.

AND ^a Jē'sus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildings of the temple.

2 And Jē'sus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, ^b There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 ¶ And as he sat upon the mount of Ol'ives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, ^c Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?

4 And Jē'sus answered and said unto them, ^d Take heed that no man deceive you.

5 For ^e many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

6 And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For ^f nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.

8 All these are the beginning of sorrows.

9 Then ^g shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake.

10 And then shall many ^h be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

11 And ⁱ many false prophets shall rise, and ^j shall deceive many.

12 And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.

13 But ^k he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 And this gospel of the kingdom ^l shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

15 When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by ^m Dān'iel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (ⁿ whoso readeth, let him understand:)

16 Then let them which be in Jū-dæ'a flee into the mountains:

17 Let him which is on the house top not come down to take any thing out of his house:

18 Neither let him which is in the field return back to take his clothes.

19 And woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

20 But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day:

21 For ^o then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be.

22 And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: ^p but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

23 Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

24 For ^q there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; inasmuch that, ^r if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

27 For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 For ^s wheresoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

29 ¶ Immediately ^t after the tribulation of those days ^u shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

30 And ^v then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and ^w then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, ^x and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 And ^y he shall send his angels ^z with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

32 Now learn ^a a parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh:

33 So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that ^b it is near, even at the doors.

34 Verily I say unto you, ^c This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled.

35 Heaven ^d and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 ¶ But ^e of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, ^f but my Father only.

37 But as the days of Nō'e were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 For ^e as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Nō'e entered into the ark,

39 And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

42 ¶ Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

43 But ^f know this, that if the goodman of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

44 Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 ^g Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in due season?

46 ^h Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, That he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming;

49 And shall begin to smite his fellow-servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken;

50 The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of.

51 And shall ⁱ cut him asunder, and appoint him ^j his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAPTER 25.

1 The parable of the ten virgins; 14 of the talents, and the reward to those who improved them. 31 Of the last judgment.

THEN shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the ^a bridegroom.

2 And ^b five of them were wise, and five were foolish.

3 They that were foolish took their lamps, and took ^c no oil with them: 4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 While the bridegroom tarried, they ^d all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight ^ethere was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and ^ftrimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are ¹gone out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the ^gdoor was shut.

11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, ^hLord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, ⁱI know you not.

13 ^jWatch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh.

14 ¶ For ^kthe kingdom of heaven is as ^la man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods.

15 And unto one he gave five ²talents, to another two, and to another one; ^mto every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

16 Then he that had received the five talents went and ⁿtraded with the same, and made them other five talents.

17 And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid ^ohis lord's money.

19 After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

20 And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more.

21 His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, ^pI will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into ^qthe joy of thy lord.

22 He also that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them.

23 His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

30 And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ When ^sthe Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:

32 And ^tbefore him shall be gathered all nations; and ^uhe shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, ^vinherit the kingdom ^wprepared for you from the foundation of the world:

35 For ^xI was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: ^yI was a stranger, and ye took me in:

36 ^zNaked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: ^aI was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?

38 When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, ^bInasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

41 Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, ^c Depart from me, ye cursed, into ^d everlasting fire, prepared for ^e the devil and his angels:

42 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, ^f Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

46 And ^g these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into ^h life eternal.

CHAPTER 26.

3 The rulers conspire against Christ: 14 Judas sell-eth him. 17 Christ eateth the passover.

AND it came to pass, when Jē'sus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 ^a Ye know that after two days is the feast of the passover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.

3 Then ^b assembled together the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high priest, who was called Cā'ja-phās,

4 And consulted that they might take Jē'sus by subtilty, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar among the people.

6 ¶ Now ^c when Jē'sus was ^d in Bēth'ā-n'y, in the house of Si'mon the leper,

7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his head, as he sat at meat.

8 But ^e when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 When Jē'sus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 For ^f ye have the poor always with you; but ^g me ye have not always.

12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it for my burial.

13 Verily I say unto you, ^h Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

14 ¶ Then one of the twelve, called ^j Jū'das Is-cār'iot, went unto the chief priests,

15 And said unto them, ^k What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶ Now ^l the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jē'sus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover?

18 And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jē'sus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover.

20 Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?

23 And he answered and said, He ^m that dipperth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me.

24 The Son of man goeth ⁿ as it is written of him: but ^o woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born.

25 Then Jū'das, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said.

26 ¶ And as they were eating, ^p Jē'sus took bread, and ^q blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; ^r this is my body.

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;

28 For ^s this is my blood ^t of the new testament, which is shed ^u for many for the remission of sins.

29 But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, ^v until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And ^w when they had sung an ^x hymn, they went out into the mount of Ol'ives.

31 Then saith Jē'sus unto them, ^y All ye shall ^z be offended because of me this night: for it is written, ^a I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.

32 But after I am risen again, ^z I will go before you into Gal'lee.

33 Pē'tēr answered and said unto him, Though all men shall be offended because of thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 Jē'sus said unto him, ^a Verily I say unto thee, That this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

35 Pē'tēr said unto him, Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

36 ¶ Then ^b cometh Jē'sus with them unto a place called Gēth-sēm'a-nē, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he took with him Pē'tēr and ^c the two sons of Zēb'e-dee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.

38 Then saith he unto them, ^d My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and ^e watch with me.

39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and ^f prayed, saying, ^g O my Father, if it be possible, ^h let this cup pass from me: nevertheless ⁱ not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Pē'tēr, What, could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 ^j Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.

42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

46 Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

47 ¶ And ^k while he yet spake, lo, Jū'das, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he: hold him fast.

49 And forthwith he came to Jē'sus, and said, Hail, master; ¹ and kissed him.

50 And Jē'sus said unto him, ³ Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jē'sus, and took him.

51 And, behold, ^m one of them which were with Jē'sus stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest's, and smote off his ear.

52 Then said Jē'sus unto him, ⁿ Put up again thy sword into his place: ^o for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.

53 Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me ^p more than twelve legions of angels?

54 But how then shall ^r the scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be?

55 In that same hour said Jē'sus to the multitudes, Are ye come out as against a thief with swords and staves for to take me? I sat daily with you teaching in the temple, and ye laid no hold on me.

56 But all this was done, that the ^r scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then ^s all the disciples forsook him, and fled.

57 ¶ And ^t they that had laid hold on Jē'sus led him away to Cā'ja-phās the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 But Pē'tēr followed him afar off unto the high priest's palace, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

59 Now the chief priests, and elders, and all the council, sought false witness against Jē'sus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, though ^u many false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came ^v two false witnesses,

61 And said, This fellow said, ^w I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

62 And the high priest arose, and said unto him, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

63 But ^x Jē'sus held his peace. And the high priest answered and said unto him, ^y I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God.

64 Jē'sus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, ^z Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man ^a sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

65 Then the high priest ^b rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy.

66 What think ye? They answered and said, ^c He is guilty of death.

67 Then ^d did they spit in his face, and buffeted him; and ^e others smote him with ^f the palms of their hands,

68 Saying, ^g Prophecy unto us, thou Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ Now Pē'tēr sat without in the palace: and a damsel came unto him, saying, Thou also wast with Jē'sus of Galī-lee.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest.

71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This fellow was also with Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said to Pē'tēr, Surely thou also art one of them; for thy speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curse and to swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 And Pē'tēr remembered the word of Jē'sus, which said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and ^h wept bitterly.

WHEN the morning was come, all ^a the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jē'sus to put him to death:

2 And when they had bound him, they led him away, and ^b delivered him to Pōn'ti-us Pī'lāte the governor.

3 ¶ Then ^c Jū'das, which had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders,

4 Saying, I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that.

5 And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, ^d and departed, and went and hanged himself.

6 And the chief priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in.

8 Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood, unto this day.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jēr'e-m'y the prophet, saying, ^a And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was valued, ^b whom they of the children of Is'ra-el did value;

10 And gave them for the potter's field, and the Lord appointed me.

11 And Jē'sus stood before the governor: and ^c the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jē'sus said unto him, ^d Thou sayest.

12 And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, ^e he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pī'lāte unto him, ^f Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee?

14 And he answered him to never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 Now ^g at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Bā-rāb'bas.

17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pī'lāte said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Bā-rāb'bas, or Jē'sus which is called Christ?

18 For he knew that for ^h envy they had delivered him.

19 ¶ When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in ⁱ a dream because of him.

20 But ^j the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Bā-rāb'bas, and destroy Jē'sus.

21 The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Bā-rāb'bas.

22 Pī'lāte saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jē'sus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified.

23 And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 ¶ When Pī'lāte saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, ^k he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, ^l His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 ¶ Then released he Bā-rāb/bas unto them; and when ^phe had scourged Jē'sus, he delivered him to be crucified.

27 Then the soldiers of the governor took Jē'sus into the ²common hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of soldiers.

28 And they stripped him, and ^qput on him a scarlet robe.

29 ¶ And ^rwhen they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews!

30 And ^sthey spit upon him, and took the reed, and ^tsmote him on the head.

31 And after that they had mocked him, they took the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him.

32 And ^uas they came out, ^vthey found a man of Cŷ-rē'nē, Si'mon by name: him they compelled to bear his cross.

33 And when they were come unto a place called Gōl'gō-thā, that is to say, a place of a skull, 34 ¶ They ^wgave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink.

35 And they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, ^xThey parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots.

36 And sitting down they watched him there;

37 And set up over his head his accusation written, THIS IS JĒ'SUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 Then ^ythere were there two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 ¶ And ^zthey that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And saying, ^aThou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. If thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41 Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said, 42 He saved others: himself he cannot save. If he be the King of Īs'ra-ēl, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him.

43 He ^btrusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God.

44 The ^cthieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth.

45 Now ^efrom the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour Jē'sus ^fcried with a loud voice, saying, Ē'lī, Ē'lī, lā'mā sā-bach-thā'nī? that is to say, ^gMy God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 Some of them that stood there, when they heard ^hthat, said, This man calleth for Ē-lī'as.

48 And straightway one of them ran, and took a sponge, ⁱand filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Ē-lī'as will come to save him.

50 ¶ Jē'sus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost.

51 And, behold, ^jthe veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and ^kthe earth did quake, and the rocks rent;

52 And the graves were opened; and ^lmany bodies of the saints which slept arose,

53 And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 Now ^mwhen the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jē'sus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there beholding afar off, ⁿwhich followed Jē'sus from Gāl'ī-lee, ministering unto him:

56 Among ^owhich was Mā'rŷ Māg-da-lē'nē, and Mā'rŷ the mother of James and Jō'sēs, and the mother of Zēb'e-dee's children.

57 When ^pthe even was come, there came a rich man of Ār-ī-mā-thē'a, named Jō'seph, who also himself was Jē'sus' disciple:

58 He went to Pī'lāte, and begged the body of Jē'sus. Then Pī'lāte commanded the body to be delivered.

59 And when Jō'seph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, 60 And ^qlaid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mā'rŷ Māg-da-lē'nē, and the other Mā'rŷ, sitting over against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day, that followed the day of the preparation, the chief priests and Phār'ī-sees came together unto Pī'lāte, 63 Saying, Sir, we remember that that ^adeceiver said, while he was yet alive, ^aAfter three days I will rise again.

64 Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first.

65 Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as sure as ye can.

66 So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, ^asealing the stone, and setting a watch.

CHAPTER 28.

1 Christ's resurrection declared: 9 he appeareth to the women, 16 and to his disciples, 18 and cometh them to teach and baptize.

IN the ^aend of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mā'rŷ Māg-dā-lē'nē ^band the other Mā'rŷ to see the sepulchre.

2 And, behold, there ¹was a great earthquake: for ^cthe angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

3 His ^dcountenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

4 And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

5 And the angel answered and said unto the women, ^eFear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jē'sus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here: for he is risen, as ^fhe said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: and, behold, he ^ggoeth before you into Gāl'i-lee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

10 Then said Jē'sus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell ^bmy brethren that they go into Gāl'i-lee, and there shall they see me.

11 ¶ Now when they were going, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the chief priests all the things that were done.

12 And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large money unto the soldiers, 13 Saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept.

14 And if this come to the governor's ears, we will persuade him, and secure you.

15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day.

16 ¶ Then the eleven disciples went away into Gāl'i-lee, into a mountain ^cwhere Jē'sus had appointed them.

17 And when they saw him, they worshipped him: but some doubted.

4 Jōhn did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance ¹for the remission of sins.

5 And there went out unto him all the land of Jū-dæ'a, and they of Jē-rŷ'sā-lēm, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jōr'dān, confessing their sins.

6 And Jōhn was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat ^alocusts and wild honey;

7 And preached, saying, ^cThere cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

8 I ^findeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you ^gwith the Hō'ly Ghōst.

9 And ^hit came to pass in those days, that Jē'sus came from Nāz'a-rēth of Gāl'i-lee, and was baptized of Jōhn in Jōr'dan.

10 And ⁱstraightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens ^jopened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him:

11 And there came a voice from heaven, saying, ^kThou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

12 And ^limmediately the spirit driveth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Sā'tan; and was with the wild beasts; ^mand the angels ministered unto him.

14 Now after that Jōhn was put in prison, Jē'sus came into Gāl'i-lee, ⁿpreaching the gospel of the kingdom of God,

15 And saying, ^oThe time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel.

16 Now ^pas he walked by the sea of Gāl'i-lee, he saw Sī'mon and Ān'drew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

17 And Jē'sus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.

18 And straightway ^qthey forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 And ^rwhen he had gone a little farther thence, he saw Jāmes the son of Zēb'e-dee, and Jōhn his brother, who also were in the ship mending their nets.

20 And straightway he called them: and they left their father Zēb'e-dee in the ship with the hired servants, and went after him.

21 And ^sthey went into Cā-pēr'-nā-ūm; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue, and taught.

22 And ^tthey were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the scribes.

23 And ^uthere was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit; and he cried out,

24 Saying, Let us alone; ^vwhat have we to do with thee, thou Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, the ^wHoly One of God.

27 And they were all amazed, inso-much that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine ^{is} this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him.

28 And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region round about Gāl'i-lee.

29 And ^xforthwith, when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Sī'mon and Ān'drew, with Jāmes and Jōhn.

30 But Sī'mon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her.

33 And all the city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils; and ^bsuffered not the devils ³to speak, because they knew him.

35 And ^cin the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and ^dthere prayed.

36 And Sī'mon and they that were with him followed after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee.

38 And he said unto them, ^eLet us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also: for ^ftherefore came I forth.

39 And ^ghe preached in their synagogues throughout all Gāl'i-lee, and ^hcast out devils.

40 And ⁱthere came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, If thou wilt, thou canst ^jmake me clean.

41 And Jē'sus, ^kmoved with compassion, put forth ^{his} hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, I will; be thou clean.

42 And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed.

43 And he straitly charged him, and forthwith sent him away;

44 And saith unto him, See thou say nothing to any man: but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things ^k which Mō'ses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

45 But ^lhe went out, and began to publish ⁱit much, and to blaze abroad the matter, insomuch that Jē'sus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in desert places: ^mand they came to him from every quarter.

CHAPTER 2.

1 Christ followed by multitudes: 18 excuseth his disciples for not fasting, etc.

AND again ^ahe entered into Cā-pēr'na-ūm after some days; and it was noised that he was in the house.

2 And straightway many were gathered together, insomuch that there was no room to receive them, no, not so much as about the door: and he ^bpreached the word unto them.

3 And they come unto him, bringing one sick of the palsy, which was borne of four.

4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the press, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed wherein the sick of the palsy lay.

5 When Jē'sus ^csaw their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, ^d"Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

6 But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? ^ewho can forgive sins but God only?

8 And immediately ^fwhen Jē'sus perceived in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether ^git is easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?

16 And when ^mthe scribes and Phār'i-sees saw him eat with publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?

17 When Jē'sus heard it, he saith unto them, ⁿThey that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

18 And ^othe disciples of Jōhn and of the Phār'i-sees used to fast: and they come and say unto him, Why do the disciples of Jōhn and of the Phār'i-sees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jē'sus said unto them, Can the children of ^pthe bridechamber fast, while the ^qbridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

21 No man also seweth a piece of ²new cloth on an old garment: else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse.

22 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles: else the new wine doth burst the bottles, and the wine is spilled, and the bottles will be marred: but new wine must be put into new bottles.

23 And ^rit came to pass, that he went through the corn fields on the sabbath day; and his disciples began, as they went, ^sto pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Phār'i-sees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?

25 And he said unto them, Have ye never read ^twhat Dā'vid did, when he had need, and was an hungry, he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God in the days of Ā-bi'a-thār the high priest, and did eat the shew-bread, ^uwhich is not lawful to eat but for the priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

27 And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath:
28 Therefore ^vthe Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

CHAPTER 3.

¹ Christ healeth the withered hand: ¹³ he chooseth twelve apostles.

AND ^ahe entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there which had a withered hand.
2 And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him.
3 And he saith unto the man which had the withered hand, ¹Stand forth.
4 And he saith unto them, Is it lawful to do good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill? But they held their peace.
5 And when he had looked round about on them with ^banger, being grieved for the ²hardness of their hearts, he saith unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored whole as the other.
6 And ^cthe Phar'isees went forth, and straightway took counsel with ^dthe Hē-rō'di-ans against him, how they might destroy him.
7 But Jē'sus withdrew himself with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude from Gāl'i-lee followed him, ^eand from Jū-dē-ā,
8 And from Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and from i-dy-mē-ā, and from beyond Jōr-dān; and they about Tyre and Si'dōn, a great multitude, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him.
9 And he spake to his disciples, that a small ship should wait on him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.
10 For he had healed many; insomuch that they ³pressed upon him for to touch him, as many as had plagues.
11 And ^funclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him, and cried, saying, ^gThou art the Son of God.
12 And ^hhe straitly charged them that they should not make him known.
13 And ⁱhe goeth up into a mountain, and calleth unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.

22 ¶ And the scribes which came down from Jē-ru'sā-lēm said, ⁷He hath Bē-ēl'ze-būb, and by the prince of the devils casteth he out devils.

30 Because they said, He hath an unclean spirit.

35 For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

CHAPTER 4.

A. D. 31.

1 The parable of the sower: 14 the meaning thereof.
 26 Of the seed growing secretly, etc.

AND ^ahe began again to teach by the sea side: and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea on the land.

2 And he taught them many things by parables, ^band said unto them in his doctrine,

3 Harken; Behold, there went out a sower to sow:

4 And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up.

5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth:

6 But when the sun was up, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit.

8 And other fell on good ground, and ^cdid yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred.

9 And he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve ^dasked of him the parable.

11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the ^emystery of the kingdom of God: but unto ^fthem that are without, all ^{these} things are done in parables:

12 That ^gseeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and ^{their} sins should be forgiven them.

13 And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables?

14 ¶ The ^hsower soweth the word.

15 And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, ⁱSā'tan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

16 And these are they likewise which are sown on stony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness;

17 And have ^jno root in themselves, and so endure but for a time: afterward, when affliction or persecution ariseth for the word's sake, immediately they are offended.

18 And these are they which are sown among thorns; such as hear the word,

19 And the cares of this world, and ^kthe deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

20 And these are they which are sown on good ^lground; such as hear the word, and receive ^{it}, and bring forth fruit, some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some an hundred.

21 ¶ And ^mhe said unto them, Is a candle brought to be put under ¹a bushel, or under a bed? and not to be set on a candlestick?

22 For ⁿthere is nothing hid, which shall not be manifested; neither was any thing kept secret, but that it should come abroad.

23 If ^oany man have ears to hear, let him hear.

24 And he said unto them, ^pTake heed what ye hear: ^qwith what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you: and unto you that hear shall more be given.

25 For ^rhe that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath.

26 ¶ And he said, ^sSo is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the ground;

27 And should sleep, and rise night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how.

28 For the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself; first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear.

29 But when the fruit is ²brought forth, immediately ^the putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.

30 ¶ And he said, ^uWhereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 ^{It} is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

32 But when it is sown, it ^vgroweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.

33 And ^wwith many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear ^{it}.

34 But without a parable spake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his disciples.

35 And ^athe same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

36 And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37 And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose, and ^arebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

40 And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they ^afeared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?

1 Christ casteth out the legion of devils: 21 Jairus's suit for his daughter: 25 the bloody issue healed.

AND ^athey came over unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Găd'a-rêneș.

2 And when he was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit,

3 Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4 Because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces: neither could any man tame him.

5 And always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying, and cutting himself with stones.

6 But when he saw Jē'sus afar off, he ran and ^bworshipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jē'sus, thou Son of the most high God? I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not.

8 For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.

9 And he asked him, What is thy name? And he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are many.

10 And he besought him much that he would not send them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there nigh unto the mountains a great herd of ^cswine feeding.

12 And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.

13 And forthwith Jē'sus ^dgave them leave. And the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, (they were about two thousand;) and were choked in the sea.

14 And they that fed the swine fled, and told it in the city, and in the country. And they went out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they come to Jē'sus, and see him that was possessed with the devil, and had the legion, sitting, and clothed, and ^ein his right mind: and they were afraid.

16 And they that saw it told them how it befell to him that was possessed with the devil, and also concerning the swine.

17 And ^fthey began to pray him to depart out of their coasts.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he ^gthat had been possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit Jē'sus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

20 And he departed, and ^hbegan to publish in Dē-căp'ô-lis how great things Jē'sus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

21 And ⁱwhen Jē'sus was passed over again by ship unto the other side, much people gathered unto him: and he was nigh unto the sea.

22 And, ^jbehold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jă-îr'us by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet,

23 And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live.

24 And Jē'sus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

25 And a certain woman, which ^khad an issue of blood twelve years,

26 And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and ^lwas nothing bettered, but rather grew worse,

27 When she had heard of Jē'sus, came in the press behind, ^mand touched his garment.

28 For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole.

29 And ⁿstraightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she was healed of that plague.

30 And Jē'sus, immediately knowing in himself that ^o virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes?

31 And his disciples said unto him, Thou seest the multitude thronging thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

32 And he looked round about to see her that had done this thing.

33 But the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

34 And he said unto her, Daughter, ^p thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

35 While ^r he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?

36 As soon as Jē'sus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be ^r not afraid, only believe.

37 And he suffered no man to follow him, save Pē'tēr, and Jāmes, and Jōhn the brother of Jāmes.

38 And he cometh to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seeth the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And when he was come in, he saith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but ^s sleepeth.

40 And they laughed him to scorn. But ^t when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying.

41 And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, Tāl'thā cū'mi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, arise.

42 And ^u straightway the damsel arose, and walked; for she was of the age of twelve years. And they were astonished with a great astonishment.

43 And ^v he charged them straitly that no man should know it; and commanded that something should be given her to eat.

3 Is ^c not this the carpenter, the son of Mā'r'y, ^d the brother of Jāmes, and Jō'sēs, and of Jū'dā, and Si'r-mon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they ^e were offended at him.

4 But Jē'sus said unto them, ^f A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house.

5 And ^g he could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them.

6 And ^h he marvelled because of their unbelief. ⁱ And he went round about the villages, teaching.

7 ¶ And ^j he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean spirits;

8 And commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no ^k money in their purse:

9 But ^l he shod with sandals; and not put on two coats.

12 And they went out, and preached that men should repent.

13 And they cast out many devils, ^r and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them.

14 And ^s king Hēr'od heard of him: (for his name was spread abroad:) and he said, That Jōhn the Bāp'tist was risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do shew forth themselves in him.

15 Others ^t said, That it is E-l'ās. And others said, That it is a prophet, or as one of the prophets.

16 But ^u when Hēr'od heard thereof, he said, It is Jōhn, whom I beheaded: he is risen from the dead.

17 For Hēr'od himself had sent forth and laid hold upon Jōhn, and bound him in prison for Hēr'ō'di-as' sake, his brother Phīl'ip's wife: for he had married her.

18 For Jōhn had said unto Hēr'od, It ^{is} not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife.

19 Therefore Hērō'dī-as had ^a a quarrel against him, and would have killed him; but she could not:

20 For Hēr'od ^w feared Jōhn, knowing that he was a just man and an holy, and ^a observed him; and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

21 And ^w when a convenient day was come, that Hēr'od ^w on his birthday made a supper to his lords, high captains, and chief estates of Galī-lee;

22 And when the daughter of the said Hērō'dī-as came in, ^{and} danced, and pleased Hēr'od and them that sat with him, the king said unto the damsel, Ask of me whatsoever thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he sware unto her, Whatsoever ^{thou} shalt ask of me, I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom.

24 And she went forth, and said unto her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, ^{and} The head of Jōhn the Bāp'tist.

25 And she came in straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I will that thou give me by and by in a charger the head of Jōhn the Bāp'tist.

26 And the king was exceeding sorry; yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat with him, he would not reject her.

27 And immediately the king sent ^{an} an executioner, and commanded his head to be brought: and he went and beheaded him in the prison,

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother.

29 And when his disciples heard of it, they came and ^{took} up his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

30 And ^{the} the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jē'sus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And ^{he} he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while: for there ^{were} were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32 And they departed into a desert place by ship privately.

34 And Jē'sus, when he came out, saw much people, and ^w was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and ^{he} he began to teach them many things.

35 And ^{when} when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed:

36 Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, ^{shall} Shall we go and buy two hundred ^{penny} pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, ^{five} Five, and two fishes.

39 And he commanded them to make all sit down ^{by} by companies upon the green grass.

40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and ^{blessed} blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42 And they did all eat, and were filled.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that did eat of the loaves were about five thousand men.

45 ^{and} And straightway he constrained his disciples to get into the ship, and to go to the other side before ^{unto} unto Bēth-sā'ī-dā, while he sent away the people.

46 And when he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

47 ^{and} And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them toiling in rowing; for the wind was contrary unto them: and about the fourth watch of the night he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, and ^{would} would have passed by them.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out:

50 For they all saw him, and were troubled. And immediately he talked with them, and saith unto them, Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

51 And he went up unto them into the ship; and the wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered.

52 For ^othey considered not the miracle of the loaves: for ^ptheir heart was hardened.

53 ^rAnd when they had passed over, they came into the land of Ġēn-nēs-ā-rēt, and drew to the shore.

54 And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

55 And ran through that whole region round about, and began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered, into villages, or cities, or country, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that ^rthey might touch if it were but the border of his garment: and as many as touched ^shim were made whole.

CHAPTER 7.

1 The Pharisees find fault with the disciples for eating with unwashen hands. 8 They break the commandment of God by the traditions of men. 14 Meat defileth not a man. 24 Christ healeth the Syrochenaean woman's daughter. 31 and one that was deaf, and stammered in his speech.

3 For the Phārī-sees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands ²oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not. And many other things there be, which they have received to hold, as the washing of cups, and ³pots, brasen vessels, and of ⁴tables.

5 ^bThen the Phārī-sees and scribes asked him, Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashen hands?

6 He answered and said unto them, Well hath Ē-ṣā'as prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written, ^cThis people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

ye ^{5a}reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition.

10 For Mō'ses said, 'Honour thy father and thy mother; and, ^rWho-so curseth father or mother, let him die the death:

11 But ye say, If a man shall say to his father or mother, It is ^vCorban, that is to say, a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; he shall be free.

12 And ye suffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother;

13 Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition, which ye have delivered: and many such like things do ye.

14 ¶ And when he had called all the people unto him, he said unto them, Hearken unto me every one of you, and understand:

15 ^aThere is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man.

16 ^bIf any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 ^cAnd when he was entered into the house from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.

18 And he saith unto them, Are ye so without understanding also? Do ye not perceive, that whatsoever thing from without entereth into the man, it cannot defile him;

19 Because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all meats?

20 And he said, That which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man.

21 ^dFor from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 Thefts, ^ecovetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness:

23 All these evil things come from within, and defile the man.

24 ¶ ^fAnd from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sī'dōn, and entered into an house, and would have no man know it: but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whose young daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came and fell at his feet:

26 The woman was a ^gGreek, a Sŷ-rō-phē-nī'cian by nation; and she besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter.

27 But Ġē'sus said unto her, ^mLet the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it unto the dogs.

28 And she answered and said unto him, Yes, Lord: yet the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs.

29 And he said unto her, For this saying go thy way; the devil is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when she was come to her house, she found ^athe devil gone out, and her daughter laid upon the bed.

31 ¶ ^a And again, departing from the coasts of Týre and Sí'dón, he came unto the sea of Galí-lee, through the midst of the coasts of Dē-cáp'ó-lis.

32 And ^pthey bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him.

33 And he took him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers into his ears, and ^ahe spit, and touched his tongue;

34 And ^rlooking up to heaven, ^ahe sighed, and saith unto him, Ēph'phā-tha, that is, Be opened.

35 ^e And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain.

36 And ^ahe charged them that they should tell no man: but the more he charged them, so much the more a great deal they published it;

37 And were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

CHAPTER 8.

1 Christ feedeth the people miraculously: 22 giveth a blind man his sight: 27 acknowledgeth that he is Christ who should suffer and rise again.

IN those days ^athe multitude being very great, and having nothing to eat, Jē'sus called his disciples unto him, and saith unto them,

2 I have ^bcompassion on the multitude, because they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat:

3 And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far.

4 And his disciples answered him, From whence ^ccan a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness?

5 ^a And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven.

6 And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and ^egave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set before them; and they did set them before the people.

7 And they had a few small fishes: and ^rhe blessed, and commanded to set them also before them.

8 So they did eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets.

9 And they that had eaten were about four thousand: and he sent them away.

10 ¶ And ^sstraightway he entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parts of Dāl-mā-nū'-thā.

11 ^h And the Phār'ī-sees came forth, and began to question with him, seeking of him a sign from heaven, tempting him.

12 And he sighed deeply in his spirit, and saith, Why doth this generation seek after a sign? verily I say unto you, There shall no sign be given unto this generation.

13 And he left them, and entering into the ship again departed to the other side.

14 ¶ ⁱ Now the disciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them more than one loaf.

15 ^j And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Phār'ī-sees, and of the leaven of Hēr'od.

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is ^kbecause we have no bread.

17 And when Jē'sus knew it, he saith unto them, Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? ⁱperceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember?

19 ^m When I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve.

20 And ⁿwhen the seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? And they said, Seven.

21 And he said unto them, How is it that ^oye do not understand?

22 ¶ And he cometh to Bēth-sā'ī-dā; and they bring a blind man unto him, and besought him to touch him.

23 And he took the blind man by the hand, and led him out of the town; and when ^phe had spit on his eyes, and put his hands upon him, he asked him if he saw ought.

24 And he looked up, and said, I see men as trees, walking.

25 After that he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look up: and he was restored, and saw every man clearly.

26 And he sent him away to his house, saying, Neither go into the town, nor tell it to any in the town.

27 ¶ And Jē'sus went out, and his disciples, into the towns of Cēs-ā-rē'a Phī-lip'pī: and by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am?

28 And they answered, * Jōhn the Bāp'tist: but some say, Ē-lī'as; and others, One of the prophets.

29 And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Pē-tēr answereth and saith unto him, * Thou art the Christ.

30 And * he charged them that they should tell no man of him.

31 And * he began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

32 And he spake that saying openly. And Pē-tēr took him, and began to rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about and looked on his disciples, he rebuked Pē-tēr, saying, Get thee behind me, Sā'tan: * for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

34 ¶ And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, * Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

35 For * whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.

36 For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

37 Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

38 * Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.

2 ¶ And after six days Jē'sus taketh with him Pē-tēr, and Jāmes, and Jōhn, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment became shining, exceeding ^a white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them.

4 And there appeared unto them Ē-lī'as with Mō'ses: and they were talking with Jē'sus.

5 And Pē-tēr answered and said to Jē'sus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Mō'ses, and one for Ē-lī'as.

6 For he wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid.

7 And there was ^c a cloud that overshadowed them: and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son: ^d hear him.

8 And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jē'sus only with themselves.

9 ^e And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen, till the Son of man were risen from the dead.

10 And they kept that saying with themselves, questioning one with another what the rising from the dead should mean.

11 ¶ And they asked him, saying, Why say the scribes ^f that Ē-lī'as must first come?

12 And he answered and told them, Ē-lī'as verily cometh first, and restoreth all things; and ^g how it is written of the Son of man, that he must suffer many things, and ^h be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, That ⁱ Ē-lī'as is indeed come, and they have done unto him whatsoever they listed, as it is written of him.

14 ¶ And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the scribes questioning with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and running to him saluted him.

16 And he asked the scribes, What question ye ^j with them?

17 And ^k one of the multitude answered and said, Master, I have brought unto thee my son, which hath a dumb spirit;

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he ^l teareth him: and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out; and they could not.

19 He answereth him, and saith, O faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him unto me.

20 And they brought him unto him: and ^u when he saw him, straightway the spirit tare him; and he fell on the ground, and wallowed foaming.

21 And he asked his father, How long is it ago since this came unto him? And he said, Of a child.

22 And ofttimes it hath cast him into the fire, and into the waters, to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us.

23 Jē'sus said unto him, ^o If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.

24 And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; ^p help thou mine unbelief.

25 When Jē'sus saw that the people came running together, he ^q rebuked the foul spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 And the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; inasmuch that many said, He is dead.

27 But Jē'sus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose.

28 ^r And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and passed through Gāl'lee; and he would not that any man should know it.

31 ^s For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third day.

32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

33 ¶ And he came to Cā-pēr'na-ūm: and being in the house he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among yourselves by the way?

CHAPTER 10.

2 Of divorcement. 13 Christ blesseth children. 23 He telleth the danger of riches. 46 Blind Bartimæus receiveth sight.

AND^a he arose from thence, and cometh into the coasts of Jüdæ^a by the farther side of Jôr'dan: and the people resort unto him again; and, as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 ¶^b And the Phārīsees came to him, and asked him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? tempting him.

3 And he answered and said unto them, What did Mō'ses command you?

4 And they said, c Mō'ses suffered to write a bill of divorce^c, and to put her away.

5 And Jē'sus answered and said unto them, d For the hardness of your heart he wrote you this precept.

6 But from the beginning of the creation e God made them male and female.

7 f For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

8 And they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh.

9 What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

10 And in the house his disciples asked him again of the same matter.

11 And he saith unto them, g Who-soever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her.

12 And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

13 ¶^h And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

14 But when Jē'sus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for i of such is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I say unto you, j Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

16 k And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

17 ¶^l And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?

18 And Jē'sus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God.

not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother.

20 And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth.

21 Then Jē'sus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, u sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have v treasure in heaven: and come, take up w the cross, and follow me.

22 And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶^x And Jē'sus looked round about, and saith unto his disciples, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And the disciples were astonished at his words. But Jē'sus answereth again, and saith unto them, Children, how hard is it for them y that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were astonished out of measure, saying among themselves, Who then can be saved?

27 And Jē'sus looking upon them saith, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for z with God all things are possible.

28 ¶^y Then Pē'tēr began to say unto him, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 And Jē'sus answered and said, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's,

30 a But he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with v persecutions; and in the world to come eternal life.

31 w But many that are first shall be last; and the last first.

32 ¶^z And they were in the way going up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm; and Jē'sus went before them: and they were amazed; and as they followed, they were afraid. y And he took again the twelve, and began to tell them what things should happen unto him,

33 Saying, Behold, we go up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and unto the scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gén'tiles:

34 And they shall mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him: and the third day he shall rise again.

35 ¶ And James and Jôhn, the sons of Zéb'e-dee, come unto him, saying, Master, we would that thou shouldst do for us whatsoever we shall desire.

36 And he said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you?

37 They said unto him, Grant unto us that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory.

38 But Jē'sus said unto them, Ye know not what ye ask: can ye drink of the cup that I drink of? and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?

39 And they said unto him, We can. And Jē'sus said unto them, Ye ^a shall indeed drink of the cup that I drink of; and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized:

40 But to sit on my right hand and on my left hand is not mine to give; but it shall be ^b given to them for whom it is prepared.

41 ^c And when the ten heard it, they began to be much displeased with James and Jôhn.

42 But Jē'sus called them to him, and saith unto them, ^d Ye know that they which ¹ are accounted to rule over the Gén'tiles exercise lordship over them; and their great ones exercise authority upon them.

43 ^e But so shall it not be among you: but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister:

44 And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all.

45 For even ^f the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and ^g to give his life a ransom for many.

46 ¶ ^h And they came to Jēr'i-chō: and as he went out of Jēr'i-chō with his disciples and a great number of people, blind Bār-ti-mæ'us, the son of Ti-mæ'us, sat by the high-way side begging.

47 And when he heard that it was Jē'sus of Náz'a-réth, he began to cry out, and say, Jē'sus, thou ⁱ son of Dā'vid, have mercy on me.

48 And many charged him that he should hold his peace; but he cried the more a great deal, Thou son of Dā'vid, have mercy on me.

49 And Jē'sus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him,

CHAPTER 11.

1 Christ rideth into Jerusalem: 12 curseth a fruitless fig tree: 27 silenceth the priests who questioned his authority.

AND ^a when they came nigh to A-ry-sā-lēm, unto Bēth'pha-gē and Bēth'ā-n'y, at the mount of ^b Ol'ives, he sendeth forth two of his disciples,

2 And saith unto them, Go your way into the village over against you: and as soon as ye be entered into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat; loose him, and bring him.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye that ^c the Lord hath need of him; and straightway he will send him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door without in a place where two ways met; and they loose him.

5 And certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do ye, loosing the colt?

6 And they said unto them even as Jē'sus had commanded: and they let them go.

7 And they brought the colt to Jē'sus, and cast their garments on him; ^d and he sat upon him.

8 ^e And many spread their garments in the way: and others cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, ^f saying, Hō-sān'nā; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord:

10 Blessed ^g be the kingdom of our father Dā'vid, that cometh in the name of the Lord: ^h Hō-sān'nā in the highest.

11 ⁱ And Jē'sus entered into Jē-ry'-sā-lēm, and into the temple: and when he had looked round about upon all things, and now the eventide was come, he went out unto Bēth'ā-n'y with the twelve.

12 ¶ And ^j on the morrow, when they were come from Bēth'ā-n'y, he was hungry:

13 ^j And seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find any thing thereon: and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet.

14 And Jē'sus answered and said unto it, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his disciples heard it.

15 ¶ ^k And they come to Jē-ru'sā-lēm: and Jē'sus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrowed the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them that sold doves;

16 And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple.

17 And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, ^l My house shall be called ¹ of all nations the house of prayer? but ^m ye have made it a den of thieves.

18 And ⁿ the scribes and chief priests heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, because ^o all the people was astonished at his doctrine.

19 And when even was come, he went out of the city.

20 ¶ ^p And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots.

21 And Pē'tēr calling to remembrance saith unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst is withered away.

22 And Jē'sus answering saith unto them, ^q Have faith in God.

23 For ^r verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith.

24 Therefore I say unto you, ^s What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.

25 And when ye stand praying, ^t forgive, if ye have ought against any: that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.

26 But ^u if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses.

CHAPTER 12.

¹ The parable of the vineyard. ¹³ Touching the paying of tribute. ¹⁸ The Sadducees confuted. ³⁵ A difficulty proposed to the scribes.

AND he began to speak unto them by parables. A certain man planted ^a a vineyard, and set an hedge about it, and digged ^a a place for the winefat, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country.

2 And at the season he sent to the husbandmen a servant, that he might receive from the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 And they caught him, and beat him, and sent him away empty.

4 And again he sent unto them another servant; and at him they cast stones, and wounded him in the head, and sent him away shamefully handled.

5 And again he sent another; and him they killed, and many others; beating some, and ^b killing some.

6 Having yet therefore one son, his ^c wellbeloved, he sent him also last unto them, saying, They will reverence my son.

7 But those husbandmen said among themselves, This is ^d the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours.

8 And they took him, and ^e killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard.

9 What shall therefore the lord of the vineyard do? he will come and destroy the husbandmen, and will ^f give the vineyard unto others.

10 And have ye not read this scripture; ^g The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner:

11 This was the Lord's doing, and ^a it is marvellous in our eyes?

12 And ⁱ they sought to lay hold on him, but feared the people: for they knew that he had spoken the parable against them: and they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ ^j And they send unto him certain of the Phār'ī-sees and of the Hē-rō'di-an's, to catch him in his words.

14 And when they were come, they say unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæ'sar, or not?

15 Shall we give, or shall we not give? But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me ¹a penny, that I may see it.

16 And they brought it. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said unto him, Cæ'sar's.

17 And Jē'sus answering said unto them, Render to Cæ'sar the things that are Cæ'sar's, and to God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him.

18 ¶ ^k Then come unto him the Sād'du-ceeds, ^l which say there is no resurrection; and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, ^m Mō'ses wrote unto us, If a man's brother die, and leave his wife behind him, and leave no children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

20 Now there were seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and dying left no seed.

21 And the second took her, and died, neither left he any seed: and the third likewise.

22 And the seven had her, and left no seed: last of all the woman died also.

23 In the resurrection therefore, when they shall rise, whose wife shall she be of them? for the seven had her to wife.

24 And Jē'sus answering said unto them, Do ye not therefore err, ⁿ because ye know not the scriptures, neither ^o the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage; but ^p are as the angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they rise: have ye not read in the book of Mō'ses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, ^q I am the God of A'brā'hām, and the God of I'saac, and the God of Jā'cob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living: ye therefore do greatly err.

28 ¶ ¹ And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all?

29 And Jē'sus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, ² Hear, O I's'ra-el; the Lord our God is one Lord:

30 And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment.

31 And the second is like, namely this, ³ Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; ⁴ and there is none other but he:

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, ⁵ is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

34 And when Jē'sus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. ⁶ And no man after that durst ask him any question.

35 ¶ ⁷ And Jē'sus answered and said, while he taught in the temple, How say the scribes that Christ is the son of Dā'vid?

36 For Dā'vid himself said ⁸ by the Hō'ly Ghōst, ⁹ The LORD said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

37 Dā'vid therefore himself calleth him Lord; and ¹⁰ whence is he then his son? And the common people heard him gladly.

38 ¶ ¹¹ And ¹² he said unto them in his doctrine, ¹³ Beware of the scribes, which love to go in long clothing, and ¹⁴ love salutations in the market-places,

39 And the chief seats in the synagogues, and the uppermost rooms at feasts:

40 ¹⁵ Which devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayers: these shall receive greater damnation.

41 ¶ ¹⁶ And Jē'sus sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast ²money into the treasury: and many that were rich cast in much.

42 And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two ³mites, which make a farthing.

43 And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ⁴this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury:

44 For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, ⁵*even* all her living.

CHAPTER 13.

1 Christ foretelleth the destruction of the temple: 3 he sheweth what signs should go before, 24 and what should happen at the time of his coming. 32 No man knoweth the day or hour: therefore we must watch and pray, lest found unprepared.

AND ^aas he went out of the temple, one of his disciples saith unto him, Master, see what manner of stones and what buildings are here!

2 And Jē'sus answering said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? ^bthere shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 And as he sat upon the mount of Olīves over against the temple, Pē'tēr and Jāmes and Jōhn and An'drew asked him privately,

4 ^cTell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign when all these things shall be fulfilled?

5 And Jē'sus answering them began to say, ^dTake heed lest any man deceive you:

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

7 And when ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be; but the ^eend shall not be yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be earthquakes in divers places, and there shall be famines and troubles: these are the beginnings of ¹sorrows.

9 ¶ But ^ftake heed to yourselves: for they shall deliver you up to councils; and in the synagogues ye shall be beaten: and ye shall be brought before rulers and kings for my sake, for a testimony against them.

10 And ^gthe gospel must first be published among all nations.

11 ^hBut when they shall lead you, and deliver you up, take no thought beforehand what ye shall speak, neither do ye premeditate: but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye: for it is not ye that speak, ¹but the Hō'ly Ghost.

12 Now ²the brother shall betray the brother to death, and the father the son; and children shall rise up against their parents, and shall cause them to be put to death.

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but ³he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 ¶ ⁴But when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, ^mspoken of by Dān'el the prophet, standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) then ⁵let them that be in Jū-dæ'a flee to the mountains:

15 And let him that is on the house top not go down into the house, neither enter therein, to take any thing out of his house:

16 And let him that is in the field not turn back again for to take up his garment.

17 ⁶But woe to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

18 And pray ye that your flight be not in the winter.

19 ⁷For in those days shall be affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh should be saved: but for the elect's sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened the days.

21 ¶ And then if any man shall say to you, Lo, here is Christ; or, lo, he is there; believe him not:

22 For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, ⁸*if it were* possible, even the elect.

23 But ⁹take ye heed: behold, I have foretold you all things.

24 ¶ ¹⁰But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light,

25 And the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken.

26 ¹¹And then shall they see the Son of man coming in the clouds with great power and glory.

27 And then shall he send his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from the uttermost part of the earth to the uttermost part of heaven.

28 Now learn a parable of the fig tree; When her branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near:

29 So ye in like manner, when ye shall see these things come to pass, know that it is nigh, even at the doors.

30 Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.

31 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but ^v my words shall not pass away.

32 ¶ But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father.

33 ^w Take ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

34 ^z For the Son of man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch.

35 ^v Watch ye therefore: for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockerowing, or in the morning:

36 Lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping.

37 And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch.

1 A conspiracy against Christ: 3 a woman poureth ointment on his head: 10 Judas covenanteth to betray him: 12 he eateth the passover: 22 he instituteth his supper: 66 Peter thrice denieth him.

AFTER ^a two days was the feast of the passover, and of unleavened bread: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.

2 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar of the people.

3 ¶ ^b And being in Bēth'ā-n'y in the house of Sī'mon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of ¹ spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head.

4 And there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made?

5 For it might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and have been given to the poor. And they murmured against her.

6 And Jē'sus said, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on me.

8 She hath done what she could: she is come aforehand to anoint my body to the burying.

9 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

10 ¶ And Jū'das Is-cār'iot, one of the twelve, went unto the chief priests, to betray him unto them.

11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised to give him ^r money. And he sought how he might conveniently betray him.

12 ¶ And the first day of unleavened bread, when they ² killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the pass-over?

13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And whosoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall ^h eat the pass-over with my disciples?

15 And he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

16 And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

17 ⁱ And in the evening he cometh with the twelve.

18 And as they sat and did eat, Jē'sus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me.

19 And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I?

20 And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dipbeth with me in the dish.

21 ^j The Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had never been born.

22 ¶ And as they did eat, Jē'sus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body.

23 And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank of it.

24 And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many.

25 Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.

26 ¶ And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

27 And Jē'sus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.

28 But after that I am risen, I will go before you into Galilee.

29 But Pē'tēr said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.

30 And Jē'sus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.

31 But he spake the more vehemently, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee in any wise. Likewise also said they all.

32 And they came to a place which was named Gēth-sēm'a-nē: and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

33 And he taketh with him Pē'tēr and Jāmes and Jōhn, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy;

34 And saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch.

35 And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him.

36 And he said, Ab'bā, Father, all things are possible unto thee; take away this cup from me: nevertheless not what I will, but what thou wilt.

37 And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Pē'tēr, Si'mon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour?

38 Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. The spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is weak.

39 And again he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.

40 And when he returned, he found them asleep again, (for their eyes were heavy,) neither wist they what to answer him.

41 And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, the hour is come; behold, the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

42 Rise up, let us go; lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand.

43 ¶ And immediately, while he yet spake, cometh Jū'das, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders.

44 And he that betrayed him had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he; take him, and lead him away safely.

45 And as soon as he was come, he goeth straightway to him, and saith,

Master, master; and kissed him.

46 ¶ And they laid their hands on him, and took him.

47 And one of them that stood by drew a sword, and smote a servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

48 And Jē'sus answered and said unto them, Are ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and with staves to take me?

49 I was daily with you in the temple teaching, and ye took me not: but the scriptures must be fulfilled.

50 And they all forsook him, and fled.

51 And there followed him a certain young man, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and the young men laid hold on him:

52 And he left the linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

53 ¶ And they led Jē'sus away to the high priest: and with him were assembled all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes.

54 And Pē'tēr followed him afar off, even into the palace of the high priest: and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

55 And the chief priests and all the council sought for witness against Jē'sus to put him to death; and found none.

56 For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together.

57 And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying,

58 We heard him say, I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.

59 But neither so did their witness agree together.

60 And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jē'sus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 But ^m he held his peace, and answered nothing. ⁿ Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jē'sus said, I am: ^o and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the ^p blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to ^q spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophecy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

66 ¶ ^r And as Pē'tēr was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67 And when she saw Pē'tēr warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth.

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69 ^s And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70 And he denied it again. ^t And a little after, they that stood by said again to Pē'tēr, Surely thou art one of them: ^u for thou art a Gāl-læ'an, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71 But ^v he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72 And the second time the cock crew. And Pē'tēr called to mind the word that Jē'sus said unto him, Before the cock crew twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And ^w when he thought thereon, he wept.

of many things: but ^a he answered nothing.

4 ^e And Pi'lāte asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

5 ^f But Jē'sus yet answered nothing; so that Pi'lāte marvelled.

6 Now ^g at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired.

7 And there was one named Bā-rāb'-bas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection.

8 And the multitude crying aloud began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them.

9 But Pi'lāte answered them, saying, Will ye that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the chief priests had delivered him ^h for envy.

11 But ⁱ the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Bā-rāb'-bas unto them.

12 And Pi'lāte answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call ^j the King of the Jews?

13 And they cried out again, Crucify him.

14 Then Pi'lāte said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.

15 ¶ ^k And so Pi'lāte, willing to content the people, released Bā-rāb'-bas unto them, and delivered Jē'sus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

16 And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Præ-tō'-ri-um; and they call together the whole band.

17 And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews!

19 And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

20 And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

21 ^l And they compel one Si'mon a Cy-rē'-ni-an, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Al-ēx'-ān'dēr and ^m Ru'fus, to bear his cross.

22 ⁿ And they bring him unto the place Gōl'-gō-thā, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull.

23 ° And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

24 And when they had crucified him, ° they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

25 And ° it was the third hour, and they crucified him.

26 And ° the superscription of his accusation was written over, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 And with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

28 And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, ° And he was numbered with the transgressors.

29 And ° they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, thou ° that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days,

30 Save thyself, and come down from the cross.

31 Likewise also the chief priests mocking said among themselves with the scribes, He saved others; himself he cannot save.

32 Let Christ the King of Īs'ra-el descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe. And ° they that were crucified with him reviled him.

33 And ° when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour.

34 And at the ninth hour Jē'sus cried with a loud voice, saying, ° E-lō'ī, E-lō'ī, lā'mā sā-bach-thā'ni? which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth E-lī'as.

36 And ° one ran and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and ° gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether E-lī'as will come to take him down.

37 ° And Jē'sus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

38 And ° the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom.

39 ¶ And ° when the centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he so cried out, and gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

3 And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4 And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

5 ° And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

19 And the angel answering said unto him, I am ^u Gā'bri-el, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

20 And, behold, ^z thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 And the people ^v waited for Zäch-a-ri-as, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple: for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.

23 And it came to pass, that, as soon as ^w the days of his ministration were accomplished, he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days his wife E-l'i-s'a-béth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying,

78 Through the ^g tender mercy of our God; whereby the ^h dayspring from on high hath visited us,

79 ⁱ To give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

80 And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing unto Īsʹra-el.

CHAPTER 2.

¹ Augustus taxeth the Roman empire. ⁶ Christ's nativity: ²¹ his circumcision: ⁴⁶ he questioneth the doctors.

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cæʹsar Aug-ŭs'tus, that all the world should be ¹ taxed.

2 (^a And this taxing was first made when Cŷ-rē-nī-us was governor of Sŷrīʹā.)

3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

4 And Jōʹseph also went up from Gālīʹlee, out of the city of Nāzʹa-rēth, into Jū-dæʹā, unto ^b the city of Dāʹvid, which is called Bēthʹlē-hēm; (^c because he was of the house and lineage of Dāʹvid:)

5 To be taxed with Māʹrȳ his espoused wife, being great with child.

6 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

7 And ^d she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a ^e manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping ^f watch over their flock by night.

9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, ^f which shall be to all people.

11 ^g For unto you is born this day in the city of Dā'vid a Saviour, ^h which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

13 ⁱ And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth ^j peace, ^k good will toward men.

15 And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, ^l the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bēth'lē-hēm, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

16 And they came with haste, and found Mā'r'y, and Jō'seph, and the babe lying in a manger.

17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

19 But Mā'r'y kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

21 ^m And when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called ⁿ JĒ'SUS, which was so named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22 And when ^o the days of her purification according to the law of Mō'ses were accomplished, they brought him to Jē-ry/sā-lēm, to present him to the Lord;

23 (As it is written in the law of the Lord, ^p Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;)

24 And to offer a sacrifice according to that which is said in the law of the Lord, A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons.

25 And, behold, there was a man in Jē-ry/sā-lēm, whose name was Sim'e-on; and the same man was just and devout, ^q waiting for the consolation of Īs'ra-el; and the Hō'l'y Ghōst was upon him.

26 And it was revealed unto him by the Hō'l'y Ghōst, that he should not ^r see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ.

29 Lord, ^s now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word:

30 For mine eyes ^t have seen thy salvation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;

32 ^u A light to lighten the Ēn'tiles, and the glory of thy people Īs'ra-el.

33 And Jō'seph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him.

34 And Sim'e-on blessed them, and said unto Mā'r'y his mother, Behold, this child is set for the ^v fall and rising again of many in Īs'ra-el; and for ^w a sign which shall be spoken against;

36 And there was one Ān'nā, ^z a prophetess, the daughter of Phān'u-el, of the tribe of Ā'sēr: she was of a great age, and had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity;

37 And she was a widow of about fourscore and four years, which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers ^a night and day.

38 And she coming in that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that ^b looked for redemption in ^c JĒ-ry/sā-lēm.

39 And when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Gāl'ilee, to their own city Nāz'a-rēth.

40 And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him.

41 Now his parents went to Jē-ry/sā-lēm ^d every year at the feast of the passover.

42 And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jē-ry/sā-lēm after the custom of the feast.

43 And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jē'sus tarried behind in Jē-ry/sā-lēm; and Jō'seph and his mother knew not of it.

44 But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jĕ-rŭ'sā-lēm, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, ^a both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And ^e all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

49 And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about ^f my Father's business?

50 And ^g they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nāz'a-rĕth, and was subject unto them: but his mother ^h kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jĕ'sus ⁱ increased in wisdom and ^j stature, and in favour with God and man.

CHAPTER 3.

1 John's preaching and baptism: 15 his testimony of Christ. 21 Christ is baptized: 23 his genealogy.

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tĭ-bĕ'rĭ-us Cæ'sar, Pōn'tĭ-us Pĭ'late being governor of Jū-dæ'a, and Hĕr'od being tetrarch of Gālĭ'lee, and his brother Phil'ip tetrarch of Ī-turæ'a and of the region of Trāch-ō-nĭ'tis, and Lŷ-sā'nĭ-as the tetrarch of Āb-ilĕ'nĕ,

2 ^a Ān'nas and Cā'ja-phās being the high priests, the word of God came unto Jōhn the son of Zāch-a-rĭ'as in the wilderness.

3 ^b And he came into all the country about Jōr'dan, preaching the baptism of repentance ^c for the remission of sins;

4 As it is written in the book of the words of Ē-sā'jas the prophet, saying, ^d The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways ^e shall be made smooth;

6 And ^f all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the multitude that came forth to be baptized of him, ^g O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

9 And now also the ax is laid unto the root of the trees: ^b every tree therefore which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked him, saying, ^c What shall we do then?

11 He answereth and saith unto them, ^d He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then ^e came also publicans to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, ^f Exact no more than that which is appointed you.

14 And the soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, ^g Do violence to no man, ^h neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your ⁱ wages.

15 And as the people were ^j in expectation, and all men ^k mused in their hearts of Jōhn, whether he were the Christ, or not;

16 Jōhn answered, saying unto them all, ^l I indeed baptize you with water; but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: he shall baptize you with ^m the Hō'lŷ Ghōst and with fire:

17 Whose fan ⁿ is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and ^o will gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.

19 But ^p Hĕr'od the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Hĕ-rō'dĭ-as his brother Phil'ip's wife, and for all the evils which Hĕr'od had done, 20 Added yet this above all, that he shut up Jōhn in prison.

21 Now when all the people were baptized, ^q it came to pass, that Jĕ'sus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened,

22 And the Hō'lŷ Ghōst descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice ^r came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Christ's temptation and fasting. 13 He, overcoming the devil, 14 beginneth to preach. 16 The people at Nazareth admire him. 33 He cureth one possessed of a devil.

AND ^a Jē'sus being full of the Ĥō'ly Ghōst returned from Jōr'dan, and ^b was led by the Spirit into the wilderness,

2 Being forty days ^c tempted of the devil. And ^d in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.

3 And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 And Jē'sus answered him, saying, ^e It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.

5 And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

6 And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for ^f that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt ¹ worship me, all shall be thine.

8 And Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Sā'tan: for ^g it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

9 ^h And he brought him to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, ⁱ cast thyself down from hence:

10 For ^j it is written, He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee:

11 And in ^{their} hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

12 And Jē'sus answering said unto him, ^k It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

13 And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he ^l departed from him ^m for a season.

14 ¶ And Jē'sus returned in the power of the Spirit into ^o Gāl'i-lee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about.

15 And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all.

16 ¶ And he came to Náz'a-réth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up for to read.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Ê-sâ'qas. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written,

18 ^s The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised,

19 To preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 And all bare him witness, and wondered at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. And they said, Is not this Jô'seph's son?

23 And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Că-pê'r-nă-um, do also here in thy country.

24 And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet is accepted in his own country.

25 But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in İs'ra-el in the days of Ê-lî'as, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the land;

26 But unto none of them was Ê-lî'as sent, save unto Să-rép'tă, a city of Sî'dôn, unto a woman that was a widow.

27 ^a And many lepers were in İs'ra-el in the time of Ê-lî-sê'us the prophet; and none of them was cleansed, saving Nă'a-man the Sŷr'ian.

28 And all they in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were filled with wrath,

29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong.

30 But he passing through the midst of them went his way,

31 And came down to Că-pê'r-nă-um, a city of Gă'l'lee, and taught them on the sabbath days.

32 And they were astonished at his doctrine: ^a for his word was with power.

33 ¶ And in the synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice,

34 Saying, ³ Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jê'sus of Náz'a-réth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; ⁴ the Holy One of God.

35 And Jê'sus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the devil had thrown him in the midst, he came out of him, and hurt him not.

36 And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying, What a word is this! for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out.

37 ^c And the fame of him went out into every place of the country round about.

38 ¶ And he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Sî'mon's house. And Sî'mon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and they besought him for her.

39 And he stood over her, ⁱ and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them.

40 ¶ ^j Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

41 ^k And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And ^l he rebuked them suffered them not ⁴ to speak: for they knew that he was Christ.

42 ^m And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place: and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.

43 And he said unto them, ⁿ I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent.

44 ^o And he preached in the synagogues of Gă'l'lee.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Christ teacheth out of Peter's ship. 4 A miraculous draught of fishes. 27 Levi called from the receipt of customs.

AND ^a it came to pass, that, as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by the lake of Ġēn-nēs'a-rēt,

2 And saw two ships standing by the lake: but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Sī'mon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Sī'mon, ^b Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught.

5 And Sī'mon answering said unto him, Master, we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing: nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes: and their net brake.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.

8 When Sī'mon Pē'tēr saw it, he fell down at Jē'sus' knees, saying, ^c Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord.

9 For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken:

10 And so was also Jāmes, and Jōhn, the sons of Zēb'e-dee, which were partners with Sī'mon. And Jē'sus said unto Sī'mon, Fear not; ^d and henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought their ships to land, ^e they forsook all, and followed him.

12 ¶ ^f And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jē'sus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst ^g make me clean.

13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 ^h And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, ⁱ according as Mō'sēs commanded, for a testimony unto them.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: ^j and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 ¶ ^k And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.

17 And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Phār'ī-sees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Gāl'ī-lee, and Jū-dæ'ā, and Jē-ry'sā-lēm: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.

18 ¶ ^l And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the house top, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst before Jē'sus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, ^m thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 ⁿ And the scribes and the Phār'ī-sees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? ^o Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

22 But when Jē'sus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

24 But that ye may know that the ^p Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, ^q glorifying God.

26 And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day.

27 ¶ ^r And after these things he went forth, and saw a publican, named Lē'vī, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 ^s And Lē'vī made him a great feast in his own house: and ^t there was a great company of publicans and of others that sat down with them.

30 But their scribes and Phār'ī-sees murmured against his disciples, saying, Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners?

31 And Jē'sus answering said unto them, They that are whole need not a physician; but they that are sick.

32 ^u I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

33 ¶ And they said unto him, ^v Why do the disciples of Jōhn fast often, and make prayers, and likewise the disciples of the Phārī-sees; but thine eat and drink?

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the bridechamber fast, while the ^w bridegroom is with them?

35 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall ^x be taken away from them, and then shall they ^y fast in those days.

36 ¶ ^z And he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old.

37 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved.

39 No man also having drunk old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better.

CHAPTER 6.

1 Touching the ears of corn that were plucked by the disciples on the sabbath. 13 Christ chooseth the twelve.

AND ^a it came to pass on the second sabbath after the first, that he went through the corn fields; and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Phārī-sees said unto them, ^b Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath days?

3 And Jē'sus answering them said, Have ye not read so much as this, ^c what Dā'vid did, when himself was an hungred, and they which were with him;

4 How he went into the house of God, and did take and eat the shewbread, and gave also to them that were with him; ^d which it is not lawful to eat but for the priests alone?

5 And he said unto them, That the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

6 ^e And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered.

watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him.

8 But he ^s knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

9 Then said Jē'sus unto them, I will ask you one thing; ^t Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it?

10 And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other.

11 And they were filled with madness; and communed one with another what they might do to Jē'sus. 12 ^u And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.

13 ¶ And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: ^v and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles;

14 Sī'mon, (^w whom he also named Pē'tēr,) and And'rew his brother, Jāmes and Jōhn, Phīl'ip and Bār-thōl'ō-mew,

15 Māt'thew and Thōm'as, Jāmes the son of Al-phæ'us, and Sī'mon called Zē-lō'tēs,

16 And Jū'das ^x the brother of Jāmes, and Jū'das Is-cār'iot, which also was the traitor.

17 ¶ And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, ^y and a great multitude of people out of all Jū-dæ'a and Jē-rū'sā-lēm, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sī'dōn, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases;

18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude ^z sought to touch him: for ^a there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

20 ¶ And he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said, ^b Blessed be ye poor: for yours is the kingdom of God.

21 ^c Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. ^d Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.

22 ^e Blessed are ye, when men shall hate you, and when they ^f shall separate you from their company, and shall reproach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.

23 ^g Rejoice ye in that day, and leap for joy: for, behold, your reward is great in heaven: for ^u in the like manner did their fathers unto the prophets.

24 ^v But woe unto you that are rich! for ^w ye have received your consolation.

25 ^x Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. ^y Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall mourn and weep.

26 ^z Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 ¶ ^a But I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you,

28 Bless them that curse you, and ^b pray for them which despitefully use you.

29 ^c And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; ^d and him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.

30 ^e Give to every man that asketh of thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

31 ^f And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32 ^g For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye? for sinners also love those that love them.

33 And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye? for sinners also do even the same.

34 ^h And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

35 But love ye your enemies, and do good, and ⁱ lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ^j ye shall be the children of the Highest: for ^k he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

36 ^l Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

37 ^m Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven:

38 ⁿ Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your ^o bosom. For ^p with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.

39 And he spake a parable unto them, ^q Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch?

40 The ^r disciple is not above his master: but every one ^s that is perfect shall be as his master.

43 ^u For a good tree bringeth not forth corrupt fruit; neither doth a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

44 For ^v every tree is known by his own fruit. For of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather they ² grapes.

45 ^w A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

49 But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth; against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell; and ^b the ruin of that house was great.

CHAPTER 7.

1 The centurion's faith: 10 Christ healeth his servant, being absent. 11 He raiseth the widow's son. 24 Christ's testimony of John. 36 Mary Magdalene anointeth Christ's feet.

NOW when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Că-pêr'na-um. 2 And ^a a certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die.

3 And when he heard of Jē'sus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant.

4 And when they came to Jē'sus, they besought him instantly, saying, That he was worthy for whom he should do this:

5 For he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jē'sus went with them.

And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto ¹one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jē'sus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in ⁶Is'ra-el.

10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick.

11 ¶ And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nā'in; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he ⁶had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.

14 And he came and touched the ²bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, ⁴Arise.

15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother.

16 ⁶And there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying, ⁷That a great prophet is risen up among us; and, ⁸That God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Jū-dæ'a, and throughout all the region round about.

18 ⁶And the disciples of Jōhn shewed him of all these things.

19 ¶ And Jōhn calling unto him two of his disciples sent them to Jē'sus, saying, Art thou ⁶he that should come? or look we for another?

20 When the men were come unto him, they said, Jōhn Bāp'tist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou ⁶he that should come? or look we for another?

21 And in that same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

22 ⁷Then Jē'sus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell Jōhn what things ye have seen and heard; ⁸how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, ¹to the poor the gospel is preached.

26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet.

27 This is he, of whom it is written, ⁿBehold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than Jōhn the Bāp'tist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

29 And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, ^obeing baptized with the baptism of Jōhn.

30 But the Phār'ī-sees and lawyers ³rejected ^pthe counsel of God ⁴against themselves, being not baptized of him.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, ^qWhereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like?

32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For ^rJōhn the Bāp'tist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a devil.

34 The Son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners!

35 ^sBut wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 ¶ ^tAnd one of the Phār'ī-sees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Phār'ī-see's house, and sat down to meat.

37 And, behold, a ^u woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jē'sus sat at meat in the Phār'i-see's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment,

38 And stood at his feet behind him ^v weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 Now when the Phār'i-see which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, ^w This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.

40 And Jē'sus answering said unto him, Si'mon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred ^x pence, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly ^y forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

43 Si'mon answered and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto Si'mon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no ^z water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no ^a kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 ^b My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 ^c Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

48 And he said unto her, ^d Thy sins are forgiven.

49 And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, ^e Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

50 And he said to the woman, ^f Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and the twelve were with him,

2 And ^a certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mā'r'y called Māg-da-lē'nē, ^b out of whom went seven devils,

3 And Jō-ā'nā the wife of Chū'zā Hēr'od's steward, and Sū-sā'nā, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance.

4 ¶ And when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable:

5 A sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

6 And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 ¶ And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; ^c that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

11 ¶ Now the parable is this: The ^d seed is the word of God.

12 Those by ^e the way side are they that hear; then cometh ^f the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved.

13 They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall away.

14 And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares ^g and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

15 But that on the good ground are they, which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and ^h bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ ¶ No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter in may see the light.

17 ^m For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.

18 Take heed therefore how ye hear: ^a for whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he ¹ seemeth to have.

19 ¶ ^o Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee.

21 And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it.

22 ¶ ^p Now it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 But as they sailed he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he ^a arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm.

25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being ^a afraid wondered, saying one to another, What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

26 ¶ ^a And they arrived at the country of the Gād'a-rēnes, which is over against Gālīlee.

27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had devils long time, and ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

28 When he saw Jē'sus, he ^t cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jē'sus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, torment me not.

29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands, and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 And Jē'sus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him that he would not command them to go out ^u into the deep.

32 And there was there an ^v herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And ^w he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country.

35 Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jē'sus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jē'sus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

36 They also which saw it told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37 ¶ ^a Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gād'a-rēnes round about ^v besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship, and returned back again.

38 Now ^a the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jē'sus sent him away, saying,

39 Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, and published throughout the whole city how great things Jē'sus had done unto him.

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jē'sus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 ¶ ^a And, behold, there came a man named Jā-i-rus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue: and he fell down at Jē'sus' feet, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 ¶ ^b And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,

44 Came behind him, and ^c touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood stancheth.

45 And Jē'sus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Pē'tēr and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jē'sus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that ^a virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.

49 ¶ ^a While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jē'sus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: [∫] believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Pē'tēr, and James, and Jōhn, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, [∫] but sleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 And he put them all out, and took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, ^h arise.

55 ⁱ And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway: and he commanded to give her meat.

56 And her parents were astonished: but [∫] he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.

5 [∫] And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, [∫] shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.

6 And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.

7 ¶ ^h Now Hēr'od the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he was perplexed, because that it was said of some, that Jōhn was risen from the dead;

8 And of some, that Ê-l'ās had appeared; and of others, that one of the old prophets was risen again.

9 And Hēr'od said, Jōhn have I beheaded: but who is this, of whom I hear such things? ⁱ And he desired to see him.

10 ¶ [∫] And the apostles, when they were returned, told him all that they had done. ^k And he took them, and went aside privately into a desert place belonging to the city called Bēth-sā'i-dā.

11 And the people, when they knew it, followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had need of healing.

12 ⁱ And when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve, and said unto him, Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about, and lodge, and get victuals: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said unto them, ^m Give ye them to eat. And they said, ⁿ We have no more but five loaves and two fishes; except we should go and buy meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, Make them sit down by fifties in a company.

15 And they did so, and made them all sit down.

16 Then he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.

17 And they ^o did eat, and were all filled: and there was taken up of fragments that remained to them twelve baskets.

18 ¶ ^p And it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?

19 They answering said, ^q Jōhn the Bāp'tist; but some say, Ê-l'ās; and others say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.

20 He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? ^r Pê'tēr answering said, The Christ of God.

21 ^o And he straitly charged them, and commanded them to tell no man that thing;

22 Saying, ^t The Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be slain, and be raised the third day.

23 ¶ ^u And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

24 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.

25 ^v For what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world, and lose himself, or be cast away?

26 ^w For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels.

27 ^z But I tell you of a truth, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God.

28 ¶ ^a And it came to pass about an eight days after these ¹ sayings, he took Pê'tēr and Jōhn and Jāmes, and went up into a mountain to pray.

29 And as he prayed, ² the fashion of his countenance was altered, and his raiment was white and glistering.

30 And, behold, there talked with him two men, which were Mō'sēs and ³ Ē-lī'as:

31 Who appeared in ⁴ glory, and spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jê-ry'sā-lēm.

32 But Pê'tēr and they that were with him ⁵ were heavy with sleep: and when they were awake, they saw his glory, and the two men that stood with him.

33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Pê'tēr said unto Jê'sus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Mō'sēs, and one for Ē-lī'as: not knowing what he said.

34 While he thus spake, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them: and they feared as they entered into the cloud.

35 And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, ⁶ This is my beloved Son: ⁷ e hear him.

those days any of those things which they had seen.

37 ¶ ⁹ And it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were come down from the hill, much people met him.

38 And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine only child.

39 And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out; and it tear-eth him that he foameth again, and bruising him hardly departeth from him.

40 And I besought thy disciples to cast him out; and they could not.

41 And Jê'sus answering said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.

42 And as he was yet a coming, the devil threw him down, and tare him. And Jê'sus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father.

43 ¶ And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God. But while they wondered every one at all things which Jê'sus did, he said unto his disciples, 44 ^h Let these sayings sink down into your ears: for the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 ⁱ But they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them, that they perceived it not: and they feared to ask him of that saying.

46 ¶ ^j Then there arose a reasoning among them, which of them should be greatest.

47 And Jê'sus, perceiving the thought of their heart, took a child, and set him by him,

48 And said unto them, ^k Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me receiveth him that sent me: ^l for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.

49 ¶ ^m And Jōhn answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbid him, because he followeth not with us.

50 And Jê'sus said unto him, Forbid him not: for ⁿ he that is not against us is for us.

51 ¶ And it came to pass, when the time was come that ^o he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jê-ry'sā-lēm, 52 And sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Sā-mār'ī-tans, to make ready for him.

53 And ^r they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jē-ry/sā-lēm.

54 And when his disciples Jāmes and Jōhn saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as ^q Ē-lī'as did?

55 But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what ^r manner of spirit ye are of.

56 For ^{*} the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village.

57 ¶ ^q And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jē'sus said unto him, Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

59 ^u And he said unto another, Follow me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father.

60 Jē'sus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.

61 And another also said, Lord, ^v I will follow thee; but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house.

62 And Jē'sus said unto him, ^w No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.

1 Christ sendeth out seventy disciples. 13 Woes against Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum. 38 Mary commended.

A^rFTER these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and ^a sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.

2 Therefore said he unto them, ^b The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: ^c pray ye therefore the ^d Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

3 Go your ways: ^e behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 ^f Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes: and ^g salute no man by the way.

5 ^h And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace ⁱ be to this house.

6 And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again.

7 ^j And in the same house remain, ^k eating and drinking such things as they give: for ^k the labourer is worthy of his hire. Go not ⁱ from house to house.

8 And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you:

9 ^m And heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, ⁿ The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say,

11 ^o Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

12 But I say unto you, that ^p it shall be more tolerable in that day for Sōd'om, than for that city.

13 ^q Woe unto thee, Chō-rā'zīn! woe unto thee, Bēth-sā'ī-dā! ^r for if the mighty works had been done in Tŷre and Sī'dōn, which have been done in you, they had a great while ago ^s repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.

14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tŷre and Sī'dōn at the judgment, than for you.

15 ^t And thou, Cā-pēr'nā-ūm, which art ^u exalted to heaven, ^v shalt be thrust down to hell.

16 ^w He that heareth you heareth me; and ^x he that despiseth you despiseth me; ^y and he that despiseth me despiseth him that sent me.

17 ¶ And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name.

18 And he said unto them, ^z I beheld Sā'tan as lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, ^a I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

20 Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because ^b your names are written in heaven.

21 ¶ ^c In that hour Jē'sus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from ^d the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

22 ^e All things are delivered to me of my Father: and ^f no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and ^g he to whom the Son will reveal him.

23 ¶ And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, ^g Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see :

24 For I tell you, ^a that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, ⁱ Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life ?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law ? how readest thou ?

27 And he answering said, ^j Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and ^k thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and ^l thou shalt live.

29 But he, willing to ^m justify himself, said unto Jē'sus, And who is my neighbour ?

30 And Jē'sus answering said, A certain man went down from Jē-ry/-sā-lēm to Jēr'i-chō, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, ⁿ he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise a Lē'vite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain ^o Sā-mār'i-tan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, 34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves ?

37 And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jē'sus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

38 ¶ Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain village: and a certain woman named Mār'thā received him into her house.

CHAPTER 11.

1 Christ teacheth to pray: 14 he casteth out a dumb devil: 27 he sheweth who are truly blessed: 29 he preacheth to the people, 37 and reproveth the Pharisees' outward shew of holiness.

AND it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, ^a teach us to pray, as Jōhn also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, ^b Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. ^c Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us ¹ day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for ^d we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. ^e And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.

5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine ² in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him?

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, ^f Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 ^g And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

11 ^h If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent?

12 Or if he shall ask an egg, will he offer him a scorpion?

13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Hōly Spir^t to them that ask him?

14 ¶ And he was casting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake; and the people wondered.

15 But some of them said, k He casteth out devils through 4 Bē-ēl'ze-būb the chief of the devils.

16 And others, tempting him, sought of him a sign from heaven.

17 ^m But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth.

18 If Sā'tan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Bē-ēl'ze-būb.

19 And if I by Bē-ēl'ze-būb cast out devils, by whom do ⁿ your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges.

20 But if I ^o with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.

21 ^p When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace:

22 But ^r when a stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.

23 ^r He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.

24 ^s When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and ^t the last state of that man is worse than the first.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, ^u Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea ^v rather, blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

29 ¶ ^w And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, This is an evil generation: they seek a sign; and there shall no sign be given it, but the sign of Jō'nas the prophet.

30 For as ^a Jō'nas was a sign unto the Nin'e-vites, so shall also the Son of man be to this generation.

31 ^v The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with the men of this generation, and condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Sōl'o-mon; and, behold, a ^z greater than Sōl'o-mon is here.

32 The men of Nin'e-ve shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for ^a they repented at the preaching of Jō'nas; and, behold, a greater than Jō'nas is here.

33 ^b No man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a ^c bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light.

34 ^d The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

35 Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness.

36 If thy whole body therefore be full of light, having no part dark, the whole shall be full of light, as when ^e the bright shining of a candle doth give thee light.

37 ¶ And as he spake, a certain Phārī-see besought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down to meat.

38 And when the Phārī-see saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

39 ^e And the Lord said unto him, Now do ye Phārī-sees make clean the outside of the cup and the platter; but ^f your inward part is full of ravening and wickedness.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without make that which is within also?

41 ^g But rather give alms ^h of such things as ye have; and, behold, all things are clean unto you.

42 ^h But woe unto you, Phārī-sees! for ⁱ ye tithe mint and rue and all manner of herbs, and pass over judgment and the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

43 ^j Woe unto you, Phārī-sees! for ye love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

44 ^k Woe unto you, scribes and Phār'ī-sees, hypocrites ! ¹for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them are not aware of them.

45 ¶ Then answered one of the lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying thou reproachest us also.

46 And he said, Woe unto you also, ye lawyers ! ^mfor ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 ⁿWoe unto you ! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly ye bear witness that ye allow the deeds of your fathers : ^ofor they indeed killed them, and ye build their sepulchres.

49 Therefore also said the ^pwisdom of God, ^qI will send them prophets and apostles, and some of them they shall slay and persecute :

50 That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation ;

51 ^rFrom the blood of Āb'ēl unto the blood of Zāch-ā-rī'as, which perished between the altar and the temple : verily I say unto you, It shall be required of this generation.

52 ^sWoe unto you, lawyers ! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge : ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye ^thindered.

53 And as he said these things unto them, the scribes and the Phār'ī-sees began to urge him vehemently, and to provoke him to speak of many things :

54 Laying wait for him, and ^useeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

IN ^athe mean time, when there were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, inasmuch that they trode one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, ^bBeware ye of the leaven of the Phār'ī-sees, which is hypocrisy.

2 ^cFor there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed ; neither hid, that shall not be known.

3 Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light ; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the house tops.

Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do.

6 Are not five sparrows sold for two ^ffarthings, and ^gnot one of them is forgotten before God ?

7 But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore : ye are of more value than many sparrows.

8 ^hAlso I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God :

9 But he that denieth me before men shall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And ⁱwhosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him : but unto him that blasphemeth against the Hō'ly Ghōst it shall not be forgiven.

11 ^jAnd when they bring you unto the synagogues, and unto magistrates, and powers, take ye no thought how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall say :

12 ^kFor the Hō'ly Ghōst shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say.

13 ¶ And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.

14 And he said unto him, ^lMan, who made me a judge or a divider over you ?

15 And he said unto them, ^mTake heed, and beware of covetousness : for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully :

17 And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits ?

18 And he said, This will I do : I will pull down my barns, and build greater ; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.

19 And I will say to my soul, ⁿSoul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years ; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night ^othy soul shall be required of thee : ^pthen whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided ?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, ^p and is not rich toward God.

22 ¶ And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, ^r Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and ^r God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Söl'omon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, ^z neither be ye of doubtful mind.

30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father ^a knoweth that ye have need of these things.

watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants.

39 ^b And this know, that if the good-man of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not have suffered his house to be broken through.

40 ^c Be ye therefore ready also: for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not.

41 ¶ Then Pē'tēr said unto him, Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

42 And the Lord said, ^d Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in due season?

43 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

44 Of a truth I say unto you, that ^e he will make him ruler over all that he hath.

45 But and if that servant say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidens, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken;

46 The lord of that servant will come in a day when he looketh not for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will ^z cut him in sunder, and will appoint him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 And ^f that servant, which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

48 ^g But he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required: and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

49 ¶ I am come to send fire on the earth; and what will I, if it be already kindled?

50 But ^h I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I ⁱ straitened till it be accomplished!

51 ⁱ Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; ^j but rather division:

52 ^k For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three.

53 The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

54 ¶ And he said also to the people, When ye see a cloud rise out of the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower; and so it is.

55 And when ye see ^m the south wind blow, ye say, There will be heat; and it cometh to pass.

56 ⁿ Ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky and of the earth; but how is it that ye do not discern ^o this time?

57 Yea, and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?

58 ¶ When thou goest with thine adversaries to the magistrate, ^q as thou art in the way, give diligence that thou mayest be delivered from him; lest he hale thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and the officer cast thee into prison.

59 I tell thee, thou shalt not depart thence, till thou hast paid the very last ^r mite.

CHAPTER 13.

1 Christ preacheth repentance by the calamity upon the Galileans and others. 6 The fruitless fig tree cursed. 11 He healeth the crooked woman. 18 Parable of the grain of mustard seed, and of the leaven. 24 The strait gate.

THERE were present at that season some that told him ^a of the Gāl-ilæ'ans, whose blood Pil'ate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And Jē'sus answering said unto them, ^b Suppose ye that these Gāl-ilæ'ans were sinners above all the Gāl-ilæ'ans, because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

4 Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Si-lō'am fell, and slew them, think ye that they were ^c sinners above all men that dwelt in Jē-ru-sā-lēm?

5 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable; ^d A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these ^e three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground?

8 And he answering said unto him, Lord, ^f let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it:

9 And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

11 ¶ And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

12 And when Jē'sus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

13 ^o And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue ^p answered with indignation, because that Jē'sus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, ^q doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, ^r being a daughter of Ab'rahām, whom Sā'tan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 ¶ Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden; and it grew, and waxed a great tree; and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three ^s measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

22 ^t And he went through the cities and villages, teaching, and journeying toward Jē-ru-sā-lēm.

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, 24 ¶ Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for ^u many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

25 ^v When once the master of the house is risen up, and ^w hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

27 ^v But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; ^w depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity.

28 ^a There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, ^v when ye shall see A'brā'hām, and I'saac, and Jā'cob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out.

29 ^a And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.

30 ^a And, behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last.

31 ¶ The same day there came certain of the Phār'ī-sees, saying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence: for Hēr'od will kill thee.

32 And he said unto them, Go ye, and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to day and to morrow, and the third day ^b I shall be perfected.

33 Nevertheless I must walk to day, and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

34 ^c O Jē-ru'sā-lēm, Jē-ru'sā-lēm, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not!

35 Behold, ^d your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I say unto you, ^e Ye shall not see me, until the time come when ye shall say, ^f Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAPTER 14.

2 Christ healeth the dropsy on the sabbath day: 7 teacheth humility: 12 to feed the poor. 15 The parable of the great supper. 25 What is required of those who would be Christ's disciples.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Phār'ī-sees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that they watched him.

2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 And Jē'sus answering spake unto the lawyers and Phār'ī-sees, saying, ^a Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go;

5 And answered them, saying, ^b Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day?

6 And they could not answer him again to these things.

7 ¶ And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them,

8 When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him;

9 And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 ^c But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee.

11 ^d For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

12 ¶ Then said he also to him that bade him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompense be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call ^e the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

14 And thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be ^f recompensed at the resurrection of the just.

15 ¶ And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, ^v Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.

16 ^h Then said he unto him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many:

17 And ⁱ sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready.

18 And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, ^j I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, ^k Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room.

23 And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.

24 For I say unto you, ^m That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

25 ¶ And there went great multitudes with him: and he turned, and said unto them,

26 ⁿ If any man come to me, ^o and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, ^p yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.

27 And ^q whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.

28 For ^r which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?

29 Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him,

30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish.

31 Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?

32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth ^s an ambassador, and desireth conditions of peace.

33 So likewise, whosoever ^t he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple.

34 ¶ ^u Salt is good: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned?

35 It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill; but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep ^f which was lost.

7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, ^g more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance.

8 ¶ Either what woman having ten ^h pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost.

10 Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.

11 ¶ And he said, A certain man had two sons:

12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them ⁱ his living.

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into ^j a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to ^k a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18 I will ^l arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, ^m I have sinned against heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But ⁿ when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth ^athe best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 ^oFor this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. ^pAnd they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard musick and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment: and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 ^rIt was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

AND he said also unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an ^aaccount of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed.

4 I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord?

6 And he said, An hundred ¹measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred ²measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore.

8 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than ^bthe children of light.

9 And I say unto you, ^cMake to yourselves friends of the ³mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

10 ^dHe that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.

11 If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous ⁴mammon, who will commit to your trust the ^etrue riches?

12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?

13 ^fNo ⁵servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

14 And the Pharisees also, ^gwho were covetous, heard all these things: and they derided him.

15 And he said unto them, Ye are they which ^hjustify yourselves before men; but ⁶God knoweth your hearts: for ⁱthat which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God.

16 ^kThe law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

17 ^lAnd it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the law to fail.

18 ^mWhosoever putteth away his wife, and marieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.

19 ⁿThere was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day:

20 And there was a certain beggar named Láz'a-rus, which was laid at his gate, ^a full of sores,

21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and ^o was carried by the angels into ^p Ā'brā-hām's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried;

23 And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Ā'brā-hām afar off, and Láz'a-rus in his bosom.

24 And he cried and said, Father Ā'brā-hām, have mercy on me, and send Láz'a-rus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and ^r cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Ā'brā-hām said, Son, ^s remember that thou in thy lifetime receivest thy good things, and likewise Láz'a-rus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beside all this, between us and you there is a ^t great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence.

27 Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:

28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Ā'brā-hām saith unto him, ^u They have Mō'ses and the prophets; let them hear them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Ā'brā-hām: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 And he said unto him, If they hear not Mō'ses and the prophets, ^v neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

5 And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 ¶ And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.

7 But which of you, having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat?

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, ^s and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are ^t unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, ^u as he went to Jē-ry/sā-lēm, that he passed through the midst of Sā-mā-ri-ā and Gāl'i-lee.

12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, ^v which stood afar off:

13 And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jē'sus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, ^w Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice ^x glorified God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was ^y a Sā-mār'i-tan.

17 And Jē'sus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 ^z And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Phār'i-sees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not ^a with observation:

21 Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, ^b the kingdom of God is ^c within you.

22 And he said unto the disciples, ^r The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 ^r And they shall say to you, See here; or, see there: ^r go not after them, nor follow them.

24 For as the lightning, that lighteth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven; so shall also ^a the Son of man be in his day.

25 ^c But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 ^u And as it was in the days of Nô'e, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Nô'e entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 ^v Likewise also as it was in the days of Lôt; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded;

29 But the same day that Lôt went out of Sôd'om it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30 Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man ^w is revealed.

31 In that day, he ^x which shall be upon the house top, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away: and he that is in the field, let him likewise not return back.

33 ^z Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it.

34 ^a I tell you, in that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

36 ^b Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

judge, which feared not God, neither regarded man:

3 And there was a widow in that city; and she came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.

4 And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man;

5 ^b Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.

6 And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith.

7 And ^c shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?

8 I tell you ^d that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

9 And he spake this parable unto certain ^e which trusted in themselves ² that they were righteous, and despised others:

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Phâr'i-see, and the other a publican.

11 The Phâr'i-see ^f stood and prayed thus with himself, ^g God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican.

12 I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.

13 And the publican, ^h standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner.

14 I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other: ⁱ for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

15 ^j And they brought unto him also infants, that he would touch them: but when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.

16 But Jē'sus called them unto him, and said, ^k Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for ^l of such is the kingdom of God.

17 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein.

18 ^m And a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

19 And Jē'sus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, that is, God.

20 Thou knowest the commandments, ⁿ Do not commit adultery,

Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, ° Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 And he said, All these have I kept from my youth up.

22 Now when Jē'sus heard these things, he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing: ° sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me.

23 And when he heard this, he was very sorrowful: for he was very rich.

24 And when Jē'sus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, ° How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

25 For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they that heard it said, Who then can be saved?

27 And he said, ° The things which are impossible with men are possible with God.

28 ° Then Pē'tēr said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee.

29 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, ° There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake,

30 ° Who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and ° in the world to come life everlasting.

31 ¶ ° Then he took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and all things ° that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished.

32 For ° he shall be delivered unto the Gēn'tiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on:

33 And they shall scourge him, and put him to death: and the third day he shall rise again.

34 ° And they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken.

35 ¶ ° And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jēr't-chō, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging:

36 And hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they told him, that Jē'sus of Nāz'a-réth passeth by.

38 And he cried, saying, Jē'sus, thou son of Dā'vid, have mercy on me.

CHAPTER 19.

1 Of Zacchæus the publican. 11 The ten pieces of money. 28 Christ rideth into Jerusalem: 41 weepeth over it: 45 driveth the buyers and sellers out of the temple.

AND Jē'sus entered and passed through ° Jēr't-chō.

2 And, behold, there was a man named Zāc-chæ'us, which was the chief among the publicans, and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jē'sus who he was; and could not for the press, because he was little of stature.

4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see him: for he was to pass that way.

5 And when Jē'sus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zāc-chæ'us, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house.

6 And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully.

7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, ° That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

8 And Zāc-chæ'us stood, and said unto the Lord; Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by ° false accusation, ° I restore him fourfold.

9 And Jē'sus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as ° he also is a son of Ab'brā-hām.

10 ° For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and because ° they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

12 ° He said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten ¹ pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

14 ¹ But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the ² money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been ³ faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

20 And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

21 ⁴ For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 And he saith unto him, ⁵ Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. ⁶ Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)

26 For I say unto you, ⁷ That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

27 But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, ⁸ he went before, ascending up to Jê-ru'sa-lêm.

29 ⁹ And it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bêth'pha-gê and Bêth'ân-ÿ, at the mount called the mount of Ôl'ives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt

41 ¶ And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and ¹⁶ wept over it,

42 Saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall ¹⁷ cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, 44 And ¹⁸ y shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and ¹⁹ they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because ²⁰ thou knewest not the time of thy visitation.

45 ²¹ And he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought;

46 Saying unto them, ²² It is written, My house is the house of prayer: but ²³ ye have made it a den of thieves.

47 And he taught daily in the temple. But ²⁴ the chief priests and the scribes and the chief of the people sought to destroy him, 48 And could not find what they might do: for all the people ²⁵ were very attentive to hear him.

CHAPTER 20.

1 Christ silenceth those who questioned his authority.
 9 The parable of the vineyard. 27 The Sadducees confuted.

AND ^a it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the gospel, the chief priests and the scribes came upon him with the elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us, ^b by what authority doest thou these things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he answered and said unto them, I will also ask you one thing; and answer me:

4 The baptism of Jōhn, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But and if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us: ^c for they be persuaded that Jōhn was a prophet.

7 And they answered, ^d that they could not tell whence it was.

8 And Jēsus said unto them, ^e Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

9 Then began he to speak to the people this parable; ^f A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time.

10 And at the season ^g he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant: and they beat him also, and entreated him shamefully, and sent him away empty.

12 ^h And again he sent a third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out.

13 Then said the lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send ⁱ my beloved son: it may be they will reverence him when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, This is ^j the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and ^k killed him. What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He shall come and destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to others. And when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

18 Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; but ^v on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

19 ^w And the chief priests and the scribes the same hour sought to lay hands on him; and they feared the people: for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 ^x And they watched him, and sent forth spies, which should feign themselves just men, that they might take hold of his words, that so they might deliver him unto the power and authority of the governor.

21 And they asked him, saying, ^y Master, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest thou the person of any, but teachest thou the way of God ^z truly:

22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Cæsar, or no?

23 But he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a ^{aa} penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered and said, Cæsar's.

25 And he said unto them, Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's, and unto God the things which be God's.

26 And they could not take hold of his words before the people: and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 ^{ab} ¶ Then came to him certain of the Sād'du-^{cc}cees, ^{ad} which deny that there is any resurrection: and they asked him,

28 Saying, Master, ^{ae} Mō'ses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

29 There were therefore seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and died without children.

30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.

31 And the third took her; and in like manner the seven also: and they left no children, and died.

32 Last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jēsus answering said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be ^e accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more: for ^u they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, ^v being the children of the resurrection.

37 Now that the dead are raised, ^w even Mō'ses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of A'brā'hām, and the God of I'saac, and the God of Jā'cob.

38 ^z For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for ^y all live unto him.

39 ¶ Then certain of the scribes answering said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that they durst not ask him any question at all.

41 And he said unto them, ^a How say they that Christ is Dā'vid's son?

42 And Dā'vid himself saith in the book of Psalms, ^b The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 Dā'vid therefore calleth him Lord, how is he then his son?

45 ¶ ^c Then in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples,

46 ^d Beware of the scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and ^e love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts;

47 ^f Which devour widows' houses, and for a shew make long prayers: the same ^g shall receive greater damnation.

2 And he saw also a certain poor widow casting in thither two mites.

3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, ^b that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all:

hold, the days will come, in the which ^a there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

7 And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign ^{will there be} when these things shall come to pass?

8 And he said, ^e Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; ^f and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them.

9 But when ye shall hear of wars and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end ^{is} not by and by.

10 ^f Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom:

11 And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences; and fearful sights, and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 ^g But before all these, they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute ^{you}, delivering ^{you} up to the synagogues, and ^h into prisons, ⁱ being brought before kings and rulers ^j for my name's sake.

13 And ^k it shall turn to you for a testimony.

14 ^l Settle ^{it} therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before what ye shall answer:

15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, ^m which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay nor resist.

16 ⁿ And ye shall be betrayed both by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends; ^o and ^{some} of you shall they cause to be put to death.

17 ^p And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake.

18 But there shall not an hair of your head perish.

19 In your patience possess ye your souls.

20 ^q And when ye shall see Jē-ry'-sā-lēm compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh.

21 Then let them which are in Jū-dæ'a flee to the mountains; and let them which are in the midst of it depart out; and let not them that are in the countries enter thereinto.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, that ^r all things which are written may be fulfilled.

23 But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck, in those days! for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people.

24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jē-rū'-sā-lēm shall be trodden down of the Gēn'tiles, ^u until the times of the Gēn'tiles be fulfilled.

25 ¶ ^u And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring;

26 Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: ^u for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

27 And then shall they see the Son of man ^u coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh.

29 ^u And he spake to them a parable; Behold the fig tree, and all the trees;

30 When they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand.

31 So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

32 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled.

33 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

34 ¶ And ^u take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares.

35 For ^u as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 ^u Watch ye therefore, and ^u pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and ^u to stand before the Son of man.

37 And ^u in the day time he was teaching in the temple; and ^u at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came early in the morning to him ^u in the temple, for to hear him.

NOW ^a the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the Passover.

2 And ^b the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

3 ¶ ^c Then entered Sā'tan into Jū'-das surnamed Is-cār'i-ot, being of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray him unto them.

5 And they were glad, and ^d covenanted to give him money.

6 And he promised, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them ^e in the absence of the multitude.

7 ¶ ^f Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed.

8 And he sent Pē'tēr and Jōhn, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare?

10 And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water; follow him into the house where he entereth in.

11 And ye shall say unto the good-man of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the guestchamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

12 And he sha'm shew you a large upper room furnished: there make ready.

13 And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

14 And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 And he said unto them, ² With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer:

16 For I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, ^u until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves:

18 For ^u I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

19 ¶ And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: ^h this do in remembrance of me.

20 Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

21 ¶ But, behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.

22 And truly the Son of man goeth, ^{*}as it was determined: but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed!

23 And they began to enquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing.

24 ¶ And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest.

25 ^mAnd he said unto them, The kings of the Gen^tiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors.

26 ⁿBut ye shall not be so: ^obut he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve.

27 For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that sitteth at meat? but ^pI am among you as he that serveth.

28 Ye are they which have continued with me in ^rmy temptations.

29 And ^rI appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me;

30 That ^sye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, ^tand sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Is^rael.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, Si^mon, Si^mon, behold, ^uSā^tan hath desired to have you, that he may ^vsift you as wheat:

32 But ^wI have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: ^xand when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.

34 ^yAnd he said, I tell thee, Pē^tēr, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

35 ^zAnd he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, that this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, ^aAnd he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him.

40 ^bAnd when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

41 And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou be ^cwilling, remove this cup from me: nevertheless ^enot my will, but thine, be done.

43 And there appeared ^dan angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

44 ^eAnd being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

45 And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ And while he yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Jū^das, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jē^sus to kiss him.

48 But Jē^sus said unto him, Jū^das, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 ¶ And ^oone of them smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jē^sus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 Then Jē^sus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and staves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: ^hbut this is your hour, and the power of darkness.

54 ¶ Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house. ^jAnd Pē^tēr followed afar off.

55 ^kAnd when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Pē^tēr sat down among them.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 ¹ And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Pē'tēr said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Gāl-læ'an.

60 And Pē'tēr said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Pē'tēr. ^m And Pē'tēr remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, ⁿ Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Pē'tēr went out, and ^o wept bitterly.

63 ¶ And ^p the men that held Jē'sus mocked him, and smote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ¶ And as soon as it was day, ^r the elders of the people and the chief priests and the scribes came together, and led him into their council, saying,

67 ^s Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe:

68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 ^t Hereafter shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, Ye say that I am.

71 And they said, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of his own mouth.

priests and to the people, ^f I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jew'r'y, beginning from Gāl'l-lee to this place.

6 When Pilate heard of Gāl'l-lee, he asked whether the man were a Gāl-læ'an.

7 And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto ^g Hēr'od's jurisdiction, he sent him to Hēr'od, who himself also was at Jē-rū'sā-lēm at that time.

8 ¶ And when Hēr'od saw Jē'sus, he was exceeding glad: for ^h he was desirous to see him of a long season, because ⁱ he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing.

10 And the chief priests and scribes stood and vehemently accused him.

11 ^j And Hēr'od with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ¶ And the same day ^k Pilate and Hēr'od were made friends together: for before they were at enmity between themselves.

13 ¶ And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people,

14 Said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, have ^m found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:

15 No, nor yet Hēr'od: for I sent you to him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him.

16 ⁿ I will therefore chastise him, and release him.

17 ^o (For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.)

18 And ^p they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Bā-rāb'bas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.)

20 Pilate therefore, willing to release Jē'sus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.

22 And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed.

24 And Pilate ¹ gave sentence that it should be as they required.

25 ^a And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jē'sus to their will.

26 ^a And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Si'mon, a Cy-rē-ni-an, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jē'sus.

27 ¶ And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jē'sus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jē-rū'sā-lēm, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 ^a For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 ^a Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us.

31 ^a For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

32 ^a And there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put to death.

33 And ^a when they were come to the place, which is called ² Cāl'vā-rī, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 ¶ Then said Jē'sus, Father, ^a forgive them; for ^a they know not what they do. And ^a they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And ^a the people stood beholding. And the rulers also with them derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, 37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 ^a And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Lāt'in, and Hē'brew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39 ¶ ^a And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answering ^a rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And they remembered his words, 9 And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mā'rŷ Māg-dā-lē'nē, and Jō-ān'nā, and Mā'rŷ the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 Then arose Pē'tēr, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

13 And, behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Ēm'mā-us, which was from Jē-ry'sā-lēm about threescore furlongs.

14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, Jē'sus himself drew near, and went with them.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Is'ra-el: and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things were done.

22 Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre; 23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said: but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken:

26 Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And beginning at Mō'sēs and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went: and he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jē-ry'sā-lēm, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them,

35 And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread.

36 And as they thus spake, Jē'sus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

38 And he said unto them, Why are

CHAPTER 1.

2 The same was in the beginning with God.

3 All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.

4 In him was life; and the life was the light of men.

5 And ^c the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.

6 ¶ ^d There was a man sent from God, whose name was Jôhn.

7 The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe.

8 ^e He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

9 ¶ That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

10 He was in the world, and ^f the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:

14 ^k And the Word ^l was made ^m flesh, and dwelt among us, (and ⁿ we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) ^o full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ Jôhn bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me: ^p for he was before me.

16 And of his ^q fulness have all we received, and grace for grace:

17 For ^r the law was given by Mō'ses, but ^s grace and ^t truth came by Jê'sus Christ.

18 ^u No man hath seen God at any time; ^v the only begotten Son, which is in ^w the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

19 ¶ And this is the record of Jôhn, when the Jews sent priests and Lê'-vites from Jê-ry/sā-lēm to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then?

Art thou ^a Ë-lî'as? And he saith, ^y I am not. Art thou ² that prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?

23 He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as ^a said the prophet Ë-sā'ias.

24 And they which were sent were of the Phār'ī-sees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Ë-lî'as, neither that prophet?

26 Jōhn answered them, saying, I baptize with water: ^a but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

27 He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done in Bēth-āb'ā-rā beyond Jōr'dan, where Jōhn was baptizing.

29 ¶ The next day Jōhn seeth Jē'sus coming unto him, and saith, Behold ^b the Lamb of God, ^c which ^a taketh away the sin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

31 And I knew him not: but that he should be made manifest to Īs'ra-el, therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 And Jōhn bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, ^a the same is he which baptizeth with the Hō'lŷ Ghōst.

34 And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

35 ¶ Again the next day after Jōhn stood, and two of his disciples;

36 And looking upon Jē'sus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!

37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jē'sus.

38 Then Jē'sus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rāb'bi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master,) where ^a dwellest thou?

dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was ⁵ about the tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard Jōhn speak, and followed him, was Ān-drew, Si'mon Pē'tēr's brother.

41 He first findeth his own brother ^a Si'mon, and saith unto him, We have found the Mēs-si'as, which is, being interpreted, ^b the Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jē'sus. And when Jē'sus beheld him, he said, Thou art Si'mon the son of Jō'nā: thou shalt be called Qē'phas, which is by interpretation, ^c A stone.

43 ¶ The day following Jē'sus would go forth into Gāl'ī-lee, and findeth Phil'ip, and saith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now ^f Phil'ip was of Bēth-sā'ī-dā, the city of Ān'drew and Pē'tēr.

45 Phil'ip findeth ^g Nā-thān'a-el, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom ^h Mō'ses in the law, and the ⁱ prophets, did write, Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth, the son of Jō'seph.

46 And Nā-thān'a-el said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nāz'a-rēth? Phil'ip saith unto him, Come and see.

47 Jē'sus saw Nā-thān'a-el coming to him, and saith of him, Behold an Īs'ra-elite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48 Nā-thān'a-el saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Before that Phil'ip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.

49 Nā-thān'a-el answered and saith unto him, Rāb'bi, thou art the Son of God; thou art ^j the King of Īs'ra-el.

50 Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

51 And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^k Hereafter ye shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon ^l the Son of man.

CHAPTER 2.

¹ Christ turneth water into wine, ¹² goeth into Capernaum, and to Jerusalem, ¹⁴ purgeth the temple, ¹⁹ foretelleth his death and resurrection.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cā'nā of Gāl'ī-lee; and the mother of Jē'sus was there:

2 And both Jē'sus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage.

3 And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jē'sus saith unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jē'sus saith unto her, ^a Woman, what ^b have I to do with thee? ^c mine hour is not yet come.

5 His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

6 And there were set there six waterpots of stone, ^a after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece.

7 Jē'sus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.

8 And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feast had tasted ^e the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,

10 And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jē'sus in ^f Cā'nā of Gālī-lee, ^g and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

12 ¶ After this he went down to Cā-pēr-nā-ūm, he, and his mother, and ^h his brethren, and his disciples: and they continued there not many days.

13 ¶ And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jē'sus went up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

14 And found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting:

15 And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables;

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not ⁱ my Father's house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembered that it was written, ^j The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 ¶ Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

19 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, ^k Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake ^l of the temple of his body.

from the dead, ^c his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jē'sus had said.

23 ¶ Now when he was in Jē-ru'sā-lēm at the passover, in the feast day, many believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did.

24 But Jē'sus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew all men.

25 And needed not that any should testify of man: for ^d he knew what was in man.

CHAPTER 3.

¹ Christ teacheth Nicodemus the necessity of regeneration. ² The baptism and witness of John concerning Christ.

THERE was a man of the Phār'isees, named Nic-o-dē-mus, a ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jē'sus by night, and said unto him, Rāb'bī, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for ^e no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except ^f God be with him.

3 Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, ^g Except a man be born ¹ again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nic-o-dē-mus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jē'sus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, ^h Except a man be born of water and ⁱ of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee, ^j Ye must be born ² again.

8 ^k The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 Nic-o-dē-mus answered and said unto him, ^l How can these things be?

10 Jē'sus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Is'ra-el, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

12 If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you ^m of heavenly things?

13 And ⁿ no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven.

14 ¶ And as Mō'sēs lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: 15 That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life.

16 ¶ For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

17 For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

18 ¶ He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved.

21 But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.

22 ¶ After these things came Jē'sus and his disciples into the land of Jū-dæ'a; and there he tarried with them, and baptized.

23 ¶ And Jōhn also was baptizing in Ē'nōn near to Sā'lim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24 For Jōhn was not yet cast into prison.

25 ¶ Then there arose a question between some of Jōhn's disciples and the Jews about purifying.

26 And they came unto Jōhn, and said unto him, Rāb'bī, he that was with thee beyond Jōr'dān, to whom thou barest witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 Jōhn answered and said, A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, I am not the Christ, but that I am sent before him.

29 ¶ He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: this my joy therefore is fulfilled.

30 ¶ He must increase, but I must decrease.

31 ¶ He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth

CHAPTER 4.

1 Christ revealeth himself to a woman of Samaria: 31 his zeal for God's glory. 39 Many Samaritans believe on him. 43 He healeth the ruler's son.

WHEN therefore the Lord knew how the Phār'isees had heard that Jē'sus made and baptized more disciples than Jōhn,

2 (Though Jē'sus himself baptized not, but his disciples,) 3 He left Jū-dæ'a, and departed again into Gāl'lee.

4 And he must needs go through Sā-mā'rī-ā.

5 Then cometh he to a city of Sā-mā'rī-ā, which is called Sý'char, near to the parcel of ground that Jā'cōb gave to his son Jō'seph.

6 Now Jā'cōb's well was there. Jē'sus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour.

7 There cometh a woman of Sā-mā'rī-ā to draw water: Jē'sus saith unto her, Give me to drink.

8 (For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.)

9 Then saith the woman of Sā-mā'rī-ā unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Sā-mā'rī-ā? for the Jews have no dealings with the Sā-mār'ī-tān.

10 Jē'sus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee a living water.

11 The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water?

12 Art thou greater than our father Jā'cōb, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?

13 Jē'sus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again:

14 But ^e whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him ^f shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

15 ^g The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

16 Jē'sus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.

17 The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jē'sus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband:

18 For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman saith unto him, Sir, ^h I perceive that thou art a prophet.

20 Our fathers worshipped ⁱ in this mountain; and ye say, that in ^j Jē-ry'sā-lēm is the place where men ought to worship.

21 Jē'sus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, ^k when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jē-ry'sā-lēm, worship the Father.

22 Ye worship ^l ye know not what: we know what we worship: for ^m salvation is of the Jews.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in ⁿ spirit ^o and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

24 ^p God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship ^q him in spirit and in truth.

25 The woman saith unto him, I know that ^r Mēs-sī'as cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jē'sus saith unto her, ^s I that speak unto thee am ^t he.

27 ¶ And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman: yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men,

29 Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?

30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean while his disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.

32 But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Therefore said the disciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ^{ought} to eat?

34 Jē'sus saith unto them, ^a My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to finish his work.

35 Say not ye, There are yet four months, and ^{then} cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; ^b for they are white already to harvest.

36 ^c And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal: that both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together.

37 And herein is that saying true, One soweth, and another reapeth.

38 I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour: ^d other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.

39 ¶ And many of the Sā-mārī-tang of that city believed on him for the saying of the woman, which testified, He told me all that ever I did.

40 ^e So when the Sā-mārī-tang were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 ^f And many more believed because of his own word;

42 And said unto the woman, Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for ^g we have heard ^{him} ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, ^h the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ Now after two days he departed thence, and went into Gālī-lee.

44 For ⁱ Jē'sus himself testified, that a prophet hath no honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Gālī-lee, the Gālī-læ'ang received him, ^j having seen all the things that he did at Jē-ry'sā-lēm at the feast: ^k for they also went unto the feast.

46 So Jē'sus came again into Cā'nā of Gālī-lee, ^l where he made the water wine. And there was a certain ^m nobleman, whose son was sick at Cā-pēr'na-ūm.

47 When he heard that Jē'sus was come out of Jū-dæ'ā into Gālī-lee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would come down, and heal his son: for he was at the point of death.

48 Then said Jē'sus unto him, ⁿ Except ye see signs and wonders, Ye will not believe.

49 The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die.

50 Jē'sus saith unto him, ^o Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jē'sus had spoken unto him, and he went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth.

52 Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.

53 So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jēsus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself ^h believed, and his whole house.

54 This is again the second miracle that Jēsus did, when he was come out of Jū-dæ'a into Gāl'i-lee.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Jesus, on the sabbath day, cureth an impotent man at the pool of Bethesda. 16 The Jews persecute him for it. 17 Christ justifieth himself, and sheweth, by the testimony of John, and of his works, who he is.

AFTER ^a this there was a feast of the Jews; and Jēsus went up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

2 Now there is at Jē-ru'sā-lēm ^b by the sheep ¹ market a pool, which is called in the Hēbrew tongue ² Bē-thēs'dā, having five porches.

3 In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jēsus saw him lie, ^c and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, ^d Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

8 Jēsus saith unto him, ^e Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on ^f the same day was the sabbath.

10 ¶ The Jews therefore said unto him that was cured, It is the sabbath day: ^g it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jēsus had convayed himself away, ³ a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jēsus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: ^h sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jēsus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews persecute Jēsus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day.

17 ¶ But Jēsus answered them, ⁱ My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews ^j sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father, ^k making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jēsus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^l The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

20 For ^m the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

21 For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; ⁿ even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father judgeth no man, but ^o hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

23 That all men should ^p honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; ^q but is passed from death unto life.

25 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when ^r the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

26 For as the Father hath ^s life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 And hath given him authority to execute judgment also, ^t because he is the Son of man.

28 Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice,

29 ^u And shall come forth; ^v they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

30 I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because ^w I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.

31 ^a If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true.

32 ¶ There is another that beareth witness of me; and I know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true.

33 Ye sent unto Jōhn, ^v and he bare witness unto the truth.

34 But I receive not testimony from man: but these things I say, that ye might be saved.

35 He was a burning and ^z a shining light: and ^a ye were willing for a season to rejoice in his light.

36 ¶ But ^b I have greater witness than that of Jōhn: for ^c the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me.

37 And the Father himself, which hath sent me, ^d hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, ^e nor seen his shape.

38 And ye have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not.

39 ¶ Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and ^o they are they which testify of me.

40 And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life.

41 ^h I receive not honour from men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 How can ye believe, which receive honour one of another, and seek not ⁱ the honour that cometh from God only?

45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: ^j there is one that accuseth you, even Mō'sēs, in whom ye trust.

46 For had ye believed Mō'sēs, ye would have believed me: ^k for he wrote of me.

47 But if ^l ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

AFTER ^a these things Jē'sus went over the sea of Gal'lee, which is the sea of Ti-bē'ri-as.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased.

3 And Jē'sus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4 ^b And the passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh.

5 ¶ ^c When Jē'sus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Phil'p, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?

6 And this he said to prove him; for he himself knew what he would do.

7 Phil'p answered him, ^d Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 One of his disciples, An'drew, Sī'mon Pē'ter's brother, saith unto him,

9 There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes; ^e but what are they among so many?

10 And Jē'sus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jē'sus took the loaves; and when he had ^f given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jē'sus did, said, This is of a truth ^o that prophet that should come into the world.

15 ¶ When Jē'sus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

16 ^h And when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

17 And entered into a ship, and went over the sea toward Cā-pēr'.

na-um. And it was now dark, and Jē'sus was not come to them.

18 And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they see Jē'sus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, It is I; be not afraid.

21 Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jē'sus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gone away alone;

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Ti-bē'ri-as nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks:)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jē'sus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Cā-pēr-na-um, seeking for Jē'sus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rāb'bī, when camest thou hither?

26 Jē'sus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.

27 Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

29 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, ^kThis is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

30 They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work?

31 ^mOur fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, ⁿHe gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jē'sus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Mō'ses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jē'sus said unto them, I am the bread of life: ^ohe that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, That ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and ^phim that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

38 For I came down from heaven, ^qnot to do mine own will, ^rbut the will of him that sent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me; ^sthat of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, ^tthat every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which came down from heaven.

42 And they said, Is not this Jē'sus, the son of Jō'seph, whose father and mother we know? how is it then that he saith, I came down from heaven?

43 Jē'sus therefore answered and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 ^uIt is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 ^vNot that any man hath seen the Father, save ^whe which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^zHe that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

48 I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 This is the bread, which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and ^ythe bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 The Jews therefore ^zstrove among themselves, saying, ^a How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jē'sus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ^b ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, ^c dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Cā-pēr-nā-um.

60 ^d Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying: who can hear it?

61 When Jē'sus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 ^e What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

63 ^f It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they ^g are spirit, and they are life.

64 But there are some of you that believe not. For ^h Jē'sus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 ¶ From that time many of his disciples ⁱ went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jē'sus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Si'mon Pē'tēr answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life.

69 And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

70 Jē'sus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?

71 He spake of Jū'das Is-cār'ī-ot the son of Si'mon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

CHAPTER 7.

1 Jesus, exhorted by his unbelieving kinsmen to shew himself, 10 goeth secretly to the feast: 14 he teacheth in the temple. 45 The Pharisees are angry at their officers for not taking Christ.

AFTER these things Jē'sus walked in Gāl'ī-lee: for he would not walk in Jew'r'y, ^a because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 ^b Now the Jews' feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 His ^c brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Jū-dæ'a, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly. If thou do these things, shew thyself to the world.

5 For ^d neither did his brethren believe in him.

6 Then Jē'sus said unto them, ^e My time is not yet come: but your time is always ready.

7 ^f The world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, ^g because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I go not up yet unto this feast; ^h for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Gāl'ī-lee.

10 ¶ But when his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then ⁱ the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And ^j there was much murmuring among the people concerning him: for ^k some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man spake openly of him for fear of the Jews.

14 ¶ Now about the midst of the feast Jē'sus went up into the temple, and taught.

15 ^l And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man ¹ letters, having never learned?

16 Jē'sus answered them, and said, ^m My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me.

17 ⁿ If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 ^o He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 ^v Did not Mō'sēs give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? ^q Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, ^r Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 ^a Mō'sēs therefore gave unto you circumcision; (not because it is of Mō'sēs, ^t but of the fathers;) and ye on the sabbath day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath day receive circumcision, ² that the law of Mō'sēs should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because ^u I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath day?

24 ^v Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

25 Then said some of them of Jē-ry'sā-lēm, Is not this he, whom they seek to kill?

26 But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him. Do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 Then cried Jē'sus in the temple as he taught, saying, ^w Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and ^x I am not come of myself, but he that sent me ^y is true, whom ye ^z know not.

29 But ^a I know him: for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 Then they sought to take him: but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done?

32 [†] The Phār'ī-sees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him; and the Phār'ī-sees and the chief priests sent officers to take him.

36 What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, [†] thither ye cannot come?

37 In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jē'sus stood and cried, saying, ^e If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

38 ^f He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, ^g out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 ^h But this spake he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive: for the Hō'ly Ghōst was not yet ⁱ given; because that Jē'sus was not yet ^j glorified.)

40 [†] Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is ^j the Prophet.

41 Others said, ^k This is the Christ. But some said, Shall Christ come out of Gāl'ī-lee?

42 ^l Hath not the scripture said, That Christ cometh of the seed of Dā'vid, and out of the town of Bēth'-lē-hēm, ^m where Dā'vid was?

43 So there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him.

45 [†] Then came the officers to the chief priests and Phār'ī-sees; and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Phār'ī-sees, Are ye also deceived?

48 ⁿ Have any of the rulers or of the Phār'ī-sees believed on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nīc-o-dē'mus saith unto them, (^o he that came ⁴ to Jē'sus by night, being one of them,)

51 ^p Doth our law judge any man, before it hear him, and know what he doeth?

52 They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Gāl'ī-lee? Search, and look: for ^q out of Gāl'ī-lee ariseth no prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

CHAPTER 8.

1 Christ releaseth a woman taken in adultery: 12 he preacheth himself the light of the world, and justifieth his doctrine: 33 answereth the Jews.

Jē'SUS went unto the mount of Ol'ives.

2 And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them.

3 And the scribes and Phārī-sees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 ^a Now Mō'ses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jē'sus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

7 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, ^b He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, ^c being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jē'sus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jē'sus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jē'sus said unto her, ^d Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more.

12 ¶ Then spake Jē'sus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

13 The Phārī-sees therefore said unto him, ^e Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

14 Jē'sus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ^f ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 ^g Ye judge after the flesh; ^h I judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for ⁱ I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

17 ^j It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and ^k the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jē'sus answered, ^l I neither know me, nor my Father: ^m if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake Jē'sus in ⁿ the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and ^o no man laid hands on him; for ^p his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jē'sus again unto them, I go my way, and ^q ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins: whither I go, ye cannot come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go, ye cannot come.

23 And he said unto them, ^r Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ^s ye are of this world; I am not of this world.

24 I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: ^t for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jē'sus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say and to judge of you: but ^u he that sent me is true; and ^v I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jē'sus unto them, When ye have ^w lifted up the Son of man, ^x then shall ye know that I am he, and ^y that I do nothing of myself; but ^z as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

29 And ^a he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; ^b for I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these words, many believed on him.

31 Then said Jē'sus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;

32 And ye shall know the truth, and ^c the truth shall make you free.

33 ¶ They answered him, ^d We be Ā'brā'hām's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jē'sus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^e Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin.

35 And ^f the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

36 ^g If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Ā'brā'hām's seed; but ^h ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered and said unto him, ⁱ Ā'brā-hām is our father. Jē'sus saith unto them, ^j If ye were Ā'brā-hām's children, ye would do the works of Ā'brā-hām.

40 But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Ā'brā-hām.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him, We be not born of fornication; ^k we have one Father, even God.

42 Jē'sus said unto them, ^l If God were your Father, ye would love me: ^m for I proceeded forth and came from God; ⁿ neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

43 ^o Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word.

44 ^p Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and ^q abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 ^r He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Sā-mār'ī-tan, and hast a devil?

49 Jē'sus answered, I have not a devil; but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me.

50 And ^s I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^t If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. ^u Ā'brā-hām is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Ā'brā-hām, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

54 Jē'sus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: ^v it is my Father that honoureth me; of whom ye say, that he is your God:

55 Yet ^w ye have not known him; but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be a liar like

CHAPTER 9.

A blind man restored to sight.

AND as Jē'sus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, ^a who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jē'sus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: ^b but that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 ^c I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, ^d I am the light of the world.

6 When he had thus spoken, ^e he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he ^f anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay.

7 And said unto him, Go, wash ^g in the pool of Sī-lō'am, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) ^h He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.

8 ⁱ ¶ The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered and said, A man that is called Jē'sus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Sī-lō'am, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 ^j ¶ They brought to the Phār'ī-sees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And it was the sabbath day when Jē'sus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Phār'ī-sees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Therefore said some of the Phārī-sees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, ^hHow can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And ⁱthere was a division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, ^jHe is a prophet.

18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: he is of age; ask him: he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because ^kthey feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he ^lshould be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, ^mGive God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner orno, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Mō'ses' disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Mō'ses: as for this fellow, ⁿwe know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, ^oWhy herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

34 They answered and said unto him, Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they ²cast him out.

CHAPTER 10.

1 Christ is the door, and the good shepherd. 19 Various opinions of him. 22 He proveth by his works that he is Christ, and asserteth his unity with the Father.

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, ^aHe that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that entereth in by the ^bdoor is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him ^cthe porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 ^dAnd a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This parable spake Jē'sus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jē'sus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am ^ethe door of the sheep.

8 ^fAll that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

9 I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

10 ^o The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

11 ^h I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

12 But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and ^lleaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am the good shepherd, and ^j know my sheep, and ^k am known of mine.

15 As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And ^l other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; ^m and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth my Father love me, ⁿ because I lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. ^o This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 ¶ There was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad; why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil. ^p Can a devil open the eyes of the blind?

22 ¶ And it was at Jê-rî/sâ-lêm the feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 And Jê'sus was in the temple ^q in Sô'lo-mon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou ^r make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

25 Jê'sus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 But ^s ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

29 ^a My Father, ^b which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

30 ^c I and my Father are one.

31 Then the Jews took up stones again to stone him.

32 Jê'sus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, ^d makest thyself God.

34 Jê'sus answered them, ^e Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods?

38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, ^k that the Father is in me, and I in him.

39 Therefore they sought again to take him: but he escaped out of their hand,

40 And went away again beyond Jôr'dan into the place ^l where Jôhn at first baptized; and there he abode.

41 And many resorted unto him, and said, Jôhn did no miracle: ^m but all things that Jôhn spake of this man were true.

CHAPTER 11.

1 Christ raiseth Lazarus to life. 45 Many Jews believe. 49 Cataphas prophesieth. 54 Jesus hid himself.

NOW a certain man was sick, named Lâz'a-rus, of Bêth'â-n'y, the town of ^a Mâ'r'y and her sister Mâr'thâ.

2 (^b It was that Mâ'r'y which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lâz'a-rus was sick.)

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jê'sus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jē'sus loved Mār'thā, and her sister, and Lāz'a-rus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, ^d he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Jū-dæ'a again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, ^e the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jē'sus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? ^f If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But ^g if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lāz'a-rus ^h sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jē'sus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jē'sus unto them plainly, Lāz'a-rus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.

16 Then said Thōm'as, which is called Did'y-mus, unto his fellow-disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

17 Then when Jē'sus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.

18 Now Bēth'ā-n'y was nigh unto Jē-rū'sā-lēm, ⁱ about fifteen furlongs off:

19 And many of the Jews came to Mār'thā and Mār'y, to comfort them concerning their brother.

20 Then Mār'thā, as soon as she heard that Jē'sus was coming, went and met him: but Mār'y sat still in the house.

21 Then said Mār'thā unto Jē'sus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

22 But I know, that even now, ^j whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jē'sus saith unto her, Thy brother shall ^k rise again.

24 Mār'thā saith unto him, ^l I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

26 And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: ^o I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mār'y her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

29 As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 Now Jē'sus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Mār'thā met him.

31 The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mār'y, that she rose up hastily and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.

32 Then when Mār'y was come where Jē'sus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33 When Jē'sus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and ² was troubled,

34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 ^p Jē'sus wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold how he loved him!

37 And some of them said, Could not this man, ^q which opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?

38 Jē'sus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it.

39 Jē'sus said, Take ye away the stone. Mār'thā, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jē'sus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jē'sus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but ^r because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lāz'a-rus, ^s come forth.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jē'sus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mā'rŷ, and had seen the things which Jē'sus did, believed on him.

46 But some of them went their ways to the Phār'i-sees, and told them what things Jē'sus had done.

47 ¶ Then gathered the chief priests and the Phār'i-sees a council, and said, What do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and the Rō-mans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them, named Cā-ja-phās, being the high priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all,

50 Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year, he prophesied that Jē'sus should die for that nation;

52 And not for that nation only, but that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jē'sus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called E'phrā-īm, and there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And the Jews' passover was nigh at hand: and many went out of the country up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm before the passover, to purify themselves.

56 ¶ Then sought they for Jē'sus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the chief priests and the Phār'i-sees had given a commandment, that, if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

where Lāz'a-rus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 There they made him a supper; and Mār'thā served: but Lāz'a-rus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took Mār'ŷ a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jē'sus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Jū'das Īs-cār'I-ot, Sī'mon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 Then said Jē'sus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For the poor always ye have with you; but me ye have not always.

9 Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came not for Jē'sus' sake only, but that they might see Lāz'a-rus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

10 ¶ But the chief priests consulted that they might put Lāz'a-rus also to death;

11 Because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jē'sus.

12 ¶ On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jē'sus was coming to Jē-ru'sā-lēm,

13 Took branches of palm trees and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hō-sān'nā: Blessed is the King of Īs-ra-el that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And Jē'sus, when he had found a young ass, sat thereon; as it is written,

15 Fear not, daughter of Sī'ōn: behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 These things understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jē'sus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him when he called Lāz'a-rus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.

18 For this cause the people also met him, for that they heard that he had done this miracle.

19 The Phā'rī-sees therefore said among themselves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? behold, the world is gone after him.

20 ¶ And there ⁿwere certain Greeks among them, ^othat came up to worship at the feast:

21 The same came therefore to Phil'ip, which was of Bēth-sā'f-dā of Gāl'ī-lee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jē'sus.

22 Phil'ip cometh and telleth An'drew: and again An'drew and Phil'ip tell Jē'sus.

23 ¶ And Jē'sus answered them, saying, ^pThe hour is come, that the Son of man should be glorified.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, ^qExcept a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 ^rHe that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 If any man serve me, let him follow me; and ^swhere I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

27 ^tNow is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: ^ubut for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify thy name. ^vThen came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 The people therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 Jē'sus answered and said, ^wThis voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now shall ^xthe prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw ^yall men unto me.

33 This he said, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, ^zWe have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man?

35 Then Jē'sus said unto them, Yet a little while ^ais the light with you. ^bWalk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for ^che that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.

the light, that ye may be the ^achildren of light. These things spake Jē'sus, and departed, and did hide himself from them.

37 ¶ But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him:

38 That the saying of Ê-sā'jas the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, ^cLord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not believe, because that Ê-sā'jas said again,

40 ^dHe hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them.

41 ^eThese things said Ê-sā'jas, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 ¶ Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but because of the Phā'rī-sees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue:

43 ^fFor they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 ¶ Jē'sus cried and said, ^gHe that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me.

45 And ^hhe that seeth me seeth him that sent me.

46 ⁱI am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, ^jI judge him not: for ^kI came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 ^lHe that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: ^mthe word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

49 For ⁿI have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

CHAPTER 13.

1 Jesus washeth his disciples' feet: 18 foretelleth his betrayal: 36 forewarneth Peter of his denial.

NOW before the feast of the passover, when Jē'sus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.

2 And supper being ended, ^athe devil having now put into the heart of Jū'das Is-cār'i-ot, Si'mon's son, to betray him;

3 Jē'sus knowing ^b that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God;

4 ^c He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Si'mon Pē'tēr: and ¹ Pē'tēr saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jē'sus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.

8 Pē'tēr saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jē'sus answered him, ^e If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me.

9 Si'mon Pē'tēr saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10 Jē'sus saith to him, ^f He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ^g ye are clean, but not all.

11 For he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 ^h Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

14 ⁱ If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ^j ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For ^k I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16 ^l Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17 ^m If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

18 ¶ I speak not of you all: ⁿ I know whom I have chosen: but that the scripture may be fulfilled, ^o He that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me.

19 ² Now I tell you before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he.

20 ^p Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

21 ^a When Jē'sus had thus said, ^b he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that ^c one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now ^d there was leaning on Jē'sus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jē'sus loved.

24 Si'mon Pē'tēr therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom he spake.

25 He then lying on Jē'sus' breast saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jē'sus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a ^e sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Jū'das Is-cār'i-ot, the son of Si'mon.

27 And ^f after the sop Sā'tan entered into him. Then said Jē'sus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because ^g Jū'das had the bag, that Jē'sus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor.

30 He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night.

31 ¶ Therefore, when he was gone out, Jē'sus said, Now is the Son of man glorified, and ^h God is glorified in him.

32 ⁱ If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 ^j A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have ^k love one to another.

36 ¶ Si'mon Pē'tēr said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jē'sus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; but ^l thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Pē'tēr said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will ^m lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jē'sus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied me thrice.

CHAPTER 14.

1 Christ comforteth his disciples: 5 pro'esseth himself the way, the truth, and the life, 9 and that he is one with the Father: 27 leaveth his peace with them.

LET not your heart be troubled: I ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 ^a In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. ^b I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, ^c I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that ^d where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thōm'as saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

6 Jē'sus saith unto him, I am ^e the way, ^f the truth, and ^g the life: ^h no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

7 ⁱ If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Phil'ip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jē'sus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Phil'ip? ^j he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that ^k I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you ^l I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake.

12 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father.

13 ^m And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 ¶ ⁿ If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and ^o he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

21 ^u He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

22 Jū'das saith unto him, not Iscār'iot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jē'sus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, ^v and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and ^w the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

28 Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for ^a my Father is greater than I.

29 And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 Hereafter I will not talk much with you: ^b for the prince of this world cometh, and ^c hath nothing in me.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father; and ^d as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. ^e Arise, let us go hence.

CHAPTER 15.

1 The consolation and mutual love between Christ and his members, under the parable of the vine. 25 The office of the Holy Ghost.

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 ^a Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 ^b Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 ^c Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much ^d fruit: for ¹ without me ye can do nothing.

6 ^e If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

8 ^f Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

9 As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

10 If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and ^g that your joy might be full.

12 ^h This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 ⁱ Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

15 Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; ^j for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.

16 ^k Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ^l ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 These things I command you, that ye love one another.

18 ^m If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; ¹ if they have kept my saying, they will keep yours also.

21 But all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

22 ² If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: ³ but now they have no ² cloke for their sin.

23 ⁴ He that hateth me hateth my Father also.

24 ⁵ If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, ⁶ They hated me without a cause.

26 ⁷ But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, ⁸ he shall testify of me:

27 And ⁹ ye also shall bear witness, because ¹⁰ ye have been with me from the beginning.

CHAPTER 16.

1 Christ warneth his disciples of their sufferings. 7 Office of the Comforter. 29 The disciples profess their faith in Christ. 33 Peace in Christ, and in the world affliction.

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended.

2 They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, ^a that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

3 And ^b these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

7 Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but ^c if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will ¹reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment:

9 ^a Of sin, because they believe not on me;

10 ^a Of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

11 ^f Of judgment, because ^a the prince of this world is judged.

12 I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, ^a he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will ⁱ shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 ^f All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

16 A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father?

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith.

19 Now Jē'sus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and ^a your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. ^f Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in ² proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in ³ proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 ^m For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and ⁿ have believed that I came out from God.

28 ^a I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no ⁴ proverb.

30 Now are we sure that ^a thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this ^a we believe that thou camest forth from God.

31 Jē'sus answered them, Do ye now believe?

32 Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to ^b his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I have spoken unto you, that ^a in me ye might have peace. ^a In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; ^a I have overcome the world.

CHAPTER 17.

1 Christ prayeth to his Father to glorify him, 6 to preserve his apostles, 20 and all other believers.

THESE words spake Jē'sus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee:

2 ^a As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many ^b as thou hast given him.

3 And ^c this is life eternal, that they might know thee ^a the only true God, and Jē'sus Christ whom thou hast sent.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory ^e which I had with thee before the world was.

6 ^f I have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me.

9 I pray for them: o I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10 h And all mine are thine, and thine are mine; and I am glorified in them.

11 And now I am no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, i keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, j as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, k I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and l none of them is lost, m but the son of perdition; n that the scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word; o and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but p that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

16 They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world.

19 And q for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be r sanctified through the truth.

20 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;

21 That they all may be one; as s thou, Father, t art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.

22 And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; u that they may be one, even as we are one:

23 I in them, and thou in me, v that they may be made w perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

CHAPTER 18.

1 Judas betrayeth Jesus. 15 Peter's denial. 19 Jesus examined before Caiaphas. 28 His arraignment before Pilate.

WHEN Jē'sus had spoken these words, he a went forth with his disciples over the b brook Cē-drōn, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

2 And Jū'das also, which betrayed him, knew the place: c for Jē'sus oftentimes resorted thither with his disciples.

3 d Jū'das then, having received a band of e men and officers from the chief priests and Phār'ī-sees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Jē'sus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth. Jē'sus saith unto them, I am he. And Jū'das also, which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth.

8 Jē'sus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye seek me, let these go their way:

9 That the saying might be fulfilled, which he spake, o Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

10 j Then Sī'mon Pē'tēr having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Māl'-chus.

11 Then said Jē'sus unto Pē'tēr, Put up thy sword into the sheath: u the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

12 Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jē'sus, and bound him,

13 And h led him away to 'Ān-nas first; for he was father in law to Cā'ja-phās, which was the high priest that same year.¹

14 j Now Cā'ja-phās was he, which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 ¶ And Si'mon Pē'tēr followed Jē'sus, and so did another disciple: that disciple was known unto the high priest, and went in with Jē'sus into the palace of the high priest.

16 But Pē'tēr stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Pē'tēr.

17 Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Pē'tēr, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals; for it was cold: and they warmed themselves: and Pē'tēr stood with them, and warmed himself.

19 ¶ The high priest then asked Jē'sus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jē'sus answered him, ^k I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me, what I have said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 And when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by ^lstruck Jē'sus ²with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so?

23 Jē'sus answered him, ^m If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me?

24 Now Ān'nas had sent him bound unto Cā'ja-phās the high priest.

25 And Si'mon Pē'tēr stood and warmed himself. ⁿ They said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Pē'tēr cut off, saith, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Pē'tēr then denied again: and ^o immediately the cock crew.

28 ¶ ^p Then led they Jē'sus from Cā'ja-phās unto ³the hall of judgment: and it was early; ^q and they themselves went not into the judgment hall, lest they should be defiled; but that they might eat ^rthe passover.

29 Pī'lāte then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered and said unto him, If he were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered him up unto thee.

31 Then said Pī'lāte unto them, Take ye him, and judge him according to your law. The Jews therefore said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death:

32 ^a That the saying of Jē'sus might be fulfilled, which he spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 Then Pī'lāte entered into the judgment hall again, and called Jē'sus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews?

34 Jē'sus answered him, Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pī'lāte answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation and the chief priests have delivered thee unto me: what hast thou done?

36 ^c Jē'sus answered, ^u My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pī'lāte therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jē'sus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should ^vbear witness unto the truth. Every one that ^wis of the truth heareth my voice.

38 Pī'lāte saith unto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out again unto the Jews, and saith unto them, ^x I find in him no fault at all.

39 But ye have a custom, that I should release unto you one at the passover: will ye therefore that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

40 ^y Then cried they all again, saying, Not this man, but Bā-rāb'bas. ^z Now Bā-rāb'bas was a robber.

CHAPTER 19.

1 Christ is scourged, crowned with thorns, beaten, and crucified. 28 He dieth. 38 He is buried.

THEN ^a Pī'lāte therefore took Jē'sus, and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe,

3 And said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they smote him with their hands.

4 Pī'lāte therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, ^b that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jē'sus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pī'lāte saith unto them, Behold the man!

6 ^c When the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. Pi'l^{ate} saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, ^d We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because ^e he made himself the Son of God.

8 ¶ When Pi'l^{ate} therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid; ⁹ And went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jē'sus, Whence art thou? ^f But Jē'sus gave him no answer.

10 Then saith Pi'l^{ate} unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?

11 Jē'sus answered, ^g Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin.

12 And from thenceforth Pi'l^{ate} sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, ^h If thou let this man go, thou art not Cæ'sar's friend: ⁱ whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cæ'sar.

13 ¶ When Pi'l^{ate} therefore heard that saying, he brought Jē'sus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hē'brew, ^j Gāb'ba-thā.

14 And ^k it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King!

15 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pi'l^{ate} saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, ^l We have no king but Cæ'sar.

16 ^m Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jē'sus, and led him away.

17 And he bearing his cross ⁿ went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hē'brew Gōl'gō-thā:

18 ^o Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jē'sus in the midst.

19 ¶ And Pi'l^{ate} wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, JĒ'SUS OF NĀZ'Ā-RĒTH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jē'sus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hē'brew, and Greek, and Lāt'in.

21 Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pi'l^{ate}, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.

22 Pi'l^{ate} answered, What I have written I have written.

23 ¶ Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jē'sus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, ² woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, ³ They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 ¶ Now there stood by the cross of Jē'sus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mā'rŷ the wife of ⁴ Clē'q-phas, and Mā'rŷ Māg-da-lē'nē.

26 When Jē'sus therefore saw his mother, and ⁵ the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, ⁶ Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her ⁷ unto his own home.

28 ¶ After this, Jē'sus knowing that all things were now accomplished, ⁸ that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jē'sus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, ⁹ It is finished: and he bowed his head, and ¹⁰ gave up the ghost.

31 The Jews therefore, ¹¹ because it was the preparation, ¹² that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was ¹³ an high day,) besought Pi'l^{ate} that their legs might be broken, and ¹⁴ that they might be taken away.

32 Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jē'sus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs:

34 But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith ¹⁵ came there out blood and water.

35 ¹⁶ And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe.

36 For these things were done, ¹⁷ that the scripture should be fulfilled, A bone of him shall not be broken.

37 And again another scripture saith, ^b They shall look on him whom they pierced.

38 ¶ And after this Jō'seph of Arimā-thā'ā, being a disciple of Jē'sus, but secretly ^d for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jē'sus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jē'sus.

39 And there came also ^c Nic-o-dē-mus, which at the first came to Jē'sus by night, and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jē'sus, and ^e wound it in linen clothes with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a ^b new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid.

42 There laid they Jē'sus therefore because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

CHAPTER 20.

Jesus appeareth to Mary, and to his disciples.

THE ^a first day of the week cometh Mā'r'y Māg-da-lē'nē early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Sī'mon Pē'tēr, and to the ^b other disciple, whom Jē'sus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 ^c Pē'tēr therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Pē'tēr, and came first to the sepulchre. 5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw ^d the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Sī'mon Pē'tēr following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

7 And ^e the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the ^f scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

13 And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 ^a And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jē'sus standing, and ⁱ knew not that it was Jē'sus.

15 Jē'sus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jē'sus saith unto her, Mā'r'y. She turned herself, and saith unto him, ^j Rāb-bō'nī; which is to say, Master.

17 Jē'sus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to ^k my brethren, and say unto them, ^l I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to ^m my God, and your God.

18 ⁿ Mā'r'y Māg-da-lē'nē came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 ¶ ^o Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jē'sus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he ^p shewed unto them his hands and his side. ^q Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

21 Then said Jē'sus to them again, Peace be unto you: ^r as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

22 And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Hō'l'y Ghōst: 23 ^s Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

24 ¶ But Thōm'as, one of the twelve, ^t called Dīd'y-mus, was not with them when Jē'sus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 ¶ And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thōm'as with them: then came Jē'sus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, "Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thōm'as, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and v reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thōm'as answered and said unto him, "My Lord and my God.

29 Jē'sus saith unto him, Thōm'as, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: z blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

30 ¶ v And many other signs truly did Jē'sus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book:

31 z But these are written, that ye might believe that Jē'sus is the Christ, the Son of God; a and that believing ye might have life through his name.

CHAPTER 21.

1 Christ appeareth to his disciples. 15 His charge to Peter: 18 foretelleth him of his death.

AFTER these things Jē'sus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Ti-bē'r-i-as; and on this wise shewed he himself.

2 There were together Sī'mon Pē'tēr, and Thōm'as called Did'y-mus, and a Nā-thān'a-el of Cā'nā in Gāl-i-lee, and b the sons of Zēb'e-dee, and two other of his disciples.

3 Sī'mon Pē'tēr saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jē'sus stood on the shore: but the disciples c knew not that it was Jē'sus.

5 Then d Jē'sus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 And he said unto them, e Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore f that disciple whom Jē'sus loved saith unto Pē'tēr, It is the Lord. Now when Sī'mon Pē'tēr heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was naked,) and g did cast himself into the sea.

from land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) dragging the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they h saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jē'sus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

11 Sī'mon Pē'tēr went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jē'sus saith unto them, i Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord.

13 Jē'sus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise.

14 This is now j the third time that Jē'sus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

15 ¶ So when they had dined, Jē'sus saith to Sī'mon Pē'tēr, Sī'mon, son of Jō'nas, k lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; l thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, m Feed my lambs.

16 He saith to him again the second time, Sī'mon, son of Jō'nas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. n He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

17 He saith unto him o the third time, Sī'mon, son of Jō'nas, lovest thou me? Pē'tēr was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, p thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jē'sus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

18 q Verily, verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

19 This spake he, signifying r by what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me.

20 Then Pē'tēr, turning about, seeth the disciple s whom Jē'sus loved following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 Pē'tēr seeing him saith to Jē'sus, Lord, and what shall this man do?

22 Jē'sus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is u that to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jē'sus said not unto him, He shall not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?

24 This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and ^v we know that his testimony is true.

25 And there are also many other things which Jē'sus did, the which, if they should be written every one, ^w I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. Amen.

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.

CHAPTER 1.

1 A relation of part of Christ's history after his passion: 9 his ascension. 26 Matthias ordained in place of Judas Iscariot.

THE former treatise have I made, ^a O Thē-ōph'ē-lūs, of all that Jē'sus began both to do and teach,

2 ^b Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Hō'l'y Ghōst had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen:

3 ^c To whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:

4 And, ^d being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jē-ry'-sā-lēm, but wait for the promise of the Father, ^e which, saith he, ye have heard of me.

5 ^f For Jōhn truly baptized with water; ^g but ye shall be baptized with the Hō'l'y Ghōst not many days hence.

6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time ^h restore again the kingdom to Is'ra-el?

7 And he said unto them, ⁱ It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 But ye shall receive ^j power, after that the Hō'l'y Ghōst is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jē-ry'-sā-lēm, and in all Jū-dæ'-ā, and in Sā-mā'-rī-ā, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 ^k And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them ^l in white apparel;

11 Which also said, Ye men of Gal'lee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jē'sus, which is taken up from you into heaven, ^a shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 Then returned they unto Jē-ry'-sā-lēm from the ^b mount called Ōl'j-vét, which is from Jē-ry'-sā-lēm a ^c sabbath day's journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up ^d into an upper room, where abode both Pē'tēr, and Jāmes, and Jōhn, and Āndrew, Phil'ip, and Thōm'as, Bār-thōl'ō-mew, and Māt'thew, Jāmes the son of Āl-phæ'us, and ^e Sī'mon Zē-lō'tēs, and ^f Jū'das the brother of Jāmes.

14 These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with ^g the women, and Mā'r'y the mother of Jē'sus, and with ^h his brethren.

15 ⁱ And in those days Pē'tēr stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number ^j of names together were about an hundred and twenty,)

16 Men and brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled, ^k which the Hō'l'y Ghōst by the mouth of Dā'vid spake before concerning Jū'das, ^l which was guide to them that took Jē'sus.

17 For ^m he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of ⁿ this ministry.

18 ^o Now this man purchased a field with ^p the reward of iniquity; and ^q falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jē-ry'-sā-lēm; in so much as that field is called in their proper tongue, Ā-cēl'da-mā, that is to say, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, ^r Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein:

and his ³ bishoprick let another take.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jē'sus went in and out among us,

22 Beginning from the baptism of Jōhn, unto that same day that he was taken up from us, must one be ordained ⁶ to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they appointed two, Jō'seph called Bār'sa-bās, who was surnamed Jūs'tus, and Māt-thi'as.

24 And they prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, ^c which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen,

25 That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Jūd'as by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their ^d lots; and the lot fell upon Māt-thi'as; and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And ^d they were all filled with the Hō'l'y Ghōst, and began ^e to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were ^f dwelling at Jē-ry'sā-lēm Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now ¹ when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were ² confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language.

hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this?

13 ⁱ Others mocking said, These men are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Pē'tēr, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Jū-dæ-ā, and all ye that dwell at Jē-ry'sā-lēm, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Jō'el;

17 ^j And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, ^k I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and ^l your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

18 And on my servants and ^m on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; ⁿ and they shall prophesy:

19 ^o And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke:

20 ^p The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come:

21 And it shall come to pass, that ^q whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

22 Ye men of Is-ra-el, hear these words; Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth, a man approved of God among you ^r by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know:

23 Him, ^s being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:

24 ^t Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

25 For Dā'vid speaketh concerning him, ^u I foresaw the Lord always before my face, for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved:

26 Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad; moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope:

27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine ^v Holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast made known to me the ways of life; thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, ³let me freely speak unto you ^v of the patriarch Dā'vid, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day.

30 Therefore being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of ^w the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne;

31 He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, ^x that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

32 This Jē'sus hath God raised up, ^y whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore ^z being by the right hand of God exalted, and ^a having received of the Father the promise of the Hō'ly Ghōst, he hath ^b shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

34 For Dā'vid is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, ^c The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Is'ra-el know assuredly, that God ^d hath made that same Jē'sus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

37 ¶ Now when they heard this, ^e they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Pē'tēr and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 Then Pē'tēr said unto them, ^f Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jē'sus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Hō'ly Ghōst.

39 For the ^g promise is unto you, and ^h to your children, and ⁱ to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation.

41 ¶ Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 ^j And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul: and ^k many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

44 And all that believed were to-

CHAPTER 3.

Peter and John cure a lame man.

NOW Pē'tēr and Jōhn went up together into the temple at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour.

2 And a certain man lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, ^a to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;

3 Who seeing Pē'tēr and Jōhn about to go into the temple asked an alms.

4 And Pē'tēr, fastening his eyes upon him with Jōhn, said, Look on us.

5 And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Pē'tēr said, ^b Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: ^c In the name of Jē'sus Christ of Nāz'a-rēth rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ancle bones received strength.

8 And he ^d leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

9 ^e And all the people saw him walking and praising God:

10 And they knew that it was he which sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed held Pē'tēr and Jōhn, all the people ran together unto them in the porch ^f that is called Sōl'o-mon's, greatly wondering.

12 ¶ And when Pē'tēr saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Is'ra-el, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, ^g as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 ^h The God of Ā'brā'hām, and of Isaac, and of Jā'cob, the God of our fathers, ¹hath glorified his Son Jē'sus; whom ye delivered up, and denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 But ye denied ²the Holy One ³and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you;

15 And killed the ¹Prince of life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses.

16 ¹And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 And now, brethren, I wot that ^mthrough ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But those things, which God before had shewed ⁿby the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

19 ¶ Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

20 And he shall send Jē'sus Christ, which before was preached unto you:

21 ^oWhom the heaven must receive until the times of ^prestitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.

22 For Mō'ses truly said unto the fathers, ^qA prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, ^rlike unto me; him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you.

23 And it shall come to pass, that every ^ssoul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people.

24 Yea, and all the prophets from Sām'u-el and those that follow after, as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days.

25 ^tYe are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying unto ^uAbrahām, ^vAnd in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

26 Unto you first God, having raised up his Son Jē'sus, sent him to bless you, in turning away every one of you from his iniquities.

⁶ And ^bĀn'nas the high priest, and Cā'ja-phās, and Jōhn, and Āl-ēx-ān-dēr, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jē-ry'sā-lēm.

⁸ ^dThen Pētēr, filled with the Hō'l'y Ghōst, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Is'ra-el,

⁹ If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;

¹⁰ Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Is'ra-el, ^ethat by the name of Jē'sus Christ of Nāz'a-rēth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

¹¹ ^fThis is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

¹² ^gNeither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

¹³ ¶ Now when they saw the boldness of Pētēr and Jōhn, ^hand perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jē'sus.

¹⁴ And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

¹⁵ But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves,

¹⁶ Saying, ⁱWhat shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable miracle hath been done by them ^jis manifest to all them that dwell in Jē-ry'sā-lēm; and we cannot deny it.

¹⁷ But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jē'sus.

19 But Pē'tēr and Jōhn answered and said unto them, ^k Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

20 ^l For we cannot but speak the things which ^m we have seen and heard.

21 So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, ⁿ because of the people: for all men glorified God for ^o that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ¶ And being let go, ^p they went to their own company, and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard that, they ^q lifted up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, ^r thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is:

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant Dā'vid hast said, ^s Why did the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For of a truth against ^t thy holy child Jē'sus, ^u whom thou hast anointed, both Hēr'od, and Pōn'ti'us Pilate, with the Gēn'tiles, and the people of I's'rā-el, were gathered together, 28 ^v For to do whatsoever thy hand and thy counsel determined before to be done.

29 And now, Lord, behold their threatenings: and grant unto thy servants, ^w that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal; ^x and that signs and wonders may be done ^y by the name of thy holy child Jē'sus.

31 ¶ And when they had prayed, ^z the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Hō'l'y Ghōst, and they spake the word of God with boldness.

32 And the multitude of them that believed ^a were of one heart and of one soul: ^b neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed ^a was his own; but they had all things common.

33 And with ^c great power gave the apostles ^d witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jē'sus: and ^e great grace was upon them all.

34 ^f Neither was there any among them that lacked: ^g for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 And laid them down at the apostles' feet: ^h and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Jō'sēs, who by the apostles was surnamed Bār'na-bās, (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation,) a Le'vite, and of the country of Cýprus, 37 ⁱ Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Ananias and Sapphira at Peter's rebuke fall down dead. 17 The apostles imprisoned, but delivered by an angel.

BUT a certain man named Ān-a-ni'as, with Sāp-phi-rā his wife, sold a possession,

2 ^a And kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, and brought a certain part, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

3 ^b But Pē'tēr said, Ān-a-ni'as, why hath ^c Sā'tan filled thine heart ^d to lie to the Hō'l'y Ghōst, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 And Ān-a-ni'as hearing these words ^e fell down, and gave up the ghost: and great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men arose, ^f wound him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in.

8 And Pē'tēr answered unto her, Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Pē'tēr said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together ^g to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then fell she down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and, carrying her forth, buried her by her husband.

11 And great fear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things.

12 ¶ And ^o by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; ^h and they were all with one accord in Sôl'o-môh's porch.

13 And ⁱ of the rest durst no man join himself to them: ^j but the people magnified them.

14 And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women.)

15 Inasmuch that they brought forth the sick ² into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, ^k that at the least the shadow of Pê'têr passing by might overshadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jê-rû'sâ-lêm, bringing ^l sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one.

17 ¶ ^m Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him, (which is the sect of the Sâd'du-çees,) and were filled with ⁿ indignation,

18 And laid their hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19 But ^o the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors, and brought them forth, and said,

20 Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people ^p all the words of this life.

21 And when they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. ^q But the high priest came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the senate of the children of Is'ra-el, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told,

23 Saying, The prison truly found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Now when the high priest and ^r the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 Then came one and told them, saying, Behold, the men whom ye put in prison are standing in the temple, and teaching the people.

26 Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence: ^a for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council: and the high priest asked them,

28 Saying, ^b Did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name? and, behold, ye have filled Jê-rû'sâ-lêm with your doctrine, ^c and intend to bring this man's ^d blood upon us.

29 ¶ Then Pê'têr and the other apostles answered and said, ^e We ought to obey God rather than men.

30 The God of our fathers raised up Jê'sus, whom ye slew and ^f hanged on a tree.

31 ^g Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be ^h a Prince and ⁱ a Saviour, ^j for to give repentance to Is'ra-el, and forgiveness of sins.

32 And ^k we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Hô'lý Ghôst, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 ¶ When they heard that, they were cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them.

34 Then stood there up one in the council, a Phâr'i-see, named ^l Gâmâ-li-el, a doctor of the law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space;

35 And said unto them, Ye men of Is'ra-el, take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.

36 For before these days rose up Theû'das, boasting himself to be somebody; to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain; and all, as many as ^m obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man rose up Jû'das of Gâl'i-lee in the ⁿ days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: he also perished; and all, even as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone: ^o for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought:

39 ^p But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even ^q to fight against God.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had called the apostles, ^r and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jê'sus, and let them go.

41 ¶ And they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jē'sus Christ.

CHAPTER 6.

1 The apostles' care for the poor, and preaching of the word. 5 Seven deacons chosen.

AND in those days, ^awhen the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the ^bGrē'ojans against the Hē'brews, because their widows were neglected ^cin the daily ministrations.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, ^dIt is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, ^elook ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Hō'lý Ghōst and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we ^fwill give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 ¶ And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stē'phen, ^ga man full of faith and of the Hō'lý Ghōst, and ^hPhil'ip, and Prōch'q-rus, and Ni-cā'nor, and Ti'mon, and Pār'me-nās, and Nic'q-lās a proselyte of An'ti-ōch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and ⁱwhen they had prayed, ^jthey laid their hands on them.

7 And ^kthe word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jē-rú'sā-lēm greatly; and a great company ^lof the priests were obedient to the faith.

8 And Stē'phen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 ¶ Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Lib'ēr-tines, and Cý-rē'n-ans, and Al-ēx-ān'dri-ans, and of them of Cī-lí'cía and of A'sjá, disputing with Stē'phen.

10 And ^mthey were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

11 ⁿThen they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Mō'sēs, and against God.

12 And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak

CHAPTER 7.

1 Stephen, being called, answereth to his accusation of blasphemy. 54 He is stoned to death.

THEN said the high priest, Are these things so?

2 And he said, Men, brethren, and fathers, hearken; The God of glory appeared unto our father Ā'brā'hām, when he was in Mēs-o-pō-tā-mi-ā, before he dwelt in Chār'ran,

3 And said unto him, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land ^awhich I shall shew thee.

4 Then ^bcame he out of the land of the Chāl-dæ'an, and dwelt in Chār'ran: and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on: ^cyet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God spake on this wise, ^dThat his seed should sojourn in a strange land; and that they should bring them into bondage, and entreat them evil ^efour hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they shall be in bondage will I judge, said God: and after that shall they come forth, and ^fserve me in this place.

8 ^gAnd he gave him the covenant of circumcision: ^hand so Ā'brā'hām begat Ī'saac, and circumsised him the eighth day; ⁱand Ī'saac begat Jā'qob; and ^jJā'qob begat the twelve patriarchs.

9 ^kAnd the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Jō'seph into Ē'gýpt: ^lbut God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, ^mand gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Phā'raōh king of Ē'gýpt; and he made him governor over Ē'gýpt and all his house.

11 Now there came a dearth over all the land of Ē'gýpt and Chā'nāan, and great affliction: and our fathers found no sustenance.

12 But when Jā'qob heard that there was corn in Ē'gýpt, he sent out our fathers first.

13 And at the second time Jō'seph was made known to his brethren; and Jō'seph's kindred was made known unto Phā'raōh.

14 ^a Then sent Jō'seph, and called his father Jā'qob to him, and all his kindred, ^o threescore and fifteen souls.

15 So Jā'qob went down into Ē'ġypt, ^p and died, he, and our fathers,

16 And ^q were carried over into Sŷ'chem, and laid in ^r the sepulchre that Ā'brā'hām bought for a sum of money of the sons of Ēm'môr the father of Sŷ'chem.

17 But when ^s the time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Ā'brā'hām, the people grew and multiplied in Ē'ġypt, 18 Till another king arose, which knew not Jō'seph.

19 The same dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, so that they cast out their young children, to the end they might not live.

20 ^t In which time Mō'ses was born, and ^u was ^v exceeding fair, and nourished up in his father's house three months:

21 And when he was cast out, Phā'raōh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son.

22 And Mō'ses was learned in all the wisdom of the Ē-ġypt'tjans, and was ^w mighty in words and in deeds.

23 ^x And when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren the children of Īs'ra-el.

24 And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Ē-ġypt'tjan:

25 ^y For he supposed his brethren would have understood how that God by his hand would deliver them: but they understood not.

26 And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong thrust him away, saying, ^z Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou diddest the Ē-ġypt'tjan yesterday?

29 ^{aa} Then fled Mō'ses at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Mā'di-an, where he ^{ab} begat two sons.

30 And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sī'nā ^{ac} an angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush.

31 When Mō'ses saw it, he won-

36 ^x He brought them out, after that he had shewed wonders and signs in the land of Ē'ġypt, and in the Red sea, ^y and in the wilderness forty years.

37 ¶ This is that Mō'ses, which said unto the children of Īs'ra-el, ^z A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, ^{aa} like unto me; ^{ab} him shall ye hear.

38 ^{ac} This is he, that was in the church in the wilderness with ^{ad} the angel which spake to him in the mount Sī'nā, and ^{ae} with our fathers: ^{af} who received the lively oracles: give unto us:

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Ē'ġypt,

40 ^{ag} Saying unto Aār'on, Make us gods to go before us: for ^{ah} as for this Mō'ses, which brought us out of the land of Ē'ġypt, we wot not what is become of him.

41 And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then ^{ai} God turned, and gave them up to worship ^{aj} the host of heaven; as it is written in the book of the prophets, ^{ak} O ye house of Īs'ra-el, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices ^{al} by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

43 Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Mō'teh, and the star of your god Rem'phan, figures which ye made to worship them: and I will carry you away beyond Bāb'ŷ-lon.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, ^a speaking unto Mō'ses, [†] that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 [†] Which also our fathers ⁵ that came after brought in with ⁶ Jē'sus into the possession of the Gēn'tiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of Dā'vid;

46 [†] Who found favour before God, and ^a desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jā'eōb.

47 But Sōl'o-mon built him an house.

48 Howbeit [†] the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 [†] Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 [†] Ye [†] stiffnecked and [†] uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Hō'ly Ghōst: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 [†] Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of [†] the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 [†] Who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 [†] When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Hō'ly Ghōst, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jē'sus standing on the right hand of God, 56 And said, Behold, ^b I see the heavens opened, and the ^c Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

57 Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord,

58 And ^a cast him out of the city, ^a and stoned him: and [†] the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.

59 And they stoned Stē'phen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jē'sus, [†] receive my spirit.

60 And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, ^a Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he [†] fell asleep.

AND ^a Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jē-ru'sā-lēm; and ^b they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Jū-dæ'a and Sā-mā'ri-ā, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stē'phen to his burial, and ^a made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul, ^a he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

4 Therefore ^a they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

5 Then [†] Phil'ip went down to the city of Sā-mā'ri-ā, and ^a preached Christ unto them.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Phil'ip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For [†] unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 But there was a certain man, called Si'mon, which beforetime in the same city ^a used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Sā-mā'ri-ā, [†] giving out that himself was some great one:

10 To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they believed Phil'ip preaching the things [†] concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jē'sus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Si'mon himself ^a believed also: and when he was baptized, he continued with Phil'ip, and wondered, beholding the [†] miracles and signs which were done.

14 Now when the apostles which were at Jē-ru'sā-lēm heard that Sā-mā'ri-ā had received the word of God, they sent unto them Pē'ter and Jōhn:

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, [†] that they might receive the Hō'ly Ghōst:

16 (For [†] as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only [†] they were baptized in [†] the name of the Lord Jē'sus.)

17 Then ^p laid they their hands on them, and they received the Hō'ly Ghōst.

18 And when Sī'mon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Hō'ly Ghōst was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Hō'ly Ghōst.

20 But Pē'tēr said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because ^q thou hast thought that ^r the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy ^s heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, ^t if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou art in ^u the gall of bitterness, and ^v in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Sī'mon, and said, ^w Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Sā-mār'i-tang.

26 ^x And the angel of the Lord spake unto Phil'ip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jē-ru'sā-lēm unto Gā'zā, which is desert.

27 And he arose and went: and, behold, ^y a man of Ē-thi-ō'p-i-ā, an eunuch of great authority unto Cān'dā-qē queen of the Ē-thi-ō'p-i-ang, who had the charge of all her treasure, and ^z had come to Jē-ru'sā-lēm for to worship, 28 Was returning, and sitting in his chariot read Ē-sā'ias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Phil'ip, Go near, and join thyself to this chariot.

30 And Phil'ip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Ē-sā'ias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readeest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he desired Phil'ip that he would come up and sit with him.

32 The place of the scripture which he read was this, ^a He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth:

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, ^b here is water; ^c what doth hinder me to be baptized?

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Phil'ip and the eunuch; and he baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, ^f the Spirit of the Lord caught away Phil'ip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Phil'ip was found ^g at Ā-zō'tus: and passing through he preached in all the cities, till he came to Cēs-ā-rē-ā.

CHAPTER 9.

1 Saul, going toward Damascus, is called by Christ. 10 Ananias is sent to him, and he is baptized, 20 and preacheth Christ. 32 Miracles wrought by Peter.

AND ^a Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest,

2 And desired of him letters to Dā-mās'cus to the synagogues, that if he found any ^b of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

3 And ^c as he journeyed, he came near Dā-mās'cus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven:

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard ^d a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, ^e why persecutest thou me?

5 And he said, ^f Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jē'sus whom thou persecutest: ^g it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he trembling and astonished said, Lord, ^h what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And ⁱ the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Dā-mās'cus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Dā-mās'cus, named Ān-a-ni'as; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ān-a-ni'as. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Jū'das for one called Saul, ^h of Tār'sus: for, behold, he prayeth, 12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ān-a-ni'as coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ān-a-ni'as answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jē-ry'sā-lēm:

14 And here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all ⁱ that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for ^j he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before ^k the Ġen'tiles, and ^l kings, and the children of Īs-ra-el:

16 For ^m I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 ⁿ And Ān-a-ni'as went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jē'sus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and ^o be filled with the Hō'ly Ghōst.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. ^p Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Dā-mās'cus.

20 And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, ^q that he is the Son of God.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said; ^r Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jē-ry'sā-lēm, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, ^s and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Dā-mās'cus, proving that this is very Christ.

23 ¶ And after that many days were fulfilled, ^t the Jews took counsel to kill him:

24 But their laying await was known of Saul. And they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and ^u let him down by the wall in a basket.

26 And ^v when Saul was come to Jē-ry'sā-lēm, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 ^w But Bār-na-bās took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Dā-mās'cus in the name of Jē'sus.

28 And he was with them coming in and going out at Jē-ry'sā-lēm.

29 And he spake ^x boldly in the name of the Lord Jē'sus, and disputed against the ^y Grē'cians: ^z but they went about to slay him.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cēs-a-rē'a, and sent him forth to Tār'sus.

31 ^a Then had the churches rest throughout all Jū-dæ'a and Gāl'ilee and Sā-mā-ri'a, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Hō'ly Ghōst, were multiplied.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, as Pē'tēr passed ^b throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lŷd'dā.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æ'ne-ās, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Pē'tēr said unto him, Æ'ne-ās, ^c Jē'sus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lŷd'dā and ^d Sā'ron saw him, and ^e turned to the Lord.

36 ¶ Now there was at Jōp/pā a certain disciple named Tāb'i-thā, which by interpretation is called ^f Dōr'eas: this woman was full ^g of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in ^h an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lŷd'dā was nigh to Jōp/pā, and the disciples had heard that Pē'tēr was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not ⁱ delay to come to them.

39 Then Pē'tēr arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dôr'cas made, while she was with them.

40 But Pê'têr ^a put them all forth, and ^b kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body ^c said, Tâb'i-thâ, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Pê'têr, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Jôp'pâ; ^a and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in ^c Jôp'pâ with one ^m Si'mon a tanner.

CHAPTER 10.

1 Cornelius sendeth for Peter. 34 Peter preacheth. 44 The Holy Ghost falleth on the hearers: 48 they are baptized.

THERE WAS a certain man in Çæs-a-rê-â called Côr-nê-ljus, a centurion of the band called the I-tâl-jan band,

2 ^a A devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway.

3 ^b He saw in a vision evidently about the ninth hour of the day an ^c angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Côr-nê-ljus.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, ^d Thy prayers and thine alms are come up for a memorial before God.

5 And now send men to Jôp'pâ, and call for one Si'mon, whose surname is Pê'têr:

6 He lodgeth with one ^e Si'mon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side: ^f he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Côr-nê-ljus was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him continually;

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, he sent them to Jôp'pâ.

9 ¶ On the morrow, as they went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, Pê'têr went up upon the house top to pray about ^g the sixth hour:

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into a trance,

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Pê'têr: kill, and eat.

14 But Pê'têr said, Not so, Lord; ⁱ for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time, ^j What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

17 Now while Pê'têr doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold, the men which were sent from Côr-nê-ljus had made enquiry for Si'mon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Si'mon, which was surnamed Pê'têr, were lodged there.

19 ¶ While Pê'têr thought on the vision, ^k the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 ^l Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Pê'têr went down to the men which were sent unto him from Côr-nê-ljus; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Côr-nê-ljus the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and ^m of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrow Pê'têr went away with them, and certain brethren from Jôp'pâ accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Çæs-a-rê-â. And Côr-nê-ljus waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Pê'têr was coming in, Côr-nê-ljus met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Pê'têr took him up, saying, ⁿ Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how ° that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but ° God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore come I unto you without gainsaying, ° as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me?

30 And Cōr-nē'ljus said, Four days ago I was fasting until this hour; and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and, behold, ° a man stood before me ° in bright clothing,

31 And said, Cōr-nē'ljus, ° thy prayer is heard, ° and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Jōp'pā, and call hither Si'mon, whose surname is Pē'tēr; he is lodged in the house of one Si'mon a tanner by the sea side: who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee; and thou hast well done that thou art come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 ¶ Then Pē'tēr opened his mouth, and said, ° Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:

35 But ° in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

36 The word which God sent unto the children of Is'ra-el, ° preaching peace by Jē'sus Christ: (° he is Lord of all:)

37 That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Jū-dæ'ā, and began from Gāl'ī-lee, after the baptism which Jōhn preached;

38 How ° God anointed Jē'sus of Nāz'a-rēth with the Hō'lŷ Ghōst and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; ° for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jē-ru'sā-lēm; whom they slew and hanged on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly;

41 ° Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, ° who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And ° he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify ° that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge ° of quick and dead.

witness, that through his name who-soever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

44 ¶ While Pē'tēr yet spake these words, the Hō'lŷ Ghōst fell on all them which heard the word.

45 And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Pē'tēr, because that on the Gēn'tiles also was poured out the gift of the Hō'lŷ Ghōst.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Pē'tēr, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Hō'lŷ Ghōst as well as we?

48 And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

CHAPTER 11.

1 Peter accused for going to the Gentiles. 19 The gospel preached in many places. 27 Great dearth foretold.

AND the apostles and brethren that were in Jū-dæ'ā heard that the ° Gēn'tiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Pē'tēr was come up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, ° they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

3 Saying, ° Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them.

4 But Pē'tēr rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it ° by order unto them, saying,

5 ° I was in the city of Jōp'pā praying: and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me:

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Pē'tēr; slay and eat.

8 But I said, ° Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was done three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cēs-a-rē'ā unto me.

12 And ° the spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover

^h these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house:

13 ⁱ And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Jōp/pā, and call for Sī'mon, whose surname is Pē'tēr;

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Hō'lŷ Ghōst fell on them, ^j as on us at the beginning.

16 Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, ^k Jōhn indeed baptized with water; but ^l ye shall be baptized with the Hō'lŷ Ghōst.

17 ^m Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jē'sus Christ; ⁿ what was I, that I could withstand God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, ^o Then hath God also to the Ġen'tileŷ granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ ^p Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stē'phen travelled as far as Phē-nĭcĕ, and Ċŷ'prus, and Ān'ti-ōch, preaching the wōrd to none but unto the Jewŷ only.

20 And some of them were men of Ċŷ'prus and Ċŷ-rē'nĕ, which, when they were come to Ān'ti-ōch, spake unto ^q the Grē'cjanŷ, ^r preaching the Lord Jē'sus.

21 And ^s the hand of the Lord was with them; and a great number believed, and ^t turned unto the Lord.

22 ¶ Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jē-ru'sā-lēm: and they sent forth ^u Bār'na-bās, that he should go as far as Ān'ti-ōch.

23 Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and ^v exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would ^w cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the Hō'lŷ Ghōst and of faith: ^x and much people was added unto the Lord.

25 Then departed Bār'na-bās to ^y Tār'sus, for to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Ān'ti-ōch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves ^z with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Chrī's'tjanŷ first in Ān'ti-ōch.

27 ¶ And in these days came ^a pro-

28 And there stood up one of them named ^a Āg'ā-būs, and signified by the spirit that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Clau'di-us Cæ'sar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send ^b relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Jū-dæ'a:

30 Which also they did, and sent it to the ^c elders by the hands of Bār'na-bās and Saul.

CHAPTER 12.

1 King Herod persecuteth the Christians, killeth James, and imprisoneth Peter. 20 Miserable death of Herod.

NOW about that time Hēr'od the King ^a stretched forth his hands ^a to vex certain of the church.

2 And he killed Jāmeŷ ^b the brother of Jōhn with the sword.

3 And because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to take Pē'tēr also. (Then were ^c the days of unleavened bread.)

4 And ^d when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him; intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people.

5 Pē'tēr therefore was kept in prison: but ^e prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Hēr'od would have brought him forth, the same night Pē'tēr was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And, behold, ^f the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Pē'tēr on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him; and ^g wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought ^h he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; ⁱ which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

11 And when Pē'tēr was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that ⁱ the Lord hath sent his angel, and ^j hath delivered me out of the hand of Hēr'od, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And when he had considered the thing, ^k he came to the house of Mā'ry the mother of ^l Jōhn, whose surname was Mār'k; where many were gathered together praying.

13 And as Pē'tēr knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came ^m to hearken, named Rhō'dā.

14 And when she knew Pē'tēr's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Pē'tēr stood before the gate.

15 And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, ⁿ It is his angel.

16 But Pē'tēr continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 But he, beckoning unto them with the hand to hold their peace, declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto Jāmes, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

18 Now as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of Pē'tēr.

19 And when Hēr'od had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be put to death. And he went down from Jū-dæ'ā to Cēs-a-rē'ā, and there abode.

20 ¶ And Hēr'od ^o was highly displeased with them of Tÿre and Si'dōn: but they came with one accord to him, and, having made Blās'tus ^p the king's chamberlain their friend, desired peace; because ^q their country was nourished by the king's country.

21 And upon a set day Hēr'od, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

22 And the people gave a shout, saying, ^r It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

23 And immediately the angel of the Lord ^s smote him, because ^t he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

24 ¶ But ^u the word of God grew and multiplied.

25 And Bār'na-bās and Sāul returned from Jē-ru'sā-lēm, when they

CHAPTER 13.

1 Paul and Barnabas sent to the Gentiles. 42 The Gentiles believe. 44 The Jews blaspheme.

NOW there were ^q in the church that was at An'ti-ōch certain prophets and teachers; as ^r Bār'na-bās, and Sīm'e-on that was called Nī'ger, and ^s Lū'c'ius of Cÿ-rē'nē, and Mān'a-ēn, ^t which had been brought up with Hēr'od the tetrarch, and Sāul.

2 As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Hō'ly Ghōst said, ^u Separate me Bār'na-bās and Sāul for the work ^v whereunto I have called them.

3 And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 ¶ So they, being sent forth by the Hō'ly Ghōst, departed unto Sē-leu'c'i-ā; and from thence they sailed to ^w Cÿ'prus.

5 And when they were at Sāl'a-mis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also ^x Jōhn to their minister.

6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Pā'phos, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bār-jē'sus:

7 Which was with the deputy of the country, Sēr'g'i-us Pau'lus, a prudent man; who called for Bār'na-bās and Sāul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But ^y Ēl'ŷ-mās the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then ^z Saul, (who also is called ^{aa} Paul,) filled with the Hō'ly Ghōst, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O full of all subtily and all mischief, ^{ab} thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, ^{ac} I the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 Now when Paul and his company loosed from Pā'phos, they came to Pēr'gā in Pam-phÿ'l'i-ā: and ^{ad} Jōhn departing from them returned to Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

14 ¶ But when they departed from Pēr'gā, they came to An'ti-ōch in Pi-si'di-ā, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sat down.

15 And 'after the reading of the law and the prophets the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have ^u any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand said, Men of Is'ra-el, and ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Is'ra-el chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt as strangers in the land of E'gypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And about the time of forty years ^u suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And when he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Chā'nān, he divided their land to them by lot.

20 And after that he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Sām'uel the prophet.

21 And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Qis, a man of the tribe of Bēn'jā-min, by the space of forty years.

22 And ^u when he had removed him, he raised up unto them Dā'vid to be their king; to whom also he gave testimony, and said, I have found Dā'vid the son of Jēs'se, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will.

23 ^o Of this man's seed hath God according ^u to his promise raised unto Is'ra-el ^u a Saviour, Jēs'us:

24 When Jōhn had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Is'ra-el.

25 And as Jōhn fulfilled his course, he said, Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But, behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 Men and brethren, children of the stock of A'brā'hām, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 For they that dwell at Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and their rulers, ^u because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 * But God raised him from the dead:

31 And ^u he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Gal'i-lee to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, who are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that ^u the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jēs'us again; as it is also written in the second psalm, ^u Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, ^u now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure ^u mercies of Dā'vid.

35 Wherefore he saith also in another psalm, ^u Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

36 For Dā'vid, ^u after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corrup-tion:

37 But he, whom God raised again, saw no corruption.

38 ¶ Be it known unto you there-fore, men and brethren, that ^u through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

39 And ^u by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Mō'ses.

40 Beware therefore, lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in ^u the prophets;

41 Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

42 And when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gēn'tilēs besought that these words might be preached to them the ^u next sab-bath.

43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Bār'na-bās: who, speaking to them, persuaded them to con-tinue in ^u the grace of God.

44 ¶ And the next sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and ^bspake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

46 Then Paul and Bär'na-bäs waxed bold, and said, ^cIt was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but ^dseeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gën'tiles.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, ^eI have set thee to be a light of the Gën'tiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

48 And when the Gën'tiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: ^fand as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

49 And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region.

50 But the Jewš stirred up the devout and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and ^graised persecution against Paul and Bär'na-bäs, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51 ^hBut they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto İ-cō'nī-um.

52 And the disciples ⁱwere filled with joy, and with the Hō'ly Ghōst.

CHAPTER 14.

1 Paul and Barnabas persecuted. 8 Paul healeth a cripple at Lystra. 19 Paul is stoned.

AND it came to pass in İ-cō'nī-um, that they went both together into the synagogue of the Jewš, and so spake, that a ^agreat multitude both of the Jewš and also of the Greeks believed.

2 But the unbelieving Jewš stirred up the Gën'tiles, and made their minds evil affected against the brethren.

3 Long time therefore abode they speaking boldly in the Lord, ^bwhich gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and part held with the Jewš, and part with the apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made both of the Gën'tiles, and also of the Jewš with their rulers, ^cto use them despitefully, and to stone them,

6 They were ware of it, and ^dfled unto Lys'tra and Dēr'bē, cities of Lÿc-a-ō'nī-a, and unto the region that lieth round about:

7 And there they preached the gospel.

8 ¶ ^eAnd there sat a certain man at Lÿs'tra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked:

9 The same heard Paul speak: who stedfastly beholding him, and ^fperceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, ^gStand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked.

11 And when the people saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lÿc-a-ō'nī-a, ^hThe gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.

12 And they called Bär'na-bäs, Jū-pi-tēr; and Paul, Mēr-cū'ri-us, because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then the priest of Jū-pi-tēr, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, ⁱand would have done sacrifice with the people.

14 Which when the apostles, Bär'na-bäs and Paul, heard of, ^jthey rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying out,

15 And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? ^kWe also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you that ye should turn from ^lthese vanities ^munto the living God, ⁿwhich made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein:

16 ^oWho in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways.

17 ^pNevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and ^qgave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18 And with these sayings scarce restrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them.

19 ¶ ^rAnd there came thither certain Jewš from An'ti-ōch and İ-cō'nī-um, who persuaded the people, ^sand, having stoned Paul, drew him out of the city, supposing he ^thad been dead.

20 Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up, and came into the city: and the next day he departed with Bär'na-bäs to Dēr'bē.

21 And when they had preached the gospel to that city, and ^uhad taught many, they returned again to Lÿs'tra, and to İ-cō'nī-um, and An'ti-ōch,

22 Confirming the souls of the disciples, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that ^vwe must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God.

23 And when they had ^wordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they believed.

24 And after they had passed throughout Pī-sīd'ā, they came to Pam-phyl'ā.

25 And when they had preached the word in Pēr'ga, they went down into Āt-tā'li-ā:

26 And thence sailed to Ān'ti-ōch, ^ufrom whence they had been recommended to the grace of God for the work which they fulfilled.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had ^aopened the door of faith unto the Ġēn'tiles.

28 And there they abode long time with the disciples.

CHAPTER 15.

1 Dissension about circumcision. 36 Paul and Barnabas contend, and part.

AND ^acertain men which came down from Jū-dæ'ā taught the brethren, and said, ^bExcept ye be circumcised ^cafter the manner of Mō'ses, ye cannot be saved.

2 When therefore Paul and Bār'na-bās had no small dissension and dispute with them, they determined that ^da Paul and Bār'na-bās, and certain other of them, should go up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm unto the apostles and elders about this question.

3 And ^ebeing brought on their way by the church, they passed through Phē-ni'cē and Sā-mā'ri-ā, ^fdeclaring the conversion of the Ġēn'tiles: and they caused great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, they were received of the church, and ^gof the apostles and elders, and they declared all things that God had done with them.

5 But there ^hrose up certain of the sect of the Phār'i-sees which believed, saying, That it was needful to circumcise them, and to command ⁱthem to keep the law of Mō'ses.

6 ¶ And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

7 And when there had been much disputing, Pē'tēr rose up, and said unto them, Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made choice among us, that the Ġēn'tiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe.

8 And God, ^jwhich knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, ^kgiving them the Hō'l'y Ghōst, even as he did unto us; us and them, ^jpurifying their hearts by faith.

10 Now therefore why tempt ye God, ^kto put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But ^lwe believe that through the grace of the Lord Jē'sus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.

12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept silence, and gave audience to Bār'na-bās and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Ġēn'tiles by them.

13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, ^mJames answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me:

14 Sīm'e-on hath declared how God at the first did visit the Ġēn'tiles, to take out of them a people for his name.

15 And to this agree the ⁿwords of the prophets; as it is written,

16 ^oAfter this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of Dā'vid, which is fallen down; and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up:

17 That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Ġēn'tiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things.

18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world.

19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from ^pamong the Ġēn'tiles ^qare turned to God:

20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain ^rfrom pollutions of idols, and ^sfrom fornication, and ^tfrom things strangled, ^uand ^vfrom blood.

21 For Mō'ses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, ^wbeing read in the synagogues every sabbath day.

22 Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Ān'ti-ōch with Paul and Bār'na-bās; ^xnamely, Jū'das surnamed ^yBār'sa-bās, and Sī'las, chief men among the brethren:

23 And they wrote ^zletters by them after this manner; The apostles and elders and brethren ^asend greeting unto the brethren which are of the Ġēn'tiles in Ān'ti-ōch and Sūr'ī-ā and Cī-l'ī-ā:

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that ^bcertain which went out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law: to whom we gave no such commandment:

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Bär'na-bäs and Paul,

26 ^w Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Jū'das and Si'las, who shall also tell you the same things by ² mouth.

28 For it seemed good to ^a the Hō'lŷ Ghōst, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things;

29 ^v That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and ^r from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So when they were dismissed, they came to Än'ti-ōch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle:

31 Which when they had read, they rejoiced for the ³ consolation.

32 And Jū'das and Si'las, being ^a prophets also themselves, ^b exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let ^c go in peace from the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding it pleased Si'las to abide there still.

35 ^a Paul also and Bär'na-bäs continued in Än'ti-ōch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

36 ¶ And some days after Paul said unto Bär'na-bäs, Let us go again and visit our brethren ^e in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 And Bär'na-bäs determined to take with them ^f Jōhn, whose surname was Märk.

38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, ^g who departed from them from Pam-phŷl'i-ä, and went not with them to the work.

39 And the contention was so sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other: and so Bär'na-bäs took Märk, and sailed unto Cŷ'prus;

40 And Paul chose Si'las, and departed, being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Šŷr'i-ä and Ćl-l'ċĵä, confirming the churches.

THEN came he to ^a Dēr'bē and Lŷs'tra: and, behold, a certain disciple was there, ^b named Ti-mō-the-üs, the son of a certain woman, which was a Jew'ess, and believed; but his father was a Greek:

2 Which ^c was well reported of by the brethren that were at Lŷs'tra and İ-sō-ni-um.

3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and ^d took and circumcised him because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his father was a Greek.

4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, ^e that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jē-rŷ-sä-lēm.

5 And ^f so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

6 Now when they had gone throughout Phrŷg'i-ä and the region of Gälä'tŷa, and were forbidden of the Hō'lŷ Ghōst to preach the word in Ä'sŷi.

7 After they were come to Mŷs'jä, they assayed to go into Bl-thŷn'i-a: but the Spirit suffered them not.

8 And they passing by Mŷs'jä came down to ^g Trō'äs.

9 And a ^h vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a man of Mäç-e-dō'n'i-ä, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Mäç-e-dō'n'i-ä, and help us.

10 And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go ⁱ into Mäç-e-dō'n'i-ä, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

11 Therefore loosing from Trō'äs, we came with a straight course to Säm-q-thrā'ċĵä, and the next day to Nē-äp'q-lis;

12 And from thence to ^j Phi-lip'pī, which is ^k the chief city of that part of Mäç-e-dō'n'i-ä, and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 And on the ² sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

14 ¶ And a certain woman named Lŷd'i-ä, a seller of purple, of the city of ^k Thŷ-a-ti-rä, which worshipped God, heard us: whose ^l heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15 And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And she constrained us.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a spirit of divination met us, which brought her masters much gain by soothsaying:

17 The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation.

18 And this did she many days. But Paul, being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Je'sus Christ to come out of her. And he came out the same hour.

19 ¶ And when her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone, they caught Paul and Si'las, and drew them into the marketplace unto the rulers,

20 And brought them to the magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, do exceedingly trouble our city,

21 And teach customs, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Rō'mans.

22 And the multitude rose up together against them: and the magistrates rent off their clothes, and commanded to beat them.

23 And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailor to keep them safely:

24 Who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

25 ¶ And at midnight Paul and Si'las prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them.

26 And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

28 But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm: for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Si'las,

30 And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

32 And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

35 And when it was day, the magistrates sent the serjeants, saying, Let those men go.

36 And the keeper of the prison told this saying to Paul, The magistrates have sent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace.

37 But Paul said unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Rō'mans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privily? nay verily; but let them come themselves and fetch us out.

38 And the serjeants told these words unto the magistrates: and they feared, when they heard that they were Rō'mans.

39 And they came and besought them, and brought them out, and desired them to depart out of the city.

40 And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lŷd-i-ā: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

CHAPTER 17.

1 Paul preacheth at Thessalonica, 10 and at Berea: 16 disputeth with the Athenians. 32 Some mock, others believe.

NOW when they had passed through Am-phil'o-lis and Ap-ōi-lō-ni-ā, they came to Thēs-sa-lō-ni-cā, where was a synagogue of the Jews:

2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three sabbath days reasoned with them out of the scriptures,

3 Opening and alleging, that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead; and that this Je'sus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

4 And some of them believed, and conversed with Paul and Si'las; and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 ¶ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of *Æ*Jā'son, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And when they found them not, they drew Jā'son and certain brethren unto the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also;

7 Whom Jā'son hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cæ'sar, *ⁱ*saying that there is another King, one Jē'sus.

8 And they troubled the people and the rulers of the city, when they heard these things.

9 And when they had taken security of Jā'son, and of the other, they let them go.

10 ¶ And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Sī'las by night unto Bē-rē'ā: who coming thither went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11 These were more noble than those in Thēs-sā-lō-nī'cā, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and *ⁱ*ssearched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 Therefore many of them believed; also of honourable women which were Greeks, and of men, not a few.

13 But when the Jews of Thēs-sā-lō-nī'cā had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Bē-rē'ā, *ⁱ*s they came thither also, and stirred up the people.

14 *ⁱ*s And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Sī'las and Ti-mō'the-ūs abode there still.

15 And they that conducted Paul brought him unto Āth'ēns: and *ⁱ*s receiving a commandment unto Sī'las and Ti-mō'the-ūs for to come to him with all speed, they departed.

16 ¶ Now while Paul waited for them at Āth'ēns, *ⁱ*s his spirit was stirred in him, when he saw the city *ⁱ*s wholly given to idolatry.

17 Therefore disputed he in the synagogue with the Jews, and with the devout persons, and in the market daily with them that met with him.

18 Then certain philosophers of the Ēp-i-cū-rē'ans, and of the Stō'icks, encountered him. And some said, What will this *ⁱ*s babbler say? other some, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods: because he preached unto them Jē'sus, and the resurrection.

19 And they took him, and brought him unto *ⁱ*s Ār-ē-ōp'a-gus, saying, May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, *ⁱ*s?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things to our ears: we would know therefore what these things mean.

21 (For all the Āth-ē-ni-ans and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing.)

22 ¶ Then Paul stood in the midst of *ⁱ*s Mārs' hill, and said, Ye men of Āth'ēns, I perceive that in all things ye are *ⁱ*s too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your *ⁱ*s devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24 *ⁱ*s God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is *ⁱ*s Lord of heaven and earth, *ⁱ*s dwell-eth not in temples made with hands;

25 Neither is worshipped with men's hands, *ⁱ*s as though he needed any thing, seeing *ⁱ*s he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

27 *ⁱ*s That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, *ⁱ*s though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For *ⁱ*s in him we live, and move, and have our being; *ⁱ*s as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, *ⁱ*s we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.

30 And *ⁱ*s the times of this ignorance God winked at; but *ⁱ*s now command-eth all men every where to repent:

31 Because he hath appointed a day, in the which *ⁱ*s he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath *ⁱ*s given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.

CHAPTER 18.

3 Paul labouring with his hands, and preaching at Corinth, ⁹ is encouraged in a vision.

AFTER these things Paul departed from Āth'ēns, and came to Cōr'inth;

2 And found a certain Jew named ^a Ā'quī-lā, born in Pōn'tus, lately come from It'a-l'y, with his wife Prīs-cī'lā; (because that Clau'di-us had commanded all Jews to depart from Rōme;) and came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, ^b and wrought: for by their occupation they were tentmakers.

4 And he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks.

5 And ^c when Sī'las and Ti-mō'the-ūs were come from Māc-e-dō-ni-ā, Paul was ^d pressed in the spirit, and testified to the Jews that Jē'sus was ¹ Christ.

6 And ^e when they opposed themselves, and blasphemed, ^f he shook his raiment, and said unto them, ^g Your blood be upon your own heads; ^h I am clean: ⁱ from henceforth I will go unto the Ġēn'tiles.

7 ¶ And he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Jūs'tus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8 ^j And Cris'pus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house; and many of the Cōr'in'thi-ans hearing believed, and were baptized.

9 Then ^k spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

10 ^l For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 And he ^m continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12 ¶ And when Gāl'i-lō was the deputy of Ā-chā'fā, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gāl'i-lō said unto the Jews, ⁿ If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:

16 And he drave them from the judgment seat.

17 Then all the Greeks took ^a Sōs'-the-nēs, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. And Gāl'i-lō cared for none of those things.

18 ¶ And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Sŷr'i-ā, and with him Prīs-cī'lā and Ā'quī-lā; having ^b shorn his head in ^c Ġēn'chrē-ā: for he had a vow.

19 And he came to Ēph'ē-sūs, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.

20 When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;

21 But bade them farewell, saying, ^d I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jē-ru'sā-lēm: but I will return again unto you, ^e if God will. And he sailed from Ēph'ē-sūs.

22 And when he had landed at Ġēs-a-rē-ā, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Ān'ti-ōch.

23 And after he had spent some time there, he departed, and went over ^f all the country of ^g Gā-lā'ti-ā and Phrŷg'i-ā in order, ^h strengthening all the disciples.

24 ¶ ⁱ And a certain Jew named Ā-pōl'los, born at Āl-ēx-ān'dri-ā, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures, came to Ēph'ē-sūs.

25 This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being ^j fervent in the spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, ^k knowing only the baptism of Jōhn.

26 And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: whom when Ā'quī-lā and Prīs-cī'lā had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was disposed to pass into Ā-chā'fā, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him: who, when he was come, ^l helped them much which had believed through grace:

28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publicly, ^m shewing by the scriptures that Jē'sus ⁿ was Christ.

CHAPTER 19.

6 The Holy Ghost given by the laying on of Paul's hands. 17 Many believe the gospel.

AND it came to pass, that, while ^a Ā-pōl'los was at Cōr'inth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ēph'ē-sūs: and finding certain disciples,

2 He said unto them, Have ye received the Hō'lŷ Ghōst since ye believed? And they said unto him, ^b We have not so much as heard whether there be any Hō'lŷ Ghōst.

3 And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, ^c Unto Jōhn's baptism.

4 Then said Paul, ^d Jōhn verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jē'sus.

5 When they heard this, they were baptized ^e in the name of the Lord Jē'sus.

6 And when Paul had ^f laid his hands upon them, the Hō'lŷ Ghōst came on them; and ^g they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 ^h And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things ⁱ concerning the kingdom of God.

9 But ^j when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil ^k of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tŷ-rān'us.

10 And ^l this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Ā'sjā heard the word of the Lord Jē'sus, both Jews and Greeks.

11 And ^m God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul:

12 ⁿ So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 ¶ ^o Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, ^p took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jē'sus, saying, We adjure you by Jē'sus whom Paul preacheth.

14 And there were seven sons of one Scē'vā, a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so.

15 And the evil spirit answered and said, ^q Jē'sus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ēph'ē-sūs; and ^r fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jē'sus was magnified.

18 And many that believed came, and ^s confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19 Many of them also which ^t used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 ^u So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.

21 ¶ ^v After these things were ended, Paul ^w purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Māc-e-dō'nĭ-ā and Ā-chā'jā, to go to Jē-ry'-sā-lēm, saying, After I have been there, ^x I must also see Rōme.

22 So he sent into Māc-e-dō'nĭ-ā two of ^y them that ministered unto him, Ti-mō'the-ūs and ^z Ē-rās'tūs; but he himself stayed in Ā'sjā for a season.

23 And ^a the same time there arose no small stir about ^b that way.

24 For a certain man named Dē-mē'tri-ūs, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Di-āu'ā, brought ^c no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25 Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft ^d we have our wealth.

26 Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ēph'ē-sūs, but almost throughout all Ā'sjā, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that ^e they be no gods, which are made with hands:

27 So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Di-ān'ā should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Ā'sjā and the world worshippeth.

28 And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, ^f Great is Di-ān'ā of the Ē-phē'sjāns.

29 And the whole city was filled with confusion; and having caught ^g Gā'ius and ^h Ār-is-tār'chus, men of Māc-e-dō'nĭ-ā, Paul's companions in travel, they rushed with one accord into the theatre.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31 And certain of the chief of ⁱ Ā'sjā, which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not adventure himself into the theatre.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And they drew Āl-ēx-ān'dēr out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Āl-ēx-ān'dēr beckoned with the hand, and would have made his defence unto the people.

34 But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice about the space of two hours cried out, Great is Dī-ān'ā of the Ē-phē'sjans.

35 And when the townclerk had appeased the people, he said, Ye men of Ēph'ē-sūs, what man is there that knoweth not how that the city of the Ē-phē'sjans is ¹a worshipper of the great goddess Dī-ān'ā, and of the image which fell down from Jū'pī-tēr?

36 Seeing then that these things cannot be spoken against, ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly.

37 For ye have brought hither these men, which are neither robbers of churches, nor yet blasphemers of your goddess.

38 Wherefore if Dē-mē'tri-us, and the craftsmen which are with him, have a matter against any man, ²the law is open, and there are deputies: let them implead one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it shall be determined in a ³lawful assembly.

40 For we are in danger to be called in question for this day's uproar, there being no cause whereby we may give an account of this concourse.

41 ^kAnd when he had thus spoken, he dismissed the assembly.

2 And when he had gone over those parts, and had given them much exhortation, he came into Greece,

6 And we sailed away from Phil'pī after ^hthe days of unleavened bread, and came unto them ⁱto Trō'ās in five days; where we abode seven days.

7 And upon ^jthe first day of the week, when the disciples came together ^kto break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight.

8 And there were many lights ^lin the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eū'tŷ-chus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and ^mfell on him, and embracing him said, ⁿ"Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

13 ¶ And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Ās'sōs, there intending to take in Paul: for so had he appointed, minding himself to go afoot.

14 And when he met with us at Ās'sōs, we took him in, and came to Mit-ŷ-lē'nē.

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chī'os; and the next day we arrived at Sā-mos, and tarried at Trō-gŷ'lī-um; and the next day we came to Mī-lē'-tus.

16 For Paul had determined to sail by Ēph'ē-sūs, because he would not spend the time in Ā'sjā: for ^ohe hastid, if it were possible for him, ^pto be at Jē-ry'sā-lēm ^qthe day of Pēn'te-cōst.

17 ¶ And from Mī-lē'-tus he sent to Ēph'ē-sūs, and ^rcalled the elders of the church.

18 And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, ^sfrom the first day that I came into Ā'sjā, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews :

20 And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house,

21 Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

22 And now, behold, I go bound in the spirit unto Jē-ru'sā-lēm, not knowing the things that shall befall me there :

23 Save that I will witness to the Hō'lŷ Ghōst witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me.

24 But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jē'sus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men.

27 For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

28 ¶ Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Hō'lŷ Ghōst hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.

29 For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

33 I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, ye yourselves know, that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jē'sus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

36 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 And they all wept sore, and fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him,

38 Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

CHAPTER 21.

1 Paul, journeying to Jerusalem, cometh to Philip's house, whose daughters prophesied. 17 Paul, at Jerusalem, is apprehended, 31 but rescued by the chief captain.

AND it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto Cō's, and the day following unto Rhōdēs, and from thence unto Pāt'a-rā :

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phē-ni'cia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had discovered Cŷ-prus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Sŷr'ā, and landed at Tŷre : for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days : a who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed and went our way ; and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city : and we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship ; and they returned home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tŷre, we came to Ptōl-g-mā'is, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Cēs-a-rē'a : and we entered into the house of Phīl'ip the evangelist, which was one of the seven ; and abode with him.

9 And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Jū-dæ'a a certain prophet, named Ag'ā-būs.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Hō'lŷ Ghōst, So shall the Jews at Jē-ru'sā-lēm bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Ĝén'tiles.

12 And when we heard these things, both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jĕ-ryŭ/sā-lēm.

13 Then Paul answered, 'What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? i for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jĕ-ryŭ/sā-lēm for the name of the Lord Jĕ'sus.

14 And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, k The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jĕ-ryŭ/sā-lēm.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Çæs-a-rĕ'a, and brought with them one Mnā'son of Çŷ'prus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 'And when we were come to Jĕ-ryŭ/sā-lēm, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto m Jāmeş; and all the elders were present.

19 And when he had saluted them, n he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Ĝén'tiles o by his ministry.

20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands of Jews there are which believe; and they are all p zealous of the law:

21 And they are informed of thee, that thou q teachest all the Jews which are among the Ĝén'tiles to forsake Mō'ses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that I say to thee: We have four men which have a vow on them;

24 Them take, and purify thyself with them, and be at charges with them, that they may r shave their heads: and all may know that those things, whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing; but that thou thyself also walkest orderly, and s keepest the law.

25 As touching the Ĝén'tiles which believe, t we have written and concluded that they observe no such thing, save only that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himself with them v entered into the temple, v to signify the accomplishment of the days of purification, until that an offering should be offered for every one of them.

27 And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews which were of A'sja, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and w laid hands on him,

28 Crying out, Men of İ's'ra-el, help: This is the man, x that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place: and further brought Greeks also into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place.

29 (For they had seen before with him in the city y Trôph'i-mūs an Ē-phĕ'sjan, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30 And all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were shut.

31 And as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jĕ-ryŭ/sā-lēm was in an uproar.

32 z Who immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and a commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle.

35 And when he came upon the stairs, so it was, that he was borne of the soldiers for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, b Away with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the castle, he said unto the chief captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 Art not thou that 1 Ē-gŷp'tjan, which before these days madest an uproar, and leddest out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers?

39 But Paul said, c I am a man which am a Jew of Tār'sus, a city in Ćī-lī'ċjā, a citizen of no mean city: and, I beseech thee, ^a suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the stairs, and beckoned with the hand unto the people. And when there was made a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hē'brew tongue, saying,

CHAPTER 22.

1 Paul declareth how he was converted: 25 he escapeth scourging, being a Roman citizen.

MEN, ^a brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hē'brew tongue to them, they kept the more silence: and he saith.)

3 ^b I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tār'sus, a city in Ćī-lī'ċjā, yet brought up in this city ^c at the feet of ^d Gā-mā'li-el, and taught ^e according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and ^f was zealous toward God, ^g as ye all are this day.

4 ^h And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women.

5 As also the high priest doth bear me witness, and ⁱ all the estate of the elders: ^j from whom also I received letters unto ^k the brethren, and went to Dā-mās'cus, to bring them which were there bound unto Jē-rū'sā-lēm, for to be punished.

6 And ^l it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Dā-mās'cus about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8 And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jē'sus of Nāz'ā-rēth, whom thou persecutest.

9 And ^m they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me.

10 And I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Dā-mās'cus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Dā-mās'cus.

man according to the law, ^a having a good report of all the ^b Jews which dwell there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I looked up upon him.

14 And he said, ^c The God of our fathers ^d hath chosen thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and ^e see ^f that Just One, and ^g shouldest hear the voice of his mouth.

15 ^h For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of ⁱ what thou hast seen and heard.

16 And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, ^j and wash away thy sins, ^k calling on the name of the Lord.

17 And ^l it came to pass, that, when I was come again to Jē-rū'sā-lēm, even while I prayed in the temple, I was in a trance;

18 And saw him saying unto me, ^m Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jē-rū'sā-lēm: for they will not receive thy testimony concerning me.

19 And I said, Lord, ⁿ they know that I imprisoned and ^o beat in every synagogue them that believed on thee:

20 ^p And when the blood of thy martyr Stē'phen was shed, I also was standing by, and ^q consenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that slew him.

21 And he said unto me, Depart: ^r for I will send thee far hence unto the Ĝēn'tiles.

22 And they gave him audience unto this word, and ^s then lifted up their voices, and said, ^t Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that ^u he should live.

23 And as they cried out, and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air,

24 The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, and bade that he should be examined by scourging; that he might know wherefore they cried so against him.

25 And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, ^v Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Rō'man, and uncondemned?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest: for this man is a Rō'man.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Rō'man? He said, Yea.

28 And the chief captain answered,

With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, But I was free born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him which should have examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him.

30 On the morrow, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews, he loosed him from his bands, and commanded the chief priests and all their council to appear, and brought Paul down, and set him before them.

CHAPTER 23.

1 Paul pleadeth his cause. 7 Dissension among his accusers. 23 He is sent to Felix.

AND Paul, earnestly beholding the council, said, Men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.

2 And the high priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him to smite him on the mouth.

3 Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whitened wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?

4 And they that stood by said, Revilest thou God's high priest?

5 Then said Paul, I wist not, brethren, that he was the high priest: for it is written, Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people.

6 But when Paul perceived that the one part were Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee: of the hope and resurrection of the dead I am called in question.

7 And when he had so said, there arose a dissension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees: and the multitude was divided.

8 For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both.

9 And there arose a great cry: and the scribes that were of the Pharisees' part arose, and strove, saying, We find no evil in this man: but if a spirit or an angel hath spoken to him, let us not fight against God.

10 And when there arose a great dissension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him

11 And the night following the Lord stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.

12 And when it was day, certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themselves under a curse, saying that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.

14 And they came to the chief priests and elders, and said, We have bound ourselves under a great curse, that we will eat nothing until we have slain Paul.

15 Now therefore ye with the council signify to the chief captain that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though ye would enquire something more perfectly concerning him: and we, or ever he come near, are ready to kill him.

16 And when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the castle, and told Paul.

17 Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to say unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aside privately, and asked him, What is that thou hast to tell me?

20 And he said, The Jews have agreed to desire thee that thou wouldest bring down Paul to morrow into the council, as though they would enquire somewhat of him more perfectly.

21 But do not thou yield unto them: for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promise from thee.

22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man that thou hast shewed these things to me.

23 And he called unto him two centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers to go to Caesarea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and ² spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night;

24 And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Fē'lix the governor.

25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

26 Clau'dius Lys'ias unto the most excellent governor Fē'lix sendeth greeting.

27 * This man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and rescued him, having understood that he was a Ro'man.

28 * And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council:

29 Whom I perceived to be accused * of questions of their law, * but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.

30 And when it was told me how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent straightway to thee, and ¹⁰ gave commandment to his accusers also to say before thee what they had against him. Farewell.

31 Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to An'tip'a-tris.

32 On the morrow they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned to the castle:

33 Who, when they came to * Qæs-a-rē'a, and delivered the epistle to the governor, presented Paul also before him.

34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of * Cē-l'yçjā;

35 I * will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers are also come. And he commanded him to be kept in * Hēr'od's judgment hall.

1 Tertullus accuseth Paul. 24 Paul preacheth Christ to Felix.

AND after ¹ five days ² An-a-ni'as the high priest descended with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tēr-tū'lus, who informed the governor against Paul.

2 And when he was called forth, Tēr-tū'lus began to accuse him, saying, * Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,

3 We accept it always, and in all places, most noble Fē'lix, with all thankfulness.

4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 ⁴ For we have found this man ¹ a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nāz'a-rēneš:

6 * Who also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would ⁷ have judged according to our law.

7 ² But the chief captain Lys'ias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands,

8 ³ Commanding his accusers to come unto thee: by examining of whom thyself mayest take knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him.

9 And the Jews also assented, saying that these things were so.

10 Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of many years ² a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for myself:

11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm ¹ for to worship.

12 ³ And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:

13 Neither can they prove the things whereof they now accuse me.

14 But this I confess unto thee, that after ⁴ the way which they call heresy, so worship I the ¹ God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in ² the law and in the prophets:

15 And ³ have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, ² that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.

16 And ² herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men.

17 Now after many years ² I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 ² Whereupon certain Jews from A'sjā found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 ² Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.

20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil doing in me, while I stood before the council,

21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, *Touching the resurrection of the dead I am called in question by you this day.

22 And when Fē'līx heard these things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and said, When Lys'as the chief captain shall come down, I will know the uttermost of your matter.

23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and *that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister or come unto him.

24 And after certain days, when Fē'līx came with his wife Dry-sil'la, which was a Jew'ess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ.

25 And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Fē'līx trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that *money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

27 But after two years Pōr'cīus Fēs'tus came into Fē'līx' room: and Fē'līx, *willing to shew the Jews a pleasure, left Paul bound.

CHAPTER 25.

1 Paul, accused before Festus, 8 appealeth unto Cæsar.

NOW when Fēs'tus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cæs-a-rē'a to Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

2 *Then the high priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, *laying wait in the way to kill him.

4 But Fēs'tus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæs-a-rē'a, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, *if there be any wickedness in him.

6 And when he had tarried among them *more than ten days, he went down unto Cæs-a-rē'a; and the next day sitting on the judgment seat commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jē-ru'sā-lēm stood round about, *and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove.

8 While he answered for himself, *Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor yet against Cæ'sar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 But Fēs'tus, *willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, Wilt thou go up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cæ'sar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 *For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. *I appeal unto Cæ'sar.

12 Then Fēs'tus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæ'sar? unto Cæ'sar shalt thou go.

13 And after certain days king A-grip'pā and Bēr-ni'cē came unto Cæs-a-rē'a to salute Fēs'tus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Fēs'tus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, *There is a certain man left in bonds by Fē'līx:

15 About whom, when I was at Jē-ru'sā-lēm, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Rō'mans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore, when they were come hither, without any delay on the morrow I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed:

19 *But had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jē'sus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because *I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would go to Jê-ru'sā-lēm, and there be judged of these matters.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be reserved unto the ³ hearing of Aū-gūs'tus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cæ'sar.

22 Then ² Ā-grīp'pā said unto Fēs'tus, I would also hear the man myself. To morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow, when Ā-grīp'pā was come, and Bēr-ni'cē, with ¹ great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Fēs'tus' commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Fēs'tus said, King Ā-grīp'pā, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jê-ru'sā-lēm; and also here, crying that he ought ³ not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that ² he had committed nothing worthy of death, and that he himself hath appealed to Aū-gūs'tus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and specially before thee, O king Ā-grīp'pā, that, after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

6 And now I stand and am judged for the hope of ^c the promise made of God unto our fathers:

7 Unto which promise ^d our twelve tribes, instantly serving God ² day and night, ^e hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Ā-grīp'pā, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should ^f raise the dead?

9 ^g I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jē'sus of Nāz'-a-rēth.

10 ^h Which thing I also did in Jê-ru'sā-lēm: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority ⁱ from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

11 ^j And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

12 ^k Whereupon as I went to Dā-mās'cus with authority and commission from the chief priests,

13 At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hē'brew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

15 And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jē'sus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, ^l to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gēn'tiles, ^m unto whom now I send thee,

18 ⁿ To open their eyes, and ^o to turn them from darkness to light, and ^p from the power of Sā'tan unto God, ^q that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and ^r inheritance among them which are ^s sanctified by faith that is in me.

19 Whereupon, O king Ā-grīp'pā, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

20 But ^cshewed first unto them of Dā-mās'eus, and at Jē-ru'sā-lēm, and throughout all the coasts of Jū-dē'ā, and then to the Gén'tiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do ^uworks meet for repentance.

21 For these causes ^vthe Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those ^wwhich the prophets and ^xMō'sēs did say should come:

23 ^yThat Christ should suffer, and ^zthat he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and ^ashould shew light unto the people, and to the Gén'tiles.

24 And as he thus spake for himself, Fēs'tus said with a loud voice, Paul, ^bthou art beside thyself; much learning doth make thee mad.

25 But he said, I am not mad, most noble Fēs'tus; but speak forth the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak freely: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner.

27 King Ā-grīp'pā, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest.

28 Then Ā-grīp'pā said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Chris'tian.

29 And Paul said, ^cI would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the governor, and Bēr-ni'cē, and they that sat with them:

31 And when they were gone aside, they talked between themselves, saying, ^dA This man doeth nothing worthy of death or of bonds.

32 Then said Ā-grīp'pā unto Fēs'tus, This man might have been set at liberty, ^eif he had not appealed unto Cæs'ar.

to sail by the coasts of Ā'sjā; one ^bĀr-is-tār'chus, a Māc-e-dō'nī-an of Thēs-sa-lō-ni'cā, being with us.

3 And the next day we touched at Sī'dōn. And Jū'lus ^ccourteously entertained Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refresh him-self.

4 And when we had launched from thence, we sailed under Cŷ'prus, because the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had sailed over the sea of Cī-l'cā and Pam-phyl'ī-ā, we came to Mý'rā, a city of Ly'cā.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Āl-ēx-ān'dri-ā sailing into It'a-ly; and he put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Cni'dus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under ¹Crête, over against Sāl-mō'ne;

8 And, hardly passing it, came unto a place which is called The fair havens; nigh whereunto was the city of Lā-sē'ā.

9 Now when much time was spent, and when sailing was now dangerous, because ²the fast was now already past, Paul admonished them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with ³hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives.

11 Nevertheless the centurion believed the master and the owner of the ship, more than those things which were spoken by Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part advised to depart thence also, if by any means they might attain ⁴to Phē-ni'cē, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crête, and lieth toward the south west and north west.

13 And when the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed close by Crête.

14 But not long after there ⁵arose against it a tempestuous wind, called ⁶Eū-rōc'ly-don.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive.

16 And running under a certain island which is called Clāu'da, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship; and, fearing lest they should fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

18 And we being exceedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightened the ship;

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

21 But after long abstinence Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from Crète, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship.

23 For there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, 24 Saying, Fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Cæsar: and, lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

25 Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.

26 Howbeit we must be cast upon a certain island.

27 But when the fourteenth night was come, as we were driven up and down in Adrià, about midnight the shipmen deemed that they drew near to some country;

28 And sounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest we should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day.

30 And as the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the fore-ship,

31 Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

33 And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried and continued fasting, having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat: for this is for your health: for there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship two hundred threescore and sixteen souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

40 And when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bands, and hoised up the mainsail to the wind, and made to-ward shore.

41 And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

43 But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose; and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land:

44 And the rest, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land.

CHAPTER 28.

1 Paul entertained by the barbarians. 8 He healeth many diseases in the island.

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that the island was called Malta.

2 And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

3 And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and ^o felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and ^e said that he was a god.

7 In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Pūb'l-lus; who received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

8 And it came to pass, that the father of Pūb'l-lus lay sick of a fever and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul entered in, and ^z prayed, and ^o laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 So when this was done, others also, which had diseases in the island, came, and were healed:

10 Who also honoured us with many ^a honours; and when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary.

11 And after three months we departed in a ship of Al-ēx-ān'drī-ā, which had wintered in the isle, whose sign was Cās'tōr and Pō'lux.

12 And landing at Sŷr'a-cūse, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhē'g'i-um: and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the next day to Pū-tē-o-lī:

14 Where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days: and so we went toward Rōme.

15 And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as Āp'pī-i fō'rūm, and The three taverns: whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and took courage.

16 And when we came to Rōme, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard: but ⁱ Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him.

17 And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, ^z though I have committed nothing against the people, or customs of our fathers, yet was I ^k delivered prisoner from Jē-rū'sā-lēm into the hands of the Rō'mans.

19 But when the Jews spake against it, ^m I was constrained to appeal unto Cæ'sar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: because that ⁿ for the hope of Iŷ'ra-el I am bound with ^o this chain.

21 And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Jū-dæ'ā concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harm of thee.

22 But we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where ^r it is spoken against.

23 And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; ^z to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jē'sus, ^r both out of the law of Mō'ses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening.

24 And ^s some believed the things which were spoken, and some believed not.

25 And when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, Well spake the Hō'lŷ Ghost by E-sā'jas the prophet unto our fathers,

26 Saying, ^t Go unto this people, and say, Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive:

27 ^u For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

28 Be it known therefore unto you, that the salvation of God is sent ^v unto the Gēn'tiles, and that they will hear it.

29 And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him,

31 ^w Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jē'sus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE ROMANS.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Paul commendeth his calling, 16 sheweth that the gospel is for the justification of all men through faith. 21 The sins of the Gentiles.

PAUL, a servant of Jē'sus Christ,^a called to be an apostle,^b separated unto the gospel of God,

2 (c Which he had promised afore by his prophets in the holy scriptures.)

3 Concerning his Son Jē'sus Christ our Lord, which was made of the seed of Dā'vid according to the flesh;

4 And^d declared to be the Son of God with power, according^e to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead:

5 By whom^f we have received grace and apostleship,^g for obedience to the faith among all nations,^h for his name:

6 Among whom are ye also the called of Jē'sus Christ:

7 To all that be in Rōme, beloved of God, called to be saints: Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

8 First,ⁱ I thank my God through Jē'sus Christ for you all, that^j your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve^k with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers;

10 Making request, if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous journey^l by the will of God to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that^m I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established;

12 That is, that I may be comforted togetherⁿ with you by the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that^o oftentimes I purposed to come unto you, (but^p was let hitherto,) that I might have some fruit^q among you also, even as among other Gēn'tiles.

14^r I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Bār-bā'rī-ans; both to the wise, and to the unwise.

15 So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rōme also.

10 Or, a mind void of judgment.

16 For^a I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for^b it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For^c therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, ^dThe just shall live by faith.

18^e For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, ^fwho hold the truth in unrighteousness;

19 Because^g that which may be known of God is manifest^h in them; forⁱ God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For^j the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, ^keven his eternal power and Godhead; ^lso that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified ^mhim not as God, ⁿneither were thankful; but ^obecame vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22^p Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools,

23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible^q God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

24^r Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, ^sto dishonour their own bodies^t between themselves:

25 Who changed^u the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature^v more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto^w vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

28 And even as they did not like^x to retain God in ^ytheir knowledge, God gave them over to^z a reprobate mind, to do those things ^o which are not convenient;

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 Without understanding, covenantbreakers, ¹¹ without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but ¹² have pleasure in them that do them.

CHAPTER 2.

They who condemn sin in others, and do the like themselves, are inexcusable.

THEREFORE thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things.

2 But we are sure that the judgment of God is ^a according to truth against them which commit such things.

3 And ^b thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou ^c the riches of his goodness and forbearance and ^d longsuffering; ^e not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But after thy hardness and impenitent heart ^f treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God;

6 ^g Who will render to every man according to his deeds:

7 ^h To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and immortality, eternal life:

8 But ⁱ unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,

9 Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jew ^j first, and also of the ^k Gën'tile;

10 ^l But glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good, to the Jew first, and also to the ^m Gën'tile:

11 For there is ⁿ no respect of persons with God.

12 For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law:

and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law;

13 (For ^m not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified.

14 For when the Gën'tiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves:

15 Which shew the work of the law written in their hearts, ⁿ their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts ^o the mean while accusing or else excusing one another;)

16 ^p In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men ^q by Jē'sus Christ according to my gospel.

17 Behold, ^r thou art called a Jew, and ^s retest in the law, ^t and makest thy boast of God,

18 And ^u knowest his will, and ^v approvest the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law;

19 And art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness,

20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, ^w which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law.

21 ^x Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal?

22 Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, ^y dost thou commit sacrilege?

23 Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonourest thou God?

24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gën'tiles through you, as it is ^z written.

25 ^{aa} For circumcision verily profiteth, if thou keep the law: but if thou be a breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore ^{ab} if the uncircumcision keep the righteousness of the law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not uncircumcision which is by nature, if it fulfil the law, ^{ac} judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision dost transgress the law?

28 For ^{ad} he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew, ^{ae} which is one inwardly; and ^{af} circumcision is that of the heart, ^{ag} in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God.

CHAPTER 3.

1 The Jews' prerogative. 20 None justified by the law, but all by God's grace.

WHAT advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?

2 Much every way: chiefly, because that ^a unto them were committed the oracles of God.

3 For what if ^b some did not believe? ^c shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect?

4 ^d God forbid: yea, let ^e God be true, but ^f every man a liar; as it is written, ^g That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged.

5 But if our unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (^h I speak as a man)

6 God forbid: for then ⁱ how shall God judge the world?

7 For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a sinner?

8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) ^j Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.

9 What then? are we better than they? No, in no wise: for we have before ^k proved both Jews and Gēn'tiles, that ^l they are all under sin;

10 As it is written, ^m There is none righteous, no, not one:

11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.

12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable: there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

13 ⁿ Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; ^o the poison of asps is under their lips:

14 ^p Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness:

15 ^q Their feet are swift to shed blood:

16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:

17 And the way of peace have they not known:

18 ^r There is no fear of God before their eyes.

19 Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that ^s every mouth may be stopped, and ^t all the world may become ^u guilty before God.

law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for ^v by the law is the knowledge of sin.

21 But now ^w the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law ^x and the prophets;

22 Even the righteousness of God which is ^y by faith of Jē'sus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for ^z there is no difference:

23 For ^a all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;

24 Being justified freely ^b by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jē'sus:

25 Whom God hath ^c set forth ^d to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the ^e remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

26 To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jē'sus:

27 ^f Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude ^g that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

29 Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gēn'tiles? Yes, of the Gēn'tiles also:

30 Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

31 Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Abraham justified by faith: 18 his faith recorded for those who believe.

WHAT shall we say then that A'brā'hām our father, as pertaining to the flesh, hath found?

2 For if A'brā'hām were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God.

3 For what saith the scripture? ^a A'brā'hām believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

4 Now ^b to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth ^c the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 Even as Dā'vid also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God ^d imputeth righteousness without works,

7 Saying, ^e Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin.

9 *Come*th this blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? for we say that faith was reckoned to Ābrāhām for righteousness.

10 How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.

11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

12 And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Ābrāhām, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

13 For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Ābrāhām, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 For if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect:

15 Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.

16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Ābrāhām; who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations,) before him whom he believed, even God, who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those things which be not as though they were.

18 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken, So shall thy seed be.

19 And being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sārah's womb:

20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God;

21 And being fully persuaded that, what he had promised, he was able also to perform.

24 But for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe on him that raised up Jēsus our Lord from the dead;

25 Who was delivered for our offences, and was raised again for our justification.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Being justified by faith, we have peace with God.
2 Sin and death came by Adam, if righteousness and life by Jesus Christ.

THEREFORE being justified by faith, we have a peace with God through our Lord Jēsus Christ:

2 By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

3 And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

4 And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

5 And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Hōly Ghost which is given unto us.

6 For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

7 For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

8 But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

10 For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

11 And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jēsus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

12 Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned:

13 (For until the law sin was in the world: but sin is not imputed when there is no law.

14 Nevertheless death reigned from Ādām to Mōses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Ādām's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

15 But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jē'sus Christ, hath abounded ^o unto many.

16 And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation, but the free gift is of many offences unto justification.

17 For if ^a by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jē'sus Christ.)

18 Therefore as ^b by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so ^c by the righteousness of one the free gift came ^p upon all men unto justification of life.

19 For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

20 Moreover ^q the law entered, that the offence might abound. But where sin abounded, grace did much ^r more abound:

21 That as sin hath reigned unto death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jē'sus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 6.

1 We must not live in sin, 12 nor let sin reign in us.

WHAT shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are ^a dead to sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that ^b so many of us as ¹ were baptized into Jē'sus Christ ^c were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are ^d buried with him by baptism into death: that ^e like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, ^f even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 ^g For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that ^h our old man is crucified with him, that ⁱ the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For he that is dead is ^j freed from sin.

8 Now ^k if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that ^l Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but ¹ alive unto God through Jē'sus Christ our Lord.

12 ^m Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your members as ³ instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For ⁿ sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What then? shall we sin, ^o because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine ⁴ which was delivered you.

18 Being then ^p made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of men because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness.

20 For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free ⁵ from righteousness.

21 What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.

22 But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 For ^q the wages of sin is death; but ^r the gift of God is eternal life through Jē'sus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 7.

1 No law hath power over a man longer than he liveth. 12 The law is holy.

KNOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 For ^a the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

3 So then ^bif, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become ^cdead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be ^dmarried to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For when we were in the flesh, the ^emotions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members ^fto bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, ^gthat being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve ^hin newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter.

7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, ⁱ I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known ^jlust, except the law had said, ^kThou shalt not covet.

8 But ^lsin, taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For ^mwithout the law sin was dead.

9 For I was alive without the law once; but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died.

10 And the commandment, ⁿwhich was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

11 For sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

12 Wherefore ^othe law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.

13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But sin, that it might appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become exceeding sinful.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, ^psold under sin.

15 For that which I do I ^qallow not: for ^rwhat I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good.

17 Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

18 For I know that ^sin me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not.

19 For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

21 I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22 For I ^pdelight in the law of God after ^qthe inward man:

23 But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from ^sthe body of this death?

25 I thank God through Jē'sus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin.

CHAPTER 8.

1 Who are free from condemnation. 5 What harm cometh of the flesh, 6 what good of the Spirit, 17 and what of being God's child, 19 whose glorious deliverance all things long for, 29 was beforehand decreed from God.

THERE is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jē'sus, who ^awalk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

2 For ^bthe law of ^cthe Spirit of life in Christ Jē'sus hath made me free from the law of sin and death.

3 For ^dwhat the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and ^efor sin, condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5 For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit ^fthe things of the Spirit.

6 For ^gto be carnally minded is death; but ^hto be spiritually minded is life and peace.

7 Because ⁱthe carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.

8 So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that ^jthe Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not ^kthe Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

11 But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jē'sus from the dead dwell in you, ^hhe that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies ^eby his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12 Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 For ⁱif ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14 For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

15 For ^jye have not received the spirit of bondage again ^kto fear; but ye have received the ^lSpirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Ab'ba, Father.

16 ^mThe Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God:

17 And if children, then heirs; ⁿheirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with ^ohim, that we may be also glorified together.

18 For I reckon that ^pthe sufferings of this present time ^qare not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

19 For ^rthe earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the ^smanifestation of the sons of God.

20 For ^tthe creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected ^uthe same in hope,

21 Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that ^vthe whole creation ^wgroaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.

23 And not only ^xthey, but ourselves also, which have ^ythe firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, ^zwaiting for the adoption, ^ato wit, the redemption of our body.

24 For we are saved by hope: but ^bhope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, ^cthen do we with patience wait for it.

26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for ^dwe know not what we should pray for as we ought: but ^ethe Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And ^vhe that searcheth the hearts knoweth what ^{is}the mind of the Spirit, ⁷because he maketh intercession for the saints ^aaccording to the will of God.

28 And we know that ^aall things work together for good to them that love God, to them ^bwho are the called according to ^{his}purpose.

29 For whom ^che did foreknow, ^dhe also did predestinate ^eto be conformed to the image of his Son, ^fthat he might be the firstborn among many brethren.

30 Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also ^gcalled: and whom he called, them he also justified: ^hand whom he justified, them he also glorified.

31 What shall we then say to these things? If God ^{be}for us, who ^{can}be against us?

32 He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?

33 Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? ⁱIt is God that justifieth.

37 ^lNay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

CHAPTER 9.

¹ Paul's sorrow for the Jews. ²⁵ Calling of the Gentiles, and rejection of the Jews, foretold.

I SAY the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Hō'ly Ghōst,

2 That I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart.

3 For ^aI could wish that myself were ¹accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh:

4 ^bWho are Is'ra-el-ites; ^cto whom pertaineth the adoption, and ^a the glory, and the ² covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and ^e the promises;

5 Whose are the fathers, and of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, ^f who is over all, God blessed for ever. Amen.

6 Not as though the word of God hath taken none effect. For ^g they are not all İs'ra-el, which are of İs'ra-el:

7 ^h Neither, because they are the seed of Ä'brä'häm, are they all children: but, In ⁱ İs'zac shall thy seed be called.

8 That is, They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God: but the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise, ^j At this time will I come, and Sä'rah shall have a son.

10 And not only this; but when ^k Rē'bēc'cä also had conceived by one, even by our father İs'zac;

11 (For the children being ^l not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth:)

12 It was said unto her, The ^m elder shall serve the ⁿ younger.

13 As it is written, ^o Jä'cob have I loved, but Ä'sau have I hated.

14 What shall we say then? ^p Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Mö'ses, ^q I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

16 ^r So then it is not of him that will-eth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 For the scripture saith unto Phä'raöh, ^s Even for this same purpose have I raised thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 Therefore hath he mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19 Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? For ^t who hath resisted his will?

20 Nay but, O man, who art thou that ^u repliest against God? ^v Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 Hath not the ^w potter power over the clay; of the same lump to make ^x one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

23 And that he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had afore prepared unto glory,

24 Even us, whom he hath called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gën'tiles?

25 As he saith also in Ö'see, ^z I will call them my people, which were not my people; and her beloved, which was not beloved.

26 ^y And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people; there shall they be called the children of the living God.

27 Ä-sä'jas also crieth concerning İs'ra-el, ^z Though the number of the children of İs'ra-el be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be saved:

28 For he will finish ⁷ the work, and cut it short in righteousness: ^a because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Ä-sä'jas said before, ^b Except the Lord of Säb'a-öth had left us a seed, ^c we had been as Söd'-om-a, and been made like unto Gö-mör'rhä.

30 What shall we say then? That the Gën'tiles, which followed not after righteousness, have attained to righteousness, even the righteousness which is of faith.

31 But İs'ra-el, which followed after the law of righteousness, ^d hath not attained to the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law. For ^e they stumbled at that stumblingstone;

33 As it is written, ^f Behold, I lay in Si'ön a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ^g ashamed.

CHAPTER 10.

Salvation open to Jews and Gentiles.

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God for İs'ra-el is, that they might be saved.

2 For I bear them record ^a that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they being ignorant of ^b God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own ^c righteousness, have not ^d submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.

4 For ^e Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

5 For Mō'sēs describeth the righteousness which is of the law, ¹ That the man which doeth those things shall live by them.

6 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, ² Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring ³ Christ down from above.)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to ⁴ bring up Christ again from the dead.)

8 But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach;

9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jē'sus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.

10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For the scripture saith, ¹ Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

12 For ² there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for ³ the same Lord over all ⁴ is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 ⁵ For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

14 How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without ⁶ a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, ⁷ How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But ⁸ they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Ē-sā'jas saith, ⁹ Lord, who hath believed ¹ our ² report?

17 So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I say, Have they not heard? Yes verily, ³ their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world.

19 But I say, Did not Īs'ra-el know? First Mō'sēs saith, ⁴ I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a ⁵ foolish nation I will anger you.

20 But Ē-sā'jas is very bold, and saith, ⁶ I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me.

21 But to Īs'ra-el he saith, All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

CHAPTER 11.

1 A remnant of Israel saved by grace. 17 The Gentiles may not boast against them.

I SAY then, ¹ Hath God cast away his people? God forbid. For ² I also am an Īs'ra-el-ite, of the seed of A'brā-hām, of the tribe of Bēn'-ja-min.

2 God hath not cast away his people which ³ he foreknew. Wot ye not what the scripture saith ⁴ of Ē-l'as? how he maketh intercession to God against Īs'ra-el, saying,

3 ⁵ Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Bā'al.

5 ⁶ Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace.

6 And ⁷ if by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then is it no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

7 What then? ⁸ Īs'ra-el hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the ⁹ election hath obtained it, and the rest were ¹⁰ blinded.

8 (According as it is written, ¹¹ God hath given them the spirit of ¹² slumber, ¹³ eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day.

9 And Dā'vid saith, ¹⁴ Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumblingblock, and a recompence unto them:

10 Let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see, and bow down their back alway.

11 I say then, Have they stumbled that they ¹⁵ should fall? God forbid: but rather ¹⁶ through their fall salvation is come unto the Ġen'tiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the ¹⁷ diminishing of them the riches of the Ġen'tiles; how much more their ¹⁸ fulness?

13 For I speak to you Ġen'tiles, inasmuch as ¹⁹ I am the apostle of the Ġen'tiles, I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and ²⁰ might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?

16 For if ^r the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

17 And if ^s some of the branches be broken off, ^t and thou, being a wild olive tree, wert grafted in ^u among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree;

18 ^v Boast not against the branches. But if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. ^w Be not highminded, but ^x fear:

21 For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, ^y if thou continue in his goodness: ^z otherwise ^a thou also shalt be cut off.

23 And they also, ^b if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graft them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and wert grafted contrary to nature into a good olive tree: how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that ^c blindness in part is happened to Is^rael, ^d until the fulness of the Gen^tiles be come in.

26 And so ^e all Is^rael shall be saved: as it is written, ^f There shall come out of Si^on the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Ja^cob:

27 ^g For this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins.

28 As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are ^h beloved for the fathers' sakes.

29 For the gifts and calling of God are ⁱ without repentance.

30 For as ye in times past have not ^j believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief:

31 Even so have these also now

CHAPTER 12.

Sundry practical duties recommended.

I BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye ^a present your bodies ^b a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.

2 And ^c be not conformed to this world: but ^d be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may ^e prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.

3 For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think ^f soberly, according as God hath dealt ^g to every man the measure of faith.

4 For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office:

5 So ^h we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 ⁱ Having then gifts differing ^j according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith;

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering: or ^k he that teacheth, on teaching;

8 Or ^l he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that ^m giveth, let him do it ⁿ with simplicity; ^o he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness.

9 Let love be without dissimulation. ^p Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

10 Be kindly affectioned one to another ^q with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another;

11 Not slothful in business; ^r fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 ^a Rejoicing in hope; ^p patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer;

13 ^a Distributing to the necessity of saints; ^r given to hospitality.

14 ^a Bless them which persecute you: bless, and curse not.

15 Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.

16 Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but ^b condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits.

17 Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, ^c Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 ^a Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

21 ^b Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAPTER 13.

Of subjection to magistrates.

LET every soul ^a be subject unto the higher powers. For ^b there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ¹ ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

3 ^c For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? ^d that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same: -

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore ^e ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake.

6 For for this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

7 ^f Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; ^g fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour.

8 Owe no man any thing, but to love one another: for ^h he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.

9 For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, ¹ Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

11 And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time ² to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.

12 The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and ³ let us put on the armour of light.

13 ⁴ Let us walk ⁵ honestly, as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, ⁶ not in strife and envying.

14 But ⁷ put ye on the Lord Jēsus Christ, and ⁸ make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

CHAPTER 14.

How to treat a weak brother.

HIM that ^a is weak in the faith receive ye, but ¹ not to doubtful disputations.

2 For one believeth that he ^b may eat all things: another, who is weak, eateth herbs.

3 Let not him that eateth despise him that eateth not; and ^c let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth: for God hath received him.

4 ^d Who art thou that judgest another man's servant? to his own master he standeth or falleth. Yea, he shall be holden up: for God is able to make him stand.

5 ^e One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be ² fully persuaded in his own mind.

6 He that ³ regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for ⁴ he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 For ⁵ none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For ⁶ to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be ⁷ Lord both of the dead and living.

10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for ^j we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, ^k As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then ^l every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that ^m no man put a stumblingblock or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.

14 I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jē'sus, ⁿ that there is nothing ^o unclean of itself: but ^o to him that esteemeth any thing to be ^o unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not ^o charitably. Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died.

16 ^p Let not then your good be evil spoken of:

17 ^q For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Hō'ly Ghōst.

18 For he that in these things serveth Christ ^r is acceptable to God, and approved of men.

19 ^s Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith ^t one may edify another.

20 For meat destroy not the work of God. ^u All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God. Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 And he that ^v doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for ^v whatsoever is not of faith is sin.

CHAPTER 15.

The strong ought to bear with the weak.

WE ^o then that are strong ought to bear the ^o infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

2 ^c Let every one of us please his neighbour for his good ^d to edification.

3 For even Christ pleased not himself; but, as it is written, ^e The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me.

tience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope.

5 ^o Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be like-minded one toward another ¹ according to Christ Jē'sus:

6 That ye may with one mind and one mouth glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another, ^h as Christ also received us to the glory of God.

8 Now I say that ⁱ Jē'sus Christ was a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, ^j to confirm the promises made unto the fathers:

9 And ^k that the Gēn'tiles might glorify God for his mercy; as it is written, ^l For this cause I will confess to thee among the Gēn'tiles, and sing unto thy name.

10 And again he saith, ^m Rejoice, ye Gēn'tiles, with his people.

11 And again, ⁿ Praise the Lord, all ye Gēn'tiles; and laud him, all ye people.

12 And again, E-sā'jas saith, ^o There shall be a root of Jē'se, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gēn'tiles; in him shall the Gēn'tiles trust.

13 Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Hō'ly Ghōst.

14 And ^p I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, ^q filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written the more boldly unto you in some sort, as putting you in mind, ^r because of the grace that is given to me of God,

16 That ^s I should be the minister of Jē'sus Christ to the Gēn'tiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the ^t offering up of the Gēn'tiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Hō'ly Ghōst.

17 I have therefore whereof I may glory through Jē'sus Christ in ^u those things which pertain to God.

18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things ^v which Christ hath not wrought by me, ^v to make the Gēn'tiles obedient, by word and deed.

19 ^w Through mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God; so that from Jē-ru'sā-lēm, I have round about unto Ī-l'yr'ū-cūm, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so have I strived to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, ^x lest I should build upon another man's foundation:

21 But as it is written, ^a To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see : and they that have not heard shall understand.

22 For which cause also ^a I have been ³ much hindered from coming to you.

23 But now having no more place in these parts, and ^a having a great desire these many years to come unto you ;

24 Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you : for I trust to see you in my journey, ^b and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled ⁴ with your company.

25 But now ^c I go unto Jê-ry'sâ-lêm to minister unto the saints.

26 For ^d it hath pleased them of Măc-g-dô-ni-â and Ā-chă-jă to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jê-ry'sâ-lêm.

27 It hath pleased them verily ; and their debtors they are. For if the Ġên-tiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, ^e their duty is also to minister unto them in carnal things.

28 Whentherefore I have performed this, and have sealed to them ^f this fruit, I will come by you into Spain.

29 ^g And I am sure that, when I come unto you, I shall come in the ^h fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

30 Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jê'sus Christ's sake, and ⁱ for the love of the Spirit, ^j that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me ;

31 ^k That I may be delivered from them that ^l do not believe in Jū-dă-ă ; and that my service which I have for Jê-ry'sâ-lêm may be accepted of the saints ;

32 That I may come unto you with joy ^m by the will of God, and may with you be ⁿ refreshed.

33 Now the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Exhortation to unity, 11 dissensions reproved.

PAUL, called to be an apostle of Jē'sus Christ through the will of God, and ^a Sōs'the-nēs our brother,

2 Unto the church of God which is at Cōr'inth, to them that ^b are sanctified in Christ Jē'sus, ^c called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jē'sus Christ ^d our Lord, ^e both theirs and ours:

3 Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

4 I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jē'sus Christ;

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him, ^f in all utterance, and in all knowledge;

6 Even as ^g the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you:

7 So that ye come behind in no gift; waiting for the ^h coming of our Lord Jē'sus Christ:

8 ⁱ Who shall also confirm you unto the end, ^j that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

9 ^k God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto ^l the fellowship of his Son Jē'sus Christ our Lord.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no ^m divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment.

11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chlō'ē, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now this I say, ⁿ that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of ^o Ā-pō'lōs; and I of ^p Cē'phas; and I of Christ.

crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God that I baptized none of you, but ^y Cris'pus ^z and Gā'jus;

15 Lest any should say that I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the household of ^a Stēph'a-nās: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 ^b For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: not with wisdom of ^c words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For the preaching of the cross is to ^d them that perish ^e foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the ^f power of God.

19 For it is written, ^g I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

20 ^h Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath ⁱ not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 ^j For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

22 For the ^k Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach Christ crucified, ^l unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ ^m the power of God, and ⁿ the wisdom of God.

25 ^o Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 For ye see your calling, brethren, how that ^p not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called:

27 But ^q God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty;

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and ^a things which are not, ⁱ to bring to nought things that are:

29 That no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 But of him are ye in Christ Jēsus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

31 That, according as it is written, He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

CHAPTER 2.

1 How Paul preached the gospel: of which is God's wise counsel for men's salvation.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, ^a came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.

2 For I determined not to know any thing among you, ^b save Jēsus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And ^c I was with you ^d in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.

4 And my speech and my preaching ^e was not with ¹ enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power:

5 That your faith should not ² stand in the wisdom of men, but ^f in the power of God.

6 Howbeit we speak wisdom among them ^g that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come to nought:

7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, ^h which God ordained before the world unto our glory:

8 ⁱ Which none of the princes of this world knew: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

10 But ^k God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.

11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, ^l save the spirit of man which is in him? ^m even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

spirit of the world, but ⁿ the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.

13 ^o Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Hōlŷ Ghōst teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

14 ^p But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: ^q neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

15 ^r But he that is spiritual ³ judgeth all things, yet he himself is ⁴ judged of no man.

16 ^s For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he ⁵ may instruct him? ^t But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAPTER 3.

How Paul dealt with weak believers.

AND I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with ^a milk, and not with meat: for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnal: for where-as there is among you envying, and strife, and ¹ divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk ² as men?

4 For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Ä-pōl-lōs; are ye not carnal?

5 Who then is Paul, and who is Ä-pōl-lōs, but ministers by whom ye believed, ^b even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 ^c I have planted, ^d Ä-pōl-lōs watered; but God ^e gave the increase.

7 So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase.

8 Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: ^f and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour.

9 For ^g we are labourers together with God: ye are God's ³ husbandry, ye are ^h God's building.

10 According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid ⁱ the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But ^j let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

11 For other foundation can no man lay than ^k that is laid, which is Jēsus Christ.

12 Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble:

13 Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day ¹shall declare it, because it ⁴shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward.

15 If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; ^myet so as by fire.

16 Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man ⁵defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the ⁿtemple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

18 Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, ^oHe taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

20 And again, ^pThe Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

21 Therefore let no man glory in men. For ^qall things are yours;

22 Whether Paul, or Ä-pöl'lös, or Qëphas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours;

23 And ^rye are Christ's; ^sand Christ is God's.

CHAPTER 4.

How to account of Christ's ministers.

LET a man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, ^aand stewards of the mysteries of God.

2 Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful.

3 But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's ¹judgment: yea, I judge not mine own self.

4 For I know nothing by myself; yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.

5 ^bTherefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and ^cthen shall every man have praise of God.

6 And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Ä-pöl'lös for your sakes; ^dthat ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.

8 Now ye are full, ^fnow ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us; and I would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

9 For I think that God hath set forth us ³the apostles last, ^gas it were appointed to death: for ^hwe are made a ⁴spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.

10 We are ⁱfools for Christ's sake, but ye are wise in Christ; ^jwe are weak, but ye are strong; ye are honourable, but we are despised.

11 Even unto this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and ^kare buffeted, and have no certain dwellingplace;

12 ^lAnd labour, working with our own hands: ^mbeing reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it:

13 Being defamed, we intreat: we are made as the filth of the world, and are the offscouring of all things unto this day.

14 I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved sons I warn you.

15 For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for ⁿin Christ Jë'sus I have begotten you through the gospel.

2 And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you.

3 ^a For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have ¹ judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed,

4 In the name of our Lord Jēsus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, ^e with the power of our Lord Jēsus Christ,

5 ^f To deliver such an one unto Sātān for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jēsus.

6 Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that ^a a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even ^h Christ our ¹ passover ² is sacrificed for us:

8 Therefore ^j let us keep ³ the feast, ^k not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote unto you in an epistle ^l not to company with fornicators:

10 Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go ^m out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you not to keep company, ⁿ if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one ^o no not to eat.

12 For what have I to do to judge ^p them also that are without? do not ye judge them that are within?

them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. ^e Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong, and defraud, ^a and that your brethren.

9 Know ye not that ^e the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And such were some of you: ^f but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jēsus, and by the Spirit of our God.

12 ^g All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not ¹ expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.

13 Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but ^h for the Lord; ⁱ and the Lord for the body.

14 And ^j God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us ^k by his own power.

15 Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 What? know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for ^l two, saith he, shall be one flesh.

17 ^m But he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

18 Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth ⁿ against his own body.

19 What? ^o know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, ^p and ye are not your own?

20 For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.

CHAPTER 7.

1 The use of marriage: 10 Christ hath forbidden to dissolve the bond thereof.

NOW concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

5 Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinency.

6 But I speak this by permission, and not of commandment.

7 For I would that all men were even as I myself. But every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But if they cannot contain, let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn.

10 And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband:

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 But to the rest speak I, not the Lord: If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband; else were your children unclean; but now are they holy.

15 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband? or how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk. And so ordain I in all churches.

18 Is any man called being circumcised? let him not become uncircumcised. Is any called in uncircumcision? let him not be circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called being a servant? care not for it: but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is the Lord's free-man: likewise also he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.

23 Ye are bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men.

24 Brethren, let every man, wherein he is called, therein abide with God.

25 Now concerning virgins I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my judgment, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful.

26 I suppose therefore that this is good for the present distress, I say, that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned. Nevertheless such shall have trouble in the flesh: but I spare you.

29 But this I say, brethren, the time is short: it remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none;

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not;

31 And they that use this world, as not abusing it: for the fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you without carefulness. He that is unmarried careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin. The unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit: but she that is married careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own profit; not that I may cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comely, and that ye may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless he that standeth stedfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doeth well.

38 ^a So then he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better.

39 ^a The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord.

40 But she is happier if she so abide, after my judgment: and I think also that I have the Spirit of God.

CHAPTER 8.

Charity preferable to knowledge.

NOW ^a as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we all have ^b knowledge. Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth.

2 And ^c if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, ^d the same is known of him.

4 As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice unto idols, we know that ^e an idol is nothing in the world, ^f and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are ^g called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many.)

6 But ^h to us there is but one God, the Father, ⁱ of whom are all things, and we ^j in him; and ^k one Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^l by whom are all things, and we by him.

7 Howbeit there is not in every man that knowledge: for some with conscience of the idol unto this hour eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak is defiled.

9 But take heed lest by any means this ⁴ liberty of yours become a stumblingblock to them that are weak.

10 For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple, shall not the conscience of him which is weak be ⁵ emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols;

5 Have we not power to lead about a sister, a ¹ wife, as well as other apostles, and ^e as ^f the brethren of the Lord, and ^g Cēphas?

6 Or I only and Bār-na-bās, ^h have not we power to forbear working?

7 Who ⁱ goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who ^j planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who ^k feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Mō'ses, ^k Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that ^l he that ploweth should plow in hope; and that he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope.

11 ^m If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?

12 If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather?

ⁿ Nevertheless we have not used this power; but suffer all things, lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 ^a Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things ² live of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?

14 Even so ² hath the Lord ordained ^a that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things: neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!

17 For if I do this thing willingly, I have a reward: but if against my will, ^a a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? Verily that, when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ without charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have ^a I made myself servant unto all, ^a that I might gain the more.

20 And ^a unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law;

21 ^a To them that are without law, as without law, (^a being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law;

22 ^a To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.

23 But all I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? ^a So run, that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that ^a striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we ^a an incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, ^b not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air;

27 But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached

CHAPTER 10.

1 The Jews had sacraments typical of ours. 6 Christians must not lust after evil things.

MOREOVER, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under ^a the cloud, and all passed through ^b the sea;

2 And were all baptized unto Mōses in the cloud and in the sea;

3 And did all eat the same ^a spiritual meat;

4 And did all drink the same ^a spiritual drink; for they drank of that spiritual Rock that ¹ followed them: and that Rock was Christ.

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

6 Now these things were ² our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, ^a The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and ^j fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt Christ, as ^a some of them also tempted, and were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmur ye, as some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them for ³ ensamples: and ^a they are written for our admonition, ^a upon whom the ends of the world are come.

12 Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you but such as is ^a common to man: ^a but God is faithful, ^j who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also ^k make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 I speak as to wise men; judge ye what I say.

16 ¹ The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? ^m The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For ^a we being many are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold ^a Iſ'ra-el after the flesh:

19 What say I then? that the idol is any thing, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gén'tiles ^a sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils.

21 ^r Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and ^s the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? ^t are we stronger than he?

23 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 ^u Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.

25 ^v Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience sake:

26 For the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

27 If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; ^w whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols, eat not ^x for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake: for ^y the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof:

29 Conscience, I say, not thine own, but of the other: for ^z why is my liberty judged of another man's conscience?

30 For if I by ⁵ grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that for which I give thanks?

31 ^a Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

32 Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the ⁶ Gén'tiles, nor to the church of God:

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

man; and ^e the head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

5 But ^f every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoureth her head: for that is even all one as if she were ^g shaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: but if it be ^h a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, forasmuch as ⁱ he is the image and glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For ^j the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man.

9 Neither was the man created for the woman; but the woman for the man.

10 For this cause ought the woman ^k to have ² power on her head ¹ because of the angels.

11 Nevertheless ^m neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man, in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even so is the man also by the woman; ⁿ but all things of God.

13 Judge in yourselves: is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature itself teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a ³ covering.

16 But ^o if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God.

17 Now in this that I declare unto you, I praise you not, that ye come together not for the better, but for the worse.

18 For first of all, when ye come together in the church, ^p I hear that there be ⁴ divisions among you; and I partly believe it.

19 For ^q there must be also ⁵ heresies among you, ^r that they which are approved may be made manifest among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, ⁶ this is not to eat the Lord's supper.

21 For in eating every one taketh before other his own supper: and one is hungry, and ^s another is drunken.

22 What? have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or ^t despise ye the church of God, and shame ⁷ them that have not? What shall

I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not.

23 For ^a I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jē'sus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread:

24 And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do ^s in remembrance of me.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is ^v the new testament in my blood: this do ^{ye}, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ^y ye do shew the Lord's death ^w till he come.

27 ^z Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But ^v let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup.

29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh ¹⁰ damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body.

30 For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep.

31 For ^z if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged.

32 But when we are judged ^a we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.

33 Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34 And if any man hunger, let him eat at home; that ye come not together unto ¹¹ condemnation. And the rest ^b will I set in order when ^c I come.

CHAPTER 12.

Spiritual gifts are diverse.

NOW ^a concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

2 Ye know ^b that ye were Ġēn'tiles, carried away unto these dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 Wherefore I give you to understand, ^c that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jē'sus ¹ accursed: and ^d that no man can say that Jē'sus is the Lord, but by the Hō'ly Ghost.

4 Now ^e there are diversities of gifts, but ^f the same Spirit.

5 And there are differences of ² administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God ^a which worketh all in all.

7 ^b But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.

8 For to one is given by the Spirit ^c the word of wisdom; to another ^d the word of knowledge by the same Spirit;

9 ^e To another faith by the same Spirit; to another ^f the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;

10 ^g To another the working of miracles; to another ^h prophecy; ⁱ to another discerning of spirits; to another ^j divers kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues:

11 But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, ^k dividing to every man severally ^l as he will.

12 For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body: ^m so also is Christ.

13 For ⁿ by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, ^o whether we be Jews or ^p Ġēn'tiles, whether we be bond or free; and ^q have been all made to drink into one Spirit.

14 For the body is not one member, but many.

15 If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

17 If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

18 But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?

20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.

21 And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you.

22 Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:

23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we ⁴ bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.

24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked:

25 That there should be no ⁵ schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another.

26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it.

27 Now ^w ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.

28 And ² God hath set some in the church, first ^v apostles, secondarily ² prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, ^a helps, ^b governments, ^c diversities of tongues.

29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all ⁷ workers of miracles?

30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?

31 But ^c covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.

CHAPTER 13.

1 All gifts, however excellent, are nothing without charity: 4 the praises thereof.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not ^a charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

2 And though I have the gift ^b of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, ^c so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

3 And ^a though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

4 ^c Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity ¹ vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

5 ⁵ Doth not behave itself unseemly, ² seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

6 ^b Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but ² rejoiceth ² in the truth;

7 ³ Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

13 And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; ^o but the greatest of these is charity.

CHAPTER 14.

1 Prophecy commended, 2 and preferred before speaking with tongues.

FOLLOW after ^a charity, ^b and desire spiritual gifts, ^c but rather that ye may prophesy.

2 For he that ^d speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man ¹ understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh ^e mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth ^f speaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church.

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying.

6 Now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine?

7 And even things without life giving sound, whether ² pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the ² sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?

9 So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words ³ easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall ^h speak into the air.

10 There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me.

12 Even so ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous ⁴ of spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that ^h he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the understanding also: ^j I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing ^k with the understanding also.

16 Else when thou shalt bless with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen ^l at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than ye all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 Brethren, ^m be not children in understanding: howbeit in malice ⁿ be ye children, but in understanding be ^o men.

21 ^o In the law it is ^p written, With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people; and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

22 Wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe.

23 If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, ^q will they not say that ye are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all:

25 And thus are the secrets of his heart made manifest; and so falling down on his face he will worship God, and report ^r that God is in you of a truth.

26 How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a psalm, ^s hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. ^t Let all things be done unto edifying.

27 If any man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and that by course; and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God.

29 Let the prophets speak two or three, and let the other judge.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, ^u let the first hold his peace.

CHAPTER 15.

By Christ's resurrection the apostle inferreth the necessity of our resurrection.

MOREOVER, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and ^a wherein ye stand;

2 ^b By which also ye are saved, if ye ^c keep in memory ^d what I preached unto you, unless ^e ye have believed in vain.

3 For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins ^f according to the scriptures;

4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day ^g according to the scriptures:

5 ^h And that he was seen of Cēphas, then ⁱ of the twelve:

6 After that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep.

7 After that, he was seen of Jāmes; then ^j of all the apostles.

8 ⁱ And last of all he was seen of me also, as of ³ one born out of due time.

9 For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because ^j I persecuted the church of God.

10 But ^k by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but ^l I laboured more abundantly than they all: ^m yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.

11 Therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

12 Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there be no resurrection of the dead, ⁿ then is Christ not risen:

14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain.

15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not.

16 For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised:

17 And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ^o ye are yet in your sins.

18 Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished.

19 If ^p in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.

20 But now ^q is Christ risen from the dead, and become ^r the firstfruits of them that slept.

21 For ^s since by man came death, by ^t man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in Ad'am all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

23 But ^u every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming.

24 Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up ^v the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power.

25 For he must reign, ^w till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

26 ^x The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

27 For he ^y hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him.

28 ^z And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then ^a shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.

29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?

30 And ^b why stand we in jeopardy every hour?

31 I protest by ^c your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jē'sus our Lord, ^d I die daily.

32 If ^e after the manner of men ^f I have fought with beasts at Ēph'ē-sūs, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? ^g let us eat and drink; for to morrow we die.

33 Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners.

34 ^h Awake to righteousness, and sin not; ⁱ for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame.

35 But some man will say, ^k How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

36 Thou fool, ^l that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die:

37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain:

38 But ^m God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.

40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.

41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.

42 ⁿ So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:

43 ^o It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power:

44 It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.

45 And so it is written, The first man Ad'am ^p was made a living soul; ^q the last Ad'am was made ^r a quickening spirit.

46 Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.

47 ^p The first man is of the earth, ^q earthly: the second man is the Lord ^r from heaven.

48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: ^a and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.

49 And ^a as we have borne the image of the earthy, ^u we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

50 Now this I say, brethren, that ^v flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

51 Behold, I shew you a mystery; ^w We shall not all sleep, ^x but we shall all be changed, 52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: ^y for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and ^z this mortal must put on immortality.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, ^a Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 ^b O death, where is thy sting? O ^c grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is sin; and ^c the strength of sin is the law.

57 ^d But thanks be to God, which giveth us ^e the victory through our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

58 Therefore, my beloved brethren, ^f be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know ^g that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

3 And when I come, ^c whomsoever ye shall approve by your letters, them will I send to bring your ^d liberality unto Jē-rū'sā-lēm.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

CHAPTER 1.

3 The apostle encourageth against troubles: 12 sheweth the sincerity of his preaching.

PAUL, an apostle of Jē'sus Christ by the will of God, and Tim'o-thy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Cōr'inth, ^a with all the saints which are in all Ā-chā'jā: 2 ^b Grace be to you and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

3 ^c Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^d the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort;

4 ^e Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.

5 For as ^f the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also aboundeth by Christ.

6 And whether we be afflicted, ^g it is for your consolation and salvation, which ^h is effectual in the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation.

7 And our hope of you is stedfast, knowing, that ⁱ as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so shall ye be also of the consolation.

8 For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of ^j our trouble which came to us in Ā'sjā, that we were pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that we despaired even of life:

9 But we had the ^k sentence of death in ourselves, that we should not ^l trust in ourselves, but in God which raiseth the dead:

10 ^m Who delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we trust that he will yet deliver us;

11 Ye also ⁿ helping together by prayer for us, that ^o the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 For our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and ^p godly sincerity, ^q not with fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, we have had our conversation in the world, and more abundantly to you-ward.

13 For we write none other things unto you, than what ye read or acknowledge; and I trust ye shall acknowledge even to the end;

14 As also ye have acknowledged us in part, ^a that we are your rejoicing, even as ^b ye also are ours in the day of the Lord Jē'sus.

15 And in this confidence ^c I was minded to come unto you before, that ye might have ^d a second ^e benefit;

16 And to pass by you into Māc-e-dō'nī-ā, and ^f to come again out of Māc-e-dō'nī-ā unto you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Jū-dæ'ā.

17 When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness? or the things that I purpose, do I purpose ^g according to the flesh, that with me there should be yea yea, and nay nay?

18 But as God is true, our ^h word toward you was not yea and nay.

19 For ⁱ the Son of God, Jē'sus Christ, who was preached among you by us, even by me and ^j Sil-vā'nus and Ti-mō'the-ūs, was not yea and nay, but in him was yea.

20 ^k For all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God by us.

21 Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and ^l hath anointed us, is God;

22 Who ^m hath also sealed us, and ⁿ given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 Moreover I call God for a record upon my soul, ^o that to spare you I came not as yet unto Cōr'inth.

24 Not for that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy: for ^p by faith ye stand.

CHAPTER 2.

1 The reasons of Paul's not coming unto them. 6 Of the excommunicated person.

BUT I determined this with myself, ^a that I would not come again to you in heaviness.

2 For if I make you sorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me?

3 And I wrote this same unto you, lest, when I came, I should have sorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoice; ^b having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears; not ^e that ye should be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 But ^d if any have caused grief, he hath not ^e grieved me, but in part: that I may not overcharge you all.

6 Sufficient to such a man is this ¹ punishment, which was inflicted of many.

7 ^a So that contrariwise ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow.

8 Wherefore I beseech you that ye would confirm your love toward him.

9 For to this end also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it ² in the person of Christ;

11 Lest ^h Sā'tan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices.

12 Furthermore, ⁱ when I came to Trō'as to preach Christ's gospel, and a door was opened unto me of the Lord, 13 I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Tī'tus my brother: but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Māç-ē-dō-ni-ā.

14 Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 For we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, in them that are saved, and in them that perish:

16 To the one we are the savour of death unto death; and to the other the savour of life unto life. And who is sufficient for these things?

17 For we are not as many, which ³ corrupt the word of God: but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we ⁴ in Christ.

CHAPTER 3.

DO ^a we begin again to commend ourselves? or need we, as some others, ^b epistles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you?

ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not ^e in tables of stone, but ^f in fleshy tables of the heart.

4 And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward:

5 ^a Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but ^h our sufficiency is of God;

6 Who also hath made us able ministers of ⁱ the new testament; not ^j of the letter, but of the spirit: for ^k the letter killeth, ^l but the spirit ¹ giveth life.

7 But if the ministration of death, written and engraven in stones, was glorious, so that the children of Is'ra-el could notstedfastly behold the face of Mō'sēs for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away:

8 How shall not ^m the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?

9 For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration ⁿ of righteousness exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great ² plainness of speech:

13 And not as Mō'sēs, ^o which put a veil over his face, that the children of Is'ra-el could not stedfastly look to ^p the end of that which is abolished:

14 But ^q their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same veil untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which veil is done away in Christ.

15 But even unto this day, when Mō'sēs is read, the veil is upon their heart.

16 Nevertheless ^r when it shall turn to the Lord, ^s the veil shall be taken away.

17 Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all, with open face beholding ^t as in a glass the glory of the Lord, ^u as are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as ³ by the Spirit of the Lord.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Paul's unwearied diligence and zeal in preaching: 1 his troubles for the same.

THEREFORE seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not;

2 But have renounced the hidden things of ¹ dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, ^a nor handling the word of God deceitfully; but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

3 But if our gospel be hid, ^b it is hid to them that are lost:

4 In whom ^c the god of this world ^d hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, ^e who is the image of God, should shine unto them.

5 For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jē'sus the Lord; and ^f ourselves your servants for Jē'sus's sake.

6 For God, ^g who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, ^h hath ⁱ shined in our hearts, to ^j give ^k the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jē'sus Christ.

7 But we have this treasure in ^l earthen vessels, ^m that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

8 We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but ⁿ not in despair;

9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed;

10 ^o Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jē'sus, ^p that the life also of Jē'sus might be made manifest in our body.

11 For we which live are always delivered unto death for Jē'sus's sake, that the life also of Jē'sus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

12 So then death worketh in us, but life in you.

13 We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, ^q I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;

14 Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jē'sus shall raise up us also by Jē'sus, and shall present us with you.

15 For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

18 While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

CHAPTER 5.

Paul, in assured hope of immortal glory, laboureth to approve himself to Christ.

FOR we know that if ^a our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have ^b a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this ^c we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven:

3 If so be that ^d being clothed we shall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but ^e clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life.

5 Now ^f he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also ^g hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit.

6 Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord:

7 (For ^h we walk by faith, not by sight:)

8 We are confident, I say, and ⁱ willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.

9 Wherefore we ^j labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him.

10 For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; ^k that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

11 Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but we are made manifest unto God; and I trust also are made manifest in your consciences.

12 For we commend not ourselves again unto you, but give you occasion to glory on our behalf, that ye may have somewhat to answer them which glory ^l in appearance, and not in heart.

13 For ^m whether we be beside ourselves, it is to God: or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

14 For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that ⁿ if one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, ^o that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 ^p Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, ^e yet now henceforth know we him no more.

17 Therefore if any man be in Christ, ³ he is a new creature: ² old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

18 And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jē-sus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation;

19 To wit, that ¹ God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath ⁴ committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

20 Now then we are ^r ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.

21 For ^e he hath made him to be sin for us, who ^knew no sin; that we might be made ^u the righteousness of God in him.

CHAPTER 6.

1 Paul's sufferings and patience in the ministry.
14 Exhortation to avoid idolaters.

WE then, as ^a workers together with him, beseech you also ^b that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, ^e I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.)

3 ^a Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed:

4 But in all things ¹ approving ourselves ^e as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 In stripes, in imprisonments, ² in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

6 By pureness, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the Hō'lŷ Ghōst, by love unfeigned,

7 By the word of truth, by ^f the power of God, by ^e the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true;

9 As unknown, and ^h yet well known; ⁱ as dying, and, behold, we live; ^j as chastened, and not killed;

10 As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

11 O ye Cō-rinth-i-ans, our mouth is open unto you, our heart is enlarged.

but ^k ye are straitened in your own bowels.

13 Now for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children,) be ye also enlarged.

14 ¹ Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for ^m what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Bē'li-al? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ⁿ ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, ^e I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 ² Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 ^a And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

CHAPTER 7.

1 He exhorteth to purity of life, 3 and sheweth the source of his comfort in afflictions.

HAVING ^a therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 Receive us; we have wronged no man; we have corrupted no man, we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to condemn you: for I have said before, that ye are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 Great is my boldness of speech toward you, ^b great is my glorying of you: ^c I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 For, ^d when we were come into Mā-g-dō-ni-ā, our flesh had no rest, but we ^e were troubled on every side; ^f without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless ^g God, that comforteth those that are cast down, comforted us by the coming of Ti'tus;

7 And not by his coming only, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me; so that I rejoiced the more.

8 For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not repent, ^h though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle hath made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye were made sorry ¹ after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10 For ¹ godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: ² but the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 For behold this selfsame thing, that ye ³ sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea, what revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore, though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort: yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit ¹ was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting, which I made before Titus, is found a truth.

15 And his ² inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilst he remembereth ^m the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling ye received him.

16 I rejoyce therefore that ⁿ I have confidence in you in all things.

CHAPTER 8.

¹ He stirreth them up to contribute to the saints: 16 he commendeth Titus and others.

MOREOVER, brethren, ¹ we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Mæ-g-dô-ni-â;

² How that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and ^a their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their ² liberality.

³ For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves;

⁴ Praying us with much intreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us ^b the fellowship of the ministering to the saints.

⁵ And this they did, not as we hoped, but first ^c gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.

⁶ Inasmuch that ^d we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also finish in you the same ³ grace also.

⁷ Therefore, as ^e ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us, see ^f that ye abound in this grace also.

⁸ ^g I speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love.

⁹ For ye know the grace of our Lord Je'sus Christ, ^h that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

¹⁰ And herein ⁱ I give my advice: for ^j this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be ^k forward a year ago.

¹¹ Now therefore perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have.

¹² For ^k if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

¹³ For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened:

¹⁴ But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want: that there may be equality:

¹⁵ As it is written, ^l He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack.

¹⁶ But thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

¹⁷ For indeed he accepted the exhortation; but being more forward, of his own accord he went unto you.

¹⁸ And we have sent with him ^m the brother, whose praise is in the gospel throughout all the churches;

¹⁹ And not that only, but who was also ⁿ chosen of the churches to travel with us with this ^o grace, which is administered by us ^p to the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your ready mind:

²⁰ ^r Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us:

²¹ ^s Providing for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

²² And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oftentimes proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which ^t I have in you.

²³ Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my partner and fellow-helper concerning you: or our brethren be enquired of, they are ^r the messengers of the churches, and the glory of Christ.

24 Wherefore shew ye to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your behalf.

CHAPTER 9.

1 He sheweth why he sent the brethren, & and stirreth them up to give bountifully, as a likely means to increase their store.

FOR as touching ^a the ministering to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you:

2 For I know ^b the forwardness of your mind, ^c for which I boast of you to them of Măc-ē-dō-ni-ā, that ^a Ā-chā-jā was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

3 ^c Yet have I sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready:

4 Lest haply if they of Măc-ē-dō-ni-ā come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, ye) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your ¹ bounty, ² whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

6 ^f But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully.

7 Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; ^g not grudgingly, or of necessity: for ^h God loveth a cheerful giver.

8 ⁱ And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work:

9 (As it is written, ^j He hath dispersed abroad; he hath given to the poor: his righteousness remaineth for ever.

10 Now he that ^k ministereth seed to the sower both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your ^l righteousness;)

11 Being enriched in every thing to all ^m bountifulness, ⁿ which causeth through us thanksgiving to God.

12 For the administration of this service not only supplieth the want of the saints, but is abundant also by many thanksgivings unto God;

6 ^f And having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when ^g your obedience is fulfilled.

7 Do ye look on things after the outward appearance? ^h If any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are ⁱ we Christ's.

8 For though I should boast somewhat more of our authority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for your destruction, I should not be ashamed:

9 That I may not seem as if I would terrify you by letters.

10 For his letters, ⁵ say they, are weighty and powerful; but ^j his bodily presence is weak, and his ^k speech contemptible.

11 Let such an one think this, that, such as we are in word by letters when we are absent, such will we be also in deed when we are present.

12 ^l For we dare not make ourselves of the number, or compare ourselves with some that commend themselves; but they measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, ⁶ are not wise.

13 But we will not boast of things without our measure, but according to the measure of the ⁷rule which God hath distributed to us, a measure to reach even unto you.

14 For we stretch not ourselves beyond our measure, as though we reached not unto you: ^mfor we are come as far as to you also in preaching the gospel of Christ:

15 Not boasting of things without our measure, that is, ⁿof other men's labours; but having hope, when your faith is increased, that we shall be ^aenlarged by you according to our rule abundantly.

16 To preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's ⁿline of things made ready to our hand.

17 ^oBut he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

18 For ^pnot he that commendeth himself is approved, but ^qwhom the Lord commendeth.

CHAPTER 11.

1 He unwillingly entereth into a commendation of himself: 23 he sheweth his sufferings for the gospel.

WOULD to God ye could bear with me a little in ^amy folly: and indeed ^bbear with me.

2 For I am ^bjealous over you with godly jealousy: for ^cI have espoused you to one husband, ^dthat I may present you ^eas a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But I fear, lest by any means, as ^fthe serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds ^gshould be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if he that cometh preacheth another Jē'sus, whom we have not preached, or ^hif ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received, or ⁱanother gospel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear ^jwith him.

5 For I suppose I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles.

6 But though ^kI be rude in speech, yet not ^lin knowledge; but we have been thoroughly made manifest among you in all things.

7 Have I committed an offence ^min abasing myself that ye might be exalted, because I have preached to you the gospel of God freely?

8 I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service.

9 And when I was present with you, and wanted, ⁿI was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me ^othe brethren which came from Māc-g-dō-ni-ā supplied: and in all things I have kept myself ^pfrom being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself.

10 ^aAs the truth of Christ is in me, ^bno man shall stop me of this boasting in the regions of Ā-chā/jā.

11 Wherefore? ^cbecause I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, that I will do, ^dthat I may cut off occasion from them which desire occasion; that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

13 For such ^eare false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.

14 And no marvel; for Sā'tan himself is transformed into ^fan angel of light.

15 Therefore ^git is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; ^hwhose end shall be according to their works.

16 I say again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwise, yet as a fool ⁱreceive me, that I may boast myself a little.

17 That which I speak, ^jI speak it not after the Lord, but as it were foolishly, ^kin this confidence of boasting.

18 ^lSeeing that many glory after the flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye ^myourselves are wise.

20 For ye suffer, ⁿif a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take of you, if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face.

21 I speak as concerning reproach, ^oas though we had been weak. Howbeit whereinsoever any is bold, (I speak foolishly,) I am bold also.

22 Are they Hē'brews? ^pso am I. Are they Īs'ra-el-ites? ^qso am I. Are they the seed of Ā'brā'hām? ^rso am I.

23 Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool) I ^sam more; ^tin labours more abundant, ^uin stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft.

24 Of the Jew's five times received I ^va forty stripes save one.

25 Thrice was I ^wbeaten with rods, ^xonce was I stoned, thrice I ^ysuffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep;

26 In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, ^zin perils by mine own countrymen, ^{aa}in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren;

27 In weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, ^{ab}in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness.

28 Beside those things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, ^a the care of all the churches.

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 If I must needs glory, I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ⁱ which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 ^j In Dā-mās'cus the governor under Ār'e-tas the king kept the city of the Dām'as-cēnes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend me:

33 And through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

CHAPTER 12.

1 He chooseth to commend his apostleship, not by revelations, 9 but by his infirmities, 11 blaming them for forcing this boasting.

IT is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. ¹ I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I knew a man ^a in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one ^b caught up to the third heaven.

3 And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)

4 How that he was caught up into ^c paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not ² lawful for a man to utter.

5 Of such an one will I glory: ^d yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For ^e though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a ^f thorn in the flesh, ^g the messenger of Sā'tan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8 ^h For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he said unto me, ⁱ My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, ^j that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10 Therefore ^k I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: ¹ for when I am weak, then am I strong.

11 I am become a fool in glorying; ye have compelled me: for I ought to have been commended of you: for ^m in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, though I be nothing.

12 ⁿ Truly the signs of an apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 ^o For what is it wherein ye were inferior to other churches, except it be that ^p I myself was not burdensome to you? forgive me this wrong.

14 ^q Behold, the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdensome to you: for ^r I seek not yours, but you: ^s for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And ^t I will very gladly spend and be spent for ³ you; though ^u the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved.

16 But be it so, ^v I did not burden you: nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 ^w Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I sent unto you?

18 ^z I desired Ti'tus, and with him I sent a brother. Did Ti'tus make a gain of you? walked we not in the same spirit? walked we not in the same steps?

19 ^y Again, think ye that we excuse ourselves unto you? ^z we speak before God in Christ: ^a but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 For I fear, lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that ^b I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults:

21 And lest, when I come again, my God ^c will humble me among you, and that I shall bewail many which have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness and ^d fornication and lasciviousness which they have committed.

CHAPTER 13.

He threateneth obstinate sinners.

THIS is ^a the third time I am coming to you. ^b In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 ^c I told you before, and foretell you, as if I were present, the second time; and being absent now I write to them ^d which heretofore have sinned, and to all other, that, if I come again, I will not spare:

3 Since ye seek a proof of Christ speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is mighty ^j in you.

4 ^o For though he was crucified through weakness, yet ^h he liveth by the power of God. For ⁱ we also are weak ^l in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

5 ^j Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, ^k how that Jē'sus Christ is in you, except ye be ^l reprobates?

6 But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates.

7 Now I pray to God that ye do no evil; not that we should appear approved, but that ye should do that which is honest, though ^m we be as reprobates.

8 For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth.

The second epistle to the Cō-rinth'ians was written from Phī-lip'pi, a city of Māc-e-dō'n-i-a, by Ti'tus and Li'cas.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE GALATIANS.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Paul's salutation: 6 he wonders that they had so soon left the truth.

PAUL, an apostle, (not of men, neither by man, but ^a by Jē'sus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead:)

2 And all the brethren ^b which are with me, ^c unto the churches of Gālātjā:

3 ^d Grace be to you and peace from God the Father, and ^e from our Lord Jē'sus Christ,

4 ^f Who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us ^g from this present evil world, according to the will of God and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel:

7 ^h Which is not another; but there be some ⁱ that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ.

8 But though ^j we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you ^k than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

10 For ^k do I now ^l persuade men, or God? or ^m do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

11 ⁿ But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man.

12 For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught ^{it}, but ^o by the revelation of Jē'sus Christ.

13 For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jews' religion, how that ^p beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and ^q wasted it:

14 And profited in the Jews' religion above many my ^l equals in mine own nation, ^r being more exceedingly zealous ^s of the traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, ^t who separated me from my mother's womb, and called ^{me} by his grace,

16 ^u To reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with ^v flesh and blood:

17 Neither went I up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Ā-rā-bī-ā, and returned again unto Dā-mās'cus.

18 Then after three years I ^w went up to Jē-ru'sā-lēm to see Pē-tēr, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But ^w other of the apostles saw I none, save α Jāmeš the Lord's brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not.

21 ν Afterwards I came into the regions of Šyr'ā and Ći-l'ċjā;

22 And was unknown by face unto the churches of Jū-dæ'a which were in Christ:

23 But they had heard only, That he which persecuted us in times past now preacheth the faith which once he destroyed.

24 And they glorified God in me.

CHAPTER 2.

¹ He sheweth when and for what purpose he went up to Jerusalem. ¹⁴ Of justification by faith, and not by works.

THEN fourteen years after α I went up again to Jē-ru'sā-lēm with Bār'na-bās, and took Ti'tus with me also.

2 And I went up by revelation, δ and communicated unto them that gospel which I preach among the Ġēn'tiles, but ν privately to them which were of reputation, lest by any means ϵ I should run, or had run, in vain.

3 But neither Ti'tus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of false brethren unawares brought in, who came in privily to spy out our α liberty which we have in Christ Jē'sus, ϵ that they might bring us into bondage:

5 To whom we gave place by subjection, no, not for an hour; that the truth of the gospel might continue with you.

6 But of these ν who seemed to be somewhat, (whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me: ν God accepteth no man's person:) for they who seemed to be somewhat in δ conference added nothing to me:

7 But contrariwise, δ when they saw that the gospel of the uncircumcision ν was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision was unto Pē'tēr;

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Pē'tēr to the apostleship of the circumcision, δ the same was mighty in me toward the Ġēn'tiles:)

9 And when Jāmeš, Ćē'phas, and Jōhn, who seemed to be ν pillars, perceived ν the grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Bār'na-bās the right hands of fellowship; that we should go unto the heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Only they would that we should remember the poor; ν the same which I also was forward to do.

11 α But when Pē'tēr was come to Ān'ti-ōch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12 For before that certain came from Jāmeš, ν he did eat with the Ġēn'tiles: but when they were come, he withdrew and separated himself, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that Bār'na-bās also was carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked not uprightly according to α the truth of the gospel, I said unto Pē'tēr before them all, ν If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Ġēn'tiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Ġēn'tiles to live as do the Jews?

15 α We who are Jews by nature, and not ν sinners of the Ġēn'tiles,

16 ν Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but ν by the faith of Jē'sus Christ, even we have believed in Jē'sus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for ν by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

17 But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found α sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

18 For if I build again the things which I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor.

19 For I ν through the law α am dead to the law, that I might α live unto God.

20 I am δ crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh ϵ I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

21 I do not frustrate the grace of God: for α if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

CHAPTER 3.

¹ He asked what moved them to depend on the law, having received the Spirit through faith. ⁶ Abraham being justified by faith, so they who are of faith inherit his blessing.

O FOOLISH Gā-lā'tjans, α who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, δ before whose eyes Jē'sus Christ hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This only would I learn of you, Received ye ϵ the Spirit by the works of the law, α or by the hearing of faith?

3 Are ye so foolish? ^a having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by ^j the flesh?

4 ^o Have ye suffered ¹ so many things in vain? if it be yet in vain.

5 He therefore ^b that ministereth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doeth he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

6 Even as Ā'brā-hām believed God, and it was ² accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore that ^t they which are of faith, the same are the children of Ā'brā-hām.

8 And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Ā'brā-hām, saying, ^j In thee shall all nations be blessed.

9 So then they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Ā'brā-hām.

10 For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, ^k Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, ^l The just shall live by faith.

12 And ^m the law is not of faith: but, ⁿ The man that doeth them shall live in them.

13 Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, ^o Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:

14 ^p That the blessing of Ā'brā-hām might come on the Gen'tiles through Jē'sus Christ; that we might receive ^q the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of men; ^r Though it be but a man's ³ covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no man disannulleth, or addeth thereto.

16 Now to Ā'brā-hām and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is ^s Christ.

17 And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, ^t which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, ^u that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 For if ^v the inheritance be of the law, ^w it is no more of promise: but God gave it to Ā'brā-hām by promise.

19 Wherefore then serveth the law? ^a It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise was made; and it was ^v ordained by angels in the hand ^z of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not a mediator of one, ^a but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But the scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jē'sus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore ^b the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, ^c that we might be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.

26 For ye ^d are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jē'sus.

27 For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ.

28 ^e There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all ^f one in Christ Jē'sus.

29 And ^g if ye be Christ's, then are ye Ā'brā-hām's seed, and ^h heirs according to the promise.

CHAPTER 4.

1 The Jews were for a while under the law, 4 but Christ came to redeem, and to give both to Jews and Gentiles the adoption of sons.

NOW I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all;

2 But is under tutors and governors until the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so we, when we were children, ^a were in bondage under the ¹ elements of the world:

4 But ^b when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, ^c made of a woman, ^d made under the law,

5 ^e To redeem them that were under the law, ^f that we might receive the adoption of sons.

6 And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Ā'b'ba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; ^g and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ.

8 Howbeit then, ^h when ye knew not God, ⁱ ye did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now, ^j after that ye have known God, ^k or rather are known of God, ^l how turn ye ^m again to ⁿ the weak and beggarly ^o elements, whereunto ye desire again to be in bondage?

10 ^p Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years.

11 I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 Brethren, I beseech you, be as ^q I am; for I am as ye are: ye have not injured me at all.

13 Ye know how ^r through infirmity of the flesh I preached the gospel unto you ^s at the first.

14 And my temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me ^t as an angel of God, ^u even as Christ Jē'sus.

15 ^v Where is then the blessedness ye spake of? for I bear you record, that, if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth?

17 They ^w zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would exclude ^x you, that ye might affect them.

18 But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good thing, and not only when I am present with you.

19 My ^y little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for ^z I stand in doubt of you.

21 Tell me, ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law?

22 For it is written, that Ā'brā'hām had two sons, ^a the one by a bondmaid, ^b the other by a freewoman.

23 But he who was of the bondwoman ^c was born after the flesh; ^d but he of the freewoman was by promise.

24 Which things are an allegory: for these are the two ^e covenants; the one from the mount ^f Sī'nāi, which gendereth to bondage, which is Ā'gār.

25 For this Ā'gār is mount Sī'nāi in Ā-rā'bī-ā, and ^g answereth to Jē-ru'sā-lēm which now is, and is in bondage with her children.

26 But ^h Jē-ru'sā-lēm which is above is free, which is the mother of us all.

27 For it is written, ⁱ Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband.

28 Now we, brethren, as Ī'saac was, are ^a the children of promise.

29 But as then ^b he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit, even so it is now.

30 Nevertheless what saith ^c the scripture? Cast out the bondwoman and her son: for ^d the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman.

31 So then, brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, but of the free.

CHAPTER 5.

1 He moveth them to maintain their Christian liberty, 3 and not to observe circumcision, 13 but rather love one another.

STAND fast therefore in ^a the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again ^b with the yoke of bondage.

2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that ^c if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, ^d that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

4 ^e Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ^f ye are fallen from grace.

5 For we through the Spirit ^g wait for the hope of righteousness by faith.

6 For ^h in Jē'sus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but ⁱ faith which worketh by love.

7 Ye ^j did run well; ^k who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth?

8 This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you.

9 A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 ^l I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but ^m he that troubleth you ⁿ shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

11 ^o And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, ^p why do I yet suffer persecution? then is ^q the offence of the cross ceased.

12 ^r I would they were even cut off ^s which trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only ^t use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.

14 For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

15 But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.

16 This I say then, * Walk in the Spirit, and ² ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.

17 For ^v the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: ^w so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But ^z if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law.

19 Now ^a the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that ^b they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But ^c the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, ^d gentleness, goodness, ^e faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

24 And they that are Christ's ^f have crucified the flesh with the ^g affections and lusts.

25 If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

26 Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAPTER 6.

1 He willetth them to reform the faulty with gentleness, and to bear one another's burdens: 6 to be liberal to their teachers.

BRETHREN, ¹ if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye ^a which are spiritual, restore such an one ^b in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, ^c lest thou also be tempted.

2 ^d Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil ^e the law of Christ.

3 For ^f if a man think himself to be something, when ^g he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

13 For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh.

14 But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^o by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world.

15 For in Christ Jē'sus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but ^p a new creature.

16 And as many as walk according to this rule, peace ^q be on them, and mercy, and upon ^r the Īs'ra-el of God.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me: for ^s I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jē'sus.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.

CHAPTER 1.

1 He bleaseth God for spiritual blessings, 7 and for redemption by his grace.

PAUL, an apostle of Jē'sus Christ by the will of God, to the saints which are at Eph'ē-sūs, ^a and to the faithful in Christ Jē'sus:

2 ^b Grace be to you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

3 ^c Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly ¹ places in Christ:

4 According as ^d he hath chosen us in him ^e before the foundation of the world, that we should ^f be holy and without blame before him in love:

5 ^g Having predestinated us unto ^h the adoption of children by Jē'sus Christ to himself, ⁱ according to the good pleasure of his will,

6 ^j To the praise of the glory of his grace, ^k wherein he hath made us accepted in ^l the beloved.

7 ^m In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to ⁿ the riches of his grace;

8 Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence;

9 ^o Having made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure ^p which he hath purposed in himself:

10 That in the dispensation of ^q the fulness of times ^r he might gather together in one ^s all things in Christ, both which are in ² heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:

11 ^t In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestinated according to ^u the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will:

12 ^v That we should be to the praise of his glory, ^w who first ³ trusted in Christ.

13 In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ^z ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise,

14 ^y Which is the earnest of our inheritance ^z until the redemption of ^a the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory.

of your faith in the Lord Jē'sus, and love unto all the saints,

16 Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;

17 That the God of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, the Father of glory, ^b may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation ⁴ in the knowledge of him:

18 ^c The eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

19 And what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, ^d according to the working ⁵ of his mighty power,

20 Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places,

22 And ^f hath put all things under his feet, and gave him ^g to be the head over all things to the church.

23 ^h Which is his body, the fulness of him ⁱ that filleth all in all.

CHAPTER 2.

1 What the Ephesians' state was: 4 God's mercy in their deliverance.

AND ^a you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins;

2 ^b Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in ^c the children of disobedience:

3 ^d Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in ^e the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling ¹ the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and ^f were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.

4 But God, ^g who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

5 ^h Even when we were dead in sins, hath ⁱ quickened us together with Christ, (² by grace ye are saved;)

6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jē'sus:

7 That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jē'sus.

8 For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; ^a it is the gift of God:

9 ¹ Not of works, lest any man should boast.

10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jē'sus unto good works, ^m which God hath before ³ ordained that we should walk in them.

11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gēn'tiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called ⁿ the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

12 ^o That at that time ye were without Christ, ^p being aliens from the commonwealth of Is'ra-el, and strangers from ^q the covenants of promise, ^r having no hope, ^s and without God in the world:

13 ^t But now in Christ Jē'sus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

14 For ^u he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us;

15 Having abolished ^v in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained inordinances; for to make in himself of twain one ^w new man, so making peace;

16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having ^x slain the enmity ^y thereby;

17 And came ^z and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.

18 For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God;

20 And are built ^a upon the foundation of the ^b apostles and prophets, Jē'sus Christ himself being the ^c chief corner stone;

21 In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord:

2 If ye have heard of ^e the dispensation of the grace of God ^d which is given me to you-ward:

3 How that by revelation ^e he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote ¹ afore in few words,

4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge ^j in the mystery of Christ)

5 ^u Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 That the Gēn'tiles should be fellowheirs, and of the same body, and ^k partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel:

7 Whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by ^t the effectual working of his power.

8 Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gēn'tiles ^j the unsearchable riches of Christ;

9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, ^k which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, ⁱ who created all things by Jē'sus Christ:

10 ^m To the intent that now ⁿ unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places ^o might be known by the church the manifold wisdom of God,

11 According to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jē'sus our Lord:

12 In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him.

13 Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ,

15 Of whom ^p the whole family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you, ^q according to the riches of his glory, ^r to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in ^s the inner man;

17 ^t That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love,

18 May be able to comprehend with all saints ^u what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled ^v with all the fulness of God.

20 Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us,

21 ^w Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jē'sus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

CHAPTER 4.

1 He exhorteth to unity: 24 to put on the new man: 25 to cast off lying, 29 corrupt communication, 31 and all bitterness.

I THEREFORE, the prisoner ¹ of the Lord, beseech you that ye ^a walk worthy of the vocation where-with ye are called,

2 ^b With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love;

3 Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit ^c in the bond of peace.

4 ^d There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;

5 ^e One Lord, one faith, ^f one baptism,

6 ^g One God and Father of all, who is above all, and ^h through all, and in you all.

7 But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ.

8 Wherefore he saith, ⁱ When he ascended up on high, ^j he led ² captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.

9 ^k (Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?)

10 He that descended is the same also ^l that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might ³ fill all things.)

11 ^m And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers;

12 For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, ⁿ for the edifying of ^o the body of Christ:

13 Till we all come ⁴ in the unity of the faith, ^p and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the ⁵ stature of the fulness of Christ:

14 That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every ^q wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive;

15 But ⁶ speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ:

16 ^r From whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.

17 This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gēn'tiles walk, in the vanity of their mind,

18 Having the understanding darkened, ^a being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the ⁷ blindness of their heart:

19 ^b Who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

20 But ye have not so learned Christ;

21 If so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jē'sus:

22 That ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts;

23 And ^c be renewed in the spirit of your mind;

24 And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and ^d true holiness.

25 Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another.

26 Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath:

27 ^e Neither give place to the devil.

28 Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have ⁹ to give to him that needeth.

29 Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good ¹⁰ to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers.

30 And ^w grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption.

31 Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice:

32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

CHAPTER 5.

2 He exhorteth to love: 3 to flee fornication, and all uncleanness: 15 to walk with prudence.

BE ^a ye therefore followers of God, as dear children;

2 And ^b walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God ^c for a sweetsmelling savour.

3 But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints;

4 Neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, ^d which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.

5 For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, ^e hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

6 ^f Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of ¹ disobedience.

7 Be not ye therefore partakers with them.

8 ^g For ye were sometimes darkness, but now ^h are ye light in the Lord: walk as ⁱ children of light:

9 (For the fruit of the Spirit ^{is} in all goodness and righteousness and truth:)

10 ^j Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

11 And ^k have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather ^l reprove them.

12 For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret.

13 But ^m all things that are ⁿ re-proved are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.

14 Wherefore ^o he saith, ^p Awake thou that sleepest, and ^q arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,

16 Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

17 ^r Wherefore be ye not unwise, but ^s understanding ^t what the will of the Lord ^{is}.

18 And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit;

19 Speaking to yourselves ^u in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord;

20 ^v Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jē'sus Christ;

21 ^w Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

22 ^x Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.

23 For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and he is the saviour of the body.

24 Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so ^{let} the wives ^{be} to their own husbands in every thing.

as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it;

26 That he might sanctify and cleanse it ^w with the washing of water ^x by the word,

27 That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.

28 So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.

29 For no man ever yet hated his own flesh: but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church:

30 For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

31 For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

32 This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

33 Nevertheless let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself; and the wife ^{see} that she reverence ^{her} husband.

CHAPTER 6.

1 The relative duties of children: 4 of parents: 5 of servants: 9 of masters.

CHILDREN, ^a obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.

2 ^b Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise;

3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.

4 And, ^c ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but ^d bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

5 Servants, be obedient to them that are ^{your} masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ;

6 Not with eyeservice, as men-pleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart;

7 With good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men:

8 ^e Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether ^{he} be bond or free.

9 And, ye ^f masters, do the same things unto them, ¹ forbearing threatening: knowing that ² your Master also is in heaven; ^g neither is there respect of persons with him.

10 Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.

11 ^a Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

12 For we wrestle not against ³ flesh and blood, but against ⁴ principalities, against powers, against ⁵ the rulers of the darkness of this world, against ⁶ spiritual wickedness in ⁷ high places.

13 Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and ⁸ having done all, to stand.

14 Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and ⁹ having on the breastplate of righteousness;

15 ^a And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace;

16 Above all, taking ^m the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

17 And take the helmet of salvation, and ⁿ the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God:

CHAPTER 1.

1 Paul's thankfulness and prayer to God for them: 21 his readiness to glorify Christ.

PAUL and Tī-mō'the-ús, the servants of Jē'sus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jē'sus which are at Phil'p'i, with the ¹ bishops and deacons:

2 Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

3 ^a I thank my God upon every ² remembrance of you,

4 Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,

5 ^b For your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now;

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun ^c a good work in you ³ will perform it until the day of Jē'sus Christ:

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because ⁴ I have you in my heart; inasmuch as both in ^d my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ^e ye all are ⁵ partakers of my grace.

8 For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jē'sus Christ.

may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all ⁶ judgment;

10 That ^a ye may ⁷ approve things that ⁸ are excellent; ^b that ye may be sincere and without offence till the day of Christ;

11 Being filled with the fruits of righteousness, ⁱ which are by Jē'sus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel;

13 So that my bonds ⁹ in Christ are manifest ^j in all ¹⁰ the palace, and ¹¹ in all other places;

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and ^k strife; and some also of good will:

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds:

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for the defence of the gospel.

18 What then? notwithstanding, every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my salvation ^tthrough your prayer, and the supply of ^mthe Spirit of Jē'sus Christ,

20 According to my earnest expectation and my hope, that ⁿin nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

22 But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose I wot not.

23 For ^oI am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to ^vdepart, and to be with Christ; which is far better:

24 Nevertheless to abide in the flesh is more needful for you.

25 And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith;

26 That your rejoicing may be more abundant in Jē'sus Christ for me by my coming to you again.

27 Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel;

28 And in nothing terrified by your ^aadversaries: which is to them an evident token of perdition, ^rbut to you of salvation, and that of God.

29 For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, ^snot only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake;

30 ^tHaving the same conflict ^uwhich ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

CHAPTER 2.

Love, unity, and humility recommended.

If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, ^aif any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies,

2 ^bFulfil ye my joy, ^cthat ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 ^dLet nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but ^ein lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

5 ^aLet this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jē'sus:

6 Who, ^bbeing in the form of God, ^cthought it not robbery to be equal with God:

7 ^dBut made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form ^eof a servant, and ^fwas made in the ^glikeness of men:

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became ^hobedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 Wherefore God also ⁱhath highly exalted him, and ^jgiven him a name which is above every name:

10 ^kThat at the name of Jē'sus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth;

11 And ^lthat every tongue should confess that Jē'sus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

12 Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

13 For ^mit is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 Do all things without murmurings and disputings:

15 That ye may be blameless and ⁿharmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ^oye shine as lights in the world;

16 Holding forth the word of life; that I may rejoice in the day of Christ, that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

17 Yea, and if I be ^poffered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye joy, and rejoice with me.

19 ^qBut I trust in the Lord Jē'sus to send Ti-mō'the-ūs shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man ^rlikeminded, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all seek their own, not the things which are Jē'sus Christ's.

22 But ye know the proof of him, that, as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the gospel.

23 Him therefore I hope to send presently, so soon as I shall see how it will go with me.

24 But I trust in the Lord that I also myself shall come shortly.

25 Yet I supposed it necessary to send to you ^sE-pāph-ro-dī'tus, my brother, and companion in labour, and fellowsoldier; ^t but your messenger, and ^u he that ministered to my wants.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heaviness, because that ye had heard that he had been sick.

27 For indeed he was sick nigh unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

28 I sent him therefore the more carefully, that, when ye see him again, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the less sorrowful.

29 Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness; and ^t hold such in reputation:

30 Because for the work of Christ he was nigh unto death, not regarding his life, ^v to supply your lack of service toward me.

CHAPTER 3.

2 To beware of false teachers. 12 The apostle's anxiety for the heavenly prize.

FINALLY, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you, to me indeed is not grievous, but for you it is safe.

2 ^a Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, ^b beware of the concision.

3 For we are ^c the circumcision, ^d which worship God in the spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jē'sus, and have no confidence in the flesh.

4 Though I might also have confidence in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trust in the flesh, I more:

5 Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Is'ra-el, of the tribe of Bēn'ja-min, an Hē'brew of the Hē'brews; as touching the law, ^e a Phār'i-see;

6 ^f Concerning zeal, ^g persecuting the church; touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless.

7 But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ.

8 Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss ^h for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jē'sus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ,

9 And be found in him, not having ⁱ mine own righteousness, which is of the law, but ^j that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteousness which is of God by faith:

10 That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and ^k the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death;

11 If by any means I might ^l attain unto the resurrection of the dead.

12 Not as though I had already ^m attained, either were already ⁿ perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jē'sus.

13 Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth ^o unto those things which are before,

14 ^p I press toward the mark for the prize of ^q the high calling of God in Christ Jē'sus.

15 Let us therefore, as many ^r as be ^s perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

16 Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing.

17 Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ^t ye have us for an ensample.

18 (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ:

19 Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

20 For ^u our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we ^v look for the Saviour, the Lord Jē'sus Christ:

21 ^w Who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according ^x to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.

CHAPTER 4.

4 General exhortations: 10 his joy for their liberality.

THEREFORE, my brethren dearly beloved and longed for, ^a my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved.

2 I beseech Eū-ō'di-as, and beseech Sŷn'tŷ-chē, that they be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 And I intreat thee also, true yoke-fellow, help those women which ^b laboured with me in the gospel, with Clēm'ēt also, and with other my fellowlabourers, whose names are in ^c the book of life.

4 Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice.

5 Let your moderation be known unto all men. ^d The Lord is at hand.

6 ^e Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

7 And ^fthe peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jē'sus.

8 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are ¹honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

9 Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you.

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at the last ^oyour care of me ²hath flourished again; wherein ye were also careful, but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, ^htherewith to be content.

12 ⁱI know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound: every where and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

13 I can do all things ^jthrough Christ which strengtheneth me.

3 We give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, praying always for you,

7 As ye also learned of ^pĒp'a-phrās our dear fellowservant, who is for you a faithful minister of Christ;

8 Who also declared unto us your love in the Spirit.

9 ¹For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the ^jknowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding;

wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jē'sus:

29 Whereunto I also labour, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.

CHAPTER 2.

He exhorteth them to constancy in Christ.

FOR I would that ye knew what great ¹ conflict I have for you, and for them at Lā-ōd-i-çé'a, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

² ^z That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all ^z riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ;

³ ^z In whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

⁴ And this I say, lest any man should beguile you with enticing words.

⁵ For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying and beholding your order, and the stedfastness of your faith in Christ.

⁶ As ye have therefore received Christ Jē'sus the Lord, so walk ye in him:

⁷ Rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

⁸ ^z Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after ^z the tradition of men, after the ^z rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.

⁹ For ^z in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

¹⁰ ^z And ye are complete in him, ^z which is the head of all principalities and power:

¹¹ In whom also ye are ^z circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ:

¹² ^z Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through ^z the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead.

¹³ And you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses;

¹⁴ Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross;

¹⁵ And ^z having spoiled principalities ties and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them ⁴ in it.

16 Let no man therefore ¹ judge you ⁵ in meat, or in drink, or ⁶ in respect ^m of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days:

17 ^m Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.

18 Let no man ⁷ beguile you of your reward ⁸ in a voluntary humility and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind.

19 And not holding the Head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

20 Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the ⁹ rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances,

21 (Touch not; taste not; handle not;

22 Which all are to perish with the using;) after the commandments and doctrines of men?

23 Which things have indeed a shew of wisdom in will worship, and humility, and ¹⁰ neglecting of the body; not in any honour to the satisfying of the flesh.

CHAPTER 3.

1 He exhorteth them to charity, humility, and sundry relative duties.

IF ye then ^a be risen with Christ, ^b seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2 Set your ¹ affection on things above, not on things on the earth.

3 ^c For ye are dead, ^d and your life is hid with Christ in God.

4 ^e When Christ, who is ^f our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him ^g in glory.

5 Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is idolatry:

6 For which things' sake the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience:

7 In the which ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

8 ^h But now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 ⁱ Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds;

10 And have put on the new man, which ^j is renewed in knowledge

PAUL, and ^a Sil-vā'nus, and Tīmō-the-ūs, unto the church of the Thēs-sā-lō'nī-an; which is ^b in God the Father and in the Lord Jē'sus Christ: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

2 We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers;

3 Remembering without ceasing ^c your work of faith, ^d and labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jē'sus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father;

4 Knowing, brethren ¹ beloved, ^e your election of God.

5 For ^f our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and ^g in the Hō'ly Ghōst, ^h and in much assurance; as ⁱ ye know what manner of men we were among you for your sake.

6 And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with joy of the Hō'ly Ghōst:

7 So that ye were ensamples to all that believe in Māç-ç-dō'nī-ā and Ā-chā'jā.

8 For from you ^j sounded out the word of the Lord not only in Māç-ç-dō'nī-ā and Ā-chā'jā, but also in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad; so that we need not to speak any thing.

9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God;

10 And ^k to wait for his Son ^l from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jē'sus, which delivered us ^m from the wrath to come.

CHAPTER 2.

1 In what manner the gospel was preached unto them.
17 His desire of coming to them.

FOR yourselves, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain:

2 But even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at ^a Phil'ip'pi, we were bold in our God ^b to speak unto you the gospel of God with much contention.

3 For our exhortation was not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

4 But as ^c we were allowed of God ^d to be put in trust with the gospel, even so we speak; not as pleasing men, but God, ^e which trieth our hearts.

5 For neither at any time used we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetousness; God is witness:

6 ^f Nor of men sought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when we might have ¹ been burdensome, as the apostles of Christ.

7 But we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children:

8 So being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing ^g to have imparted unto you, not the gospel of God only, but also our ^h own souls, because ye were dear unto us.

9 For ye remember, brethren, our labour and travail: for labouring night and day, ⁱ because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of God.

10 Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily and justly and unblameably we behaved ourselves among you that believe:

11 As ye know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father doth his children,

12 ^j That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

13 For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it ^k not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe.

14 For ye, brethren, became followers ^l of the churches of God which in Jū-dæ'a are in Christ Jē'sus: for ^m ye also have suffered like things of your own countrymen, ⁿ even as they have of the Jews:

15 Who both killed the Lord Jē'sus, and ^o their own prophets, and have ² persecuted us; and they please not God, and are contrary to all men:

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you, even I Paul, once and again; but ^s Sā'tan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of ³ rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jē'sus Christ ^t at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

CHAPTER 3.

1 Why Paul sent Timothy to them: 6 his good report a consolation to him.

WHEREFORE when we could no longer forbear, ^a we thought it good to be left at Ath'ēns alone;

2 And sent ^b Ti-mō'the-ūs, our brother, and minister of God, and our fellowlabourer in the gospel of Christ, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith:

3 ^c That no man should be moved by these afflictions: for yourselves know that ^d we are appointed thereunto.

4 ^e For verily, when we were with you, we told you before that we should suffer tribulation; even as it came to pass, and ye know.

5 For this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, ^f lest by some means the tempter have tempted you, and ^g our labour be in vain.

6 ^h But now when Ti-mō'the-ūs came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring greatly to see us, ⁱ as we also to see you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were comforted over you in all our affliction and distress by your faith:

8 For now we live, if ye ^j stand fast in the Lord.

9 For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God;

10 ^k Night and day praying exceedingly that we might see your face, and might perfect that which is lacking in your faith?

11 Now God himself and our Father, and our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^l direct our way unto you.

12 And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one to ward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

13 To the end he may stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jē'sus Christ ¹with all his saints.

CHAPTER 4.

1 He exhorteth to godliness. 15 The saints' resurrection, and Christ's second coming.

FURTHERMORE then we ¹beseech you, brethren, and ²exhort you by the Lord Jē'sus, that as ye have received of us how ye ought to walk and ^ato please God, so ye would abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jē'sus.

3 For this is ^bthe will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication:

4 ^cThat every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour;

5 Not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gēn'tiles ^dwhich know not God:

6 ^eThat no man go beyond and ³defraud his brother ⁴in any matter: because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you and testified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, ^fbut unto holiness.

8 ^gHe therefore that ⁵despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, ^hwho hath also given unto us his holy Spirit.

9 But as touching brotherly love ye need not that I write unto you: for ⁱye yourselves are taught of God ^jto love one another.

10 And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Mācē-dō-ni-ā: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more;

11 And that ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you;

12 That ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack ^kof nothing.

13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, ^leven as others which have no hope.

14 For ¹if we believe that Jē'sus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jē'sus will God bring with him.

15 For this we say unto you ^mby the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the com-

CHAPTER 5.

Of Christ's second coming.

BUT of ^athe times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For yourselves know perfectly that ^bthe day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then ^csudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 ^dBut ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

5 Ye are all ^ethe children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober.

7 For ^fthey that sleep sleep in the night; and they that be drunken ^gare drunken in the night.

8 But let us, who are of the day, be sober, ^hputting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of salvation.

9 For ⁱGod hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jē'sus Christ,

10 Who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

11 Wherefore ¹comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 And we beseech you, brethren, ^jto know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you;

13 And to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. And be at peace among yourselves.

14 Now we ²exhort you, brethren, warn them that are ³unruly, comfort the feebleminded, support the weak, be patient toward all men.

15 ^kSee that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever ^lfollow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAPTER 1.

Of the Thessalonians' faith and love.

PAUL, ^a and Sil-vā'nus, and Ti-mō'the-ūs, unto the church of the Thē's-sā-lō-ni-ans ^b In God our Father and the Lord Jē'sus Christ:

2 Grace unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jē'sus Christ.

3 We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith ^c groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that ^d we ourselves glory in you in the churches of God ^e for your patience and faith ^f in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure:

5 Which is ^g a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted ^h worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer:

6 ⁱ Seeing it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled ^j rest with us, when the Lord Jē'sus shall be revealed from heaven with ^k his mighty angels,

8 ^l In flaming fire ^m taking vengeance on them ⁿ that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jē'sus Christ:

9 Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and ^o from the glory of his power;

10 When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day.

CHAPTER 2.

1 He warneth against the surmise that the day of Christ was at hand: 3 that it would be preceded by a great apostasy.

NOW we beseech you, brethren, ^a by the coming of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^b and ^c by our gathering together unto him,

2 That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

3 Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, ^b except there come a falling away first, and ^c that man of sin be revealed, ^d the son of perdition;

4 Who opposeth and ^e exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

6 And now ye know what ^a withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For ^b the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall that Wicked be revealed, ^g whom the Lord shall consume ^h with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy ⁱ with the brightness of his coming:

⁹ Even him, whose coming is ^j after the working of Sā'tan with all power and ^k signs and lying wonders,

¹⁰ And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in ^l them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

¹¹ And ^m for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, ⁿ that they should believe a lie:

¹² That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

¹³ But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth:

¹⁴ Whereunto he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

⁶ Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^c that ye withdraw yourselves ^d from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.

⁷ For yourselves know how ye ought to follow us: for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;

⁸ Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but ^e wrought with labour and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

⁹ Not because we have not power, but to make ^g ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

¹⁰ For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, ^h that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

¹¹ For we hear that there are some which walk among you ⁱ disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies.

¹² Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^j that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

¹³ But ye, brethren, ^k be not weary in well doing.

¹⁴ And if any man obey not our word ⁵ by this epistle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

The second epistle to the Thēsa-sā-lō'nY-ang was written from Ath'ēns.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

CHAPTER 1.

³ Paul remindeth Timothy of his charge. ⁸ The scope of the law is also the design of the gospel.

PAUL, an apostle of Jē'sus Christ ^a by the commandment ^b of God our Saviour, and Lord Jē'sus Christ, ^c which is our hope;

² Unto ^d Tim'o-thy, my own son in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and Jē'sus Christ our Lord.

³ As I besought thee to abide still at Eph'e-sūs, ^e when I went into Mā-g-dō-ni-ā, that thou mightest charge some ^f that they teach no other doctrine,

⁴ Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do.

⁵ Now ^g the end of the commandment is charity ^h out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

⁶ From which some ⁱ having swerved have turned aside unto vain jangling;

⁷ Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

⁸ But we know that ^j the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;

⁹ Knowing this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for ^k the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for man-slayers,

¹⁰ For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine;

¹¹ According to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which was committed to my trust.

¹² And I thank Christ Jē'sus our Lord, who hath enabled me, ^l for that he counted me faithful, ^m putting me into the ministry;

¹³ Who was before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious: but I obtained mercy, because ⁿ I did it ignorantly in unbelief.

¹⁴ And the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant with faith ^o and love which is in Christ Jē'sus.

¹⁵ This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that ^a Christ Jē'sus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.

¹⁶ Howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jē'sus Christ might shew forth all longsuffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

¹⁷ Now unto ^a the King eternal, immortal, ^b invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

¹⁸ This charge I commit unto thee, son Tim'o-thy, ^c according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare;

¹⁹ Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck:

²⁰ Of whom is ^a Hỹ-mē-næ'us and ^b Al-ēx-ān'dēr; whom I have ^c delivered unto Sā'tan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

CHAPTER 2.

¹ He exhorteth to pray and give thanks for all men.
⁹ How women ought to be attired.

I EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

² ^a For kings, and ^b for all that are in ² authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

³ For this is ^c good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour:

⁴ Who will have all men to be saved, ^d and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

⁵ For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jē'sus;

⁶ Who gave himself a ransom for all, ^e to be testified ^f in due time.

⁷ Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not;) a teacher of the Gēn'tiles in faith and verity.

⁸ I will therefore that men pray ^g every where, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

⁹ In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with ⁴broided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 For Ad'am was first formed, then Eve.

14 And Ad'am was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression.

15 Notwithstanding she shall be ^a saved in childbearing, if they continue in faith and charity and holiness with sobriety.

CHAPTER 3.

² How bishops, ⁸ deacons, 11 and their wives, should be qualified. ¹⁶ Important truths of Christian revelation.

This is a true saying, If a man desire the office of a ^abishop, he desireth a good work.

2 A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, ¹ of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 ² Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 ^b One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not ³ a novice, lest being lifted up with pride he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover he must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise must the deacons be grave, not doubletongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9 Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For they that have ⁴used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jē'sus.

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ⁵ground of the truth.

16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: ^e God was ⁶ manifest in the flesh, ^d justified in the Spirit, ^c seen of angels, preached unto the Gēn'tiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.

CHAPTER 4.

Sundry precepts for Timothy's direction.

NOW the Spirit ^a speaketh expressly, that ^b in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed ^c to seducing spirits, ^d and doctrines of devils;

2 Speaking lies in hypocrisy; ^e having their conscience seared with a hot iron;

3 ^f Forbidding to marry, ^g and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created ^h to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For ⁱ every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jē'sus Christ, ^j nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

7 But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness.

8 For bodily exercise profiteth ¹ little: but godliness is profitable unto all things, ^k having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance.

10 For therefore we both labour and suffer reproach, because we trust in the living God, ^l who is the Saviour of all men, specially of those that believe.

11 These things command and teach.

12 ^m Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 ⁿ Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee ^o by prophecy, ^p with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear ² to all.

16 Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this thou shalt both ² save thyself, and them that hear thee.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Rules to be observed in administering. 22 Not to ordain any rashly.

REBUKE ^a not an elder, but in- treat him as a father; and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, with all purity.

3 Honour widows that are widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew ¹ piety at home, and ^b to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and day.

6 But she that liveth ² in pleasure is dead while she liveth.

7 And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own ³ house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

9 Let not a widow be ⁴ taken into the number under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man,

10 Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have ^c lodged strangers, if she have ^d washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 ^e Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 ^f And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 ^g I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, ^h give none occasion to the adversary ⁵ to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after Sātan.

16 ⁱ If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed.

CHAPTER 6.

1 The duty of servants. 3 Of corrupt teachers.

LET as many ^a servants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, ^b that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, ^c because they are brethren; but rather do them service, because they are ¹ faithful and beloved, partakers of the benefit. These things teach and exhort.

3 If any man teach otherwise, and consent not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jēsus Christ, and to the doctrine which is according to godliness;

4 He is ² proud, ^d knowing nothing, but ³ dotting about questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

5 ^e Perverse disputings of ^f men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, ^g supposing that gain is godliness: ^h from such withdraw thyself.

6 But ⁱ godliness with contentment is great gain.

7 For ^j we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And ^k having food and raiment let us be therewith content.

9 But ^athey that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and ^binto many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10 ^cFor the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have ^derred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

11 But thou, ^eO man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Paul's love to Timothy: & he exhorteth him not to be ashamed of the gospel.

PAUL, an apostle of Jē'sus Christ by the will of God, according to ^athe promise of life which is in Christ Jē'sus,

2 To Tim'o-thy, ^bmy dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jē'sus our Lord.

4 Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy;

6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance ^ethat thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands.

8 ^bBe not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me his prisoner: but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the gospel according to the power of God;

9 Who hath saved us, and ^ccalled us with an holy calling, ^dnot according to our works, but ^eaccording to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jē'sus ^fbefore the world began,

10 But ^gis now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jē'sus Christ, ^hwho hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel:

11 Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gēn'tiles.

12 For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have ⁱbelieved, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed ^junto him against that day.

13 ^kHold fast ^lthe form of sound

15 This thou knowest, that all they which are in A'sjā be turned away from me; of whom are Phŷ-gēl'us and Hēr-mōg'e-nēs.

16 The Lord ^q give mercy unto the house of Ōn-g-siph'q-rus; ^r for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain:

17 But, when he was in Rōme, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him ^s that he may find mercy of the Lord ^t in that day: and in how many things he ^u ministered unto me at Ēph'ē-sūs, thou knowest very well.

CHAPTER 2.

Timothy exhorted to constancy and perseverance.

THOU therefore, my son, ^a be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jē'sus.

2 And the things that thou hast heard of me ^b among many witnesses, ^c the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also.

3 Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jē'sus Christ.

4 ^d No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And if a man also strive for masteries, ^e yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 ^f The husbandman that labour-eth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jē'sus Christ ^g of the seed of Dā'vid ^h was raised from the dead ⁱ according to my gospel:

9 Wherein I suffer trouble, as an evil doer, ^j even unto bonds; but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the elect's sakes, ^k that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jē'sus with eternal glory.

11 ^l It is a faithful saying: For ^m if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 ⁿ If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: ^o if we deny him, he also will deny us:

13 ^p If we believe not, ^q yet he abideth faithful: ^r he cannot deny himself.

3 Without natural affection, truce-breakers, ^c false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 Traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away.

6 For ^a of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts,

7 Ever learning, and never able ^c to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 ^f Now as Jān'nēs and Jām'brēs withstood Mō'ses, so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, ²reprobate concerning the faith.

9 But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, ^g as theirs also was.

10 But ³ thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, charity, patience,

11 Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me ^h at Ān'ti-ōch, ⁱ at ĭ-cō'nūm, at Lys'trā; what persecutions I endured: but ^j out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and ^k all that will live godly in Christ Jē'sus shall suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them :

15 And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which ^l are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jē'sus.

16 ^m All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness :

17 ⁿ That the man of God may be perfect, ^o thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

6 For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand.

7 I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith:

8 Henceforth there is laid up for me ^f a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto ^g all them also that love his appearing.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL TO TITUS.

CHAPTER 1.

5 Why Titus was left in Crète. 6 How ministers should be qualified.

PAUL, a servant of God, and an apostle of Jē'sus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect, and ^athe acknowledging of the truth ^bwhich is after godliness;

2 ¹In hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before ^cthe world began;

3 But hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, which is committed unto me ^daccording to the commandment of God our Saviour;

4 To ^eTi'tus, mine own son after the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and the Lord Jē'sus Christ our Saviour.

5 For this cause left I thee in Crète, that thou shouldst ^fset in order the things that are ^gwanting, and ^hordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

6 If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of riot or unruly.

7 For a bishop must be blameless, as ⁱthe steward of God; not selfwilled, not soon angry, ^jnot given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre;

8 But a lover of hospitality, a lover of ^kgood men, sober, just, holy, temperate;

9 Holding fast the faithful word ^las he hath been taught, that he may be able ^mby sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, ⁿspecially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert ^owhole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake.

12 ^pOne of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Crē'tj-ans are alway liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith;

14 Not giving heed to Jew'ish fa-

CHAPTER 2.

1 Directions given to Titus. 11 What the gospel teacheth.

BUT speak thou the things which become ^aa sound doctrine:

2 That the aged men be ^bsober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience.

3 ^cThe aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh ^dholiness, not ^efalse accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be ^fsober, to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 ^gTo be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, ^hobedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be ⁱsober minded.

7 ^jIn all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, ^ksincerity,

8 ^lSound speech, that cannot be condemned; ^mthat he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 Exhort servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in all things; not ⁿanswering again;

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity; that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.

11 For the grace of God that ^obringeth salvation ^phath appeared to all men,

12 Teaching us ^qthat, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world;

13 Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jē'sus Christ;

14 Who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, ^kand purify unto himself ^la peculiar people, zealous of good works.

15 These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.

CHAPTER 3.

1 Titus is yet further directed by Paul, both concerning the things he should teach, and not teach.

PUT them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates; ^ato be ready to every good work,

2 To ^bspeak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men.

3 For we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But after that the kindness and ^llove of God our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 ^cNot by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by ^dthe washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Hō'ly Ghōst;

8 This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

9 But ^zavoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.

12 When I shall send Ār'tē-mās unto thee, or ^zT'ych't-cūs, be diligent to come unto me to Nī-cōp'q-lis: for I have determined there to winter.

15 All that are with me salute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

CHAPTER 1.

The essential dignity of the Son, by whom God hath revealed himself in these last days.

GOD, who at sundry times and ^a in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath ^b in these last days ^c spoken unto us by his Son, ^d whom he hath appointed heir of all things, ^e by whom also he made the worlds;

3 ^f Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and ^g upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, ^h sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high;

4 Being made so much better than the angels, as ⁱ he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

5 For unto which of the angels said he at any time, ^j Thou art my son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, ^k I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 ^l And again, when he bringeth in ^m the firstbegotten into the world, he saith, ⁿ And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 And ^o of the angels he saith, ^p Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, ^q Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever:

9 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, ^b hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, ^c Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 ^d They shall perish; but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment:

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, ^e Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?

CHAPTER 2.

Dominion of the world given unto Christ.

THEREFORE we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should ¹ let them slip.

2 For if the word spoken by angels was steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward;

3 How shall we escape, if we neglect so great ^asalvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him;

4 God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and ²gifts of the Hō'ly Ghōst, according to his own will?

5 For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak.

6 But one in a certain place testified, saying, ^bWhat is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou madest him ^{3a}a little lower than the angels; thou crowndest him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands:

8 Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now we see not yet all things put under him.

9 But we see Jē'sus, who was made a little lower than the angels ⁴for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man.

10 ^cFor it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation ^dperfect through sufferings.

11 For both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one; for which cause ^ehe is not ashamed to call them brethren, 12 Saying, ^fI will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, ^gI will put my trust in him. And again, ^hBehold I and the children which God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he ⁱalso himself likewise took part of the same; ^jthat through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

15 And deliver them who ^kthrough fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.

16 For verily ^lhe took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of A'brā'hām.

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him ^mto be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

CHAPTER 3.

Christ is shewed to be more worthy than Moses.

WHEREFORE, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider ^athe Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jē'sus;

2 Who was faithful to him that ^{1b}appointed him, as also ^cMō'ses was faithful in all his house.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Mō'ses, inasmuch as ^dhe who hath builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but ^ehe that built all things is God.

5 And Mō'ses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant, ^ffor a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after;

6 But Christ as a son over his own house; ^gwhose house are we, ^hif we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 Wherefore (as ⁱthe Hō'ly Ghōst saith, ^jTo day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I swear in my wrath, ²They shall not enter into my rest.)

12 Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily, while it is called To day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end:

15 While it is said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 ^kFor some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of E'gypt by Mō'ses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, ^lwhose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

CHAPTER 4.

The Christians' rest to be obtained by faith.

LET us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

2 For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but ¹ the word preached did not profit them, ² not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

3 For we which have believed do enter into rest, as he said, ^a As I have sworn in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the world.

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, ^b And God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest.

6 Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, ^c and they to whom ³ it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in Da'vid, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, ^d To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if ^e Jē'sus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a ⁵ rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.

11 Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of ⁶ unbelief.

12 For the word of God is ^e quick, and powerful, and sharper than any ^f twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is ^g a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jē'sus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession.

15 For ^h we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but ⁱ was of the priesthood of Christ.

FOR every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, ^a that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins:

2 Who ¹ can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that he himself also is compassed with infirmity.

3 And ^b by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 ^c And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as ^d was Aār'on.

5 ^e So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest; but he that said unto him, ^f Thou art my Son, to day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, ^g Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Mel-chi's'e-dēc.

7 Who in the days of his flesh, when he had ^h offered up prayers and supplications ⁱ with strong crying and tears unto him ^j that was able to save him from death, and was heard ² in that he feared;

8 Though he were a Son, yet learned he ^k obedience by the things which he suffered;

9 And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him;

10 Called of God an high priest ^l after the order of Mel-chi's'e-dēc.

11 Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing.

12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which ^m be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk ⁿ is unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is ^o a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are ^p of fullage, even those who by reason ^q of use have their senses exercised ^r to discern both good and evil.

CHAPTER 6.

Exhortation to be steadfast in the faith.

THEREFORE leaving ¹ the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of re-penance from dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 ^a Of the doctrine of baptisms, ^b and of laying on of hands, ^c and of resurrection of the dead, ^d and of eternal judgment.

3 And this will we do, ^e if God permit.

4 For if it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of ^h the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Hō'ly Ghōst,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; ⁱ seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them ² by whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing from God:

8 But that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 For ^j God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence ^k to the full assurance of hope unto the end:

12 That ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience ^l inherit the promises.

13 For when God made promise to Ā'brā'hām, because he could swear by no greater, ^m he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily swear by the greater: and ⁿ an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto ^o the heirs of promise ^p the immutability of his counsel, ^q confirmed it by an oath:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope ² set before us:

19 Which ² hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and stedfast, ³ and which entereth into that within the veil;

20 ⁴ Whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jē'sus, made an high priest for ever after the order of Mēl-chī's'e-dēc.

CHAPTER 7.

Christ a priest after the order of Melchisedec.

FOR this ^a Mēl-chī's'e-dēc, king of Sā'lem, priest of the most high God, who met Ā'brā'hām returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him;

2 To whom also Ā'brā'hām gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Sā'lem, which is, King of peace;

3 Without father, without mother, ¹ without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually.

4 Now consider how great this man was, ^b unto whom even the patriarch Ā'brā'hām gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily ^c they that are of the sons of Lē'vi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the loins of Ā'brā'hām:

6 But he whose ² descent is not counted from them received tithes of Ā'brā'hām, and blessed ^d him that had the promises.

7 And without all contradiction the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, ^e of whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And as I may so say, Lē'vi also, who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Ā'brā'hām.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Mēl-chī's'e-dēc met him.

11 ^f If therefore perfection were by the Lē'vī't-cal priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Mēl-chī's'e-dēc, and not be called after the order of Aār'ōn?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that our Lord sprang out of Jū'dā; of which tribe Mō'ses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Mēl-chī's'e-dēc there ariseth another priest, 16 Who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

17 For he testifieth, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Mēl-chī's'e-dēc.

18 For there is verily a disannulling of the commandment going before for the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 For the law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope did; by the which we draw nigh unto God.

20 And inasmuch as not without an oath he was made priest:

21 (For those priests were made without an oath; but this with an oath by him that said unto him, The Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Mēl-chī's'e-dēc.)

22 By so much was Jē'sus made a surety of a better testament.

23 And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continually ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood.

25 Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.

26 For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens;

27 Who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh men high priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, who is consecrated for evermore.

CHAPTER 8.

The excellency of Christ's ministry.

NOW of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an high priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister of the sanctuary, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For every high priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that there are priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Mō'ses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

6 But now hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises.

7 For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Is'ra-el and with the house of Jū'dah:

9 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of E'gypt; because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Is'ra-el after those days, saith the Lord: I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts: and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people:

11 And they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

CHAPTER 9.

1 By the imperfection of the legal sacrifices, 11 he sheweth the efficacy of Christ's blood.

THEN verily the first covenant had also ordinances of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary.

2 For there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the shewbread; which is called ² the sanctuary.

3 ⁴ And after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of all;

4 Which had the golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was ⁵ the golden pot that had manna, and ⁶ Aâr'ou's rod that budded, and ⁷ the tables of the covenant;

5 And ⁸ over it the cherubims of glory shadowing the mercyseat; of which we cannot now speak particularly.

6 Now when these things were thus ordained, ¹ the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high priest alone ¹ once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people:

8 ² The Hō'ly Ghōst this signifying, that ¹ the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, ³ that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

10 Which stood only in ⁴ meats and drinks, and ⁵ divers washings, ⁶ and carnal ⁷ ordinances, imposed on them until the time of reformation.

11 But Christ being come an high priest ⁸ of good things to come, ⁹ by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building;

12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but ¹⁰ by his own blood he entered in ¹ once into the holy place, ² having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 For if ³ the blood of bulls and of goats, and ⁴ the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh:

14 How much more ⁵ shall the blood of Christ, ⁶ who through the eternal Spirit ⁷ offered himself without ⁸ spot to God, ⁹ purge your conscience from ¹⁰ dead works ¹ to serve the living God?

15 ² And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, ³ that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, ⁴ they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity ⁵ be the death of the testator.

17 For ⁶ a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 ⁷ Whereupon neither the first testament was ⁸ dedicated without blood.

19 For when Mō'ses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, ⁹ with water, and ¹⁰ scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people, 20 Saying, ¹ This is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you.

21 Moreover ² he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and ³ without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It was therefore necessary that ⁴ the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For ⁵ Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now ⁶ to appear in the presence of God for us:

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others;

26 For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world: but now once ⁷ in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 ⁸ And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment:

28 So ⁹ Christ was once ¹⁰ offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he ¹ appear the second time without sin unto salvation.

CHAPTER 10.

1 The law sacrifices ineffectual to take away sins. 10 By the offering of Christ's body once for all we obtain perfect redemption.

FOR the law having ² a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.

2 For then ¹ would they not have ceased to be offered? because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 ^b But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For ^c it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, ^d Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body ^e hast thou prepared me :

6 In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure.

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me), to do thy will, O God.

8 Above when he said, Sacrifice and offering and burnt offerings and offering for sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the law;

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second.

10 ^e By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jē'sus Christ once for all.

11 And every priest standeth daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins :

12 ^f But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God ;

13 From henceforth expecting ^g till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 ^h Whereof the Hō'ly Ghōst also is a witness to us : for after that he had said before,

16 ⁱ This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them ;

17 ^j And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more.

18 Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

19 Having therefore, brethren, ^k boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jē'sus,

20 By ^l a new and living way, which he hath ^m consecrated for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh ;

21 And ⁿ having an high priest over the house of God ;

22 Let us draw near with a true heart ^o in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and ^p our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for ^o he is faithful that promised;)

24 And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works :

25 ^p Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is ; but exhorting one another : and ^q so much the more, as ye see ^r the day approaching.

26 For ^s if we sin wilfully ^t after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and ^u fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 He that despised Mō'ses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses :

29 Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and ^v hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, ^w and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace ?

30 For we know him that hath said, ^x Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, ^y The Lord shall judge his people.

31 ^z It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But ^a call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured ^b a great fight of afflictions ;

33 Partly, whilst ye were made a gazingstock both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst ^c ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and ^d took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing ^e in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward.

36 ^f For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ^g ye might receive the promise.

37 For ^h yet a little while, and ⁱ he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now the just shall live by faith: but if ^j any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul.

CHAPTER 11.

The nature and fruits of faith.

NOW faith is the ¹ substance of things hoped for, the evidence ^a of things not seen.

2 For by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that ^b the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

4 By faith ^c Ā'bēl offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cāin, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he being dead ² yet speaketh.

5 By faith ^d Ē'nōch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.

6 But ^e without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

7 By faith ^f Nō'ah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, ³ moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of ^g the righteousness which is by faith.

8 By faith ^h Ā'brā'hām, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, ⁱ dwelling in tabernacles with Ī'saac and Jā'qob, the heirs with him of the same promise:

10 For he looked for a city which hath foundations, ^j whose builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also ^k Sā'rā herself received strength to conceive seed, and ^l was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore sprang there even of one, and ^m him as good as dead, so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea shore innumerable.

13 These all died ⁿ in faith, not having received the promises, but ^o having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and ^p confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things ^q declare plainly that they seek a country.

16 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed ² to be called their God: for ³ he hath prepared for them a city.

17 By faith ⁴ Ā'brā'hām, when he was tried, offered up Ī'saac: and he that had received the promises ⁵ offered up his only begotten son,

18 ⁶ Of whom it was said, ⁷ That in Ī'saac shall thy seed be called:

19 Accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead; from whence also he received him in a figure.

20 By faith ⁸ Ī'saac blessed Jā'qob and Ē'sau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jā'qob, when he was a dying, ⁹ blessed both the sons of Jō'seph; and ¹⁰ worshipped, leaning upon the top of his staff.

22 By faith ¹¹ Jō'seph, when he died, ¹² made mention of the departing of the children of Ī's'ra-el; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

23 By faith ¹³ Mō'ses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were not afraid of the king's ¹⁴ commandment.

24 By faith Mō'ses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Phā'raōh's daughter;

25 ¹⁵ Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;

26 Esteeming the reproach ¹⁶ of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Ē'g'yp't: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward.

27 By faith ¹⁷ he forsook Ē'g'yp't, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

28 Through faith ¹⁸ he kept the pass-over, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the firstborn should touch them.

29 By faith they passed through the Red sea as by dry land: which the Ē-g'yp't'jans assaying to do were drowned.

30 By faith ¹⁹ the walls of Jēr'ī-chō fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

31 By faith ²⁰ the harlot Rā'hāb perished not with them ²¹ that believed not, when she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of ²² Gēd'e-on, and of ²³ Bā'rak, and of ^h Sām'son, and of ⁱ Jēph'thā-ē; of ^j Dā'vid also, and ^k Sām'u-el, and of the prophets:

33 Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, ^l stopped the mouths of lions,

34 ^m Quenched the violence of fire, ⁿ escaped the edge of the sword, ^o out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, ^p turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 ^q Women received their dead raised to life again: and others were ^r tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection:

36 And others had trial of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover ^s of bonds and imprisonment:

37 ^t They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: ^u they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented;

38 (Of whom the world was not worthy:) they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and ^v in dens and caves of the earth.

39 And these all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise:

40 God having ^w provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be ^x made perfect.

CHAPTER 12.

Exhortation to faith and godliness.

WHEREFORE seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,

2 ^a Looking unto Jē'sus the ¹ author and finisher of our faith; ^b who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and ^c is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 ^d For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, ^e lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, ^f My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him:

6 For ^g whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But if ye be without chastisement, ¹ whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us ² after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, ³ that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless afterward it yieldeth ⁴ the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore ⁵ lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees;

13 And make ⁶ straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; ⁷ but let it rather be healed.

14 Follow peace with all men, and holiness, ⁸ without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 Looking diligently lest any man ⁹ fail of the grace of God; ¹⁰ lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled;

16 Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as E'sau, ¹¹ who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, ¹² when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no ¹³ place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.

18 For ye are not come unto ¹⁴ the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; which voice they that heard ¹⁵ intreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart:

21 And so terrible was the sight, that Mō'ses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

22 But ye are come ¹⁶ unto mount

Si'ôn, and ^t unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jē-rū/sā-jēm, ^u and to an innumerable company of angels,

23 To the general assembly and church of the firstborn, which are ^v written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men ^w made perfect,

24 And to Jē'sus the mediator of the new ^x covenant, and to ^y the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things ^z than that of A'bēl.

25 See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him ^a that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven:

26 ^b Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, ^c Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth ^d the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, ^e let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear:

29 For ^f our God is a consuming fire.

3 Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, ^d I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

10 ^a We have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For ^b the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jē'sus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, ^c suffered without the gate.

13 Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing ^d his reproach.

23 Know ye that ^p our brother Tim^o-o-thy ^q is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Īt'a-l'y salute you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

CHAPTER 1.

The apostle exhorteth to patience in affliction.

JAMES, ^aa servant of God and of the Lord Jēsus Christ, ^bto the twelve tribes ^cwhich are scattered abroad, greeting.

2 My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations;

3 Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

4 But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

5 ^aIf any of you lack wisdom, ^clet him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and ^dit shall be given him.

6 ^eBut let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

9 Let the brother of low degree ^arejoice in that he is exalted:

10 But the rich, in that he is made low: because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof fall-eth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 ^aBlessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive ^bthe crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with ^cevil, neither tempteth he any man:

14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

16 Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, ^dwith whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

should be a kind of ^afirstfruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, ^bwhich is able to save your souls.

22 But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For ^cif any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

25 But ^dwhoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, ^ethis man shall be blessed in his ^fdeed.

26 If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridlETH not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.

27 Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, ^gto visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, ^hand to keep himself unsponsored from the world.

CHAPTER 2.

1 We must not regard the rich, and despise the poor.
10 The guilt of any one breach of the law. 14 (if faith without works.

MY brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jēsus Christ, ^athe Lord of glory, with ^brespect of persons.

2 For if there come unto your ^cassembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment;

3 And ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here ^din a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool:

4 Are ye not then partial in yourselves, and are become judges of evil thoughts?

5 Hearken, my beloved brethren, ^eHath not God chosen the poor of this world rich in faith, and heirs of ³ the kingdom ⁴ which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats?

7 Do not they blaspheme that worthy name by the which ye are called?

8 If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture, ^e Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well:

9 But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors.

10 For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, ^f he is guilty of all.

11 For ⁴ he that said, ^g Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law.

12 So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty.

13 For he shall have judgment without mercy, that hath shewed no mercy; and mercy ⁵ rejoiceth against judgment.

14 What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being ⁶ alone.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith ⁷ without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: ^h the devils also believe, and tremble.

20 But wilt thou know, O vain man, that ⁱ faith without works is dead?

21 Was not ^j A'brā'hām our father justified by works, ^j when he had offered I'saac his son upon the altar?

22 ^k Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect?

23 And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, ^k A'brā'hām believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called ^l the Friend of God.

24 Ye see then how that by works

CHAPTER 3.

1 We must not rashly or arrogantly reprove others.

2 The importance of governing the tongue. 13 How true wisdom will manifest itself, in opposition to strife and envy.

14 But if ye have ¹bitter envying and strife in your hearts, glory not, and lie not against the truth.

15 ²This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, ³sensual, devilish.

16 For ⁴where envying and strife is, there is ⁵confusion and every evil work.

17 But ¹the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, ²without partiality, ³and without hypocrisy.

18 ⁴And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace.

CHAPTER 4.

1 Our evil lusts cause contention: ²how we may overcome them, and gain God's favour.

FROM whence come wars and ¹fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your ²lusts that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye ³kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ⁴ye ask not.

3 ⁵Ye ask, and receive not, ⁶because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your ⁷lusts.

4 Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that ¹the friendship of the world is enmity with God? ²whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the scripture saith in vain, ¹The spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth ²to envy?

6 But he giveth more grace. Wherefore he saith, ³God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit yourselves therefore to God. ¹Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 ¹Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded.

9 Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one lawgiver, ¹who is able to save and to destroy: who art thou that judgest another?

16 But now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil.

17 Therefore ¹to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Wicked rich men warned of God's judgments. 7 Of patience. 13 We ought to pray in adversity.

GO to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. ⁴Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold, ⁵the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and ⁶the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sab'oth.

5 Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter.

6 Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you.

7 ¹Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive ²the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: ³for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 ²Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge standeth before the door.

10 ³Take, ye brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of ⁴the patience of Job, and have seen ⁵the end of the Lord; that ⁶the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But above all things, my brethren, ⁷swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing psalms.

14 Is any sick among you? let him call for the ¹elders of the church; and let them pray over him, ²anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

15 And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; ²and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

CHAPTER 1.

1 The apostle's address: 3 he blesseth God for their hope of a blessed immortality: 10 he sheweth that their salvation in Christ had been foretold by the prophets of old: 13 he exhorteth them to godliness.

PETER, an apostle of Jē'sus Christ, to the strangers ^ascattered throughout Pōn'tus, Gā-lā-tiā, Cāp-pa-dō-çi-ā, Ā'siā, and Bithyniā,

2 Elect ^baccording to the foreknowledge of God the Father, ^cthrough sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling ^dof the blood of Jē'sus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, which according to his ¹abundant mercy ^ehath begotten us again unto a lively hope ^fby the resurrection of Jē'sus Christ from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven ²for you,

5 ^gWho are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

6 ^hWherein ye greatly rejoice, though now for a season, if need be, ye are in heaviness through manifold temptations:

7 That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though ⁱit be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jē'sus Christ:

8 ^jWhom having not seen, ye love; ^kin whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory:

9 Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

10 ^lOf which salvation the prophets have enquired and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time ^mthe Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand ⁿthe sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 ^oUnto whom it was revealed, that ^pnot unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with ^qthe Hō'lŷ Ghost sent down from heaven; ^rwhich things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope ^sto the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you ^tat the revelation of Jē'sus Christ;

14 As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance:

15 But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, ^u'Be ye holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your ^usojourning here in fear:

18 Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation ^vreceived by tradition from your fathers;

19 But ^wwith the precious blood of Christ, ^xas of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

20 ^yWho verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest ^zin these last times for you,

21 Who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and ^agave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently:

23 ^bBeing born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, ^cby the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 ^dFor all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away:

25 ^eBut the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you.

WHEREFORE laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings,

5 ^dYe also, as lively stones, ^eare built up a spiritual house, ^fan holy priesthood, to offer up ^gspiritual sacrifices, ^hacceptable to God by Jēsus Christ.

6 Wherefore also it is contained in the scripture, ⁱBehold, I lay in Sion ^ja chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which believe he is ^kprecious: but unto them which be disobedient, ^lthe stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner,

22 ^bWho did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 ^cWho, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but ^dcommitted himself to him that judgeth righteously:

24 Who his own self bare our sins in his own body ¹² on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: * by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ^e ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned ^u unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

CHAPTER 3.

1 He teacheth the duty of wives and husbands, 8 exhorting all men to unity and love, 14 and to suffer boldly for righteousness' sake: 19 he declareth also the benefits of Christ toward the old world.

LIKEWISE, ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, ^a they also may without the word ^b be won by the conversation of the wives;

2 While they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear.

3 ^c Whose adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

4 But let it be ^d the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands:

6 Even as Sā'rá obeyed Ā'brā'hām, ^e calling him lord: whose ^f daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement.

7 Likewise, ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; ^g that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, ^h love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous:

9 Not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, ⁱ that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For ^j he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile:

11 Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it.

12 For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, ^k and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is ³ against them that do evil.

13 ^j And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 ^k But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and ^l be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and ^m be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and ⁿ fear:

16 Having a good conscience; that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evildoers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye ^o suffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

18 For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death ^p in the flesh, but ^q quickened by the Spirit:

19 By ^r which also he went and preached unto the spirits ^s in prison;

20 Which sometime were disobedient, when once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Nō'ah, while ^t the ark was a preparing, ^u wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water.

21 ^v The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jē'sus Christ:

22 Who is gone into heaven, and ^w is on the right hand of God; angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

CHAPTER 4.

1 He exhorteth them to cease from sin by the example of Christ. 7 By the approaching end of all things he exhorteth them to sobriety, charity, etc. 12 Sunday motives of comfort under persecution.

FORASMUCH then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: for ^a he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin;

2 That he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God.

3 For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gēn'tiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries:

4 Wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you :

5 Who shall give account to him that is ready ⁶ to judge the quick and the dead.

6 For for this cause ⁷ was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

7 But ⁸ the end of all things is at hand : be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves : for ⁹ charity ¹ shall cover the multitude of sins.

9 Use hospitality one to another ² without grudging.

10 As ³ every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

11 ⁴ If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God ; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth : that ⁵ God in all things may be glorified through Jē'sus Christ, ⁶ to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you :

13 But rejoice, inasmuch as ⁷ ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings ; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

14 ⁸ If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye ; for the ⁹ spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you : on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 But ¹⁰ let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evildoer, or as a busybody in other men's matters.

16 Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed ; ¹¹ but let him glorify God on this behalf.

17 For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God : and ¹² if it first begin at us, ¹³ what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God ?

18 ¹⁴ And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear ?

CHAPTER 5.

¹ The elders exhorted to feed the flock of Christ : 5 the younger to obey the elder : 8 and all to be sober, watchful, and stedfast in the faith : 9 to resist the cruel adversary the devil.

THE elders which are among you I exhort, who am also ² an elder, and ³ a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also ⁴ a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed :

2 ⁵ Feed the flock of God ⁶ which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly ; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind ;

3 Neither as ⁷ being lords over ⁸ God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when ⁹ the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, ¹⁰ all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility : for God resisteth the proud, and ¹¹ giveth grace to the humble.

6 Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time :

7 ¹² Casting all your care upon him ; for he careth for you.

8 Be sober, be vigilant ; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour :

9 Whom resist stedfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

10 But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jē'sus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you.

11 To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 ¹³ By Sil-vā'nus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have written ¹⁴ briefly, exhorting, and testifying that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand.

13 The church that is at Bāb'ŷ-lon, elected together with you, saluteth you ; and so doth ¹⁵ Mār'cus my son.

14 Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jē'sus. Amen.

THE SECOND EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Saluting the Christians, he admonisheth them of the gifts and promises of the gospel: 5 he exhorteth them to add to their faith such virtues as would make it fruitful: 12 he remembereth them hereof, knowing his dissolution to be near.

SYMON Pē'tēr, a servant and an apostle of Jē'sus Christ, to them that have obtained ^alike precious faith with us through the righteousness ¹of God and our Saviour Jē'sus Christ:

2 Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jē'sus our Lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, ^bthrough the knowledge of him ^cthat hath called us ²to glory and virtue:

4 ^dWhereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be ^epartakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue ^fknowledge;

6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and ^gto brotherly kindness charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be ^hbarren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things ⁱis blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was ^jpurged from his old sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence ^kto make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall:

11 ^lFor so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jē'sus Christ.

12 Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance;

14 ¹Knowing that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as ^mour Lord Jē'sus Christ hath shewed me.

15 Moreover I will endeavour that ye may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, ⁿThis is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in ^othe holy mount.

19 We have also a more ^psure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and ^qthe day star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that ^rno prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation.

21 For ^sthe prophecy came not ⁴in old time by the will of man: ^tbut holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Hō'ly Ghōst.

CHAPTER 2.

1 He foretelleth them of the appearance of false teachers, the impetu of them and their followers, and the judgments that would overtake them. 7 The godly shall be delivered, as Lot was out of Sodom. 10 The manners of those profane and blasphemous seducers described.

BUT ^athere were false prophets also among the people, even as ^bthere shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord ^cthat bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 And many shall follow their ¹pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you: ²whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if God spared not ^dthe angels ^ethat sinned, but ^fcast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment;

5 And spared not the old world, but saved Nō'ah the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly;

6 And turning the cities of Sōd'om and Gō-mōr'rā into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly:

7 And delivered just Lōt, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds;)

9 The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished:

10 But chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government. Presumptuous are they, selfwilled, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.

11 Whereas angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them before the Lord.

12 But these, as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 And shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure to riot in the day time. Spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings while they feast with you;

14 Having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease from sin; beguiling unstable souls: an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children:

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of Bā'laam the son of Bō'sōr, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb ass speaking with man's voice forbad the madness of the prophet.

17 These are wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempest; to whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever.

18 For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness, those that were clean escaped from them who live in error.

19 While they promise them liberty, erty, they themselves are servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jēsus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

21 For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.

CHAPTER 3.

Of Christ's coming to judgment.

THIS second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour:

3 Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts,

4 And saying, Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water:

6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished:

7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

8 But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.

10 But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the berth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

11 Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness,

12 Looking for and ²hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

13 Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for ²new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

14 Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless.

CHAPTER 1.

The person of Christ described.

THAT ^awhich was from the beginning, which we have heard,
which we have seen with our eyes,
^bwhich we have looked upon, and
^cour hands have handled, of the ^dWord of life;

2 (For the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, ^ewhich was with the Father, and was manifested unto us;)

3 That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us; and truly ^four fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jē'sus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full.

5 This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that ^gGod is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jē'sus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 ^hIf we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

9 ⁱIf we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make him ^aliar, and his word is not in us.

CHAPTER 2.

Christ our advocate and propitiation.

MY little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, ^awe have an advocate with the Father, Jē'sus
Christ the righteous:

2 And ^bhe is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but ^calso for the sins of the whole world.

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But ^dwhoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6 ^eHe that saith he abideth in him ^fought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, ^gI write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment ^hwhich ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, ⁱa new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you: ^jbecause the darkness is past, and ^k the true light now shineth.

9 He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

10 He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and ^l there is none ¹ occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and ^m walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, little children, because ⁿ your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him ^o that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him ^t that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because ^p ye are strong, and ^q the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 Love not the world, neither the things ^r that are in the world. ^r If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, ^s and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God ^t abideth for ever.

18 Little children, ^u it is the last time: and as ye have heard that ^v antichrist shall come, ^w even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time.

19 They went out from us, but they were not of us; for ^x if they had been of us, they would ^y no doubt have continued with us: but ^y they went out, that ^z they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.

20 But ^z ye have an unction ^a from the Holy One, and ^b ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jēsus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: ^c [but] ^c he that acknowledgeth the Son hath ^q the Father also.

24 Let that therefore abide in you ^r which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ^s ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 ^t And this is the promise that he hath promised us, ^u even eternal life.

26 These ^v things have I written unto you concerning them that seduce you.

27 But the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and ^w ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing ^x teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in ^y him.

28 And now, little children, abide in him; that, when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 ^z If ye know that he is righteous, ^a ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of him.

CHAPTER 3.

He declareth the singular love of God.

BEHOLD, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that ^b we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, ^c because it knew him not.

2 Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and ^d it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, ^e we shall be like him; for ^f we shall see him as he is.

3 And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know that he was manifested ^g to take away our sins; and ^h in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you: ⁱ he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 ^j He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, ^k that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 ^l Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for ^m his seed remaineth in him : and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 For this is the ¹message that ye heard from the beginning, ^mthat we should love one another.

12 Not as ⁿCain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

14 We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

15 ^oWhosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that ^pno murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

16 ^qHereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But ^rwhoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

19 And hereby we know ^sthat we are of the truth, and shall ²assure our hearts before him.

20 For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 ^tBeloved, if our heart condemn us not, ^uthen have we confidence toward God.

22 And ^vwhatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, ^wand do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jē'sus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And he that keepeth his commandments ^xdwelleth in him, and he in him. And ^yhereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

CHAPTER 4.

He warneth them to try the spirits.

BELOVED, ^abelieve not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because ^bmany false prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: ^cEvery spirit that confesseth that Jē'sus Christ is come in the flesh is of God:

3 And ^devery spirit that confesseth not that Jē'sus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the world.

4 Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than ^ehe that is in the world.

5 ^fThey are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, ^gand the world heareth them.

6 We are of God: ^hhe that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we ⁱthe spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

7 Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not knoweth not God; for ^jGod is love.

9 In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, ^knot that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 ^lNo man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

13 ^mHereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And ⁿwe have seen and do testify that ^othe Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 ^pWhosoever shall confess that Jē'sus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein is ¹our love made perfect, that ^qwe may have boldness in the day of judgment: ^rbecause as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.

19 We love him, because he first loved us.

20 If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

21 And * this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

CHAPTER 5.

He that loveth God loveth his children.

WHOEVER ^a believeth that ^b Jē'sus is the Christ is born of God: ^c and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

3 ^d For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and ^e his commandments are not grievous.

4 For ^f whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

5 Who is he that overcometh the world, but ^g he that believeth that Jē'sus is the Son of God?

6 This is he that came ^h by water and blood, even Jē'sus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. ⁱ And it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 ^j For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, ^k the Word, and the Hō'ly Ghōst: ^l and these three are one.

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.

9 If we receive ^m the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: ⁿ for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son.

13 ^s These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; ^t that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence that we have ^u in him, that, if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and ^v he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. ^w There is a sin unto death: ^x I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

18 We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

19 And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness.

20 And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may know him that is true, and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jē'sus Christ. ^y This is the true God, and eternal life.

21 Little children, keep yourselves from idols. Amen.

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JUDE.

Jude exhorteth Christians to constancy.

JUDE, the servant of Jē'sus Christ, and a brother of Jāmes, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and ^hpreserved in Jē'sus Christ, and ^ccalled:

2 Mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied.

3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you ^dof the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.

4 For there are certain men crept in unawares, ^ewho were before of old ordained to this condemnation, ungodly men, turning ^fthe grace of our God into lasciviousness, and ^gdenying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jē'sus Christ.

5 I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of E'gypt, afterward ^hdestroyed them that believed not.

6 And ⁱthe angels which kept not their ¹first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness ^junto the judgment of the great day.

7 Even as ^kSōd'om and Gō-mō'r'ha, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after ²strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewise also these filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominion, and ³speak evil of dignities.

9 Yet ^mMi'chaël the archangel, when contending with the devil he disputed about the ⁿbody of Mō'ses, ^odurst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, ^pThe Lord rebuke thee.

10 But these speak evil of those things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beasts, in those things they corrupt themselves.

11 Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way ^qof Cāin, and ^rran greedily after the error of Bā'laam for reward, and perished ^sin the gainsaying of Cō'rē.

of charity, when they feast with you, feeding themselves without fear: clouds they are without water, ⁴carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots;

13 ⁵Raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

14 And E'nōch also, ⁶the seventh from Ad'am, prophesied of these, saying, Behold, ⁷the Lord cometh with ten thousands of his saints,

15 To execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him.

16 These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, ⁸having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.

17 But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jē'sus Christ;

18 How that they told you there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These be they ⁹who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit.

20 But ye, beloved, ¹⁰building up yourselves on your most holy faith, ¹¹praying in the Hō'l'y Ghōst, 21 Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jē'sus Christ unto eternal life.

22 And of some have compassion, making a difference:

23 And others ¹²save with fear, ¹³pulling them out of the fire; hating even ¹⁴the garment spotted by the flesh.

24 ¹⁵Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and ¹⁶to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy,

25 ¹⁷To the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

THE REVELATION

OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE.

CHAPTER 1.

1 The preface. 7 The coming of Christ.

THE Revelation of Jē'sus Christ, ^a which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and ^b he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant Jōhn:

2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jē'sus Christ, and of all things ^c that he saw.

3 ^d Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

4 JŌHN to the seven churches which are in Ā'sjā: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him ^e which is, and ^f which was, and which is to come; and ^g from the seven Spirits which are before his throne;

5 And from Jē'sus Christ, ^h who is the faithful witness, and the ⁱ first begotten of the dead, and ^j the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him ^k that loved us, ^l and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

6 And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; ^m to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

7 ⁿ Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and ^o they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

8 ^p I am Āl'phā and Ō'me-gā, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

9 I Jōhn, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and ^q in the kingdom and patience of Jē'sus Christ, was in the isle that is called Pāt'mos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jē'sus Christ.

10 ^r I was in the Spirit on ^s the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet,

11 Saying, I am Āl'phā and Ō'me-gā, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Ā'sjā; unto Ēph'ē-sūs, and unto Smŷr'na, and unto Pēr'ga-mōs, and unto Thŷ-a-ti'rā, and unto Sārdis, and unto Phīl-a-dēl'phī-ā, and unto Lā-ōd-i-cē-ā.

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, ^t I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks ^u one like unto the Son of man, ^v clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head and ^w his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and ^x his eyes were as a flame of fire;

15 ^y And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and ^z his voice as the sound of many waters.

16 And he had in his right hand seven stars: and ^a out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword: ^b and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And ^c when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And ^d he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; ^e I am the first and the last:

18 ^f I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and ^g have the keys of hell and of death.

19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are ^h the angels of the seven churches: and the ⁱ seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

CHAPTER 2.

Christ's message to the churches.

UNTO the angel of the church of ^a Ēph'ē-sūs write; These things saith ^b he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

2 ^c I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and ^d thou hast tried them ^e which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast ^f not fainted.

4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; ^{or} else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nic-ō-lā'i-tanes, which I also hate.

7 ^a He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give ^{to eat of} the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the angel of the church in Smŷr'na write; These things saith ^a the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive;

9 I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art ^a rich) and I know the blasphemy of ^a them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Sā'tan.

10 ^a Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: ^a he thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee ^a crown of life.

11 ^a He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of ^a the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church in Pēr'ga-mōs write; These things saith ^a he which hath ^a the sharp sword with two edges;

13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Sā'tan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Ān'ti-pās was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, ^a where Sā'tan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of ^a Bā'lām, who taught Bā'lāc to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Īs'-ra-el, ^a to eat things sacrificed unto idols, ^a and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nic-ō-lā'i-tanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent; ^{or} else I will come unto thee quickly, and ^a will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone ^a a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

19 I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman ^a Jēz'g-bāl, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space ^a to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that ^a I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and ^a I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thy-ā-ti-rā, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not ^a known the depths of Sā'tan, as they speak; ^a I will put upon you none other burden.

25 But that which ye have already hold fast till I come.

26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth ^a my works unto the end, ^a to him will I give power over the nations:

27 ^a And he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers: even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him ^a the morning star.

29 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAPTER 3.

What John was commanded to write to the angels of the churches of 1 Sardis, 7 Philadelphia, 14 and Laodicea.

AND unto the angel of the church in Sār'dis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, ^a and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God.

3 Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. ^b If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast ^c a few names even in Sār'dis which have not ^d defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me ^e in white: for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not ^f blot out his name out of the ^g book of life, but ^h I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 And to the angel of the church in Phil-a-dēl'phi-ā write; These things saith ⁱ he that is holy, ^j he that is true, he that hath ^k the key of Dā-vid, ^l he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and ^m shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee ⁿ an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make them of the synagogue of Sā'tan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, ^o I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, ^p I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.

12 Him that overcometh will I make ^q a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and ^r I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is ^s new Jē-rū'sā-lēm, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: ^t and I will write upon him my new name.

13 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

14 And unto the angel of the church ¹ of the Lā-ōd-i-cē-anſ write; These things saith the ^u Amen, the faithful and true ^v witness, the ^w beginning of the creation of God;

15 I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

22 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAPTER 4.

The throne of God.

AFTER this I looked, and, behold, a door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And immediately I ¹ was in the spirit: and, behold, ² a throne was set in heaven, and ³ one sat on the throne.

3 And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: ⁴ and ⁵ there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 And out of the throne proceeded lightnings and thunderings and voices: ⁶ and ⁷ there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven Spirits of God.

6 And before the throne ⁸ there was ⁹ a sea of glass like unto crystal: ¹⁰ and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.

7 ¹¹ And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four beasts had each of them ^a six wings about him: and they were full of eyes within: and ¹ they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever,

10 The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

CHAPTER 5.

Of the book sealed with seven seals.

AND I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne ^a a book written within and on the back-side, ^b & sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof?

3 And ^c no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, ^d the Lion of the tribe of Jū'dā, ^e the Root of Dā'vid, hath ^f prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne, and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood ^a a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and ^b seven eyes, which are ^c the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them ^d harps, and golden vials full of ^e odours, ^f which are the prayers of saints.

9 And ¹ they sung a new song, saying, ^m Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and ⁿ hast redeemed us to God by thy blood ^o out

The opening of six of the seals in order.

AND I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see.

2 And I saw, and behold ^a a white horse: ^b and he that sat on him had a bow; ^c and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see.

4 ^d And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and lo ^e a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, ¹ A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and ² see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come and see.

8 And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given ² unto them over the fourth part of the earth, ^a to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and ^b with the beasts of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under ⁱ the altar ^j the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for ^k the testimony which they held :

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, ^l How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth ?

11 And white robes were given unto every one of them ; and it was said unto them, ^m that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

12 And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, ⁿ and, lo, there was a great earthquake ; and the ^o sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood ;

13 And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her ^p untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 ^q And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together ; and ^r every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, ^s hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains ;

16 And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb :

17 ^t For the great day of his wrath is come ; ^u and who shall be able to stand ?

CHAPTER 7.

The servants of God, who were sealed.

AND after these things I saw four ^a angels standing on the four corners of the earth, ^b holding the four winds of the earth, ^c that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

2 And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God : and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, ^d Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have ^e sealed the servants of our God ^f in their foreheads.

9 After this I beheld, and, lo, ^a a great multitude, which no man could number, ^b of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, ^c clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands ;

14 And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, ^h These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have ⁱ washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

CHAPTER 8.

1 The seventh seal opened. 6 Great plague.

AND when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 * And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; * and to them were given seven trumpets.

3 And another * angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much * incense, that he should offer it with * the prayers of all saints upon * the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And * the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it * into the earth: and there were voices, and thundrings, and lightnings, * and an earthquake.

6 And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

7 The first angel sounded, * and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast * upon the earth: and the third part * of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

8 And the second angel sounded, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea * became blood;

9 And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

10 And the third angel sounded, and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters;

11 And the name of the star is called Wormwood: * and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

12 * And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, * and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, * Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound!

CHAPTER 9.

The sounding of the fifth angel.

AND the fifth angel sounded, * and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of * the bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the bottomless pit; * and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke * locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them * that they should not hurt * the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not * the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, * but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days * shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And * the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; * and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, * and their faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and * their teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 * And they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Ā-bād'don, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Ā-pōll'yon.

12 * One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter.

13 And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound ² in the great river Eū-phrā'tēs.

15 And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared ² for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to lay the third part of men.

16 And ² the number of the army ² of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: ² and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: ² and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone.

18 By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: ² for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues ² yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship ² devils, ² and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

CHAPTER 10.

2 And he had in his hand a little book open: ² and he set his right foot upon the sea, and ² his left foot on the earth,

3 And cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, ² seven thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, ² Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.

5 And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And sware by him that ² liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven,

7 But ² in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

8 And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go ² and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, ² Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter.

11 And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.

CHAPTER 11.

The two witnesses prophesy.

AND there was given me ² a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, ² Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 But ² the court which is without the temple ² leave out, and measure it not; ² for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they ² tread under foot ² forty and two months.

3 And ² I will give power unto my two ² witnesses, ² and they shall prophesy ² a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.

4 These are the ² two olive trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth.

5 And if any man will hurt them, ² fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: ² and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These ² have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and ² have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they ² shall have finished their testimony, ² the beast that ascendeth ² out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sôd'om and E'gypt, where also our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people and kindreds and tongues and nations shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwell on the earth.

11 And after three days and an half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them.

13 And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of Heaven.

14 The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly.

15 And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God,

17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.

18 And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth.

19 And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament; and there were lightnings,

CHAPTER 12.

Of the woman clothed with the sun.

AND there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:

2 And she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

4 And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

5 And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.

6 And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

7 And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

8 And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Sâ'tan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

13 And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman which brought forth the man child.

14 ^w And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly ^z into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished ^y for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent ^z cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman, ^a and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have ^b the testimony of Jē'sus Christ.

CHAPTER 13.

The beast with seven heads and ten horns.

AND I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw ^a a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the ¹ name of blasphemy.

2 ^b And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and ^c the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority.

3 And I saw one of his heads as it were ² wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and ^d all the world wondered after the beast.

4 And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, ^e Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him ^f a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him ³ to continue ^g forty and two months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, ^h and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him ⁱ to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, ^j whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain ^k from the foundation of the world.

10 ^e He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity: ^m he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. ⁿ Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12 And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

13 And ^o he doeth great wonders, ^p so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men,

14 And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth, by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and ^q did live.

15 And he had power to give ^r life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, ^r and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

16 And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, ^s to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or ^t the name of the beast, ^t or the number of his name.

18 ^u Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

CHAPTER 14.

The fall of Babylon.

AND I looked, and, lo, a ^a Lamb stood on the mount Si'ōn, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, ^b having his Father's name written in their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps:

3 And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women; ^c for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These ¹were redeemed from among men, ²being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb.

5 And ³in their mouth was found no guile: for ⁴they are without fault before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, ⁵having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: ⁶and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, ⁷Bab⁷-yl⁸-on is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive ⁸his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same ⁹shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

11 And ¹⁰the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints: ¹¹here ¹²are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Je¹³-sus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, ¹³Blessed ¹⁴are the dead ¹⁵which die in the Lord ¹⁶from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, ¹⁷that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud ¹⁸one sat ¹⁹like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, ²⁰Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest ²¹of the earth is ²²ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud

17 And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, ¹which had power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, ²Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast ³it into ⁴the great winepress of the wrath of God.

20 And ⁵the winepress was trodden ⁶without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand ⁷and six hundred furlongs.

CHAPTER 15.

The seven angels with the seven plagues.

AND I saw another sign in heaven, ¹a great and marvellous, ²seven angels having the seven last plagues; ³for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

2 And I saw as it were ⁴a sea of glass ⁵mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, ⁶and over his image, and over his mark, ⁷and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God.

3 And they sing ⁸the song of Mōses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, ⁹Great and marvellous ¹⁰are thy works, Lord God Almighty; ¹¹a just and true ¹²are thy ways, thou King of ¹³saints.

4 ¹⁴Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for ¹⁵thou only ¹⁶art holy: for ¹⁷all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest.

5 And after that I looked, and, behold, ¹⁸the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, ¹⁹clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles.

7 ²⁰And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever.

8 And ²¹the temple was filled with smoke ²²from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

CHAPTER 16.

The seven angels pour out their vials.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven angels, Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial ^a upon the earth; and ^b there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men ^c which had the mark of the beast, and ^d upon them which worshipped his image.

3 And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea; and ^a it became as the blood of a dead man: ^e and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, ^f Thou art righteous, O Lord, ^g which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For ^h they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, ⁱ and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy.

7 And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, ^j true and righteous ^k are thy judgments.

8 And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were ^l scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: ^m and they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial ⁿ upon the seat of the beast; and his kingdom was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain,

11 And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial ^o upon the great river Euphrates; ^p and the water thereof was dried up, ^q that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three ^r unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of ^s the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.

14 ^t For they are the spirits of devils, ^u working miracles, which go

16 And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue ^f Ar-ma-ged'don.

17 And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, ^g It is done.

18 And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, ^h such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, ⁱ and so great.

19 And ^j the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great ^k Bāb'ŷ-lon ^l came in remembrance before God, ^m to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath.

20 And ⁿ every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

21 ^o And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, ^p every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

CHAPTER 17.

The woman arrayed in purple and scarlet.

AND there came ^a one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of ^b the great whore ^c that sitteth upon many waters:

2 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and ^d the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the spirit ^e into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit ^f upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of ^g names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman ^h was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and ⁱ decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, ^j having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

5 And upon her forehead ^k was a name written, ^l MYSTERY, BĀB'ŷ-LON ^m THE GREAT, ⁿ THE MOTHER OF ^o HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6 And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of ^m the martyrs of Jeſus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great admiration.

7 And the angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and ⁿ shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.

9 And ^o here is the mind which hath wisdom. ^p The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.

10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space.

11 And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.

12 And ^q the ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour with the beast.

13 These have ^r one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.

14 ^s These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: ^t for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings: ^u and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

15 And he saith unto me, ^v The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, ^w are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, ^x these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate ^y and naked, ^z and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire.

17 ^a For God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, ^b until the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest ^c is that great city, ^d which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

the earth was lightened with his glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, ^b Bāb'ŷ-lon the great is fallen, is fallen, and ^c is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and ^d a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the ^e abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, ^f Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

5 ^g For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.

6 ^h Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled fill to her double.

7 ⁱ How much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a ^j queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.

9 And ^l the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, ^m shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning,

10 Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, ⁿ Alas, alas that great city Bāb'ŷ-lon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.

11 And ^o the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more:

12 The merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all ^p thyine wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble, horses, and chariots, and ² slaves, and ³ souls of men.

14 And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, Alas, alas that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!

17 For in one hour so great riches is come to nought. And ^p every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off, 18 ^q And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city!

19 And ^r they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate.

20 ^s Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for ^t God hath avenged you on her.

21 And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, "Thus with violence shall that great city Bāb'yl-on be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.

22 ^v And the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee; and the sound of a millstone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

2 For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and ^b hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand.

3 And again they said, Ā-le-lū'jā. And ^c her smoke rose up for ever and ever.

4 And ^d the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, ^e Amen; Ā-le-lū'jā.

5 And a voice came out of the throne, saying, ^f Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

6 ^g And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Ā-le-lū'jā: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

7 Let us be ^h glad and rejoice, and give honour to him: for ⁱ the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready.

8 And ^j to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and ^k white: ^l for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints.

9 And he saith unto me, Write, ^m Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, These are the true sayings of God.

10 And ⁿ I fell at his feet to worship him. And he said unto me, ^o See thou do it not: I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren ^p that have the testimony of Jē'sus: worship God: for the testimony of Jē'sus is the spirit of prophecy.

11 And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called ^q Faithful and True, and ^r in righteousness he doth judge and make war.

12 His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; ^s and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself.

13 ^t And he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called ^u The Word of God.

14 And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, ^v clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 And ^w out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and ^x he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and ^y he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

16 And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, ^z KING

OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

17 And I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, "Come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God;

18 That ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great.

19 "And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army.

20 And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.

21 And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls were filled with their flesh.

CHAPTER 20.

Satan bound for a thousand years.

AND I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,

3 And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

5 But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.

6 Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,

8 And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, = Gōg and Ma-gōg, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

9 And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them.

10 And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever.

11 And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them.

12 And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works.

13 And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works.

14 And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

15 And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

CHAPTER 21.

Description of the heavenly Jerusalem.

AND I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

2 And I Jōhn saw the holy city, new Jeru-sā-lēm, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

4 And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

5 And ⁱ he that sat upon the throne said, ^j Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful.

6 And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. ^k I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He that ^l overcometh shall inherit ^m all things; and ⁿ I will be his God, and he shall be my son.

8 ^{*} But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death.

9 And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife.

10 And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me ^o that great city, the holy Jē-ru-sā-lēm, descending out of heaven from God,

11 Having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal;

12 And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Is-ra-el:

13 On the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and ^p in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he that talked with me ^q had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal.

17 And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angel.

18 And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.

CHAPTER 22.

The glorious state of God's servants.

AND he shewed me ^a a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was ^b there ^b the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were ^c for the healing of the nations.

3 And ^d there shall be no more curse: ^e but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him:

4 And ^f they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for ^g the Lord God giveth them light: ^h and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the ⁱ holy prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

7 Behold, I come quickly: blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

8 And I Jōhn saw these things and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

P R E F A C E.

Origin of the Work.

EARLY in the eighteenth century, Dr. RICHARD CUMBERLAND (Bishop of Peterborough from 1691 to 1718) compiled a series of "Tables of Scripture Measures, Weights, and Coins, &c.," which, together with an Index to the Holy Scriptures, was appended to many issues of the Oxford Bible. Some twenty years ago, it seemed to the authorities of the Clarendon Press that the time had come when these, useful as they were, should be systematically supplemented and revised. A desire had long been expressed, more especially among Bible students in the United States of America, for a comprehensive work, which should embody—so far as might be found practicable within the compass of a single not unwieldy volume—the chief facts, ascertained beyond reasonable dispute, relating to the Bible and its various books, their authors and characteristics, to the history of the long tract of time with which they deal, to the physical aspects of the Holy Land, its fauna, flora, and topography. It was clear that such a work should likewise include in a tabular form for purposes of reference the vast mass of information which would most conveniently be cast into this shape; and that no matter should be admitted which could fairly be regarded as controversial, in order that those whomastered it might have at all events nothing to unlearn.

The Early Editions.

For the original compilation of their Helps to the Study of the Bible, the authorities of the Oxford University Press secured the services of the late Rev. JAMES RIDGWAY, B.D., Hon. Canon of Christ Church, whose extensive personal knowledge of the Holy Land and of the East, together with his long experience in the teaching of the theology to students of all ages, gave him exceptional qualifications for the task. The first edition was published in 1876, and a second edition, revised and greatly enlarged, appeared a year or two later. CANON RIDGWAY had secured the co-operation of many distinguished specialists, including the Rev. JOSEPH ANGUS, D.D., President of the Baptist College, Regent's Park; the Rev. J. EARLE, M.A., Professor of Anglo-Saxon, Oxford; J. O. WESTWOOD, M.A., F.S.A., F.L.S., late Hope Professor of Zoology, Oxford; M. A. LAWSON, M.A., F.L.S., sometime Professor of Botany, Oxford; and G. ROLLESTON, M.D., F.R.S., late Linacre Professor of Anatomy, Oxford.

The striking success of the book showed that it provided for a want which had been widely felt, and by October 1888 over one million copies had been issued. A work of so much difficulty, and dealing with so great a variety of subjects, could scarcely be expected to attain perfection at once. From the day of its publication, communications were received at the Oxford University Press by the editors from a great number of correspondents residing in all parts of the world, containing notes and suggestions for the improvement of the various portions of the book. Very many of these were incorporated immediately after they were received, so that the Helps became day by day more trustworthy on points of detail. Once more, in 1884, the entire book was subjected to a careful revision; many inconsistencies, which had in the course of time been detected, were removed, several sections were re-written, and the arrangement was altered in order to render the information given still more easy of reference. Among those who contributed to this revision, the University Press was specially indebted to the present BISHOP OF OXFORD (the Right Rev. W. STUBBS, D.D.); to the Ven. ARCHDEACON PALMER, D.D.; to the Rev. CANON RAWLINSON, M.A., sometime Camden Professor of Ancient History; and to the Rev. HENRY DEANE, B.D., sometime Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford.

The present Edition.

On the completion of the Revised Version of the Bible by the publication of that of the Old Testament in 1885, it was speedily recognised that the time had come for a yet more systematic and thorough attempt to render the Helps a complete and accurate guide to the study of the Scriptures. Public attention had been called to the text of the Bible to an extent before unknown; and many questions of textual criticism and of interpretation had been practically settled once for all. Again, the remarkable progress of Archæology had necessitated, as in the case of classical authors, a re-investigation and consequent modification of many existing theories as to the history of the Jews and of the various races with which they were associated. The work of the Palestine Exploration Fund had caused a revolution in long-established views as to the topography of the Holy Land. Egypt, Assyria, Asia Minor, had yielded up many secrets that had been hidden for ages. Linguistic science had made notable advances. In fact, there was scarcely a single book of the Bible on which fresh light had not been thrown by recent investigations and discoveries. It was accordingly resolved that every section of the Oxford Helps should be subjected to a searching examination, and should as far as possible be brought up to the existing standard of knowledge.

The results are now in the reader's hands. The present revision of the text has been carried out under the general superintendence of the Rev. CANON MACLEAR, D.D., Warden of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, who has incorporated extensive and very valuable contributions from the Rev. CANON GIRDLESTONE, M.A. With a view to the convenience of innumerable readers familiar with the book in its earlier forms, the order of the various sections has been as far as possible retained, though efforts have been constantly made to bring together in its proper place information which in the earlier editions was dispersed or repeated. No alteration whatever has been introduced without the fullest consideration.

PART I.

The General Introduction has received careful attention, and has been somewhat rearranged, while due deference has been paid to the contributions supplied by the eminent scholars engaged in former editions of the work.

PART II.

1. The Summaries of the Books have been almost entirely re-written by the Editor; but at the same time, wherever it was possible, the old matter has been retained and incorporated in the new text.

2. The Brief Summary of Old Testament History has been re-written.

3. The Itinerary of the Israelites to the Land of Canaan has been submitted to the revision of HENRY COURTIER, F.R.G.S.

4. All the sections relating to Biblical Chronology have been re-written and expanded, under the eye of the Rev. S. G. GREEN, D.D.

5. The Section on The Witness of Modern Discoveries to the Old Testament Narrative, which first appears in the present Edition, is due to the Rev. CANON GIRDLESTONE, M.A., REINHOLD ROST, M.A., Ph.D., Librarian of the India Office, and CARL BEZOLD, Ph.D., with the co-operation of E. A. W. BUDGE, Litt.D., and E. MAUNDE THOMPSON, D.C.L., LL.D., of the British Museum.

6. The Ethnology of the Jews and Surrounding Nations has likewise been revised by the authorities mentioned in the last section.

PART III

1. The Section on The Apocrypha has been carefully revised by the Rev. CANON CHURTON, B.D., Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, Author of The Uncanonical and Apocryphal Scriptures, and a Commentary on the Books of Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, and Baruch (S.P.C.K. 1880).

2. The Historical Sketch of the Period between the Old and New Testaments, with the Chronological Table of the Period, has been contributed by the Editor.

PART IV.

1. The Introductions to the various Books of the New Testament have been thoroughly revised and expanded, but all that was valuable in the old editions has been incorporated.

2. The Sections on St. Paul's Missionary Journeys and the Apostle's Voyage to Rome have been re-written by the EDITOR, with the addition of notes and references to the historical truth of the narrative as confirmed by classical and other writers.

PART V.

1. The Section on the Political Condition of Judæa in the first Century A.D. appears for the first time.

2. That on Jewish Sects and Parties has been re-written by the Rev. S. W. GREEN, M.A., of Regent's Park College, with constant reference to the late Dr. EDERSHEIM'S Jesus the Messiah and to other authorities.

3. The Geography and Topography of the Bible has been revised and expanded from the best modern sources of information by J. ARNOLD GREEN, with assistance from the Rev. S. W. GREEN, M.A., in conjunction with HENRY COURTIER, F.R.G.S.

4. The Geology and Mineralogy of Bible Lands was undertaken by the competent hand of Professor EDWARD HULL, M.A., LL.D., F.R.S.

5, 6. The Sections on the Precious Stones and the Botany of the Bible were respectively revised by L. FLETCHER, M.A., F.R.S., Keeper of the Mineral Department, and W. CAREUTHERS, F.R.S., Keeper of the Botanical Department, British Museum.

7. The tables of Animals, Birds, Fishes, &c., of the Bible were entrusted for revision to E. B. POULTON, M.A., F.R.S., Tutor of Keble College, Oxford; and here, as elsewhere, the Revised Version has received constant attention, and the most important of its various readings of the names of Animals, &c., have been embodied.

8. The Section on Music and Musical Instruments of the Bible was submitted to Sir JOHN STAINER, M.A., D.Mus., Professor of Music in the University of Oxford.

9. That on Jewish Weights, Money, Measures, &c., was revised by BARCLAY V. HEAD, D.C.L., Keeper of the Department of Coins and Medals, British Museum.

PART VI.

1. The List of Obsolete or Ambiguous Words used in the English Authorised Version is the work of the Rev. W. W. SKEAT, Litt.D., Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Cambridge.

2. The Glossary of Antiquities, Customs, &c., has been revised and expanded by E. A. W. BUDGE, Litt. D., and rendered, it is hoped, far more useful to Bible students than before.

3. The Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names has been greatly enlarged by the incorporation of numerous entries from the Subject-Index. It has been revised by the Rev. M. J. SIMMONDS, M.A., Balliol College, Oxford, Kennicott University Hebrew Scholar, and Fellow of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury.

4. The Subject-Index itself has been examined word by word, as also the Concordance at the close of the volume; while the General Index has been considerably enlarged.

The Illustrations.

The Illustrations form a distinctive feature of the present edition. They have been selected and described by E. MAUNDE THOMPSON, D.C.L., LL.D., Principal Librarian of the British Museum; A. S. MURRAY, LL.D., F.S.A., Keeper of Greek and Roman Antiquities, British Museum; and E. A. WALLIS BUDGE, Litt.D., F.S.A., Acting Assistant-Keeper of Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities, British Museum. They consist of facsimiles from the most ancient and authoritative manuscript versions of the Bible in Greek (Vaticanus, Alexandrinus, and Sinaiticus), Latin, Hebrew, Syriac, Samaritan, Arabic, and Coptic. A table of alphabets, showing the development of the Hebrew, Greek, and Latin alphabets from the Egyptian hieratic, has been included. Egyptian and Assyrian, Babylonian and Phœnician monuments, which refer directly to important historical events recorded in the Bible, such as the wars of Mesha, king of Moab, with the Israelites; the capture of Jerusalem by Sennacherib; the payment of tribute to Shalmaneser II by Jehu; the capture of Babylon by Cyrus; the capture of Ashdod by Sargon, king of Assyria,—are also represented. Assyrian ceremonies, scenes of war and the chase, &c., are fully illustrated from the unrivalled collection of bas-reliefs from the palaces of Assur-nasir-pal, Shalmaneser II, Tiglath-pileser III, Sennacherib, and Assur-bani-pal, now preserved in the British Museum. Accurate copies are given of stelæ, papyri, tablets, and other antiquities which refer to the religion and manners and customs of the nations with whom the Jews came into contact. Among these are :—The Assyrian accounts of the Creation and of the Deluge; the tablet recording the manner of the ritual and the style of the sacerdotal vestments of the Sun-god at Sippara; a Babylonian landmark; seals as old as the time of Abraham, inscribed with mythological scenes; the Egyptian custom of mummifying the dead; the weighing of the heart of the dead man in the Judgment Hall of Osiris; the return of the soul to the body after judgment; Egyptian brickmaking, &c. Special care has been taken to insert only authentic copies of objects which bear indisputably upon matters recorded in Holy Scripture. To each illustration is added a short description, supplying dates and facts.

The Maps

The study of Bible history has been greatly facilitated by the important advances made of late years in the knowledge of Bible lands. In Egypt, Cyprus, Asia Minor, Armenia, Persia, and other countries, surveyors and archæologists have gathered much valuable information; but the most important work has been accomplished by the officers of the Palestine Exploration Fund, in making an accurate survey of the Holy Land from Dan to Beer-sheba.

The accompanying Maps have been compiled by HENRY COURTIER, F.R.G.S., from the best available modern sources of information, notably from the Palestine Exploration Fund survey of the Holy Land (by permission of the Committee). Fresh information has also been derived from the publications of the Royal Geographical Society and kindred sources, both British and foreign; and the latest identifications have been inserted, down to the month of January, 1893.

The Index to the Maps contains, it is believed, the names of all places mentioned in the Bible the sites of which have been clearly identified, not only as printed in the Authorised Version, but also in the more accurate forms adopted in the Revised Version. In this way, as in all other sections of the work, the requirements of both the Authorised and Revised versions have been provided for; and this edition of the Helps is now offered, as a comprehensive, if not an altogether exhaustive handbook to the Bible, to students of the whole English-speaking race alike in the Old and New Worlds.

PLATE I.

HEBREW AND PHŒNICIAN ALPHABETS, as derived from the Egyptian hieratic characters.

The Phœnicians, in order to form an alphabet, appear to have selected certain Egyptian letters from a type of the Hieratic character (a cursive form of Hieroglyphic), as found in papyri of about B. C. 2500.

PLATE 2.

GREEK AND LATIN ALPHABETS.

The Greeks adopted for their alphabet twenty-two signs from the Phœnician. The letters which follow tau were afterwards added. Originally the letters were written from right to left; but afterwards from left to right. The early Greek alphabet may be arranged in two groups (with local varieties), viz. the Eastern or Ionian, used in Asia Minor and in certain islands and states of Greece; and the Western, used in other islands and states, and generally in the Greek colonies in Italy and Sicily. The two groups chiefly differed in the value to be attached to the letters χ and ψ . The early Italic alphabet, derived from the Western Greek alphabet, has been called the Pelasgian alphabet; of this the Latin alphabet rejected certain letters as superfluous, and at a later date it introduced others.

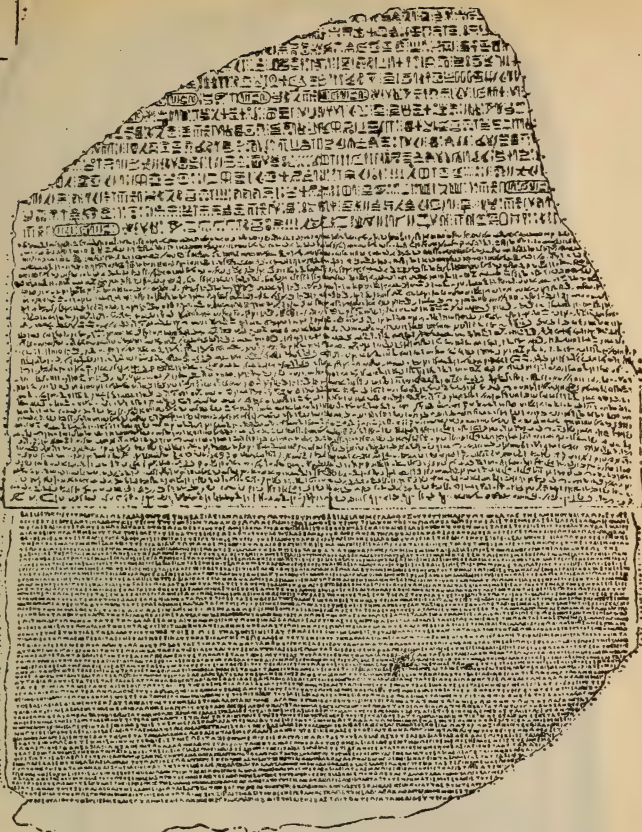

PLATE 3.

THE "ROSETTA STONE."

A slab of black basalt, bearing an inscription decreed between the years B.C. 198-195 by the priests of Memphis in honour of Ptolemy V. Epiphanes, king of Egypt, in recognition of the benefits conferred by him upon his subjects. It was discovered among the ruins of a fort near the Rosetta mouth of the Nile in 1799, and came into the possession of the British Museum in 1801, after the capitulation of Alexandria. The inscription is in the Egyptian and Greek languages; the Egyptian portion being in hieroglyphics or writing of the priests, and in demotic or writing of the people. The key to the decipherment of the Egyptian hieroglyphics and the interpretation of the Egyptian language was obtained from this inscription, a part of the hieroglyphic alphabet being recovered from the royal names which are enclosed in oval rings or "cartouches." It was ordered that a copy of the decree should be set up in every temple of the first, second, and third grade in Egypt.

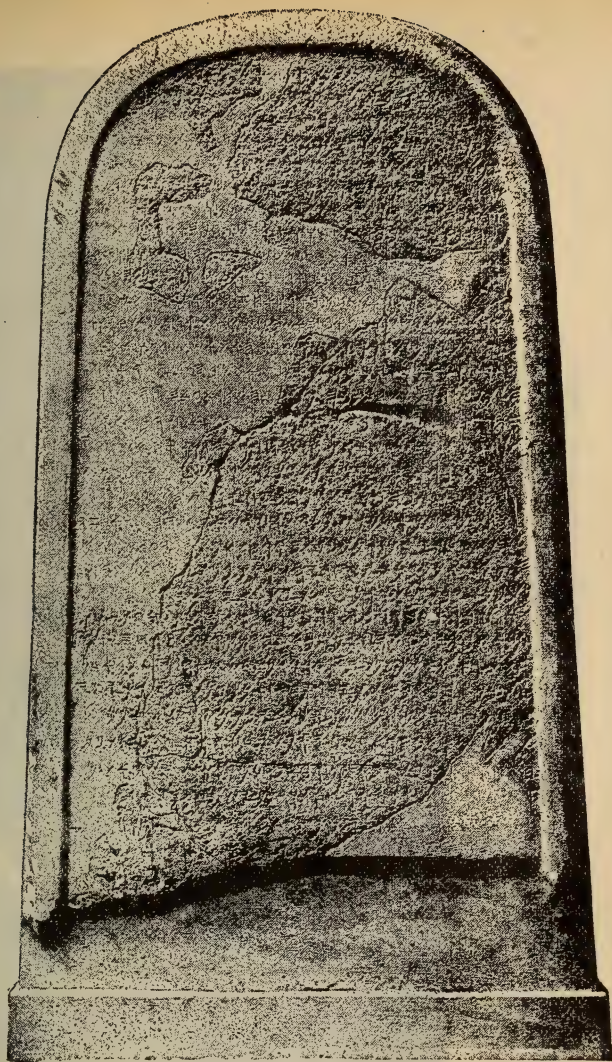

PLATE 4.
THE "MOABITE STONE."
(Paris, Museum of the Louvre.)

Monument dedicated to the god Kemôsh by Mesha, king of Moab, about B. C. 890, to record his victory over the Israelites in the days of Ahab, and the restoration of cities and other works which he undertook by command of his god. The stone, which measures 3 ft. 10 in. \times 2 ft. \times 14½ in., and contains 34 lines of inscription in the Phœnician character, was found at Dibhân in the land of Moab in 1868. It was unfortunately broken in pieces, but about two-thirds of the fragments were recovered, and it is possible to give a nearly complete text of the inscription from the paper impression which was taken before the stone was broken.

PLATE 5.

INSCRIPTION IN THE PHOENICIAN CHARACTER, cut on the wall of the conduit of the Pool of Siloam (about B. C. 700).

The text states that the excavators began to work at the ends and met in the middle of the tunnel. When the two bodies of miners were still separated by a wall of rock three cubits thick, they heard 'each others' voices; then "pickaxe hewed against pickaxe, and the waters flowed from the spring to the pool, a distance of 1,200 cubits."

PLATE II.

COPTIC MS. (St. Luke v. 5-9)—Eighth century or earlier.

(Zouche Collection.)

The New Testament, written in the Sahidic or Theban dialect of the Coptic language. It is one of the oldest known Coptic MSS. of the Bible. The letters λ δ on the margin of line 23 mark the beginning of the Eusebian section No. 31. Parallel passages in other Gospels are also referred to. The MS. was brought from Egypt by the late Archdeacon Tattam.

PLATE 12.

CODEX VATICANUS (1 Esdras ii. 1-8)—Fourth Century.

(Rome, Vatican Library.)

The Bible in Greek, written in uncial letters probably in the fourth century. The text is arranged in three columns to a page, except in the poetical books of the Old Testament, which are written in double columns. Apparently in the tenth century, the writing was carefully, but quite unnecessarily, retraced in darker ink, only such words and letters being left untouched as appeared to the writer to be superfluous in a correct text. The same hand added the breathings and accents. The MS. was already in the Vatican Library in Rome in the fifteenth century, but nothing is known of its previous history.

CODEX SINAITICUS (Esther ii. 3-8)—Fourth or fifth century.

(Leipzig, Royal Library.)

The Bible in Greek, written in uncial letters probably in the fourth or fifth century. The text is arranged in four columns to a page, except in the poetical books of the Old Testament, which are written in double columns. The MS. belonged to the convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai, where in 1844 it first came under the notice of Tischendorf, who then got possession of forty-three leaves from the Old Testament. These were deposited in the Royal Library at Leipzig, and bear the title of "Codex Friderico-Augustus," after the king of Saxony of that time. In 1859 Tischendorf secured the rest of the MS. for the Emperor of Russia. The facsimile is made from one of the leaves at Leipzig.

CODEX ALEXANDRINUS (St. Luke xii. 54-xiii. 4)—Fifth century.
 (British Museum, Royal MS. 1 D. v-viii.)

The Bible in Greek, written in uncial letters in the fifth century. The text is arranged in two columns to a page. It once belonged to the Patriarchal Chamber of Alexandria (whence its name), and was probably carried away by Cyril Lucar, Patriarch of Alexandria, who became Patriarch of Constantinople in 1621. Cyril sent it as a present to King Charles the First in 1627. It came into the possession of the British Museum with the rest of the Royal MSS.

EGYPTIAN EMBALMERS BANDAGING A MUMMY.

PLATE 21.

EGYPTIAN EMBALMERS PAINTING A MUMMY.

The Egyptians believed that after the judgment of the dead in the Hall of Double Truth before Osiris, the judge of the dead, and after the soul had undergone all its "transformations," it would return and again enter and live in the body in the tomb. The bodies of the dead were preserved by filling them with gums, spices, and other aromatic and astringent substances, and by soaking them from forty to seventy days in a bath of natron or bitumen. For mummies of the poorer classes salt only was used. The principal intestines were also mummified, and were afterwards preserved in sealed jars. If by any chance the heart were destroyed, it was not possible for the dead to enjoy life in the world to come. The mummy was carefully bandaged with linen strips, between which amulets were laid in order to protect it from worms and decay, and to ensure the protection of Isis, Nephthys, Mut, Hathor, and other deities. It was finally covered with a thin layer of plaster, upon which were painted mythological scenes and prayers from the deceased to the gods; and it was then placed in a painted sycamore-wood coffin. The coffins of the wealthy were placed in outer coffins or sarcophagi of wood or stone, and were then ferried across the Nile to the cemeteries, which were usually on the western bank.

PLATE 22.

(From a wall-painting in an Egyptian tomb.)

The mummified bodies of the dead were ferried across the Nile in sepulchral barges to the cemeteries, which were usually situated on its western bank. The above represents a sepulchral barge containing a decorated shrine or canopy, pylon-shaped, in which the mummy is laid. Above the shrine are the professional wailing women, who beat their faces and breasts, and tear their hair and utter cries.

JUDGMENT-SCENE FROM THE PAPYRUS OF ANI (OR ANNA) THE SCRIBE (about B.C. 1400), showing the weighing of the heart in the Hall of Double Truth in the presence of Osiris, the judge of the dead. (British Museum, No. 10.470.)

Above are the twelve gods and goddesses :

The heart of Ani is being weighed against the feather, emblematic of Law. On the right of the balance stands the jackal-headed god (6) Anubis, scrutinising the tongue of the balance, and on the left, are : (1) Ani's "Luck" or "Destiny," the goddesses (2) Meskenet, and (3) Renenet, who presided over his birth and infancy, his soul (5) in the form of a human-headed bird, and a human-headed object or "meskenet" (4) which is thought to be connected with his place of birth. Behind Anubis (6) stands the ibis-headed god (7) Thoth, the scribe of the gods, having his palette and reed to record the result of the weighing, and by his side stands the beast called (8) Anemket, part crocodile, part lion, part hippopotamus, ready to devour the heart if found too light. The scribe Ani (9) and Tum (10) his wife are present with bowed heads.

STRANGERS COMING INTO EGYPT.

(From a tomb of the twelfth dynasty, about B.C. 2400, at Beni-Hasan in Upper Egypt.)

Here is depicted a company of the Aamu, a nomad Semitic people whose home lay to the east of Palestine, who have come with their wives and children and animals to bring a gift of metz-hemet, or eye-paint, for Khnemu-hetep, the governor of the nome of Mah. The name of the chief of the company is Abesha, and the tablet which the "royal scribe Nefer-hetep" is presenting to Khnemu-hetep states that he and his company arrived in Egypt in the sixth year of the reign of Usersten II. This scene recalls the visit of Jacob's sons to Egypt, and their gift of "a little balm, and a little honey, spices and myrrh" to Joseph, the governor of Egypt (Gen. xlii. 11).

PORTRAIT OF RAMESES II, KING OF EGYPT, about B.C. 1330.

Rameses II, the Sesostris of the Greek writers, was associated with his father, Seti I, in the rule of the kingdom of Egypt for about thirty years, and reigned as sole king of Egypt about thirty-seven years. He carried on the wars in Palestine and Syria which his father had begun; and at Kadesh in the valley of the Orontes he totally defeated the league of Syrian kings who had revolted against him under the direction of the king of the Khita. He made an offensive and defensive treaty with the Khita, and established Egyptian garrisons in the country. He was the greatest conqueror among the kings of Egypt, and is famous as the builder of great temples at Abydos and Thebes in Egypt, and at Abu-Simbel in Nubia. He is supposed to be the Pharaoh for whom the Israelites built the treasure cities of Pithom and Raamses (Exod. i. 11.)

FRAGMENTS OF A CLAY CYLINDER OF SARGON,
KING OF ASSYRIA (B. C. 722-705).

(From the Library of Assur-bani-pal, king of Assyria (B. C. 668-626), at Nineveh. [British Museum, Nos. 1668 a, 1671].)

The inscription states that Sargon made war against the Medes, and gives a list of the names of the governors of Median cities. It also gives a fairly full account of his famous campaign in the ninth year of his reign against Azuri, king of Ashdod, when Hezekiah was king of Judah (see Isa. xx. 1). Sargon succeeded in crossing the moat, thirty-six feet deep, which the inhabitants of Ashdod had flooded, and captured the city. The people of Philistia, Judah, Edom and Moab had sent gifts to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and had asked his help; but the result of their mission is not known. Sargon attacked the allied forces near Egypt, and defeated them, and their leaders fled.

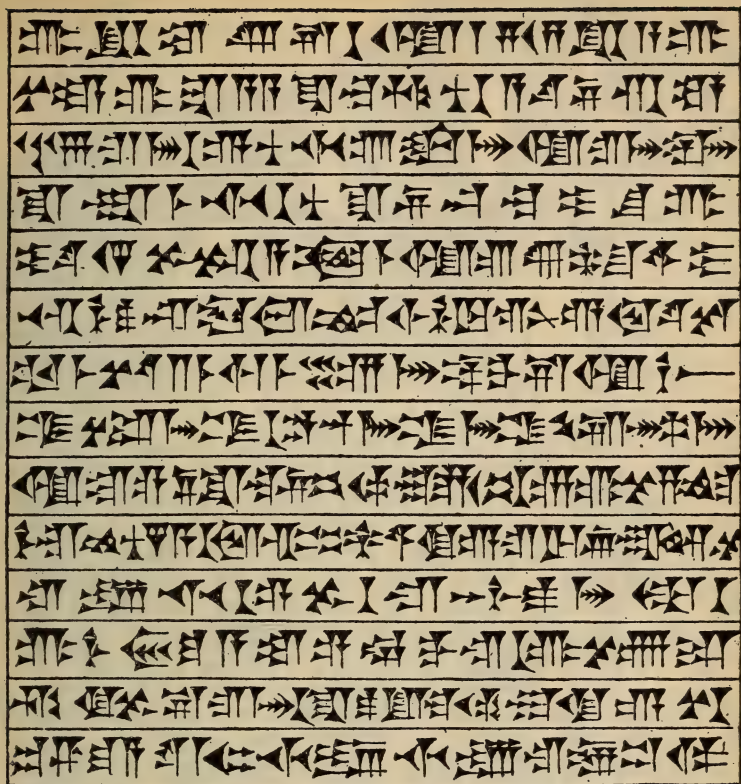

PLATE 45.

EXTRACT FROM A CUNEIFORM TEXT recording the siege of Jerusalem, inscribed on a clay cylinder of the Annals of Sennacherib (B. C. 705-681), now in the British Museum.

The substance of Sennacherib's account is as follows: "Six and forty of the fenced cities, and the fortresses, and the villages round about them, belonging to Hezekiah the Jew, who had not submitted to my rule, I besieged and stormed and captured. I carried away from them two hundred thousand and one hundred and fifty souls, great and small, male and female, and horses, mules, asses, camels, oxen, and sheep without number. In his house in Jerusalem I shut up Hezekiah like a bird in a cage. I threw up mounds round about the city from which to attack it, and I blockaded his gates. The cities which I had captured from him I took away from his kingdom and I gave them to Mitinti, king of Ashdod." . . .

PLATE 47.

PART OF A BAKED CLAY CYLINDER, inscribed in the Babylonian character with an account of the capture of Babylon by Cyrus, the son of Cambyses, the grandson of Cyrus, B. C. 539.

(British Museum.)

The inscription states that Cyrus was called to the rule of Babylonia by the god [Marduk] whose services and honor had been diminished by Nabonidus, the native king. The god aided Cyrus mightily, and marched by his side like a friend and ally. The outlying cities of Babylonia fell before the king one after another, and finally he and his troops, which are said to have been like the water of the river for multitude, marched into Babylon without striking a blow. The priests and nobles of the country came and kissed his feet, and rejoiced in their new king. The inscription ends with a proclamation of Cyrus announcing the good things which he will do for the country and its people, and the honor which he will show to the gods Marduk, Bel, and Nebo.

PLATE 48.

CYLINDER-SEAL, INSCRIBED WITH THE NAME OF DARIUS.

The trilingual cuneiform inscription reads:—"I am Darius, the great King." The seal is of hard stone, cut in the form of a cylinder, and is engraved with a design representing the king hunting lions; the emblem of the great god of Persia, in the shape of a winged figure protecting the king, being placed above.

BABYLONIAN BOUNDARY STONE OR LANDMARK, recording the purchase of a plot of ground in Bît-Hanbi from Amil-Bêl, the son of Hanbi, by Marduk-Našir, an officer of the king of Babylon.

(British Museum, No. 106.)

The figures upon the upper part of the stone are supposed to represent certain gods and signs of the Zodiac. The inscription upon the reverse gives the details of the place wherein the plot of land was situated, and states that the price of the land, viz. 816 pieces of silver, was paid in kind, and that the name of the land-surveyor was Shâpiku, the son of Itti-Marduk-baladhu. It closes with a series of curses upon any future governor of Bît-Hanbi, or officer of the government, or other person, who shall remove this "everlasting landmark" or attempt to interfere with the boundaries of the land described upon it. The gods Anu, Bêl, Ea, Sin, Shamash, Ishrar, Marduk, Adar Gula, Rammânu and Nebo are entreated to destroy any such offender and his children for ever and ever.

PLATE 51.
SCENE FROM A STONE TABLET IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM, recording the restoration of the Temple of the Sun-god at Sippara, near Babylon, by Nabu-pal-idinna, king of Babylonia (about B. C. 900).

The inscription on the left, which appears to be a description of the whole scene, reads: "The image of the Sun-god, the great lord, who dwelleth in E-barra which is in Sippara." The three figures approaching the Sun-disk placed on an altar, are probably two of the priests of the temple and the king. The inscription above the shrine reads: "The Moon-god, and the Sun-god, and Ishtar, are placed in opposition to the Abyss, between . . .," and has reference to the three symbols in the shrine. The inscription in front of the deity seated in the shrine reads: "O Moon-disk, O Sun, illuminate the face of Shamash."

On the obverse and reverse of the tablet is an inscription enumerating the king's gifts, with rules for the dress of the priests, &c.

This text records the genealogy and titles of Nebuchadnezzar, and declares his reverence for the gods Marduk and Nebo. To build a temple in honour of the god Marduk, Nebuchadnezzar has brought together gold, silver, precious stones, bronze, costly woods, &c.; and he describes the great works, architectural and other, which he undertook to the glory of his gods, the beauty of his city, and the good of his people. He restored and completed Imgur-Bel and Nimitti-Bel, the great walls of Babylon, which his father Nabopolassar had begun, and he fortified Babylon on all sides.

(British Museum, No. K. 3375.)

The Assyrian account of the Flood is told to the mythical hero Gilgamesh by Khasisadra the sage. The gods Anu, Bêl, Ea, and Adar, assembled together in the city Surippak on the Euphrates, decreed a flood, and they bade Khasisadra to build a ship or ark large enough to hold himself, his family, and his servants and cattle. When the ship was ready, Khasisadra entered with his possessions, and closed the door, and the floods came and destroyed mankind. The flood lasted six days and seven nights, when, the goddess Ishtar having entreated the gods on behalf of mankind, the rain ceased. The ship sailed over the sea towards the land of Nizir, where it remained until the waters abated. After seven days Khasisadra sent forth a dove, but it returned. He next sent forth a swallow, and that also returned, and lastly he sent out a raven, which did not come back. When Khasisadra saw this, he sent forth his family and servants from the ark, and upon an altar, set up upon a mountain peak, he offered sacrifices to the gods. The gods accepted the sacrifices, and rejoiced in their sweet-smelling savour; they clustered about them like flies. The "bow of Anu" (the Sky-god) is mentioned.

HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE.

PART I.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION.

THE BIBLE.

I. THE TITLE OF THE BIBLE.

1. THE BIBLE. The word Bible came into English from the Greek through the Latin. The Byblus or Papyrus reed, which formed the material for ancient books, originated the Greek name βίβλος, βιβλίον for a book (Matt. i. 1; Luke iv. 17). The Sacred Books, which were read in their Churches, were naturally called by the Greek Christians τὰ βιβλία, the Books, though this usage has not been traced higher than the fourth century, when it is found in Chrysostom. In process of time this name, with many others of Greek origin, passed into the vocabulary of the Western Church. Here another term, first used by Jerome, bibliotheca divina, "the divine library," had also been in use, appearing in Old English in the form biblothēce. In the thirteenth century the neuter plural "Biblia" came to be regarded as a feminine singular, and "the Books" became by common consent "the Book" (Biblia sing.). This gradually displaced the term biblothēce, and was adopted into our language in the form Bible¹.

2. THE SCRIPTURES. The Bible is also called αἱ γραφαί, the Scriptures, or the Holy Scriptures, i.e. the Sacred Writings. This expression is used by St. Paul of the Old Testament as a whole, as being able to make wise unto salvation through faith in Christ Jesus (2 Tim. iii. 15, 16). In the Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles the same expression is employed (Matt. xxi. 42; Luke xxiv. 32; John v. 39; Acts xviii. 24). The corresponding singular term ἡ γραφή—the Scripture—is always used in the New Testament for a special passage (Luke iv. 21; John xx. 9; James ii. 8, &c.). Now the term "Scripture," "Holy Writ," the early English rendering of the Latin word, is used alike for the part and for the whole.

3. THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS. St. Paul, in a notable passage, calls the Books of Moses, if not the whole of the Hebrew Canon, "the Old Covenant" ("at the reading of the Old Covenant," 2 Cor. iii. 14, R. V.). In the same context he describes himself and his fellow-labourers as "Ministers of a New Covenant" (2 Cor. iii. 6). These terms ἡ παλαιὰ διαθήκη the Old Covenant, and ἡ καινὴ διαθήκη the New Covenant, were employed at the close of the second century by ecclesiastical writers to denote the Jewish and Christian Scriptures respectively. The Latin rendering of διαθήκη fluctuated at first between instrumentum and testamentum, but testamentum prevailed. Hence in the languages of the West the two collections of writings, which make up the Bible, came to be called "the Old Testament" and "the New Testament." But the original idea of a Covenant must never be lost sight of. In the Scriptures of the Old Covenant, a new and better Covenant was spoken of, which God promised to make (Jer. xxxi. 31-34); and this our Lord Himself declared was ratified in His Blood, which He shed to redeem not a single nation only, like the Jews, but the whole world (Matt. xxvi. 28).

II. THE CANON OF SCRIPTURE.

1. THE CANON. The word Canon signifies properly in classical Greek a straight rod, especially a carpenter's rule. Thus it came to be used figuratively of a testing rule in art, logic, grammar, and ethics. In the sense of a "rule of life" it occurs in Gal. vi. 16. In the early ages of Christianity, the term was used generally to denote a standard of opinion and practice. Its first direct application to the Holy Scriptures occurs in the "imprimatur" appended by Amphilochius to his Catalogue (A.D. 380); though Origen seems to have termed those books Canonical which Christians regard as genuine and of Divine authority. Uncanonical books are those not specified in the Canon. Apocryphal books derive their name from the Greek ἀποκρύβος, which signifies (1) hidden, (2) of unknown authority, (3) spurious. These books in the LXX and Vulgate Versions were not originally written in Hebrew, and are not counted genuine by the Jews. They are found in MSS., as well as in printed Bibles, in company with the Canonical Books, and are read for historical purposes, and for "instruction of manners." External and internal evidence alike is against their inspiration and Divine authority, and they form no part of the rule of faith. The Bible is the Canon, or authoritative standard of religion and morals.

2. THE JEWISH CANON. The formation of the Canon of the Old Testament was gradual, out of writings which spread over many centuries. Before the Captivity there are only faint traces of the mode of preserving the sacred writings. Moses ordered "the Book of the Law" to be put "in the side of the ark" (Deut. xxxi. 26; cp. 2 Kings xxii. 8). To this was subsequently added that of Joshua (Josh. xxiv. 26), and later, Proverbs, and some Prophecies, for Daniel refers to the "Books" (ix. 2), Zechariah to "the Law and former Prophets" (vii. 12), and Isaiah to "the Book of the Lord" (xxix. 18; xxxiv. 16). Ezra and the "Great Synagogue" most probably determined the Canon of the Law in its final shape; and Nehemiah "gathered together the acts of the kings and the prophets, and those of David," when "founding a library" for the second Temple (2 Macc. ii. 13), c. 432 B.C.

3. THE FIRST NOTICE OF THE OLD TESTAMENT AS A COLLECTION of writings is in the Prologue to the Greek translation of Ecclesiasticus (A.C. 131), which specifies "the Law and the Prophets and the other Books;"

cp. Luke xxiv. 44. Philo Judeus (B.C. 20—A.D. 40) regards the Pentateuch as the spring of all later teaching, and refers to the constant use of "the laws and oracles produced by the prophets, and hymns and other" (writings). Josephus (A.D. 38—c. 100) enumerates twenty-two books as "divine," viz. five of Moses, thirteen of Prophets (in which Job was probably included), and four of "hymns and directions of life." He mentions all the books of the Old Testament as canonical except Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Solomon, to which he does not allude, as none of them furnished any materials for his work. He also adds that, since the death of Artaxerxes (B.C. 424), no one had dared, up to his day, "to add anything to them, to take anything from them, or to make any change in them" (against Apion, i. 8). Thus, the Jewish Canon was finally settled in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, and its contents were identical with our own, our thirty-nine books being grouped so as to accord with the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet, the twelve minor prophets counting as one, Ruth being coupled with Judges, Ezra with Nehemiah, Lamentations with Jeremiah, while the two Books of Samuel, Kings, and Chronicles were reckoned as one each. Jerome notices that the twenty-two books coincide with the letters in the Hebrew alphabet, and that the five double letters coincide with the five double books (Samuel, Kings, Chronicles, Ezra, and Jeremiah). He gives the contents of the Law, Prophets, and Haglographa in exact accordance with the Hebrew authorities, as mentioned above, classing Daniel with the last. The Talmud also agrees in the same list, and gives the writers of the several books.

4. THE EVIDENCE OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. The Books of the Old Testament are referred to in the New without any trace of hesitation. Sometimes they are alluded to under such collective titles as "the Scriptures," "the writings" (Matt. xiii. 20; Acts xvii. 11); sometimes under the fuller phrase "the Law and the Prophets" (Matt. vii. 12; Rom. iii. 21); "the Law of Moses, the Prophets, the Psalms" (Luke xxiv. 44); and the records, to which the names are applied, are assumed to contain the truth of the Divine Revelation. Again and again we have also express quotations made from the books of the Hebrew Bible by our Lord and His Apostles, and, with the exceptions of Judges, Ecclesiastes, the Song of Solomon, Esther, Ezra, and Nehemiah, every book of the Old is quoted in the New Testament. "Though the Jews are charged with many errors, with corrupting the truth by tradition, and adding to it the commandments of man, yet nowhere are they charged with corrupting Scripture, with having rejected some, or added other books to the Canon."

5. THE NEW TESTAMENT CANON. The New Testament was gradually added to the Old. But it was some considerable time after our Lord's Ascension before any of the books contained in it were actually written. The first and most important work of the Apostles was to deliver a personal testimony to the chief facts of the Gospel History (Mark xvi. 15; Acts i. 21, 22). Their teaching was at first oral, and it was not part of their intention to create a permanent literature. A cycle of selected representative facts sufficed to form the groundwork of the oral Gospel (1 Cor. xv. 1-10). But in the course of time, many endeavoured to commit to writing this oral Gospel (Luke i. 1-4). So long as the Apostles were still living, the necessity for written records of the words and actions of our Lord was not so pressing. But when the time came for their removal from this world, it became extremely important that authoritative records should be put forth. Thus the Gospels came into existence, two by Apostles themselves, and two by friends and close companions of Apostles. But already had arisen another kind of composition. Founders of Churches, often unable to visit them personally, desired to communicate with their converts for purposes of counsel, reproof, or instruction. Thus arose the Epistles, which were put forth from time to time to meet special wants and emergencies.

6. QUOTATIONS. The existence and authority of the several Books of the New Testament, which thus gradually arose, are attested by quotations in a series of Christian writers, which begins with the immediate successors of the Apostles. Clement of Rome, for example, refers expressly to 1 Corinthians as the work of St. Paul, and gives evidence of his acquaintance with the writings of St. James and St. John. Polycarp, who had heard St. John, does not quote the sacred writings by name, but his Epistle contains many references to their writings, especially to the Pastoral Epistles of St. Paul. Justin Martyr was so well acquainted with the writings of the first three Evangelists that it would be almost possible to rewrite from his works a considerable portion of the records of the life of Christ. Irenæus quotes almost every book of the New Testament and often names the writers. So do Tertullian and Clement of Alexandria in the next generation. Origen not only bears testimony by quotation, but speaks definitely on the subject of authorship. He mentions that the genuineness of 2 Peter and 2 and 3 John was not unquestioned; and with regard to the Epistle to the Hebrews, he attributes the thoughts to Paul and the actual authorship to some unknown writer.

7. COLLECTIONS OF BOOKS. But besides quotations we have collections or lists of books known to be Apostolic and authoritative. Of such collections we possess a remarkable specimen in the famous Muratorian Fragment on the Canon, so called as being first published by Muratori in A.D. 1740 from a MS. in the Ambrosian Library at Milan, which had originally belonged to the Irish Monastery at Bobbio. The date of this fragment cannot be much later than A.D. 170. It was probably written at Rome, and may be taken to represent the Canon in use among Western Churches at the time of its composition. It includes in its catalogue St. Luke's and St. John's Gospels, the Acts, thirteen Epistles of St. Paul, 1 and 2 John, Jude, and the Apocalypse, but omits the Epistles of James, 3 John, 1 and 2 Peter, and the Epistle to the Hebrews, which is possibly due to the fragmentary and corrupt state of the MS., which begins in the middle of an account of St. Mark. A similar list may be made out from the Peshito, the Bible of the Syrian Christians, which dates from the closing years of the second century. In it all the books of our present Canon are given except 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Jude, and Revelation. Almost contemporary with it is the Old Italian Version, the Bible of the North African Churches. It contains all the New Testament except Hebrews, 2 Peter, and James.

8. TESTIMONY OF EUSEBIUS. The persecution of Diocletian, A.D. 303, brought to the front the question of the sacred literature of the Church. The persecutors demanded that the Scriptures should be given up; and Christians refused to give them up; hence the question became urgent—what books were Apostolic? The answer lies in our New Testament. Eusebius, who wrote his Ecclesiastical History early in the fourth century, discusses the question of the Canon. He divides what claimed to be sacred writings into three classes: (1) Those universally acknowledged; (2) Disputed books; (3) Spurious writings, usually composed by heretics. (1) The first class included definitely the Four Gospels, the Acts, the thirteen Epistles of Paul, 1 John, and 1 Peter; while he speaks with some hesitation about the Epistle to the Hebrews and the Revelation. (2) The second class included the Epistles of James, Jude, 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John. (3) The third class comprised spurious books like the Apocryphal Gospels, the Acts of Paul, the Shepherd of Hermas, the Apocalypse of Peter. The language of Eusebius illustrates the great care and caution exercised in the admittance of books into the Canon. At length a decree was issued respecting the contents of the Sacred Books at the Council of Carthage A.D. 397, and the books of the New Testament, as we now have them, were settled by the authority of the Christian Church.

III. LANGUAGE OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

1. THE LANGUAGE IN WHICH THE OLD TESTAMENT IS WRITTEN is Hebrew. The only exceptions are Ezra iv. 8—vi. 18; vii. 12—26; Jer. x. 11; Dan. ii. 4—vii. 28. These particular portions are written in the Chaldee dialect which is transitional, and presents various points of difference from the later Chaldee, in which the Targums were written, and also from Syriac. This curious phenomenon finds its explanation in the residence of Daniel and Ezra at Babylon, and their relation to Babylonian and Persian rulers, who successively held sway over that city and the surrounding countries.

2. HEBREW. With regard to the Hebrew language, it is a branch of the great Semitic family of languages, and is related to the Syriac, Chaldee, Assyrian, Phœnician, Arabic and Ethiopic dialects. As spoken by the children of Israel, it was probably a growth out of the old Hebrew used by Abraham in Ur of the Chaldees, and we may believe it was to some extent affected by the Canaanitish dialect, just as our Anglo-Saxon was affected by the Norman-French. The word Shibboleth and the question of its pronunciation (Judges xii. 6) show how it was liable, like all languages, to tribal provincialisms. Similar provincialisms occur in the Hebrew of some of the historical and poetical books; but still, when used for sacred purposes, it remained comparatively unchanged from the days of Moses to the Captivity. After the Captivity, however, the language was considerably affected by the intercourse of the Jews with foreign nations. The Hebrew dialect referred to several times in the New Testament (e.g. Acts xxi. 40) was a later growth of the same language, and the Galilean dialect (Matt. xvi. 73) was a provincial form of it.

3. THE LANGUAGE OF THE NEW TESTAMENT is Greek. It is not, however, the Greek of the classical writers, but a particular kind or growth of Greek called Judæo-Greek or Hellenistic. When Alexander the Great formed the idea of imbuing the East with the Greek language and customs, he built Alexandria in Egypt, and assigned a part of it to a colony of Jews. In this way and through the gradual dispersion of the Jews from Palestine, in a westerly direction, a large body of people sprang up, who, whilst they thought and felt as Hebrews, yet spoke to a great extent in Greek. Thus the Judæo-Greek dialect sprang up. The Septuagint was written in it, and it was largely used not only in Egypt and Asia Minor, but also in Palestine. This spoken Greek varied to some extent in the different provinces of Asia and Africa that were subject to the Macedonian rule. We have but an imperfect knowledge of this spoken language, but it seems to have diverged still more widely than the later written Greek from ancient elegance and purity, neglecting more decidedly nice distinctions in construction and expression, admitting new and provincial words and forms in greater number, and allowing a still more marked intermixture of the previously distinct dialects. This, then, is the language of the New Testament, as we have it, and thus it is a book not for the Jew only but for the Greek. The dialect has been well described as "Hebrew thought in Greek clothing," and it has to be interpreted by the student in the light of the language of the Old Testament, the connecting link being found in the Septuagint.

IV. AUTHENTICITY OF THE BIBLE.

(I) THE OLD TESTAMENT.

1. EXTERNAL EVIDENCE. We have already seen that from the earliest times the various books of the Old Testament have been received as inspired documents, and have won their way into the Sacred Canon. The truth of the general narrative which they contain has been attested by the unanimous witness of the Jewish nation, though the greater portion of it is a record of their own repeated disobedience, apostasy, and punishments. But it is also attested by the Jewish historian Josephus, and by numerous heathen writers; and each accession to our knowledge of the past, whether historic, geographic, or ethnic, only helps to remove difficulties, and to show that in the Scripture records we have the most authentic account of ancient times that has come down to us.

2. INTERNAL EVIDENCE. To the external testimony must be added the internal testimony of the books themselves. They do not come to us from any of those great eastern monarchies, distinguished in arms and arts, in wealth and civilisation, contemporaneous with its earlier books, nor from the land of classic wisdom and achievement, ancient Hellas; but from a nation peculiarly separated from the rest of mankind by religion, by unique customs, and by physical position. These peculiarities are consistently maintained throughout the books, which show no evidence, except possibly in the case of Job and Esther, of contact with the literature of any other countries besides those in which the writers profess to have been in temporary exile.

3. CIRCUMSTANTIALITY. The Old Testament records contain histories, frequent genealogies, and biographies, all of which are capable of more or less verification from other records; but no material discrepancy has been proved. The facts recorded are illustrated from the most diverse sources, from monumental inscriptions, from classical and other writers, from coins, from remains of cities, from modern exploration in Palestine and the adjacent countries, and to these must be added modern Jewish beliefs, formularies, and customs. Ancient kings, ancient towns, and ancient books are constantly rising from the dust in Egypt, Assyria, and Babylonia, and the recovery of these ancient civilisations of the East makes it clear that the Jews before the Exile were a literary people and well acquainted with the art of writing, and that the narratives of the Old Testament, wherever they can be tested by confessedly contemporaneous documents, are accurate even to the most minute details (See Section xx.)

4. PHYSICAL ALLUSIONS. It is also worthy of notice that the physical allusions in the Old Testament accord exactly with its assumed geography. The fauna and flora are exclusively applicable to Palestine and the country east of Palestine, and have been proved by modern explorers to correspond in the minutest details with the phenomena of the region indicated. The geographical and geological conformation of Palestine is unparalleled, so that it has been called "the museum country" of the world; but the physical allusions in the Old Testament, infinitely varied as they are, are in precise keeping with the special features of the region as indicated by recent explorations, and attested by the latest travellers.

(II) AUTHENTICITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

1. EXTERNAL EVIDENCE. That Christian writers during the first three centuries, belonging to all parts of the world, testify to the incidents told or implied in the Gospel narrative, is notorious. But besides this there exists profane testimony of the first order and importance to the same facts. We must destroy the Annals of Tacitus, the Biographies of Suetonius, the Letters of Pliny, if we wish to get rid of their testimony to the fact that in the reign of the Emperor Tiberius there lived One called Christ; that Judæa was the place of His teaching; that He was put to death at the command of Pontius Pilate; that in spite of His death His doctrines rapidly spread through the Roman world; that they attracted a vast number of converts; that those converts worshipped Christ as a God, and for His sake suffered cruel persecution. These would be certain and indisputable facts had the New Testament never been written, and these classical notices of them place the facts in historical times, and give them an historical foundation.

INTEGRITY OF THE TEXT. THE OLD TESTAMENT.

2. INTERNAL EVIDENCE. The language of the New Testament, as we have seen, was the language of the civilised world at the era of the Advent. But Palestine was at this time under a peculiar system of double government, partly Jewish and partly Roman. Now, not only does the narrative of the New Testament testify in a remarkable way to this dual form of administration, involving a twofold form of taxation, two modes of capital punishment, two methods of marking time, two military forces, &c., but we find occurring side by side in the Greek itself Latin and Hebrew words. Thus we have Latin military terms, Latin names for coins, Latin expressions connected with the revenue, and in conjunction with them Hebrew terms and names of the most distinctive character. Now this was only natural in Palestine during the period to which the New Testament writings profess to have reference; that is, between the time of Herod the Great and the destruction of Jerusalem. These Hebraisms and Latinisms are "fossil history," and illustrate the semi-Jewish and semi-Roman condition of the country, a condition which could only have been realised at this period, for it came to an end within forty years of our Lord's crucifixion.

3. CIRCUMSTANTIALITY. Again, the records of the New Testament, like those of the Old, contain histories and biographies of the most varied character. We find mentioned the names of Roman emperors, as Augustus, Tiberius, and Claudius. We have Roman governors, as Cyrenius, Pontius Pilate, Felix, Festus, Sergius Paulus, and Gallio. We have Jewish kings, as Herod the Great, Archelaus, Antipas, Agrippa I., Agrippa II. Classical history and the writings of Josephus attest that they existed at the time specified, that they bore the offices assigned to them in the sacred story, and in the chronological order in which their names occur. The actions, moreover, ascribed to them are either such as these writers tell us they performed, or are at least in perfect keeping with their known characters.

4. UNDESIGNED COINCIDENCES. The same records abound also in allusions to places as varied as Antioch, Cyprus, Iconium, Thessalonica, Philippi, Athens, Corinth, Rome; to senatorial provinces and imperial provinces; to Roman procurators and proconsuls; to Greek "politarchs" and Asiatic ædiles; to natives of heathen districts like Lyconia, and of islands like Malta; to soldiers of the imperial guard, and the members of Caesar's household; to the great goddess Artemis, the recorder, the craftsmen, the assizes, the "regular assembly" at Ephesus. But every quotation from Josephus, Tacitus, or Suetonius, every fresh archaeological exploration in Palestine, Asia Minor, Cyprus, or Greece only serves to illustrate the minute accuracy with which every particular respecting them is recorded, even in reference to facts apparently the most insignificant. Indeed, it may be said that ancient literature has preserved few, if any, pictures of Asiatic towns and Roman colonies comparable for lifelike truthfulness to the narrative of St. Luke in the Acts¹.

V. INTEGRITY OF THE TEXT.

(1) THE OLD TESTAMENT.

1. THE TIMES OF EZRA. Scrupulous care was taken by Ezra, and those who followed him, to preserve the text of the Old Testament after its Canon was complete. The ancient Hebrew, in which it was written, was, after the Captivity superseded by the Aramaic language, a mixture of Chaldee with Hebrew. For a time the former was retained as the sacred, while the latter was the vernacular language. In the time of Ezra, it is evident that an Aramaic version followed the reading of the Hebrew original in the synagogues (Neh. viii. 8). This was at first delivered orally, and the translator was not allowed to use a manuscript. But it was probably written down at an early date, about, or soon after, the time of our Lord.

2. MANUSCRIPTS. There are no very ancient MSS. of the Hebrew Bible, and of such as have come down to us, all belong to the same family or recension. The earliest Hebrew manuscript known is one which has recently been bought by the Trustees of the British Museum; it was probably written at the end of the eighth or beginning of the ninth century. Many were destroyed in the Middle Ages, and others are buried through the pious, if mistaken, reverence of the Jews. That other recensions were at one time in existence is probable from the variations in the ancient versions, especially the Septuagint. But our state of knowledge on the subject is not at present such as to justify any attempt at reconstruction on the authority of the versions.

3. THE SYNAGOGUE ROLLS. Such Hebrew MSS. as exist, consist of the Synagogue Rolls, and copies for private reading. The former are the more important, and were written, as Josephus tells us, on fine skins, some of which, found in the Crimea, and therefore possibly belonging to the Jews of the Dispersion, are still preserved in the Imperial Library at St. Petersburg. The care with which they were transcribed is evident from the rules laid down in the Talmud. One scribe copied the consonants, another inserted the vowel-points and accents in a fainter ink, a third revised the copy, and a fourth wrote in the Massorah. These rolls consisted of, (1) the Pentateuch (Tôrâh, "Law"); (2) Megilloth ("rolls"); and (3) the Haphtarôth ("dismissals"). It is from these and the Greek translations made by the Alexandrian Jews, compared together, that a correct copy of the Scriptures must be derived; and the English Authorised Version was formed from the best recensions known at the time of its preparation.

4. VARIOUS READINGS. Although the "various readings" in the MSS. and printed editions of the Hebrew Bible are very numerous, being estimated at 30,000, and even by some scholars at 200,000, these are very unimportant. The Hebrew Bible of the present day is substantially the same as the recension made by Ezra and others, which was the "Textus Receptus" of our Lord's time. In it, however, the old phraseology has been occasionally modernised, obscure expressions explained by glosses, and the chronologies and genealogies have suffered, especially through the errors of transcribers. Thus there are many alterations in the language, yet none in the meaning of the original writers. We have no autographs and no perfect MSS. of either Hebrew or Greek Scriptures, neither have we of any Greek or Latin classic author; on the contrary, there is no ancient book, sacred or secular, of which the text is not more or less imperfect. In this respect the Hebrew Scriptures stand in the same position as all other writings of antiquity. Dr. Bentley states the case truly:—"It is a fact undeniable, that the sacred books have suffered no more alterations than common or classic authors, and have no more variations than what must necessarily have happened from the nature of things; and it has been the common sense of men of letters, that numbers of MSS. do not make a text precarious, but are useful, nay necessary, to its establishment and certainty."

5. TARGUMS. After the return from the Babylonian Captivity the language of the Jewish people had become very much debased in comparison with the pure Hebrew of old times. Those who read the Law to them had "to read distinctly, and give the sense" (Neh. viii. 8); i. e. they had to expound or paraphrase the Law in the later Hebrew or (as some call it) Chaldee, the language in which the people ordinarily spoke. In the course of the centuries that followed there grew up two styles of translation or paraphrase; one adapted to the Babylonian Jews, and one to the Palestinian. It became the business of a particular class of persons to prepare these versions or explanations; they were called Targumists, and their paraphrases were called Targums. The Targums which now exist are much later than the original paraphrases, but they give an idea both of the way in which the work was done and of the dialect of those times. The most notable Targums are (i) that of Onkelos (Aquila?) on the Pentateuch, and (ii) that of Jonathan Ben Uzziel on the Prophets, viz. Joshua, Judges, Samuel, Kings, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve Minor Prophets. The language of the former is Chaldee, closely approaching in purity of idiom to that of Ezra and Daniel. It keeps closely and minutely to the text, avoids the legendary character with which later Targums entwine the Biblical word, and aims at being a clear, though free, translation for the people. The Targum of Jonathan may be assigned to a period a little later than that of Onkelos, or about the middle of the fourth century.

6. THE TALMUDISTS. The Talmudists undertook a highly critical collation of many different texts, which, however, they interpreted by a great mass of traditional commentary; but they collected together all that was known and approved of (both written and oral) respecting the sacred books, rejecting what was not supported by a considerable weight of testimony. In the sixth century A.D., a school of Jewish Doctors at Tiberias, known as the "Massoretes," extracted from the Talmud the traditional comments (Massorah) of criticism and grammatical emendations, in order to establish the genuine text of the Hebrew Scriptures. The text, as so fixed by them, became the standard from which others were multiplied. In the eleventh century a collation was made of the Massoretic text of Tiberias, known as the Palestine Codex, with the Babylonian text, and between the two there were found to be eight hundred differences of reading, none of them, however, in any way affecting the sense of the subject-matter.

7. THE SAMARITAN PENTATEUCH. The Samaritans have preserved the Pentateuch independently of the orthodox Jews. Its date is disputed, but the character does not differ materially from the archaic Hebrew form. While substantially agreeing with the Hebrew Textus Receptus, it contains readings which vary from it. Several of these may have existed in the copy originally received by the Samaritans, but some are alterations clearly introduced to support the Samaritan Schism.

(II) INTEGRITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

THE EVIDENCE FOR THE TEXT of the New Testament comes to us from three sources: (1) MSS. of the whole or portions of the New Testament; (2) Quotations by the Fathers; (3) Ancient Versions.

(1) MANUSCRIPTS.

No work that has come down to us from classical writers presents so many valuable MSS. of ancient date by which to establish its text as the New Testament. A Virgil in the Vatican claims an antiquity as high as the fourth century; but generally the MSS. of the classics belong to periods between the tenth and fifteenth centuries. The earliest of the MSS. of the New Testament are called Uncial² MSS., because they were written in large capital letters on fine vellum, or the prepared skins of calves or kids. Later on than these, come Cursive MSS., so called from being written in a cursive (curro) or running hand.

(a) UNCIAL MSS. Of the Greek Uncial MSS. the most important are the following:—

(1) SINAITIC, known to critics as Σ (Cent. iv), in the St. Petersburg Library. It was found by Tischendorf in the convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai in 1859. The New Testament is entire; and is followed by the Epistle of Barnabas, and part of the "Shepherd" of Hermas.

(2) ALEXANDRIAN, known as A (Cent. v), in the British Museum; given by Cyril Lucar, Patriarch of Constantinople, to Charles I in 1628. Some parts of the New Testament are missing (Matt. i. 1—xxv. 6; John vi. 50—viii. 52; 2 Cor. iv. 18—xii. 6). At the end stands the First Epistle of Clement, and part of the Second.

(3) VATICAN, known as B (Cent. iv), in the Vatican Library. The First and Second Epistles to Timothy and the Epistles to Titus and Philemon are wanting. Heb. ix. 14 to the end, and Revelation, have been supplied by a modern hand (Cent. xv).

(4) EPHREM'S, known as C (Cent. v), a palimpsest, in the Paris Library. It contains fragments of the LXX, and about three-fifths of the New Testament, including parts of almost every book. The original writing was effaced in the twelfth century, and Greek translations from Ephrem Syrus' works were written over it.

(5) BEZA'S, known as D (Cent. vi), in the Cambridge Library; found by Beza in the monastery of St. Irenæus at Lyons in 1562, and presented by him to the University of Cambridge. It is a Græco-Latin MS. of the Gospels and Acts, with a small fragment of 3 John.

(6) CLERMONT, known as D₂ (Cent. vi), in the Paris Library; once in Beza's possession. It is a Græco-Latin MS. of Paul's Epistles.

(7) LAUDIAN, known as E₂ (Cent. vi), in the Bodleian Library. It is a Græco-Latin MS. of the Acts.

(8) PARISIAN, known as L (Cent. viii), in the Paris Library; one of the most important of the later Uncial MSS. It contains the four Gospels (except Matt. iv. 22—v. 14; xviii. 17—20; Mark x. 16—20; John xxi. 15—25). It agrees in a remarkable manner with the quotations found in Origen, and with the Vatican MS.

(b) Cursive MSS. Cursive MSS. date from the tenth century onwards, and whereas of Uncials we have somewhat more than a hundred, of Cursives there are some 2,800 accessible to scholars. They are mostly denoted by numerals. While the readings of all the Uncials may be considered to be satisfactorily determined, of the Cursives few have been thoroughly collated. It is quite possible for a comparatively modern MS. to possess a high value, as, for example, if a scribe of the fifteenth century had copied in running hand direct from the Vatican MS. B. For this and other reasons some Cursives are very important evidence. If we bear in mind that ten or twelve manuscripts, and these generally modern, are all we have for ascertaining the text of most classical authors, it will help us to understand what a mass of MS. evidence is available for the New Testament.

(2) PATRISTIC QUOTATIONS.

The materials for this branch of evidence are less satisfactory than those of the MSS. Until the writings of the Fathers have been critically edited it will be impossible to place implicit confidence in the alleged testimony of a Father to any particular reading, if it be inferred merely from the appearance of that reading in the common editions of his writings. The value of even the most definite quotation in the Fathers is only corroborative, and as affording testimony to the existence of a reading at a date fixed within certain limits. "Standing by itself, any such citation might mean no more than that the writer found the passage in his own copy, or those examined by him, in the form in which he quotes it. The moment, however, it is found to be supported by other good evidence, the writer's authority may become of the utmost importance¹."

ANCIENT VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES.

(3) ANCIENT VERSIONS.

By a Version is meant a translation into some other language than the original, and the most important versions of the Scriptures are enumerated in the next section. All the versions of the New Testament are not of critical value. The oldest of them have been handed down to us in MSS. as the Greek original has been, and in some languages we have a large number of versions, while in others the total number is very scanty. "If an ancient version accords with the early Greek MSS. in some particular reading, we have at least an important proof of the early prevalence of that reading. If a second version supports the reading in question, the weight of evidence in its favour becomes enormously greater²."

VI. ANCIENT VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES.

(1) THE OLD TESTAMENT.

GREEK VERSIONS. 1. Of these the Septuagint occupies the highest rank. According to tradition, it was translated from the Hebrew by seventy-two Jews, each of whom, in a separate cell, made a complete translation of the entire Old Testament, and, when compared, these seventy-two copies were found to be so completely identical that they were deemed to be inspired. Jerome disbelieved this story; and the inequality of the rendering of different portions seems to afford convincing proof that they were the work of different persons and even of different times. Probably it was made gradually at Alexandria, at various dates, from about the middle of the third century, and the earliest portion may have appeared in the time of Ptolemy Philadelphus (A.C. 285). It seems to have been the only Scripture with which most of the Alexandrian Jews and the early Christian writers were familiar. It is not accurately translated from the Hebrew as we now have it, the text showing many important variations, both in words and phrases, as well as some additions to the original; and it contains many Coptic words. In this version, the Pentateuch possesses the highest literary merit, the Book of Proverbs ranks next, and Ecclesiastes occupies a very low place; the Prophets, Psalms, and other books are poor productions, while the Book of Daniel was so incorrect as to be disused by the early Christian Church.

2. The Version of Aquila. Aquila was a native of Sinope in Pontus, and became a proselyte from heathenism to Judaism. At the instigation of the Alexandrian Jews he sought in the second century A.D. to supply a literal rendering of the Hebrew text for the benefit of those who were more familiar with the Greek than the original, in opposition to the Septuagint, which had been appropriated by the Christians. It was so literal as to be sometimes unintelligible. It was highly esteemed by the Jews, and is quoted in the Talmud, but is discredited by early Christian writers.

3. The Version of Theodotion. About the same time Theodotion, a native of Ephesus, and an Ebionite, revised the LXX, merely correcting its inaccuracies. In the result many of his emendations were introduced into the LXX, and his translation of Daniel superseded the one in that version.

4. The Version of Symmachus. Symmachus, an Ebionite of Samaria (c. A.D. 200), gave his name to a new translation, which is paraphrastic, like the LXX, but displays more purity and elegance of style and language. It formed the third of the six versions given in the Hexapla of Origen. Three later versions, quoted in the Hexapla, were anonymous, and only fragments of them are preserved.

(2) ANCIENT VERSIONS OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

1. SYRIAC. The most important of all the Syriac versions of the Scriptures is the Peshitta, "the simple" or "plain version." This name is in use as early as the ninth or tenth century. Neither the time nor the place of its translation is known, but it seems to be the work of several hands, and the evidence points to the conclusion that it was produced in the second century. The translators were well acquainted with Hebrew, and books like Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy and Job, are rendered with great exactness. Ephrem the Syrian gives, in the latter half of the fourth century, abundant proof of its use in general by his countrymen. This version has always been accepted by all sections of the Syrian Church as authentic, and from it several Arabic translations have been made. It contains all the Canonical Books of the Old Testament, as well as those of the New, except the Second and Third Epistles of John, 2 Peter, the Epistle of Jude, and the Revelation.

2. THE OLD LATIN VERSION. Fragments of an old Latin version of the Bible are found in ancient Christian writers, but the history of its origin is lost in complete obscurity. All that can be affirmed is that it was made in North Africa, where the Church seems to have been Latin-speaking from the first, and was current in the last quarter of the second century. In the Old Testament the version was made from the unrevised edition of the LXX; and in the New it omitted the Epistle to the Hebrews, James, and 2 Peter. Tertullian gives the earliest testimony to the existence and character of the Old Latin Version (Vetus Latina).

3. THE VULGATE. The Old Latin Version was superseded in Italy by the Italia, and this in turn by the Vulgate (i.e. the current text), made by one of the greatest Biblical scholars of his day, Eusebius Hieronymus, better known as St. Jerome. Jerome revised the current Latin Version of the New Testament (A.D. 383-404). He also translated the Old Testament into Latin from the Hebrew. For this work he took up his residence at Bethlehem, and was occupied upon it for twenty-one years. Although at first the reverence for the LXX militated against its reception, from the time of Gregory the Great it became the authorised version of the Western Church. This translation, however, was gradually corrupted by intermixture with other Latin versions. The discordance of the copies in use was noticed by the Council of Trent in one of its decrees, and Sixtus V gave to the world a revised text in 1590 A.D. Three years later the present standard edition was issued by Clement VIII. The new edition is an improvement on its predecessor, but it is by no means faultless. The labours of Jerome were very important. His work is a witness of the Hebrew text at a very early period, for he had probably MSS. before him of great antiquity, and even in its present state it is a valuable aid in the criticism of the Hebrew text.

ENGLISH VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES.

4. OTHER VERSIONS. Besides the Syriac and the Latin, there are many other versions, made at different times, and in different countries; as e.g. the famous Gothic Version of Ulfilas, the Armenian, Arabic, Ethiopic, and Coptic or Egyptian, all of which have their value in elucidating the sacred text. These are for the most part independent testimonies, and not mere copies of some one common original, as their verbal differences sufficiently attest; but their complete agreement in all essential points demonstrates the care with which the sacred books have been preserved, while it establishes their integrity more satisfactorily than that of any other ancient book is established.

VII. ENGLISH VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES.

TRANSLATIONS of the Psalter and of some other parts of the Bible were made in the thirteenth century or earlier.

1380. Wyclif with some of his followers translated the whole Bible into English from the Latin Vulgate. (This great and historic work was accomplished before the days of printing, and was never issued from the press until it was edited by Forshall and Madden for the Clarendon Press in 1850.)

1525. Tindale's New Testament. The printing was begun at Cologne. On the flight of Tindale to Worms, a new (8vo.) English New Testament was printed there; and afterwards the Cologne edition (4to. with glosses) was completed. Many copies of it were publicly burned by order of Cuthbert Tunstall, Bishop of London, who was especially offended at Tindale's attempt to translate such ecclesiastical words as "Church."

1530. Tindale's Pentateuch was printed by Hans Luft at Marburg.

1534. Tindale's New Testament, carefully revised throughout by its translator, was printed at Antwerp by Martin Lempereur. This is the true primary version of the English New Testament.

1535. Miles Coverdale translated the Bible from the Zürich (Swiss-German) Bible, and the Latin version of Pagninus (1528), probably under the patronage of Thomas Cromwell. This was the first version of the whole Bible published in English. It was probably printed at Zürich.

1537. Matthew's Bible. This was made up of Tindale's Pentateuch and New Testament, completed from Coverdale for the rest of the Old Testament and Apocrypha, the whole edited by John Rogers. It was probably printed at Antwerp, but was published by Grafton and Whitchurch of London with the King's licence, and was the first "Authorised Version." This is the true primary version of the printed English Bible.

1539. Taverner's, an edition of Matthew's Bible, edited by Taverner.

1539. The Great Bible. A new edition of Matthew's Bible, revised, and compared with the Hebrew, by Coverdale, and published in England under the sanction of Thomas Cromwell in 1539. Archbishop Cranmer wrote a prologue to the second of the seven editions.

1560. The Geneva Bible. Published by the refugee reformers at Geneva, and for half-a-century the most popular of all English versions. It is best known as the "Breeches" Bible, because of a rendering in Gen. iii. 7.

1568. The Bishops' Bible. A revision of the Great Bible made at the suggestion of Archbishop Parker by fifteen theologians, eight of whom were Bishops. A second edition appeared in 1572.

1582. The Rheims Version of the New Testament. This translation was made from the Vulgate, and was published in 1583. A companion translation of the Old Testament was published at Douai in 1609, 1610. Both by Roman Catholics.

1611. The Authorised Version, translated from the Hebrew and Greek (by order of James I) by forty-seven divines from Oxford, Cambridge, and London. To London was allotted Genesis to 1 Chron. and the Epistles; to Cambridge, 2 Chron. to Ecclesiastes and the Apocrypha; to Oxford, the Prophets, Gospels, Acts and Revelation. This, from its great excellence, gradually superseded all preceding versions.

The textual value of these successive editions may be briefly stated thus. The style, tone, and to a great extent the phraseology of the English Bible were settled once for all by William Tindale. The only proof of this required is to read a Gospel in the Revised Version side by side with the Fry facsimile of the 1525 Tindale, and Genesis in the Revised Version side by side with the 1530 Pentateuch. Next in order of importance comes Matthew's Bible, giving the results of Tindale's latest work. In the Great Bible of 1539 Coverdale is seen at his best, as for that edition he very carefully revised and improved his 1535 Bible. The Bishops' of 1568 exerted little influence upon subsequent revisions; but in the preparation of the Authorised Version the Bishops' text as printed in the 1602 edition was taken as the basis. A very powerful influence was exerted over King James' translators by two very opposite versions; first, the Geneva Bible of 1560, and secondly, the Rheims New Testament of 1583.

THE REVISED VERSION.

1881, 1885. The Revised Version originated in a resolution of the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury in February, 1870. The work of revision was entrusted to two companies, of tried Biblical scholarship, one for the Old, the other for the New Testament, in co-operation with two similar American companies. The Revised New Testament was issued in 1881, the Revised Bible in 1885. The changes effected by the Revisers may be thus classified:—

(a) Emendations of the Text. It was the great aim of the Revisers, by a comparison of early MSS., ancient versions, and early quotations, to obtain a text approximating as near as possible to the original documents. But there is a great difference between the Old and New Testaments in respect to the design. The Received, or, as it is commonly called, the Masoretic Text of the Old Testament, has come down in MSS. of no very great antiquity. But it was thought most prudent to adopt it as the basis of the work, and to depart from it only in exceptional cases. In respect, however, to the New Testament, there are many MSS. and translations to be dealt with. The number of changes, therefore, made by the Revisers in the text on the authority of the best MSS. is very considerable; but while they give a more faithful rendering, they leave unchanged every doctrine found in the Old Version.

(b) Modification of Language. It was intended that the modern reader should be enabled to understand the meaning of the original writers, while losing as little as possible the sacred associations which have gathered round the familiar language of our English Bible. Antique, or archaic, words were therefore only altered where they had become misleading or unintelligible; and whatever changes were introduced, they were made as far as possible to conform to the language of the time when the Authorised Version was made. In some cases Hebrew words of a technical or personal character are retained instead of being translated. Thus "goat for Azazel" replaces "scapegoat" in Lev. xvi; the word Asherah, with its plurals Asherim and Asheroth, denoting the wooden symbol of some goddess, takes the place of "grove" in Judg. iii. 7; vi. 25, and other passages. In rendering technical terms and names of places and persons greater uniformity has been observed, and greater accuracy in the rendering of names of plants, animals, and precious stones.

(c) Changes of Form. The old divisions of chapters and verses are so retained as to be still available for reference, but the books are divided into paragraphs, and sometimes, especially in the Old Testament, the transition to a new subject is marked by a space. Poetical books, or short poetical passages, are printed in lines like the verses of modern poetry. The New Testament quotations from the prophetic books are given in lines. The English headings to the chapters are omitted throughout, as involving questions of interpretation. Only such titles are retained as already existed in the Hebrew, such as we find in many of the Psalms, the new translation of which and the marginal explanations are very instructive. The whole collection of the Psalms is divided into five books, corresponding to the arrangement of the Hebrew Psalter.

(d) Mistranslations, again, have been corrected where necessary. This is naturally more noticeable in the New than in the Old Testament. Thus, to quote one or two instances: in Luke xxiii. 15 the substitution of "for he sent him back unto us" for "I sent you to him," gives a meaning to a clause which is otherwise not only wrong but meaningless. Again, in Acts xxvi. 28 the translation "With but little persuasion thou wouldest fain make me a Christian" is far more accurate than the "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian" of the A.V. In Acts xxvii. 14 the A.V. rendering, "not long after there arose against it a tempestuous wind," introduces a geographical confusion, which disappears before the R.V. rendering, "there beat down from it a tempestuous wind." The marginal references are here of special importance justifying a better rendering of various clauses.

PART II.

THE OLD TESTAMENT.

VIII. SUMMARY OF THE BOOKS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

DIVISIONS OF THE HEBREW BIBLE. The Jews divided their sacred books into three parts:—

1. "THE LAW" (Tôrâh), comprising the five books of MOSÉS.
2. "THE PROPHETS" (Nebîm), comprising the Books of Joshua, Judges, 1 and 2 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve Minor Prophets.
3. "THE WRITINGS" (Kethubim). Under this title were placed:—
 - (1) Psalms, Proverbs, Job.
 - (2) Song of Solomon, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, Esther.
 - (3) Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, 1 and 2 Chronicles.

1. THE LAW. The "Book of the Law" is mentioned in Deut. xxxi. 24, 26; Josh. i. 8; viii. 34; xxiv. 26. The distinctness of the five portions shows that they were designed to be separate, and so distinct names were found for each. The Jews used for this purpose the chief word in the first verse of each. In the LXX they are denoted by titles indicating the subject-matter, which are still in use in the Christian Church, e.g. Genesis, Exodus, &c.

2. THE PROPHETS. This general appellation was given to these twenty-one books, because they were written by Prophets, who, as the teachers of the people, were naturally the annalists also: e.g. Samuel, Nathan, Gad, Iddo, Isaiah, Jeremiah, &c. We read of them sometimes as living in communities. They seem to have cultivated literature, music, psalmody, &c.; and their writings, whether devotional or historical, were regarded as more or less prophetic (which means instructive, as well as predictive, cp. Acts xiii. 1; 1 Cor. xiii. 2, 8). They were divided into PRIORES (Joshua, Judges, 1 and 2 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings) and POSTERIORES; these last being subdivided into Majores and Minores. The former designation was given to the writings of Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, because of their greater bulk, as well as prophetic pre-eminence; the latter to the remaining twelve prophetic books. The Book of Daniel was excluded, partly on account of its author having exercised no prophetic office among "the people," partly because of its late reception into the Sacred Canon; and also, in later times, because it was quoted by Christians against the Jews.

3. THE SCRIPTURES include the remaining books of the Hebrew Canon. The first group (1) consisted of the devotional books used in the services of the synagogue (the Psalms and Proverbs weekly, Job on most of the great fasts). The second, (2) called the "Five Rolls," supplied for the most part the Lessons used on special festivals; the third (3) was a sort of Appendix, in which were placed those canonical books which were not ranked among "The Prophets."

DIVISIONS OF THE BOOKS. The quotations made in the New Testament from the Old cite only the book (Acts ii. 16) from whence they are taken (except in the case of the Psalms, Acts xiii. 33, 35). They are mostly from the books read in the synagogue every Sabbath-day, and there are indications of a division into sections (Luke iv. 17; Acts xiii. 15, 23, 35; xv. 21; 2 Cor. iii. 14, 15).

THE TALMUD DIVIDED "THE LAW" into fifty-four portions, one for each sabbath of the intercalary year. These were called Parashioth, which were subdivided into lesser Parashioth, being the sections of the Lesson taken by each individual reader. These, again, were classed under two heads, viz. "Open" (Petuchoth), which marked a change of subject, like the modern paragraph, and began with a fresh line in the MSS.; and "Shut" (Setumoth), corresponding to minor divisions, like sentences, marked only by a space in the line. These breaks in the text were denoted by the initials "P" or "S" in the margin, to catch the reader's eye; which would seem to be the origin of the ¶ placed before certain verses in the Authorised Version.

THE PROPHETS ALSO WERE SUBDIVIDED into Sabbath Lessons, though not with the same precision or authority. These portions were called Haphtarôth ("dismissals"), because they were read immediately before the close of the service. These were in the ninth century A.D. subdivided by the Massoretes into Verses (Pesukim), the termination of each in the Hebrew MSS. being marked by a colon (:), which is retained in the Prayer-book version of the Psalms to point them for chanting. In the thirteenth century a more systematic division into Capitula or Chapters, ascribed to Stephen Langton, or Hugh of St. Cher, was generally adopted in the Latin Vulgate to facilitate reference to the text. In the sixteenth century the Massoretic division into verses was combined with this division into chapters, and passed from the Latin Vulgate into the English translation published at Geneva in 1569.

DIVISIONS OF THE ENGLISH BIBLE.

IN OUR OLD TESTAMENT the books are conveniently arranged according to their subject-matter:—

1. THE PENTATEUCH, or Five Books of Moses.
2. THE HISTORICAL BOOKS, from Joshua to the end of Esther.
3. THE POETICAL OR DEVOTIONAL BOOKS, from Job to the Song of Solomon.
4. THE PROPHETICAL BOOKS, from Isaiah to Malachi.

(i) THE PENTATEUCH.

1. THE PENTATEUCH is the Greek name given in the Septuagint to the first five books of the Old Testament, and denotes the five-volume Book, the Hebrew Pentateuch being written on a single roll. The ordinary Hebrew title is the Law, "Tôrâh." In the Old Testament it is called "the Law of Moses" (Ezra vii. 6), "the Book of the Law of Moses" (Neh. viii. 1), "the Book of Moses" (Ezra vi. 18), "the Book of the Law of Jehovah by the hand of Moses" (2 Chron. xxxiv. 14), "the Book of the Covenant" (2 Chron. xxxiv. 30), "the Book of the Law of Jehovah" (2 Chron. xvii. 9). This designation extends from the days of Jehoshaphat (B.C. 850) to the time of Jesus the son of Sirach (cir. 250-200 B.C.). There can be little doubt that the book so styled is virtually the same as our Pentateuch, and identical with the "Book of the Law" placed by Moses in the ark (Deut. xxxi. 26). The five books stand together at the beginning of the Old Testament as one body of literature. Their history and theology underlie the other books that follow, and alone give an authentic account of the early history of Israel, their laws, and the Divine promises which are the key to the nation's unique position in the world.

SUMMARY OF THE BOOKS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

2. AUTHORSHIP. The Pentateuch is ascribed to Moses, as the author or compiler, by all tradition, Jewish and heathen, and this testimony is sustained by the record itself, which distinctly asserts that the Hebrew Lawgiver wrote portions of a history. Thus, after the defeat of Amalek we read (Ex. xvii. 14), "The Lord said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in a book." Again, in Ex. xxiv. 4 we are told that "Moses wrote all the words of the Lord;" and in Num. xxxiii. 2 we find him writing down the journeys of the Israelites "by the commandment of the Lord." Once more, in Deut. xxxi. 9-11 we read that Moses "wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi," and ordered that at the end of every seven years they should "read it before all Israel in their hearing." Thus parts of the book were clearly written by Moses or by his order, and throughout the Old Testament there is a constant stream of reference and quotation to the laws, the history, and the words of Moses. Our Lord again certainly refers to the Pentateuch as the writing of Moses (John v. 46), and speaks of the Law as given by Moses (John vii. 19); and He cites commandments, which we find in the Pentateuch, as "commandments of Moses" (Matt. viii. 4; Luke xx. 37).

3. INTERNAL EVIDENCE corroborates this view. The books were evidently written by a Hebrew speaking the language and cherishing the traditions and sentiments of his nation. They were written also by a Hebrew intimately acquainted with Egypt and Egyptian science. But Egyptian learning was carefully concealed from all foreigners, and was accessible only to the priests and the royal family. To this class, therefore, the writer must have belonged. Now we know that Moses was brought up as "the son of Pharaoh's daughter," and was "learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians" (Acts vii. 22). And when we consider the artlessness of the style, the antique air of the narrative, the intimate acquaintance of the author with Egypt and Egyptian customs, the accurate knowledge displayed of the Sinaitic desert, the clear and distinct reminiscences of the dwelling of the Israelites in tents, and all the minute details of the wanderings, it is difficult to think of any man who could have compiled the history of the forefathers of his race with all the truthfulness, simplicity, and accuracy of detail to be found in the Pentateuch, or any period in Jewish history when it could have been penned except when Egypt and the wilderness were fresh in the writer's mind.

4. THE GRADUAL COMPILATION. This conclusion, however, does not oblige us to believe that Moses wrote every word of the Pentateuch, but that he was the original compiler from such documents as were then accessible. Thus we may believe that the Book of Genesis was drawn up from primeval documents and family records of a contemporaneous origin preserved by the patriarchs, similar to the books on clay and papyrus which the monuments of Egypt and Assyria have lately revealed; that the Book of Exodus, as its autobiographical character seems to indicate, was written by Moses, or, at least, under his immediate direction and authority; that the Book of Leviticus, containing the statutes and ordinances revealed to him, was, if not written by him, at least compiled by authorised scribes under his supervision; that the Book of Numbers was drawn up partly from legislative revelation vouchsafed directly to Moses, partly from contemporaneous records made by God's command, partly from documentary annals composed during the long Sinaitic wanderings, but all under his immediate oversight; that the Book of Deuteronomy, containing the last addresses of the inspired legislator specially recorded by official writers, assumed its present form under the hand of Joshua, and that the several books were enriched with numerous notes, archaeological and explanatory, from the hands of later editors and revisers¹.

I. GENESIS.

1. GENESIS is a Greek word signifying origin or beginning. It is given to the first book of the Pentateuch in the LXX Version, and is very suitable to a document which contains an account of the origin of the heaven and the earth, of the human race and the Israelitish nation. Although some fragments claim a higher antiquity, it is acknowledged to be the most ancient complete book in existence. There is no people of antiquity possessing an historical work that can be compared with it. It must be viewed, however, in connexion with the four books that follow it, of which it is an integral part; while the scope of the whole is the foundation of a theocracy based upon the idea of a single family, through which in the course of the ages "all the families of the earth were to be blessed" (Gen. xii. 3).

2. AUTHORSHIP. From the fact that portions of more ancient authors seem to have been embodied by the writer in the book as it now stands, and that these are evidently, in whole or in part, duplicate narratives of some events, it has been supposed by some critics that the original work has been enlarged at various times by several subsequent compilers. Certain of these portions are styled Elohistic, because the Deity is throughout designated by the general name of Elohim (God), representing the Divine influence in the material world. Other portions are called Jehovistic, because therein the Deity is represented by the name "Jahveh" or Jehovah, the origin of which is lost in mystery, but which seems to indicate One who is, and is Eternal and true to His covenant relationship with His people. Thus the first name is regarded as teaching natural, the second revealed religion. But the theory that the various documents, which may have been used in the composition of the book, tend to emphasise, some the name of Elohim, others that of Jehovah, must be received with great reserve; and there is throughout the book a unity which can only be ascribed to One presiding Mind, inspiring and guiding the author of this earliest portion of Biblical literature.

3. MOSAIC ORIGIN. The tradition, therefore, so universally entertained that the record in its present state is substantially that compiled originally by Moses, is to be accepted. But it is not incredible that in its earliest chapters be made use of primeval documents, which may have been brought by Abraham from Chaldea, where, as we learn from the ancient inscriptions, the art of writing was known in the earliest ages. In its later chapters the records, which would naturally have been preserved in the families of the successive patriarchs as the archives of their race, would supply materials for the inspired Lawgiver to make use of in drawing up the history, so necessary for his purpose, of the choice of the family of Abraham to be the peculiar people of God. How the primitive records came into existence we do not know, but in their employment we discern the operation of the Holy Spirit of God working, as it is the economy of the Divine method to work, upon existing materials¹, and inspiring the original compiler in the selection of what was necessary for his narrative of the election and training of the Israelitish nation, as part of the Divine plan of Redemption, which was to be wrought in the course of many centuries "in many fashions, and in many parts" (Heb. i. 1).

4. CONTENTS. The book may be thus divided:—Part I (i-v) gives an account of the Creation, Fall, and antediluvian history of mankind, including the first Covenant. Part II (vi-xi) contains an account of the Deluge, the second Covenant with Noah, the re-peopling of the earth, the Dispersion, and confusion of tongues. Part III (xii-xxviii) is more detailed. The history of the line of Shem is traced as far as Terah and Abraham, and then Abraham becomes the prominent figure, and we have the history of his call, and graphic accounts of the patriarchal age, down to the emigration of Jacob to Padan-Aram. Part IV (xxix-l) gives the history of Jacob and Joseph down to the death of the latter in Egypt. Thus the book has a character of its own. It embraces the world and the entire human race, but its real design is to show how God revealed Himself to the first fathers of the Jewish nation in order that He might make to Himself a people who should be His witnesses on the earth.

5. THE CREATION. With regard to the history of Creation the record was not intended to be scientific. The facts are related in language adapted to the childhood of the world. The Bible begins by stating that all that is not God owes its being to God; that the universe is to be ascribed both in its form and its substance to His creative fiat. If compared with the cosmogonies of other peoples, the account of the Creation as given in the Book of Genesis is pre-eminent in dignity and simplicity, and also in the teaching of a pure monotheism. Alone among all the systems of the ancient world it represents an orderly progression of creative work. It represents it as taking place in time, in stages, and according to a definite sequence of operation. As regards the formation of the material globe, it is merely stated, in general terms, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." The distinction must be carefully observed between the words "created" and "made" throughout the first chapter of Genesis. The six days' work relates entirely to the Divine action on the earth's surface, and the objects visible from it, at the beginning of the present epoch of humanity: thus we have—

- (1) A change from darkness to light.
- (2) Separation of waters above and below by the intervention of a firmament or expanse (i.e. the atmosphere).
- (3) A further division of the waters below into seas and earth, followed by growth of vegetable life.
- (4) Appearance of sun, moon, and stars, visible from the earth's surface.
- (5) Production of living creatures out of the water and in the air.
- (6) Production of animals, including man, from the material earth.

The summary account of the Creation in the Fourth Commandment (Exod. xx) refers, in general terms, only to the appearance under the Divine hand of visible phenomena above the earth's surface; but in neither of these accounts is there any allusion to the mode by which formations below the crust of the earth were made.

2. EXODUS.

1. TITLE. The name Exodus is derived from the Greek word in the Septuagint Version, and signifies Departure (see Heb. xi. 22, R.V.). The book is chiefly taken up with an account of the Going out, or Departure of the descendants of Abraham from bondage in Egypt to the Promised Land. It gives a sketch of the early history of Israel as a nation, (1) enslaved, (2) redeemed, (3) set apart through the blending of its religious and political life and consecrated to the service of God.

2. TRACES OF EGYPTIAN INFLUENCES are conspicuous throughout the book. Its language shows a large infusion of Egyptian words; the enactments of the Mosaic Law are based upon Egyptian life; and the general constitution of religious worship is antagonistic to Egyptian mythology, as, for example, the sacrifice of sacred animals.

3. REMINISCENCES OF THE WILDERNESS. The book also presupposes residence in a camp and in a wilderness as the established rule, while words peculiar to such a life remain stamped upon ordinances and accessories of the religious worship of the nation. Thus the place for assembly is always "the Tabernacle" or "Tent of Meeting;" excommunication implies being cast out of the camp; the scapegoat carries the sin of the people into the wilderness; the Sabbath becomes a rest from the labour of bondage; and the peculiar rites of the Passover, such as the posture of the eaters, and the unleavened bread, and "the haste" and "the loins girt," possess their special significance as memorials of a hasty flight. All the minute details, so entirely in accord with the idea of the deliverance from Egypt and a passage through the Sinaitic desert, could only have occurred to a narrator living at the time and conversant with the circumstances as they actually occurred, and militate strongly against the idea that such minute and elaborate description could have been due to the imagination or invention of a later age.

4. CONTENTS. The book contains a narrative of events from the birth of Moses to the erection of the Tabernacle. (a) Part I (i—xviii) is historical. It gives an account of the oppression of Israel in Egypt, the early life of Moses, his call to be the deliverer of Israel, the ten plagues, the institution of the Passover, the passage of the Red Sea, the leading incidents on the way to Sinai. (b) Part II (xix—xxiv) is legislative. It gives the promulgation of the Law, and the ratification of the Mosaic Covenant. (c) Part III (xxv—xl) is mainly constructive, and gives the orders for making the Tabernacle, the consecration of the family of Aaron to the priesthood, and of their vestments; the sin and punishment of Israel for making the golden calf; the setting up of the Tabernacle by Bezaleel and Aholiab, and its dedication.

3. LEVITICUS.

1. TITLE. The name Leviticus is taken from the Greek title given in the Septuagint to the third book of the Pentateuch. It contains the laws and ceremonies regulating the services of the sanctuary by the sacred tribe of Levi, as substitutes for the natural priests, the firstborn male of each family. These laws, chiefly ritual and ceremonial, were delivered to Moses on Mount Sinai, and through him to the people or the priests.

2. DISTINCTIVE CHARACTER. The book has a distinctive character in the general exclusion from it of historical narrative, with the exception of the sections relating to the consecration of the priests (Lev. viii, ix), the death of Nadab and Abihu (Lev. x. 1-7), and the stoning of the blasphemer (Lev. xxiv. 10-16). It embraces the history of only one month, and is closely connected with Exodus at its beginning, and with Numbers at its close: for while the order for the consecration of the priests is given in the former, the ceremony itself is recorded in Leviticus, and the exemption of the Levites from military service, and their special functions, are narrated in Numbers.

3. CONTENTS. The book gives—(i) (i—vii) The laws concerning sacrifices in general. (ii) (viii—x) The consecration of Aaron and his four sons; the punishment of two of them, Nadab and Abihu, for offering unbidden incense. (iii) (xi—xvi) Laws concerning clean and unclean food, personal purity, and leprosy; the ordinance of the Day of Atonement. (iv) (xvii—xxiv. 9) Slaughter of animals; unlawful marriages and lusts; sacred times, seasons, and festivals; the lights of the sanctuary and the shewbread. (v) (xxiv. 10—xxvii) Episode respecting a blasphemer and his punishment; the Sabbatical Year and the Jubilee; prophetic promises and warnings; vows, tithes, and offerings to Jehovah.

4. REFERENCES. There are frequent references to many of the ceremonies and rules prescribed in it in the later writings of the Old Testament, especially those of the priest-prophet Ezekiel. In the New Testament we find our Lord referring to the rites connected with the cleansing of the leper (Matt. vii. 4; Mark i. 44), and quoting the second great commandment (Lev. xix. 18; Mark xii. 31); while the special ceremonies of the Day of Atonement and their fulfilment by Christ are commented on with great fulness in the Epistle to the Hebrews (Heb. ix. 1-15).

4. NUMBERS.

1. TITLE. The appellation Numbers is a translation of the word Ἀριθμοί in the LXX, and is derived from two numberings of the people at the beginning (chap. i) and the end of the wanderings (xxvi). It comprises a period of thirty-eight years and three months, from the completion of the Law-giving, "the first day of the second month of the second year" of the Exodus, to the first day of the fifth month of the fortieth year.

2. THE CONTENTS may be thus summarised:—(i) The breaking up of the encampment at Sinai; first census; arrangement of the army; the service of the priestly tribe, with an inventory of their charge; the cloudy pillar; the regulations of the journeys (i–x. 10). (ii) The march from Sinai to the borders of Canaan, including the appeal of Moses to Jethro; the burning at Taberah; the giving of the quails; the sedition of Aaron and Miriam and her leprosy; the sending of the spies, their report, and the murmuring of the people; the rash attack on the Canaanites and its repulse (x. 10–xiv). (iii) The events of the thirty-eight years' wandering. The rebellion of Korah and its punishment (xv–xix). (iv) The events of the last year. The death of Miriam; the sin of Moses and Aaron; the circuit round Edom; the death of Aaron; the conquest of the Amorites; the episode of Balaam; the sin of Baal-peor and its consequences; law of inheritance, offerings, and vows; the war against the Midianites; summary of journeys; Levitical cities and cities of refuge.

3. POETICAL FRAGMENTS. The Book of Numbers is rich in fragments of ancient poetry, some of them of great beauty, and all throwing an interesting light on the character of the times in which they were composed. Such for instance are the chants, which were the signal for the Ark to move when the people journeyed, and for it to rest when they were about to encamp (x. 35, 36). Of a similar nature are the songs from "the Book of the wars of Jehovah," in commemoration of the victories of the Israelites over their enemies (xxi. 14, 15), and "the Song of the Well," afterwards no doubt used by those who came to draw water (xxi. 17, 18).

4. THE WRITER'S CANDOUR. It is impossible to read the narrative contained in this book without being struck with the writer's candour. He freely exposes the faults not only of the people, but of Aaron and Miriam; and while he does full justice to the generosity of Moses (xl. 29), his meekness (xii. 8), and his self-effacement (xiv. 18), he notes also his liability to despondency (xl. 15), and relates fully the offence which excluded him from the Promised Land (xx. 9–12).

5. REFERENCES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT. It is to be noted that besides references to some of the incidents recorded in this book in the later Scriptures of the Old Testament, we have in the New our Lord making special reference to that of the brazen serpent lifted up by Moses (John iii. 14); while St. Paul mentions the serpents which destroyed the people (1 Cor. x. 9), and the sin of Baal-peor (1 Cor. x. 8), and St. Peter in his Epistle (2 Pet. ii. 15, 16) and St. John in the Apocalypse both refer to the sin of Balaam (Rev. ii. 14).

5. DEUTERONOMY.

1. THE NAME DEUTERONOMY comes from the LXX and signifies "Repetition of the Law." The book consists mainly of three addresses given by Moses, when in extreme old age, to the people who had been born in the wilderness, and had not heard the original promulgation of the Law. The apparent variation of style, from the historical to the hortatory, as well as certain seeming discrepancies between it and the previous books, has raised doubts as to its authorship, some assigning it to Jeremiah, and others to a Jew living in Egypt in the time of Manasseh. Many trustworthy authorities, however, uphold the traditional theory that it contains the addresses of Moses at the close of his life, specially recorded by official writers, in view of the approaching entrance of the Israelites into their promised inheritance. The discrepancies are not irreconcilable, and the enactments which provide for an established form of government, including even a monarchy and permanent settlement in cities, might well be prospective.

2. THE SIMILARITIES, on the other hand between it and the rest of the Pentateuch are very noticeable. We find peculiar Hebrew words and grammatical forms used. We notice the frequent reference to the slavery of the Israelites in Egypt, and to Egyptian laws and customs. These come in naturally, without strain or effort, and would have been hardly possible of introduction by a late writer composing his work centuries afterwards, and constitute a strong evidence in favour of the book being the work of the same author as the rest of the Pentateuch. To this must be added that St. Paul, in Rom. x. 6, 8, 19, and in xv. 10, argues from Deuteronomy at some length, and expressly quotes it as written by Moses.

3. SUMMARY. Of the three addresses of Moses, the first (i–iv. 40) is introductory, reminding the people of their deliverance from bondage, of God's guidance and protection in their wanderings, and their frequent ingratitude, closing with a warning from the past, and an exhortation to obedience in the future, so as to secure the inheritance now within reach. The second (v–xxvi) is a practical exposition of the whole Law, beginning with the Ten Commandments, more particularly applying the precepts of the First Table; followed by the enforcement of particular regulations in three main groups, viz. (1) laws concerning religion; (2) concerning administration of justice; (3) concerning private and social rights. The third address (xxvii–xxx) is the solemn renewal of the Covenant, with an impressive recital of the blessings upon observance, and the curses on neglect of the Law. At the close of these addresses we have an account of the delivery of the Law to the Levites, a Song of Moses recited in the ears of the people, the final benediction of the twelve tribes, and the closing scenes of Moses' life (xxxi–xxxiv).

4. THE GENERAL CHARACTER OF THE BOOK is that of a solemn exhortation. The style is earnest and impressive. While reviewing the past, the Hebrew law-giver makes a stirring appeal to the future career open before his hearers on the other side of the Jordan. He vividly portrays to those who had not seen it the Divine delivery of the Law at Sinai. He recalls much that had been forgotten, or remained in abeyance from want of opportunity to exercise it in the wilderness, for all these would now be the code of laws by which, as a settled people, they must be governed. His hearers are only partially conversant with the Law. Hence some things are assumed, others are dealt with in minute detail, and even supplemented by new regulations to complete the Mosaic system (xii–xxvi). These later civil institutions are promulgated by God's command, and so have the same Divine sanction as those relating to religious worship.

5. THE PROPHETIC ELEMENT IN THE BOOK is very noteworthy, indeed it contains some of the most striking predictions of the Pentateuch. We have (a) the announcement of the Prophet who was to come, greater than Moses, but like unto him (xviii. 15–19); (b) the prediction respecting Israel's future in chap. xxviii, which should be compared with Leviticus xxvi; (c) the blessings in the 33rd chapter pronounced by Moses on the various tribes, which should be carefully compared with the blessing of the dying Jacob (Gen. xlix), and the change ought to be noted between what is said of Levi in Deut. xxxiii. 8–11, and the similarity of the words uttered concerning Joseph's sons, the powerful tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh (xxxiii. 13–17). The declaration in vi. 4, 5 is quoted by our Lord as the chief of all the commandments (Matt. xxii. 37, 38), and it is with three sentences from this book that He defeats the three temptations of the Evil One (Matt. iv. 1–10).

(ii) THE HISTORICAL BOOKS.

THE BOOK OF JOSHUA.

1. WITH THE BOOK OF JOSHUA, which stands in close connexion with the Pentateuch, commence the Historical Books. They contain the history of the Israelite people during the three great periods of their national life: (1) as a confederation of independent tribes united by religion and blood; (2) as a monarchy, separated after three generations into two distinct kingdoms; (3) as tributary to foreign invaders.

2. THE NAME JOSHUA (Jehovah is salvation) was originally HOSHEA (salvation), the name of the last king of Israel (2 Kings xv. 30). This name was changed by Moses to Jehoshua on the occasion of sending out the twelve spies (Num. xiii. 16), and this was contracted to Joshua. In later times the name Joshua, modified in its passage through the Greek language, took in the LXX and in later Greek the form Ἰησοῦς, Jesus (Acts vii. 45; Heb. iv. 8), which has become indelibly impressed on history as the greatest of all names.

3. JOSHUA was born in Egypt during the bondage of the Israelites. He first appears as a military captain at Ephraim (Ex. xvii. 9-14) on the occasion of the attack of the Amalekites; he is Moses' minister at the giving of the Law (Ex. xxiv. 13); he is sent to spy out the land of Canaan as representative of the tribe of Ephraim (Num. xiii. 8), and is appointed on the death of Moses his successor as leader of the people (Num. xxvii. 18-23), and to him is entrusted the task of settling them in Canaan.

4. DATE AND AUTHORSHIP. The authorship of the book has been variously attributed to Joshua (according to the tradition of the Jews and early Christian writers), to Phinehas, Eleazar, one of the elders who survived Joshua, Samuel, and Jeremiah. Again, some have assigned its date to the time of the Judges, the reign of Josiah, and even to the time after the Babylonish Captivity. All these conjectures have little foundation. It is more than probable that Joshua followed the example of Moses by writing the annals of his own time, and it is difficult to imagine that any but a contemporary could have written such passages as iii. 15, 16; vi. 25. Later additions to the original are traceable in x. 13; xv. 18-17; xix. 47; xxiv. 29-33. But the two addresses in xxiii and xxiv would appear to have been committed to writing by Joshua himself, who is expressly declared to have written such documents (xxiv. 26). We may conclude therefore that the materials in the shape of records made by official persons at the time were left by Joshua and put into their present shape by a later hand.

5. CONTENTS OF THE BOOK. The account of the settlement of the chosen people in Canaan may be thus divided: (i) The preparations for the conquest (i-v. 12); (ii) the conquest of (a) the South (v. 13-viii), (b) the Centre (ix, x), (c) the North (xi, xii); (iii) the partition of the land (xiii-xxii); (iv) the close of Joshua's career, and his death (xxiii, xxiv). The characteristic feature of the book is that "the Lord drove out the nations" before Israel, and that He fought for them. The conquest opens with the miraculous fall of Jericho, after the renewal of the rite of circumcision, and the apparition of the "Captain of the Lord's host." Then follows a march into the interior to the primary altar of Abraham at Shechem, where the covenant is renewed by oath and sacrifices. Next succeeds the miraculous victory at Beth-horon, and the general panic of the heathen inhabitants after the rout of the confederacy under Jabin in the north. It closes with a general assembly at Shiloh, where the Tabernacle was permanently fixed, the allotment of their territory to each tribe, and a final renewal of the covenant at Shechem.

JUDGES.

1. THE BOOK OF THE JUDGES. Kephal (Acts xiii. 20), receives its title from those who after the death of Joshua were raised up to be the "deliverers" of the people from their enemies around. The Hebrew words used for these deliverers, Shôphét, plur. Shôphêtim, which we have translated Judge, bear a marked resemblance to the Suffes, Suffetes of the Carthaginians at the time of the Punic wars (Livy, xxx. 7). These Suffetes at Carthage were sometimes styled by the Romans reges, sometimes consules or dictators. Raised up on extraordinary occasions, vested with special powers for the emergency, like the Dictators at Rome, the Judges delivered the nation from some pressing danger, and their power generally terminated with the crisis which had called them forth.

2. CONTENTS. The book may be divided thus: (i) Part I (i-iii. 4) is introductory, and gives an account of the conquest of certain portions of the land by different tribes. (ii) Part II (iii. 5-xvi) describes the declension of the Israelites from the duty of expelling the heathen nations, their lapse into idolatry, the punishment this apostasy brought upon them, and their deliverance by thirteen Judges, who, at God's command, assumed a temporary dictatorship. (iii) Part III (xvii-xxi) contains a record of two remarkable incidents, (a) that of Micah and the Danites (xvii, xviii), and (b) "the deed of shame" performed at Gibeah, and the consequent war which led nearly to the extermination of the tribe of Benjamin (xix-xxi). This portion forms a kind of appendix recording events antecedent to those related in the body of the book, and illustrating the demoralised condition of some of the families of Israel. The early date of this portion is indicated by the mention as living of Phinehas, the grandson of Aaron (xx. 28), and of Jonathan, the son of Gershom, and the grandson of Moses, in xviii. 30 (R. V.).

3. AUTHORSHIP. The authorship is uncertain. But it must have been compiled from existing records and family memorials. Jewish tradition ascribes it to Samuel; but if begun by him it was probably continued by other annalists, and it is possible that these documents were combined into one harmonious whole by Ezra or Nehemiah. The book is remarkably vivid in its details. The song of Deborah and Barak affords, it has been remarked, abundant proof of having been composed shortly after the date of the event commemorated. The reference in xviii. 30 to the "captivity of the land" seems to mark a date posterior to the Assyrian captivity of Israel; but the intimate knowledge displayed of the topography of Palestine sufficiently indicates that the book was written by an inhabitant of the country, and that the original documents must belong to an early period.

4. CHRONOLOGY. It is uncertain whether the rule of the Judges as recorded was consecutive or contemporaneous. Some, as Samson and Samuel, certainly seem to have been contemporaries; and so probably were Abimelech, Tola, and Jair. The office of Judge, subsequently to Jephthah, became life-long, and hereditary in Samuel's time, and this gradually prepared the way for a monarchy. It is noticeable that from the days of Phinehas to the days of Eli the priesthood is never mentioned, and that with Eli, for some unknown reason, the office had passed from the family of Eleazar to that of Ithamar. Several of the events recorded in the book are alluded to in Psalms lxxviii and lxxxi, and the "iniquity of Gibeah" (xix, xx) is referred to in Hos. ix. 9; x. 9.

5. THE BOOKS OF JOSHUA AND JUDGES bear the same relation to the books of the Law as the Acts of the Apostles to the Gospels; but the former mark the decline of the Jewish, the latter records the progress of the Christian Church. The history of the Judges teaches the lesson in the most solemn manner that apostasy from God sooner or later brought its punishment, but that God in His infinite mercy was ever ready to raise up deliverers when His people cried to Him in their trouble (Ps. cvi. 44, 45).

RUTH.

1. THE BOOK OF RUTH is a sequel to the Book of Judges, though in the Hebrew Canon it does not immediately follow it, but forms part of the Hagiographa, or last division of the Canon. It serves to connect the period of the Judges with the monarchy, and supplies an important link in the ancestry of David. No certain date can be assigned to its authorship, but it must have been written after the time of David, and long before the Exile. It comprises a period of ten years, and is referred by some to the latter part of the judgeship of Eli, by others to the beginning of that of Samuel.

2. SUMMARY. During a period of famine two Ephraimites of Bethlehem-Judah, Elimelech and Naomi, go forth with their two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, to seek a home in the land of Moab (i. 2). Here Elimelech dies, and after about ten years his sons, who have married two of the daughters of Moab, Orpah and Ruth, die also (i. 3-5). Naomi prepares to return to her native town, and Ruth, who cannot be dissuaded, accompanies her (i. 8-18). Reaching Bethlehem Ruth goes to glean in the fields of Boaz, a wealthy kinsman of Elimelech (ii. 1). Struck by her simple fidelity, he permits her to share in the provision made for his servants. By the advice of her mother-in-law Ruth claims kinship with him (iii), and he is not slow to acknowledge it. But there is a nearer kinsman, who is first asked to discharge a kinsman's duties (iv. 1-8). When he declines, Boaz readily performs them, and marries Ruth, by whom he becomes the father of Obed, the grandfather of King David (iv. 13-17).

3. VALUE OF THE BOOK. The book illustrates several important points. (1) It brings out the pious character of the good Boaz, and the friendly relations between him and his reapers; (2) it illustrates the Jewish land-system, and the method of transferring property from one person to another; (3) it hands down the brave love and unshaken truthfulness of her who, though not of the chosen race, was privileged to become the ancestress of David and so of "great David's greater Son" (Ruth iv. 13-22; Matt. i. 5-16); and (4) by the adoption of the Moabitess Ruth into the Church of God and her acceptance as a mother in Israel it anticipates the words of Christ that "many should come from the east and west, and should sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. viii. 11).

THE BOOKS OF SAMUEL.

1. THE TWO BOOKS OF SAMUEL are so called, not because Samuel was the author, but because that prophet is the most prominent actor in the opening portion, and the great instrument in the establishment of the kingdom of Israel. The two books are in reality a single work, and are so regarded in the Hebrew Canon. The LXX translators divided the Book of Samuel and the Book of the Kings into four books, which they named Books of the Kingdoms. This division is followed in the Vulgate, only the title is altered to Books of the Kings, which remains the alternative title in the Authorised Version of the English Bible.

2. AUTHORSHIP. This cannot be determined for certain. But we know from 1 Chron. xxix. 29 that there were Books of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad, the seers; and probably these prophetic men are answerable for a large portion of the materials. Records of the kingdom would supply others, and David's personal memoirs would give the rest. There were scribes and secretaries (2 Sam. viii. 17; xx. 25; 1 Kings iv. 3, &c.) who would help to mould the records into consecutive narratives, and the national poetic literature would preserve such compositions as Hannah's song (1 Sam. ii. 1-10), David's lament over Saul and Jonathan (2 Sam. i. 17-27), his lament for Abner (2 Sam. iii. 33, 34), his thanksgiving (2 Sam. xxii), and his last words (2 Sam. xxiii. 1-7). Thus whatever may have been the actual date of the compilation, the books themselves were based on the works of a series of prophets contemporary with the kings whose history they record.

3. THE SUBJECT-MATTER of the books may be best studied as forming three biographies—those of Samuel (1 Sam. i-xii), Saul (1 Sam. xiii-2 Sam. i), and David (1 Sam. xvi. 11-2 Sam. xxiv). As in the history of the patriarchs, so in these biographies, no reader can fail to notice the remarkable candour of the writers, who hide nothing and forget nothing. They are no mere hero-worshippers; they do not dissemble the sins of kings; they depict the miseries which follow the forsaking of the path of righteousness, and the blessings which accompany adherence thereto.

4. SAMUEL is the connecting link by which the judgeship passes on to monarchy. His ancestry from Levi, which is only given in outline at the beginning of the book, is to be found in 1 Chron. vi. 22-28 and 23-38. To his personal character, administrative skill, and intellectual ability is due the reformation of the people from unbridled licentious anarchy to a peaceful acquiescence in a monarchy and a respect for justice. It is easy to see why he became one of the "Heroes of Hebrew History"; why, as the last representative of the Judges, the first of the regular succession of prophets, the inaugurator of the kingdom, he could be associated with Moses and Aaron in the Psalms (see Ps. xcix. 6, and comp. Jer. xv. 1).

5. SAUL began well and ended badly. Nothing could be more promising than his first acts (1 Sam. x, xi), but his elevation soon makes him self-willed and self-assertive. Hence his fits of melancholy and jealousy, his bitter persecution of David, his moments of remorse, and his final defection exhibited in his consulting the witch of En-dor, just before the disastrous battle of Mount Gilboa. Proud, selfish, reserved, obstinately stiff-necked and profane, he sought to govern absolutely, instead of as the viceroy of God. But he was never sovereign of more than the central part of the country. Indeed, he was rather the pastoral chief of amalgamated tribes than the monarch of a kingdom.

6. DAVID. In David, for the first time, we see a true monarch. With him the sceptre came into the house of Judah, and he became the founder of a dynasty, which lasted upwards of four centuries. In his career we note (i) his early life as a preparation for his subsequent career; (ii) his life at court and as an outlaw; (iii) his elevation to the throne after long and varied discipline; (iv) his devotion to Jonathan and his magnanimity towards Saul, his valour, his musical and poetical gifts; (v) the fact that neither in the hour of danger nor the more trying hour of prosperity did he ever "go after strange gods" or lapse into idolatry; (vi) the depths into which he fell when he gave way to the temptations of passion, the seriousness of his contrition, and the severity of the punishment which followed the great sin of his life.

7. DAVID AS A TYPE. In relation to our Lord, David was not only His ancestor after the flesh, but in his humiliation and exaltation, and as the vanquisher of heathen nations, he was an eminent type of Him of whom he spoke in many of the Psalms, and who is not called the Son of Abraham, or of Jacob, or of Moses, but the Son of David (comp. Is. lv. 3 with Acts xiii. 34).

THE BOOKS OF KINGS.

1. FIRST AND SECOND KINGS formed originally in the Hebrew Canon one book, called "The Book of Kings." It was broken into two parts by the Greek translators of the LXX, and the Vulgate followed this division, which has been adopted by the whole Western Church.

2. AUTHORSHIP. Who the author was cannot be decided. The compiler refers to three sources of his narrative: (1) the Book of the Acts of Solomon (1 Kings xi. 41); (2) the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah (1 Kings xiv. 29), quoted fifteen times; (3) the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel (1 Kings xiv. 39), quoted seventeen times. These annals have perished, but the selection from them, intended to exhibit God's dealings with His people, has survived. The number of Chaldeisms in the text points to a late origin, and there is a great similarity of style between the later portion of 2 Kings, in the incidents of which Jeremiah was a participator, and the corresponding narratives in the book which bears his name (2 Kings xxv. 22; Jer. xliii. 6). Jewish tradition ascribes it to Jeremiah; but the vividness of certain scenes, such as the biographies of Elijah and Elisha, the dialogue between Ahab and Micalah, and the career of Jehu, seems to betoken an eyewitness, whose record has been introduced unaltered by the compiler.

3. SUBJECT-MATTER. With the exception of two reigns, the books embrace the whole regal period of Israelite history, from the death of David to the Captivity. The narrative falls into three parts:— (i) The reign of Solomon, portraying the undivided kingdom at its greatest height of power (1 Kings i—xi). (ii) A parallel account of the divided kingdom of Judah and Israel until the captivity of Israel (1 Kings xii—2 Kings xvii). (iii) The history of the kingdom of Judah down to the Babylonian conquest of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar and the captivity of the people (2 Kings xviii—xxv).

4. THE CONTENTS should be studied in connexion with the parallel passages in Chronicles, and the later parts should be read in the light of contemporary prophets. Both books represent the history as a conflict between faith and infidelity, between the worship of Jehovah, the Supreme Eternal Source of Life, and Baal, the personification of the powers of Nature. Israel declines from God, the kings follow Jeroboam, "who made Israel to sin." She becomes outcast, and her record is wiped out of the Book of Life, just as is that of the family of Cain and the apostate descendants of Noah and of Abraham; while Judah, blessed with a few faithful kings, as Assa, Hezekiah, Josiah, repents of her unfaithfulness during her exile in Babylon, and is restored.

5. THE PROPHETICAL OFFICE assumed throughout this period special prominence. The Schools of the Prophets, founded by Samuel, bore abundant fruit, and the value of the Prophetic Order was incalculable. "The prophets were the privy-councillors of kings, the historians of the nation, the instructors of the people." It was their function to maintain the religion of Jehovah against the idolatrous tendency so rife in their times, to defend and interpret the Moral Law, to denounce oppression and covetousness, injustice and profligacy, cruelty and wrong dealing, and to lift up their voice with fearless courage for God against the vicious practices of kings and people.

6. THE DISCOVERY OF THE BOOK OF THE LAW, in the days of Josiah (2 Kings xxii), gives us a startling insight into the decay of religion which had befallen the country during the time of Manasseh. But it is impossible to read the Books of Kings without being struck by the numerous references to the Pentateuch, and by the extent to which the thread and tissue of the narrative is interwoven with the thoughts and phraseology of the Mosaic period. In Solomon's dedication prayer (1 Kings viii. 22-58) we have many expressions which recall the language of Numbers, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy; while the recital of the idolatrous practices of Ahaz (2 Kings xvi), and the solemn enumeration of the offences for which the northern kingdom (2 Kings xvii) was destroyed, abound with phrases which are to be found in our present Books of Moses, and have an evidential value as bearing on their existence in some form or other all through the time of the kingdom.

THE BOOKS OF THE CHRONICLES.

1. TITLE. The First and Second Chronicles form one work in the Hebrew, and are entitled The Acts or Annals of the Days, from which our title, "Chronicles," arises. The Greek title in the LXX translation is Paraleipomena, or "the things omitted"; a name intended to imply that Chronicles is supplementary to the Books of Samuel and Kings, and supplies the omissions of the earlier history. The Latin has followed the LXX in dividing the work into two books, but has retained the name *Paraleipomenon*¹.

2. SOURCES OF THE BOOK. The compiler of Chronicles seems to have employed for the history of (i) the reign of David the words or "history" of Samuel the seer, the "history" of Nathan the prophet, the "history" of Gad the seer (1 Chron. xxix. 29, R.V.); for (ii) the reign of Solomon (a) the "book" (R.V. "history") of Nathan the prophet, (b) the "prophecy" of Ahijah the Shilonite, (c) the "visions" of Iddo the seer (2 Chron. ix. 29); and (iii) for later reigns the "histories" (R.V.) of Shemaiah the prophet (2 Chron. xii. 15), the "book" of the Kings of Israel and Judah (2 Chron. xxvii. 7), the "acts" of the Kings of Israel (2 Chron. xxxiii. 13), the "history" (R.V.) of Jehu the son of Hanani (2 Chron. xx. 34); and he mentions a history of Azariah (Uzziah) by Isaiah the prophet (2 Chron. xxvi. 22), also of "the acts and good deeds" of Hezekiah by the same prophet (2 Chron. xxxii. 32). In the period from the Creation to the death of Saul he appears to have used, (a) the Historical Books of our present Scriptures from Genesis to Ruth, (b) various documents, genealogical and historical, preserved by "the chiefs of the fathers" even through the period of the Captivity².

3. AUTHOR. Jewish tradition ascribes the compilation to Ezra, who would obtain his material from various annals of the monarchy. But, though this is considered improbable by some, the fact that 2 Chronicles ends with the same passage with which the Book of Ezra begins, suggests the same author, and favours the supposition that the Books of Chronicles and that of Ezra were originally united.

4. CONTENTS. The book is naturally divided into four parts. (i) Part I (1 Chron. i—ix), consists of genealogies from Adam, and we trace (a) the line from Adam to Abraham; (b) the line of Judah to Elishama; (c) the kingly line of David through Zerubabel; (d) the line of priests to the Captivity; and (e) the three leading families of singers, one of which represented the line of Samuel. (ii) Part II (1 Chron. x—xxix), gives the history of David, and is remarkable both for the omissions which are found in the narrative, and also for many new facts which are not given in the Book of the Kings. (iii) Part III, contains the reign of Solomon (2 Chron. i—ix). (iv) Part VI (2 Chron. x—xxxvi), gives the history of the Kings of Judah up to the Captivity. Here the additions made are of special moment.

5. OBJECT. The above analysis throws light on the object of the compilation of Chronicles. When the leaders of the returning exiles from Babylon came to allot the various portions of territory to the families entitled to them according to the Mosaic Law, they would need authoritative genealogical tables. Again, the maintenance of the Temple service, and of the payment of tithes, required strict proof of hereditary descent on the part of the officiating priests and Levites. To this work Ezra and Nehemiah seem to have earnestly set themselves, for they would feel the importance of preserving proofs of the historical continuity of the nation, if a spirit of patriotism in the people was to be restored, and of confidence in the favour of God in spite of the punishment He had inflicted upon them during the dreary years of the Captivity.

6. CHARACTERISTICS OF THE BOOK. Hence, as compared with the parallel histories of Samuel and Kings, we notice (a) a great tendency to dwell on the details of the Temple worship, the arrangement of the courses of the priests, and the like; (b) a marked bias for genealogical tables, and for putting on record the names of persons engaged in any of the events narrated; (c) a constant desire to ascribe all the events narrated to the Divine agency, and to represent the Divine favour as directly dependent on the faithfulness of rulers and people to the original Covenant, and Divine punishment as the natural result of unfaithfulness. Hence the history of Chronicles has been called "ecclesiastical," that of Samuel and Kings "political."

7. ADDITIONS AND OMISSIONS. While a large portion of Chronicles is common to the Books of Samuel and Kings, it is in several respects an independent history. It is evidently not intended to supersede the Books of Kings, for a knowledge of the history contained in those books is in several places presupposed¹, and many sections agree almost verbally with those of the Kings. Still, some narratives are peculiar to Chronicles. The most important of these are (i) certain songs at the bringing up of the ark by David (1 Chron. xvi.); (ii) the account of the organisation of the Temple ritual and the Levitical Order, as also many of the civil officers of Solomon's kingdom (1 Chron. xxiii-xxvii); (iii) various incidents in the history of the kings, in connexion with which the mission of certain prophets is introduced (see 2 Chron. xxiv, xxv); (iv) the account of the great Passover Feasts kept by Hezekiah and Josiah (2 Chron. xxix, xxx and xxxv). Some important matters, however, are omitted. The chief are (i) almost all incidents relating to the northern kingdom; (ii) in the history of the southern kingdom all record of the sinful acts and consequent misfortunes of David's reign, viz. the affairs of Uriah and Bath-sheba, Amnon, Absalom, Sheba, Adonijah; (iii) Solomon's judgment, administration, and sin; (iv) the matters connected with Hadad and Rezin.

1 The genitive plural after Liber understood.

2 See Girdlestone's Foundations of the Bible, pp. 56, 94.

EZRA.

1. EZRA (help), was the son of Seraiah, and was probably born at Babylon. He was a scribe (Ezra vii. 6), who went up to Jerusalem with the second body of returned captives. From the language he employs in viii. 1, it has been inferred that he was the author of the book which bears his name; others think that considerable portions of the book, and the following Book of Nehemiah, were derived from memoirs of those two eminent men, but do not consider that the books in their present shape were the works of these authors.

2. THE BOOK OF EZRA was anciently united with the Book of Nehemiah, and in the LXX the two books are called Second Esdras and Nehemiah. In the Vulgate they are called First and Second Esdras. The book is a continuation of the Chronicles. It is written partly in Hebrew, and partly in another dialect which some call Chaldee and others Aramaic or Syrian. The parts in Aramaic are chaps. iv. 8-vi. 18, and vii. 11-26. They are largely made up of letters and other public documents taken from the archives, and are probably quoted in the original language, instead of being translated, to mark their authenticity.

3. ANALYSIS. The book falls into two sections with a considerable interval between the two. (i) Part I (i-vi) gives an account of the return of the captives from Babylon at the beginning of the reign of Cyrus, B.C. 536, and the rebuilding of the Temple, interrupted by the Samaritans, but renewed at the preaching of Haggai and Zechariah, and accomplished in the sixth year of Darius, A.C. 516. (ii) Part II (vii-x), separated by half a century, gives an account of the second immigration of exiles in the reign of Artaxerxes Longimanus (B.C. 458, 457), which was led by Ezra himself, who carries out a reformation of the people, and forbids the intermarriage of the Jews with heathen wives. Thus the whole period covered by the book extends over seventy-nine years, from B.C. 536 to A.C. 457.

NEHEMIAH.

1. THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH was, as we have seen, anciently united with the Book of Ezra, and in the Vulgate it is called 2 Esdras. It is closely connected with the later chapters of Ezra, and carries on the history from about twelve years after the close of Ezra's book to the last jubilee, B.C. 445-413, covering a period of thirty-two years.

2. NEHEMIAH (the Lord comforts) was a Jew of the tribe of Judah (Neh. i. 2), and was acting as cupbearer to the King of Persia at Shushan, his winter residence, when he received intelligence of the deplorable condition of Jerusalem and of the residents in Judaea. Filled with sorrow he prays to God, and God opens the heart of Artaxerxes to give him a commission to rebuild the walls of his ancestral city. Zerubbabel had rebuilt the Temple, but not the city walls. These Nehemiah endeavoured to re-erect, and amidst the opposition of many enemies, within and without, he employs the whole body of the people of every rank and order, by night as well as by day, in carrying out the operation, and in fifty-two days accomplishes his work.

3. ANALYSIS. Thus the book is mainly an autobiography of Nehemiah. It falls into three main divisions. (i) Part I (i-vi) describes (a) his sorrow for his country while at the court of Persia, and his return (i, ii); and (b) his plans for rebuilding the walls amidst the opposition of many enemies (chaps. iii-vi). (ii) Part II (vii-xii) relates the arrangements made for the occupation of the city. The seventh chapter is an extract from Ezra ii, iii, apparently inserted in order to bring forward again the names of the original immigrants a century earlier, whose descendants were now brought into a new covenant with God at the Feast of Tabernacles, when the Law was solemnly read, the history of God's dealings with His people recounted, and the covenant solemnly sealed by the chiefs of the people. (iii) Part III (xiii) is an appendix. After holding the position of Governor or Satrap of Jerusalem for twelve years, Nehemiah returned to the court of Artaxerxes. During his absence the old abuses began to creep in, and being informed of this, he once more obtained leave of absence from the Persian court, and as Tirshatha was invested with renewed powers. He employed his time in diligently putting down abuses, introducing measures for the prevention of traffic on the Sabbath, denouncing mixed marriages, and carrying out a second reformation. After this he is thought to have returned to Persia about B.C. 413, and there died.

ESTHER.

1. ESTHER (star). This little book contains an episode in the history of those Israelites who did not return from the Captivity. It has always been esteemed as canonical both by Jews and by Christians. It is one of the few books of Scripture which does not contain the name of God or Jehovah, possibly because it was intended to be read in the Jewish houses during feasting, and it was considered more reverential to omit, under such circumstances, direct mention of the Divine Name.

2. THE DATE. The book opens in the third year of Ahasuerus, who is now generally understood to have been Xerxes, and who reigned B.C. 485-464. The feastings mentioned (i, ii) may have been the prelude to that monarch's expedition against Greece, which expedition was over in the seventh year (ii. 16).

3. THE NAME ESTHER is Persian. Her proper name was Hadassah (myrtle). Brought by her kinsman Mordecai, who chose to remain in Persia, she is selected in place of Vashti to become the favourite wife of the Persian despot, and Mordecai, sharing in her prosperity, is appointed one of those who "sat in the king's gate" (Esth. i. 21). In this capacity he discovers a plot of the eunuchs to assassinate the king. This he divulges, and the record of his services is entered in the royal chronicles. But he has a rival for the royal favour, Haman, an Agagite, a descendant of the ancient Amalekite kings. The new favourite, hating Mordecai, forms a plot for the wholesale destruction of the Jewish exiles (chap. iii). Mordecai discovering this informs Esther, and she, putting her life in her hands, intercedes with the king in behalf of her nation, and Haman is hanged on the very gallows he had designed for Mordecai, while the latter is advanced to high honour in the Persian court (chaps. vii, viii).

4. THE FEAST OF PURIM (lots) is still kept up amongst the Jews in ironical commemoration of their great enemy, who had resorted to the augury by lots to find a lucky day on which to slay the Jews (iii. 7). Preceded by a strict fast on the 13th of Adar, or March, the festival is celebrated with great rejoicings. The ¹ Thus in 2 Chron. xxi. 12-16 Elijah is spoken of in a way which assumes that the reader is acquainted with his history; and in 2 Chron. xxii. 7 a knowledge is presupposed of the sayings of Elijah and the acts of Elisha.

Book of Esther is recited in the synagogue, and when the reader comes to the name of Haman, the entire assembly shout in exclamation, and the conclusion of the service is followed by feasting and merriment.

5. THE AUTHOR OF THE BOOK is unknown, and it has been attributed to Ezra, who may have brought it with him from Babylon to Jerusalem. But most probably it was Mordecai, as no one else could possess such minute knowledge as is shown in the narrative of the names of Haman's family and that of Esther, as also the domestic details of the palace of Shushan. It was written in Hebrew, but the LXX version contains considerable additions to the narrative.

(iii) THE POETICAL BOOKS.

JOB.

1. THE POETICAL BOOKS, including Job to the Song of Solomon, were written at various times, some being of earlier, others of later date than the Historical Books. They are classed together partly because they are in Hebrew verse, but mainly because they formed the devotional books of the Jewish Church.

2. THE STORY OF JOB is told at the beginning and end of the book which bears his name. He appears on the scene as a wealthy God-fearing man, living in patriarchal style in the land of Uz, probably the N. E. of Arabia Deserta (i. 1). Suddenly he is prostrated by a succession of calamities, and is stripped of goods, of children, of health (i. 13-22). His friends visit him, but prove sorry comforters; in fact, they provoke him to outbursts of indignant self-justification (iv-xxvii). At length God speaks to him in vision, and puts a series of questions intended to illustrate the unfathomable wisdom and power of the Most High as compared with the littleness of man (xxxviii-xli). Thus Job is brought back to his true position of allegiance and humility. He acknowledges God's chastening hand and prays for his friends, who stand rebuked by God. Then the blessing of God is once more shed forth upon His servant, and the latter end of Job is more prosperous than the beginning (xli).

3. OPINIONS RESPECTING THE BOOK. The most varied opinions have been held respecting the book. The unanimous tradition of the ancient Jews ascribes the book to the Patriarchal age, and regards it as substantially based on historical incidents. Others, of a later date, have treated it as a parable or a philosophical fiction. Modern critics of different schools unite in the view that it is a theological discussion of very high merit, founded upon an historical basis, displaying the opinions of opposite schools on an unsettled question, (i) the connexion between human suffering and guilt, and (ii) whether there is any higher motive for religion than selfishness.

4. INTERNAL EVIDENCE. Opinions differ also as to the date of its composition. Some place it before the Mosaic Dispensation, others in the time of Solomon, and others in a period subsequent to the Babylonish Captivity. One of the most striking things about the book is that in all its forty-two chapters there is not a single reference to Israelitic history. There are references it is thought to Adam and the Fall (chap. xxi. 33), possibly to the Flood (chap. xxi. 16); but none to any subsequent event recorded in Scripture, unless we except chap. xx. 23, which has some resemblance to the punishment connected with the sending quails in the desert (comp. Ps. lxxviii. 30, 31). When we add to this the long life of Job (chap. xli. 16), the patriarchal customs and forms of worship which meet us, and the absence of all allusion to the Mosaic Law, we can hardly resist the inference that either (i) the book was written in early and patriarchal times, or (ii) that its author lived in some secluded region, where the historical records of God's people had not reached him.

5. MODERN RESEARCH has been deemed capable of throwing some light on the question. (i) The Assyrian tablets bear witness to astronomical knowledge in the cities of the Euphrates valley as far advanced as that displayed by the Book of Job, as early as B. C. 3000. (ii) Assyrian monuments prove that invasions of nomad tribes were by no means uncommon at as early a period. (iii) The animals and monsters, except the leviathan, used as illustrations by Job are precisely those found on Babylonian monuments, but were not for the most part familiar to the Jews of Palestine. Behemoth and leviathan, the hippopotamus and the crocodile, though both natives of Egypt, would be known to the inhabitants of Arabia Petraea, the mines of which were extensively worked by Egyptians 2000 years before the Exodus.

6. FURTHER CONSIDERATIONS. The names and customs also portrayed in the book point to the Patriarchal epoch, though not in its earliest stage, since many offices, formerly discharged by the children of the family, are here delegated to servants. The language approximates more closely to Arabic than that of any other Hebrew work, and is replete with Chaldaisms, which belong to an early, and not to a late, style of literature. The composition generally is archaic in grandeur and obscurity, and recalls the oldest portions of the Pentateuch, of the Psalms, of Proverbs, and the Song of Deborah. If we compare it with the poetical compositions of Moses (e.g. Ex. xv, Deut. xxxii), whole phrases will be found to be identical; and this is regarded by some as favouring the supposition that Moses either wrote the book, or, finding the original narrative, oral or written, during his forty years' residence in Midian, gave to it its present form, adding its introductory and concluding portions in prose. These portions bear a stronger resemblance to the Pentateuch than to any other writings; they belong to the same age and breathe the same spirit as the rest of the book, and only differ from it as prose differs from poetry. The great weight, however, of antiquity, favours the view which most modern critics are tolerably unanimous in allowing, viz. that the main portion, i.e. the poetical part of the book, with the exception of Elihu's speech, is the work of one author, though they differ about the prose portions.

7. THE AUTHORSHIP is very uncertain. Some would attribute the book to Moses, others to Job himself, who has been even identified with Jobab the Joktanite (Gen. x. 29); others suppose Solomon to have been the author; others, one of the later prophets; others, a resident in Southern Judaea, on the borders of the Idumean Desert, in the time of the monarchy anterior to Amos, by whom Job is presumably quoted.

8. CONCLUSION. On the whole, it is best to leave the matter as an unsettled question, and to study the book itself, which may be thus analysed: (i) The Introduction (i, ii) consists of a prose narrative of the cause and extent of Job's sufferings, and his patient endurance of them; (ii) The Colloquies between Job and his comforters, in poetry, the theme of which is the cause of human suffering. His friends affirm it to be sin, and exhort Job to repentance. He denies it, appeals to facts, and complains of the unkindness of his friends. This portion consists of three series: (a) Job's complaint (chap. iii), followed by the speeches of Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar, each being successively answered by Job (chaps. iv-xiv); (b) a further speech of each of these three, with Job's answer thereto (chaps. xv-xxi); (c) a speech of Eliphaz and Bildad with the answer to each (chaps. xxii-xxxi). (iii) The Argument of Elihu that sufferings are remedial and for the good of the one afflicted, followed by a reproof to Job for his self-justification, and a defence of God's government, with a magnificent description of His wonderful works in the world of Nature (chaps. xxxii-xxxvii). (iv) An address of the Almighty Himself out of the whirlwind, revealing His power and wisdom, concluding with Job's humble confession and penitence (xxxviii-xli. 6). (v) A prose Conclusion, narrating the end of Job's life in peace and prosperity (xli. 7-17). Job himself, it is to be remembered, is named by Ezekiel (Ezek. xiv. 14), as well as by St. James (James v. 11), as a real person, and is classed by them with other holy men.

THE PSALMS.

1. THE BOOK OF PSALMS occupies in the Hebrew Canon the first place in the third of the great divisions into which the Canonical Books were divided,—Laws, Prophets, Hagiographa. It is the product of the Jewish Church, but "in its spiritual fulness it belongs to no special time," and the old words are "fulfilled" in Christ. Its growth was gradual, and its composition extends over a thousand years of national life from Moses to Malachi, in which Hebrew history is set to music.

2. NAMES OF THE PSALTER. The title of the book in the Hebrew Bible is Sépher Tehillim, the Book of Praises, or simply Praises. The Septuagint translators use the word *ψαλμός*¹, psalm, to render the Hebrew word for a song with musical accompaniment; and the entire collection was entitled Psalms, Ψαλμοί (Luke xxiv, 44), or the Book of Psalms (Luke xx, 42). Later came the word Ψαλτήριον, Psalter, a Collection of Psalms, which has come down to us from the Greek through the Latin.

3. DIVISIONS OF THE PSALTER. The Psalter was from ancient times divided by the Jews into five books, answering to the Five Books of Moses. (i) Book I (Psalms i—xli) contains forty-one Psalms, of which all are described as "Psalms of David," with the exception of Psalms i and ii (which are introductory), x and xxxiii. (ii) Book II contains thirty-one Psalms (xlii—lxxii), of which eighteen are ascribed to David, seven to "the sons of Korah" (xlii, xlv—xlix), one (the 50th) to Asaph, one (the 72nd) to Solomon, and four are anonymous (xliii, lxvi, lxvii, lxxi). (iii) Book III consists of seventeen Psalms (lxxiii—lxxxix), of which eleven are attributed to Asaph (lxxiii—lxxxiii), three to "the sons of Korah" (lxxxiv, lxxxv, lxxxvii), one to David (lxxxvi), one to "Heman the Ezrahite" (lxxxviii), and one to "Ethan the Ezrahite" (lxxxix). (iv) Book IV consists of seventeen Psalms (xc—cvi), of which one is entitled "of Moses" (xc), two (ci, cii) "of David"; the rest are without title. (v) Book V contains forty-four Psalms (cvi—cl), of which cvii—cx, cxli, cxlv, cxxxi, cxxlii, cxxviii—cxlv, are entitled "of David," cxxvii "of Solomon." Of the rest the most have no title, or the general one "A Song of Ascents." Psalm cxix is divided into sections of eight verses. In the Hebrew every verse of each section begins with the letter of the alphabet inscribed over it, which is evidently intended to help the memory in reciting it, as the Psalm is supposed to have been sung on the homeward march of the Israelites from Captivity.

4. THE BIBLE VERSION OF THE PSALMS was made direct from the Hebrew in 1611. It is more accurate, but less melodious than the version in the Prayer Book. The latter is taken from Cranmer's Bible of 1539. It is pointed for chanting, and is admirably adapted for that purpose; but the rendering is not so close to the Hebrew, and has been very much influenced by the LXX through the Latin, and by Luther's version.

5. UNIVERSAL ADAPTATION OF THE PSALTER. "The Psalter has been through all the centuries, and will ever continue to be, the one unique and inexhaustible treasury of devotion for the individual and for the Church." The product of one, it is the property of two Dispensations, Jewish and Christian. There is no other Book of Praise so pregnant with expressions of the heart's deepest emotions under all the vicissitudes of life, or so adapted to all climes and ages as to be the universal medium of praise for all nations of the world. No country but such a "museum-country" as Palestine, varying as it does from the arid desert to the mountains capped with snow, could have furnished such a combination of subjects for poetical imagery; its vines and fruits; its valleys thick with corn and shining with lilies; its mountains, torrents, rivers, lakes; its wild and domestic animals, and its beasts of prey—all are pictured in the Psalms with a noble simplicity to which we find no parallel elsewhere.

¹ Ψαλμός denotes (1) the music of a stringed instrument; (2) a song sung to the accompaniment of such music.

"The Psalms are as living as when they were written. . . They were composed in an age at least as immature as that of the singers of the Vedā; but they are now what they have been for thirty centuries, the very life of spiritual religion—they suit the needs, they express, as nothing else can express, the deepest religious ideas of 'the foremost in the files of time'."

6. AGE AND AUTHORSHIP. When we speak of the Psalms of David, we use a popular and general form of expression. That the poet-king is to be regarded as the founder of the Psalter there can be no doubt, and that a considerable number of the Psalms are due to his authorship. The incorporation of Ps. xviii in 2 Sam. xxii, and its ascription to him is an important fact. In his time poetry and music attained a high development, and the varied experiences of his life imparted a depth of meaning to his words. But we have proof that the reigns of Jehoshaphat and Hezekiah gave a fresh impulse to the outpouring of expressions of devout thanksgiving (2 Kings xviii ff., 2 Chron. xx). Again, with the return from the Captivity fresh hymns would need to be composed for the services of the restored Temple; and we may believe that the study of the law under Ezra and Nehemiah further enriched the existing collection.² Whether any Psalms are to be referred to the Maccabean period is a question on which opinion is much divided, and it is best to regard David as the Founder of the Psalter, and to look for additions to the collection in the periods indicated above.

7. HEADINGS. The Latin headings, which are prefixed to the Psalms in the Prayer Book, are the first few words of the particular Psalm in the Vulgate and are a survival and reminder of the time when the Psalms were "said" or "sung" in Latin. They are only valuable for purposes of designation. The Hebrew titles and inscriptions, as they are translated in our version, are very obscure, and their meanings sometimes can only be matters of conjecture. As they are translated in the Authorised Version, they indicate a traditional belief as to (i) the style or character of the Psalm, or (ii) its musical setting, or (iii) its liturgical use, or (iv) its authorship, or (v) the occasion of its composition.

(i) The Style or Character of the Psalms:—

1. Mizmor, rendered "Psalm," is prefixed to fifty-seven Psalms, and is generally preceded or followed by the name of the author. (See Ps. xlviii.) It denotes a Psalm accompanied with instrumental music.
2. Shir, a song, sometimes preceded and sometimes followed by Mizmor, is the general term for a song or canticle. It occurs thirty times in the titles.
3. Maschil, prefixed to thirteen Psalms, denotes either (1) an instruction, or a poem of a didactic nature (see titles of Pss. xxxviii and lxx); or (2) a skilful Psalm (see the R.V. of Ps. xlvii, 7).
4. Michtam occurs in the title of six Psalms (Pss. xvi, lvi—lx). It is thought to be a musical term, but the meaning is very obscure. Some would explain it as meaning "engraved in gold," "a golden Psalm," with reference to the value and popularity of the Psalm as an outpouring of thankfulness; others understand it to mean a poem of epigrammatic character.
5. Shiggaion (Ps. vii), "wandering," "erratic," seems to denote a poem in wild irregular rhythm.
6. The expression "A Prayer" stands as the title of five Psalms (Pss. xvi, lxxvi, xc, cii, cxlii).

(ii) Musical Setting, or accompanying instruments:—

1. Neginoth, R.V. "on stringed instruments," occurs six times (Pss. iv, vi, liv, lv, lxxvi, lxxvii).

2. Nehilōth, R.V. with the Nehiloth, or (marg.) "wind instruments," probably flutes. It occurs in Ps. v only.
3. Ālāmōth, R.V. set to Alamoth, Ps. xlv, denotes "for maidens' voices, soprano."
4. Shemīnūth, R.V. set to the Shemīnūth, i.e. in marg. "the eighth" (Pss. vi and xii), or the lower octave, for bass voices.
5. Gittith, R.V. set to the Gittith (Pss. viii, lxxxi, lxxxiv), may denote some Gittite instrument, or a Gittite tune, brought by David from Gath.
6. To Jeduthun, R.V. after the manner of Jeduthun (Pss. xxxix, lxii, lxxvii), probably denotes that the Psalm was set to some melody called after or composed by David's chief musician (1 Chron. xvi. 41).
7. Certain titles seem to indicate the melody to which the Psalm was to be sung, as Ps. xxii, set to Aijeleth hash-Shahar, i.e. "the hind of the morning;" Ps. xlv, lxix, lxxx, set to Shoshannim, R.V. "the tune of the lilies;" Ps. lvi, Jonath-elem-Rechokim, "the silent dove of them that are far off;" Ps. lvii—lix, lxxv, set to Al-tashecheth—"Do not destroy;" Ps. ix, set to Muth-labben, R.V.—"Die for the son" (?).

8. For the Chief Musician is prefixed to fifty-five Psalms of which most bear the name of David. It seems to denote the destination of the Psalm for the precentor or conductor of the choir in the Temple services.

9. Selah is not a title, but a musical expression, which occurs seventy-one times in the Psalter, is rendered by the LXX διαψαλμα (diapsalma), and is supposed to have been an instruction to the orchestra to strike up either with a louder note, or while the singing ceased with a softer accompaniment.

(iii) Liturgical Use:—

In the Second Temple each day had its special Psalm, and so Ps. iii is a morning Psalm, Ps. iv an evening Psalm, Ps. xcii is entitled A Psalm or Song for the Sabbath Day, and in the LXX Pss. xxiv, xviii, lxxii, xlv, lxxxi (?), ciii are assigned to the first and following days of the week respectively. Pss. xxxviii and lxx are entitled to bring to remembrance, or R.V. marg. "to make memorial." This may indicate that they were sung at the offering of incense. Ps. c, entitled A Psalm of Thanksgiving, R.V. marg. "for the thank-offering," may have been sung at the oblation of thank-offerings.

Fifteen Psalms, cxx—cxxxiv, bear the title of Songs of Degrees, or Songs of Goings up, Ascents. There is much difference of opinion as to the meaning of this title. It seems most probable that they were either (i) the songs sung by the Jewish exiles on their return from Babylon (Ezra vii. 9), or (ii) those sung by the Jewish pilgrims on their journeys up to the Holy City to keep the annual feasts (Ps. xlii. 4; Is. xxx. 29).

(iv) Authorship:—

(a) One Psalm (xc) is ascribed to Moses; (b) seventy-three bear the name of David; (c) two—lxxii, cxxvii—are inscribed for Solomon; (d) twelve (l, lxxlii—lxxxii) bear the name of Asaph, one of David's chief musicians (1 Chron. vi. 39); (e) one Psalm is attributed to each of the sages, Heman the Ezrahite and Ethan the Ezrahite (lxxxviii, lxxxix); (f) eleven are attributed to the sons of Korah, see Ps. xlii, xlv—xlix, lxxxiv, lxxxv, lxxxvii, lxxxviii.

(v) Occasion of Composition:—

Titles describing this are prefixed to thirteen Psalms, all bearing the name of David. (a) Pss. vii, xxxiv, lli, liv, lvi, lvii, lix, cxlii, refer to the time of his persecution by Saul; (b) xviii to the day of his deliverance from the hands of all his enemies; (c) lx to Joab's victory over Edom in "the valley of Salt;" (d) li to David's sin with Bath-sheba; (e) iii and lxiii to his flight from Absalom.

Respecting these titles it has been observed that, (a) the musical titles may be referred to the period before the exile; (b) the liturgical titles to the service of the Second Temple; and (c) that the titles relating to authorship and occasion are not to be peremptorily condemned as a whole, that "sober criticism will allow them a certain weight, as giving, in general at least, some information as to the source from which the Psalms were derived, which is not to be rejected without good reason."

8. THE IMPRECATORY PSALMS constitute one of the "moral difficulties" of the Old Testament. They are the 7th, 35th, 69th, and the 109th. They startle us because they are not merely prophetic of the downfall of the sinner, but express a real desire, a passionate prayer, that God's vengeance may take its course and that good may triumph over evil. The writers regard sins against God as personal injuries, and sometimes they regard mischief wrought undeservedly against themselves as wrought against the Most High. In forming an opinion respecting them we must bear in mind (i) that there is a marked difference between the Old and New Testament as regards the reception of injuries and the treatment of enemies. Our Lord distinctly declared that the old Dispensation, based upon the rule of retaliation, was inferior to the new, which is animated by the principle of love (Matt. v. 43, 44); that actions were allowable under that Dispensation which could not be permitted to His followers. (ii) It is important to observe that these imprecations are not to be regarded as the expressions of vindictive hatred against mere personal enemies, or as a mere personal thirst for revenge. They are directed against those who, by wicked words of falsehood, and acts of injustice and cruelty, had made themselves the enemies of God; and they express a desire for the realisation of the Divine government of the world by the active intervention of Him to whom "vengeance belongeth" (Ps. xciv. 1-4). (iii) They are to be regarded in the light of prayers to God that He will vindicate Himself against those who have outraged His attributes of justice, mercy, and truth; and they are put up by those who had a keen sense of the great conflict going on between good and evil, between Israel and the enemies of Israel, who were the enemies of Israel's God (cf. Judg. v. 31). (iv) These utterances belong to an age which, as Professor Mozley has pointed out¹, had but an imperfect conception of the rights of the individual. They belong to the Old Testament and not to the New; and it is to be remembered that even He, who came to expand what was rudimentary and imperfect in the Law, could utter terrible denunciations against hardened and impenitent sinners (cf. Matt. xxiii. 37-39).

9. THE MESSIANIC PSALMS. David was virtually the founder of the Jewish monarchy. But as king he was no absolute despot ruling in his own right. He was the "Anointed of Jehovah," His viceroys and representative (Ps. li. 6), administering His laws, and sitting upon the throne of His kingdom (1 Chron. xxviii. 5; xxix. 23). Hence he could not merely realise to his people an actual present regal grandeur, but he could shadow forth the royal dignity of a still greater King, who should rule over a world-wide empire. The mournful close of Solomon's reign and of other kings that came after, proved that they did not fulfil the ideal which the poet-king had before his eyes. But the nation, who were emphatically "the people of the future," persisted in hoping that the Divine promise of a Perfect King would be fulfilled. The Royal Psalms (li, xviii, xx, xlv, lxi, lxxii, cx) depict in glowing colours the features of this future Ruler of the Davidic line.

³ Mozley's Lectures on the Old Testament, pp. 87 sq.

But His triumph would be like no human triumph. It would be won through suffering and death. Hence men's minds had to be prepared not only for a triumphant but a suffering King, and the Spirit of God made use of the varied experiences of the son of Jesse, the sudden vicissitudes through which he passed from obscurity to royal place, from royal place to persecution, to shadow forth the mysterious sufferings of the Coming King. Hence we have not merely Royal but Passion Psalms (xxii, lxi, cix, xxxv, xli, lv). If in the 45th Psalm, directly quoted as Messianic in Heb. i. 8, 9, we have allusions to a King "fairer than the children of men," "anointed with the oil of gladness above His fellows," whose "throne is for ever and ever;" if the 110th Psalm sets before us distinctly a Person, combining, as no sovereign of Judah ever dreamt of combining, the priesthood of Melchizedek with the royalty of David, "ruling out of Zion in the midst of his enemies," and seated as Adonai at the right hand of Jehovah¹; yet we have in the 22nd Psalm a marvellous anticipation of One, for whom suffering shall be the path to victory. If the Psalm be read with the character and position of David only before the mind's eye, it is impossible to interpret it literally. If it be read with Christ present to the mind, all difficulty disappears. There is such a minute and exact correspondence between the words of the Psalm and the sufferings of Christ, that it is impossible to believe but that the one pointed on to the other, and that when the Crucified King used the words of the Psalm in His last agony (Matt. xxvii, 46), He was using words which He knew were applicable to and could only be fulfilled in Himself. Thus the Psalm is charged with a deeper meaning than that which appears upon the surface. The character of the personal suffering there described was "providentially moulded to be a type, and the record of it by the Holy Spirit to be a prophecy, of the sufferings of Christ."

THE PROVERBS.

1. TITLE. The Book of Proverbs is entitled in Prov. i. 1, "The proverbs of Solomon the son of David, king of Israel." The Hebrew word Mishle signifies a representation or similitude. In the LXX the title is Παροιμίαι Σολομώντος, and in the Vulgate Proverbia Salomonis, whence comes our English title.

2. DESIGN. The book is a manual of practical rules for daily life, as the Psalms are a manual of daily devotion, the former guiding the actions, the latter the thoughts. It is a book of daily lessons for all ages and states of men and women. In it "wisdom" is religion, and "folly" is irreligion.

3. CONTENTS. The book may be divided as follows:—(i) A preface setting forth the general character of the contents (i. 1-6). (ii) Several introductory discourses treating of the characteristics and value of wisdom (i. 7-ix). (iii) A collection of proverbs of Solomon strictly so called (x-xxii). (iv) A second introduction on the study of wisdom (xxiii. 17-xxiv). (v) A second volume of proverbs of Solomon, but collected by those who were sent by Hezekiah to restore the Temple worship (2 Chron. xxx), amongst whom were Isaiah and Hosea (xxv-xxix). (vi) An appendix containing the instructions of "Agur the son of Jakeh" to his pupils Ithiel and Ucal (xxx), and the words of King Lemuel (xxxi. 1-9). (vii) The last chapter also includes a poem of great beauty in praise of a virtuous wife (xxxii. 10-31); this last is an acrostic, and follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet.

4. AUTHORSHIP. As the Psalms go by the name of David because he was deemed the author of many of them, so the Proverbs are called after Solomon for a similar reason. It is generally allowed that the section (x-xxii. 16) is the work of Solomon, being either composed by him or selected out of the large number of 3,000 proverbs referred to in 1 Kings iv. 32. The other portions, it is thought, were collected and added to the rest in the time of Hezekiah, while the original title was preserved for the whole of the compilation, just as was done for the Psalms.

5. THE DATE of this final arrangement is referred, we have said, to the time of Hezekiah, but it is at best uncertain. Modern critics are divided in their opinion whether the first part of the book (i-ix) belongs to the seventh or the ninth century B.C. and the arguments on either side are inconclusive. Many passages in the Book of Job are thought to bear such striking resemblance to the Proverbs as to leave no doubt that the writer of the one book was familiar with the other.

ECCLESIASTES.

1. TITLE. The title of this book is taken from the LXX, and answers to the Hebrew Kohheleth, which the Authorised Version renders "Preacher," but the Revised Version (margin) the "Great Orator." The idea conveyed by the Hebrew is that of a person calling together an assembly of people with the intention of addressing them, an action applied to Wisdom personified (Prov. i. 20; viii. 1, &c.). The Canonicity of the book is acknowledged by Jews and early Christian writers; but the former did not rank it amongst the Poetical Books, the major part of it being prose.

2. AUTHOR. The book was formerly supposed to have been written by Solomon at the close of his life, after his fall (1 Kings xi. 1-13), and to contain the expression of his penitence for his worldliness and backsliding, when his heathen wives had turned away his heart from following God. It is a narrative of the attempts of a worldling in various ways to find happiness. He has fits of study, of pleasure, of sensuality, of refinement, of luxury, of misanthropy, of construction, of mechanical skill, of book-making. All are unsatisfying, and leave a void; the conclusion being that all is an empty pleasure but the fear of God, and that subservience to Him is the only perfect freedom.

3. OBJECTIONS. That the book fairly expresses the reflections of such a monarch as Solomon is very probable, but some refuse to ascribe it to his age or his authorship. They notice the intermixture of Hebrew with Aramaean words as indicating a style quite different from that of Proverbs and the Song of Songs, and consider that the subject-matter of the book—the expression of misery under a tyrannical government, the sudden vicissitudes of fortune alluded to, the tone of despondency, the moral and religious declension, and the condition of literature—all seem to point to a state of things more like that subsequent to the return from the Captivity than the golden age of Solomon. The attempts to fix its date have, so far, manifested very little unanimity.

4. ANALYSIS. The book presents the following divisions:—Part I (i, ii). The writer's statement of his subject, and an account of his personal experience of the vanity of earthly enjoyments. Part II (iii, iv). The conflict of the will of God with man's will. Part III (v—x). Personal practical advice intermingled with reflections, maxims, and exhortations connected with the vanity of riches and the superiority of wisdom. Part IV (xi, xii). Concluding exhortations to charity, industry, and the fear of God as the only true alleviation of the vanity of the present life.

THE SONG OF SONGS.

1. TITLE. This poem is called in the Hebrew Idiom The Song of Songs, or the best of them all, and is said to be the only remaining one of the 1,005 songs composed by Solomon (1 Kings iv. 32). The old popular title "Canticæ," "Canticles," is incorrect. It is not a collection of poems, but a single poem.

2. THE CANONICITY OF THE SONG, if not wholly unchallenged, has been abundantly attested by primitive witnesses, and there is no room for doubt that it was regarded as an integral portion of the Hebrew Canon before the commencement of the Christian era, though, among the Jews, no one under thirty years of age was allowed to read it.

3. TWO CHARACTERS are prominent in it,—a male, Shelomoh (Peaceable), and a female, called by the same name, but with a feminine termination, Shulamith, the feminine form of the name Solomon. The parts of these two principal characters are not distinguished in our Authorised Version, as they are in the Hebrew text, which marks not only the number but also the gender of the person addressed, so that it becomes possible to know whether the speaker is Bride or Bridegroom. The Revised Version has made some attempt to exhibit the changes in the speaker. The song consists entirely of dialogue or monologue, and the writer nowhere speaks in his own person.

4. VARIOUS OPINIONS have been held concerning it:—(i) It has been thought to have been a Marriage Ode composed by Solomon at his nuptials with the daughter of Pharaoh, or with some native of Palestine (espoused some years later), of noble extraction, but inferior to her husband (ii. 1-6; vii. 1); and its language is held to be figurative of the union between Christ and His Spouse, the Church. (ii) Others, from the mention of Tirzah and Jerusalem (vi. 4) as seemingly rival cities—one standing for the Ten Tribes and the other for the Two—have thought that the Song may have been intended to draw the tribes back to their primitive unity, whether in the age of Rehoboam or at some later time. The mention of the "threescore valiant men of Israel," expert in war, coming out of the wilderness (iii. 6-8); and of "the company of two armies," with the appeal to the Shulamith to return (vi. 10, 13); all seem to point to the conclusion of hostilities recorded in 1 Kings xii. 23, 24, or after the chastisement of Jeroboam by Abijah (2 Chron. xiii). According to this view, Shelomoh would seem to be a personification of "Salem" (Jerusalem), and this ode would thus portray the yearning of the bereaved Israelite Church towards the holy temple on Mount Zion, after the separation of the Ten Tribes. This more fully typifies the love between the Church and Christ than an "Epithalamium" on the marriage of Solomon with a heathen princess; while the terms of endearment lose all their grossness when applied to two nations with their distinctive physical features,—a view which the constant transition in the original Hebrew from the singular to the plural, or collective, pronouns strengthens.

(iv) THE PROPHETICAL BOOKS.

At the commencement of the eighth century B.C. the development of prophecy exhibited a new phase. The prophetic spirit, which received a new impulse through Samuel, became yet more active during the later period of Jewish history. We have in succession sixteen prophets, whose writings remain, in addition to the large number who appeared from time to time in Israel and Judah, like Elijah and Elisha, without leaving any permanent records of their teaching. The writings of the Prophets, which have come down to us, are arranged in the two divisions of the greater, and the minor Prophets. Chronologically, they may be grouped as follows:—(i) Those before the Babylonian Captivity: Jonah, Joel, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah. (ii) Those near to and during the Captivity: Nahum, Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Jeremiah, Daniel, Obadiah, Ezekiel. (iii) Those after the return from the Captivity: Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi. The arrangement of the books in our Bible is ruled chiefly by the matter; the four greater Prophets being placed first, without regard to the date of their composition.

ISAIAH.

1. ISAIAH (salvation of Jehovah), the son of Amoz, was born in the reign of Uzziah, and was called to prophesy in the fifty-second year of that king's reign (B.C. 750), and continued his work up to the last year of Hezekiah (B.C. 695), a period of about fifty-five years. Of his personal history we know next to nothing. His wife appears as "the prophetess" (viii. 3), and his sons' names bear witness to his prophetic announcements (vii. 3; viii. 3). He held the same position with regard to the kings of his time (Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah) that Elijah and Elisha had done in reference to the contemporary kings of Israel. From 2 Chron. xxvi. 22; xxxii. 32, we learn that he also wrote the history of Uzziah and Hezekiah. A tradition, which found acceptance in early times, represented that he was sawn asunder in the early days of Manasseh.

2. THE EPOCH in which he prophesied was critical. The state of the elect nation is painted in sombre colours alike by the contemporary prophets, Amos, Hosea, and Micah, and by Isaiah himself. Luxury, oppression, idolatry, immorality, vain confidence in man, lack of confidence in God, together with the perfunctory attendance on the ceremonial of religious worship, were the characteristics alike of Israel and Judah. Outside the Holy Land, Assyria was at this time at its height; the old Babylonian power was beginning to reassert itself; Syria was approaching its end; Egypt was exalted, but ready to fall; Tyre and Sidon were at the head of commercial enterprise; Moab, Ammon, Philistia, and Edom—Israel's dangerous enemies all through its history—were nearing their time of desolation. The destinies of all these kingdoms are touched upon by Isaiah, as by so many other prophets; but the people of Israel—the Ten Tribes and the Two—are foremost in his thoughts, whilst behind all he sees that God is preparing the way for interventions on behalf not only of Israel but of many nations.

3. THE TERM EVANGELICAL PROPHET has been specially applied to Isaiah, for his book is full of good news for all nations, and sets forth God in His greatness and goodness as mighty to save, and as showing

His righteousness in deeds of grace and mercy. But he also foresees beyond the revolutions of kingdoms and the fall of empires the advent of a saviour, whose work should eclipse all such national deliverances as the Exodus, and the downfall of the host of Sennacherib; and in whose appearance and work he perceives that the highest spiritual interests, alike of Israelite and Gentile, were bound up.

4. MANY MODERN CRITICS hold that Isaiah cannot have written the last twenty-seven chapters of the book, and that these chapters are due to a later prophet, perhaps also named Isaiah, who wrote towards the close of the Babylonian Captivity. This is supported partly by an alleged difference of style in these later chapters as compared with the early portions, and still more by the fact that the prophet describes the restoration from the Captivity as if it were already accomplished, mentions Cyrus by name 200 years before his birth (xlv. 23), and sketches out the career of the Messiah. But it is difficult to imagine that such a writing in such an age could have been issued anonymously, and it must be borne in mind that the integrity of the entire book has been universally admitted by all Jewish and Christian tradition of former centuries. Moreover, forty-seven of the sixty-six chapters are quoted, directly or indirectly, in the New Testament; and while our Lord twice cites Isaiah by name (Matt. xii. 14; xv. 7)¹, He refers to His sufferings (Luke xxii. 37) in terms which bring to the memory the express words of the great Messianic prophecies in the latter portion of the book (liii. 4-12).

5. SUMMARY. The book may be broadly divided into two parts.—The former embraces chaps. i—xxxix; the second chaps. xl—lvi. The first half mainly consists of prophecies relating to the Jewish nation and arising out of circumstances which took place in the reigns of Ahaz and Hezekiah. The second half embraces a forecast of the whole period between the Captivity and the Advent of the Messiah.

(a) Part I. Here (a) in i—vi the prophet denounces the sins of Israel as the cause of past and future judgments. (b) In vii—xii, called “the book of Immanuel,” he encourages Ahaz to look to God as his Saviour from the Assyrian armies. (c) In xiii—xxiii he prophesies against Babylon, Philistia, Moab, Syria, Egypt, Arabia and Tyre. (d) In xxiv—xxxv he gives a vivid description of the final overthrow of opposing power. (e) In xxxvi—xxxix we have an historical section, differing but slightly from 2 Kings xviii—xx. Isaiah appears as an adviser of Hezekiah in negotiations with the King of Assyria, and the section closes with the terrible announcement of the Babylonian Captivity.

(b) Part II. Here (a) in xl—xlviii he sets forth the attributes of God in contrast with the folly of idolatry, and declares that He who raised up Abraham, can also raise up Cyrus to be His servant, and the deliverer of His people from captivity. (b) In xlix—lvi he sketches the Righteous Servant of Jehovah, who as a representative of Israel shall be the means of restoring the people, and by suffering and self-sacrifice give light to the distant nations, who shall enjoy the fulfilment of the sure promises made to David. (c) In lix—lvi he declares that as Israel’s sin brought misery, so Israel’s contrition shall bring vindication and enlargement, and the Anointed Servant of Jehovah shall carry out His whole Mission, and before Him the adversaries shall perish, idolatry be rooted out, and a new heaven and a new earth be created.

JEREMIAH.

1. JEREMIAH (exalted by Jehovah) was the son of Hilkiah and a priest of the priestly city of Anathoth, three miles north of Jerusalem. He was called to prophesy when but a youth, in the thirteenth year of King Josiah (c. 628), and he continued to prophesy in Jerusalem and the other cities of Judah for forty years, until the final capture of the city (B.C. 588). After this event a remnant gathered round him at Mizpah with Gedaliah, the governor of the land, and he warned them in vain against going down into Egypt. But he was carried off thither by his countrymen (xliii. 6 ff.), and after a last protest against their idolatry was, according to a late tradition, stoned to death at Tabpanhes.

2. HIS PROPHECIES are not arranged in chronological order, but seem to have been re-arranged according to their subjects, viz.: (1) Warnings to the Jews; (2) Survey of all nations, with an historical appendix; (3) Prediction of brighter days to come, with a similar appendix; (4) Prophecies regarding Egypt. The concluding chapter (lii) is supposed to have been compiled from the later portions of 2 Kings, and may have been added by Ezra. Jeremiah was contemporary with Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Ezekiel, and Daniel. He foretold the precise date of the Captivity, the fate of Zedekiah, the return of the Jews, the future decay of Babylon, and the fall of many other nations. He is said to have buried the ark; and he predicted the abrogation of the Law, the inauguration of a spiritual worship, the blessing of the Atonement, the call of the Gentiles through the Gospel, and the final acceptance of the Jews.

3. CHARACTER AND STYLE OF THE BOOK. No prophet reveals to us the inmost recesses of his mind more than Jeremiah. Naturally of a shy and timid disposition, subject to despondency and sadness (xv. 10; xx. 7), he was called to a work requiring undaunted resolution and rare courage. Belonging to the orders both of priest and prophet, he was compelled to witness against each, when these offices had sunk into the lowest state of degradation. From the first moment of his call he was “alone amidst a hostile world,” but devoted to his duty he maintained his work to the end; and the promise that he should be a “brazen wall” made at the time of his call, and renewed later (i. 8; xv. 20), never failed him. His style reflects the sadness of his mission. He lays aside all unnecessary ornament, and in the simplest form of words expresses the painful imagery which ever interprets his thoughts. The book varies between prose and poetry, and contains history mingled with prophecy. The course of his prophetic utterances is often broken by a sudden outburst of prayer or complaint, and the bitter opposition of his enemies wrings from him occasionally words of indignation and cries for vengeance. He incorporates language from the Pentateuch, the historical books, the Psalms, Isaiah, and several of the minor prophets, and probably wrote some of the Psalms which he quotes.

4. SUMMARY. Bunsen and Ewald consider that the prophecies seem to be most naturally grouped together by the recurrence of the formula, “The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah,” as follows: 1. An introduction, probably prefixed to the whole at the final revision (chap. i). 2. Probably the roll written by Baruch (xxxvi. 32), after the roll read in the ears of Jehoiakim had been burnt by him (ii—xi). 3. Shorter prophecies delivered against the kings of Judah and false prophets (xii—xxv). 4. Two great prophecies of the fall of Jerusalem (xxv—xxviii). 5. The message of comfort for the exiles in Babylon (xxix—xxxii). 6. The history of the last two years before the capture of Jerusalem, and of Jeremiah’s work during that and the subsequent period (xxxiii—xlv). 7. The prophecies against foreign nations, ending with the great predictions against Babylon (xlv—li). 8. The supplementary narrative, which is also a preface to the Lamentations (lii).

LAMENTATIONS.

1. TITLE. The name “Lamentations” corresponds to that under which this book appears in the Latin Vulgate, and which is a translation of the Septuagint Threnoi, and is itself a rendering of the Hebrew word Kinôth, the title of David’s funeral song over Saul and Jonathan. The book is placed by the Jews in the last division of their Scriptures (Luke xxiv. 44), and thus ranks among the poetical books of the Canon.

2. AUTHORSHIP. That the book is the work of the Prophet Jeremiah has been the universal belief, first of the Jewish and then of the Christian Church from the earliest times. The earliest extant translation, the Septuagint, ascribes it to him directly in a note prefixed to the first chapter: "And it came to pass after Israel was taken captive and Jerusalem made desolate, Jeremiah sat weeping, and lamented with this lamentation over Jerusalem, and said." This assertion is repeated in the Latin Vulgate. That the book could not have been written long after the capture of the city by Nebuchadnezzar is clear from the graphic manner in which the horrors of the siege are described.

3. PURPOSE OF THE BOOK. The subject of the book is without doubt the story of the capture of the city and the destruction of its temple. With pathetic tenderness, and without any trace of that exaltation in which as a prophet of evil he might have been expected to indulge, Jeremiah bewails the event and the miseries of slavery and famine which it entailed, and thus from an historical point of view it forms a supplement to his prophecies.

4. ANALYSIS. The book is not a single poem, but a series of five dirges over the downfall of the Jewish capital. The twenty-two verses of chap. i, ii, iv begin with the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet; and the sixty-six verses of chap. iii are arranged in groups of threes (see Revised Version), the first group beginning with a (N), the second with b (Z), and so on. The fifth chapter, though consisting of twenty-two verses, has no alphabetical arrangement. Chap. i dwells on the desolation and grief of the city; ii describes her destruction, and acknowledges that it is the result of sin; iii complains of the bitter cup which God's people have to drink, but traces a Merciful Hand in the infliction of their miseries; iv describes the horrors of the siege and capture of the city; v repeats many of the painful details, and concludes with a prayer for deliverance. It is to be noticed that chap. iii. 45 is applied by St. Paul (1 Cor. iv. 13) to the despised condition of himself and his fellow Apostles.

EZEKIEL.

1. EZEKIEL (God strengthens me) was the son of Buzi, and of priestly descent. He was carried away with King Jehoiachin at the time of Nebuchadnezzar's second attack on Jerusalem (B.C. 599), and was settled with a Jewish colony on the banks of the Chebar (Khabûr), about 200 miles north of Babylon, where he saw visions. He continued to prophesy for twenty-two years, beginning five years after the Captivity.

2. CANONICITY OF HIS PROPHECY. The great obscurity of the book, owing to its allegorical form, and the apparent discrepancy between it and the Pentateuch (cp. xviii. 20 and Ex. xx. 5), led the Jews to place it among "the Treasures," which no one might read before the age of thirty; and, for the same reason, the Sanhedrin hesitated to give it a place among the canonical books of the prophets for public reading in the synagogue. But on no other ground has its canonicity been disputed, nor has its genuineness been seriously impugned.

3. STYLE. Though the prophecies of Ezekiel go over much the same ground as Jeremiah, yet they have each their distinct characteristics. Those of Ezekiel consist largely either of visions or illustrations, some of which are worked out into parables. They are often taken from buildings and their ornaments, showing the writer to have been more familiar with a city than with rural life. Such are those from "the wall covered with distemper" (xiii. 10, 11); "the seething pot" (xxiv. 3-13); "the cedar" (xxxl. 3-9); "the shepherds" (xxxiv. 2-6). Large portions of the book are prose, but some chapters are highly poetical, and contain fine instances of "the refrain," such as may be found in the seventh and thirty-second chapters. A good many of the chapters are dated, and the very day of the month is usually mentioned, and the years reckoned from Jehoiachin's captivity.

4. RESEMBLANCE TO JEREMIAH. Hebrew tradition asserts that Jeremiah and Ezekiel exchanged writings in their lifetime, so that those of the former were read in Babylon, and those of the latter in Jerusalem. There are many similarities in the two books which favour the supposition, and as the character of the two writers is so different, a mutual interchange of thoughts is supposed to account for the resemblance in their writings. The prophet mentions Daniel by name (xxviii. 1), and being in exile together, they were probably well known to each other.

5. SUMMARY. The book may be thus divided: (a) Part I contains those prophecies which were uttered before the destruction of Jerusalem to disabuse the people of all false hope of succour from Egypt, and exhorting them to sincere repentance in the prospect of certain judgment. It comprises Ezekiel's call; the general carrying out of his commission; the rejection of the people on account of their idolatry; the sins of the age in detail; the nature of the judgment and the guilt which caused it (i-xxiv.). (b) Part II denounces God's judgments on the seven heathen nations around, Ammon, Moab, Edom, Philistia, Tyre, Zidon, Egypt (xxv-xxxii.). This was written between the commencement of Nebuchadnezzar's siege of Jerusalem and the news of its fall. (c) Part III is full of consolation, and rouses hope of a future restoration of the people on their true repentance, now that the destruction of Jerusalem is complete, and describes the final glory of God's people in a renovated land, with a vision of the restored temple, city, and country (xxxiii-xlviii.). There are no direct quotations from the book in the New Testament.

DANIEL.

1. DANIEL (God is my Judge) is mentioned by his contemporary Ezekiel, in company with Noah and Job, as one whose righteousness might be pleaded in behalf of the people (xiv. 14-20), and as one of notable wisdom (xxviii. 3). Of princely lineage, he was carried away when a boy to Babylon in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, King of Judah, at the time of Nebuchadnezzar's first attack upon Jerusalem, B.C. 606. In B.C. 603 he interpreted that monarch's dream, and rose into fame. Subsequently he interpreted the king's second dream; acted as viceroy during the seven years of his madness; expounded to Belshazzar the writing on the wall; and escaping the danger of the den of lions, in the age of Darius, was set over the kingdom when Babylon fell into the hands of Cyrus. He died in exile when more than ninety years of age.

2. THE BOOK OF DANIEL is not put among the prophets in the Hebrew Bible, but is associated with Ezra, Nehemiah, and the Chronicles. It is partly historical and partly prophetic, and may be divided into two portions of six chapters each. The historical part (ii. 4-vii. 28) is in the Aramaean language, sometimes called Chaldee, and represents the language spoken by the Jews during the Babylonian Captivity. The prophetic portion is in Hebrew. In the historical portion Daniel is spoken of in the third person, in the prophetic in the first, but he is believed to have been the author of both portions. Our Lord speaks of him as a prophet (Matt. xxiv. 15). An allusion is made to him in Heb. xi. 33, 34, and the book lies at the base of several of the prophecies of the New Testament, especially of the Revelation of St. John, which is the counterpart of his prophecy in the Old Testament.

3. AUTHORSHIP. No doubt was expressed as to the authorship of Daniel, or as to the reality of the events narrated in the book, until the fourth century A.D., when Porphyry, a celebrated opponent of the Christian faith, denied its authenticity. A considerable number of modern critics have rejected the whole book as spurious, on the ground that the earlier chapters record miracles surpassing belief, and that the prophetic portion represents historic events in such minute detail as to preclude the possibility of its being written before these events. They would assign the composition of the book to the period between B.C. 170 and 164. These objections are founded on a disbelief in miraculous power and in prophetic inspiration altogether. But if miracles ever were necessary, it was when the people of Jehovah were captives in Babylon, and the victory over Israel was looked upon as a victory over Jehovah Himself.

4. MODERN DISCOVERIES. If it could be shown that the history cannot be depended on, or that the language is not of Daniel's date, the case would be different. But recent discoveries do not support this view. Formerly the name of Belshazzar was unknown except in the pages of this book, and consequently he was supposed to be unhistorical. But of late his name has been recovered from the Babylonian inscriptions, and he is known to have been the son of Nabonidus, the last native king of Babylon, and under the name of Belshar-usur was admitted by him to a share in the government. The names again of the musical instruments mentioned in the second chapter have caused perplexity, as some of them are Greek. But it is now known that there was free intercourse between Western and Eastern Asia in those times, and there is no reason why Lydian instruments with Greek names should not have been used in the court of Nebuchadnezzar. The Persian words, again, which occur in the book support the view of the early date, for such words would not have been used in the Greek period.

5. IMPROBABILITY OF IMPOSITION. It is scarcely possible to believe that an impostor would have written what professed to be one continuous book, partly in Chaldee and partly in Hebrew, intermingled with Greek words. The tone of the whole is thoroughly Eastern, and, according to Dr. Pusey, "neither its language, nor its historical references, nor its doctrines imply any later date than that of Daniel himself. Contrariwise the character of its Hebrew exactly fits with the period of Daniel, while that of the Chaldee excludes any later date, and the minute, fearless touches, involving details of customs, state institutions, and history belong clearly to a contemporary."

6. THE JEWISH TRADITION, therefore, is most probable, that each historical event was recorded at the time it happened, and each vision also by Daniel himself; that these documents were conveyed, with other sacred works, from Babylon to Jerusalem at the time of "the return," and that they were put together in their later form by the "Great Synagogue." The popularity of the book in early times was so great that large additions and alterations were introduced into it in the LXX version, which became entirely discredited, and was superseded by that of Theodotion. The latter, as well as the Vulgate, retained most of these additions, which are relegated to the Apocrypha in the English Bible; and the old LXX version of Daniel was long totally lost, and only discovered and published in the last century.

7. SUMMARY. The book is made up of two divisions:—the first Historical (i–vi), the second Prophetical (vii–xii). The former portion relates the chief facts in the personal history of Daniel, from his arrival in Babylon to his rescue from the den of lions and his exaltation to high position in the empire under Darius and Cyrus. The second portion consists of a series of visions: the first in the first year of Belshazzar, B.C. 555; the second in 553; the third in the first year of Darius the Mede, 538; the last in the third year of Cyrus, 534. In the latter or prophetical portion a succession of great historical events is predicted. In chapter vii the four worldly empires, Babylonian, Medo-Persian, Grecian, and Roman, are viewed in their religious aspect under the figure of four beasts. In chap. viii is predicted the struggle between the Persian and Grecian powers, "the ram and the he-goat"; and the rise of the corrupting influence of Antiochus Epiphanes under the figure of "the little horn" which prepared the way for the final overthrow of the Jews by the Romans. Then follow the precise prophecies regarding the Messiah (chap. ix). In seven weeks, i.e. forty-nine years, reckoning from the decree of Artaxerxes (Ezra vii. 8–11), Jerusalem would be rebuilt; in sixty-two weeks, 434 years, the Messiah was to begin his ministry, and in the middle of one week, or three and a half years, he was to be cut off. Chap. x describes the opposition of the Persian power to the restoration of the Jews; chap. xi predicts more minutely the history of the four Persian kings, Cambyzes, Smerdis, Darius, and Xerxes, and the rise of Alexander and his successors till the conquest of Syria by Rome; and chap. xii gives a forecast of the growth of the supremacy of Christ's kingdom to the end of the world.

HOSEA.

1. HOSEA (salvation) belonged to the northern kingdom. He began to prophesy before Isaiah, with whom he was contemporary, and continued to do so for sixty years, during the reigns of the last six kings of Israel, from Jeroboam II to Hoshea. In spite of the external prosperity of the reign of Jeroboam II, there were corrupting influences at work, and these asserted themselves during the anarchy which succeeded his death. The idolatry of the first Jeroboam had produced all kinds of vice; the kings were profligate; the priests had introduced shameful rites throughout the land; God was forgotten, and the rulers looked to Assyria or to Egypt for help in their misfortunes.

2. STYLE. The illustrations employed by Hosea are taken from rural and domestic pursuits, such as the snaring of birds, sowing, reaping, threshing, and baking bread. He gives us an insight into the modes of life of that day. The women are decked with ear-rings and jewels; the feasts and Sabbaths are days of mirth; the people sacrifice on mountain tops, and burn incense on hills "under oaks and poplars and elms;" while the priests, forgetful of their functions, "lie in wait as troops of robbers" and murder in the way towards Shechem (vi. 9). In prospect of these enormities the style of the prophet is sorrowful and broken. "Each verse," says Dr. Pusey, "forms a whole of itself, like one heavy toll in a funeral knell."

3. THE CONTENTS fall into two main divisions:—Part I (i–iii) gives us the key to the imagery which colours all the prophet's language afterwards. The unfaithfulness of his wife, who had borne him two sons, was a symbol of the idolatry of the nation in the sight of God. Degraded as she had been, so should "the nation be many days without king, without prince, and without sacrifice, and without ephod or teraphim, till the day that they returned, and sought the Lord their God" (iii. 4, 5). Part II (iv–xiv) consists, under the most vivid imagery, of accusations general and special against Israel for their sins, which the prophet denounces unsparingly; their dishonesty, idolatry, distrust of God, and unwillingness to return to Him.

4. THE QUOTATIONS from the book in the New Testament are important. Our Lord quotes the words, "I will have mercy and not sacrifice" (vi. 6; Matt. ix. 13); and refers (Luke xxiii. 30), as does also St. John (Rev. vi. 16; ix. 6), to the striking metaphor, "They shall say to the mountains, Cover us, and to the hills, Fall on us" (x. 8). St. Matthew applies Hos. xi. 1, "I called my son out of Egypt," to the return of the Holy Child from Egypt (Matt. ii. 15); and St. Paul applies, in Rom. ix. 25, 26, in a very striking manner the names which the prophet gives to his children (Hos. ii. 23).

JOEL.

1. JOEL (Jehovah is God) was of the tribe of Reuben, and the son of Pethuel (i. 1); he belonged to the times of Uzziah (circ. B.C. 790–760), though some modern critics have conjectured that he prophesied in the reign of Hezekiah, others in that of Manasseh, others in that of Josiah.

2. THE CONTENTS range themselves under two main divisions. (a) In Part I (i–ii. 17) the prophet describes an impending visitation of locusts and drought, which may be regarded as a figurative picture of threatened invasions, "the northern army" being that of Assyria; and he exhorts the people of Judah to repentance, fasting, and prayer to avert these calamities. (b) In Part II (ii. 18–iii. 21) he promises a blessing in their stead, and the outpouring of the Spirit on all flesh; and declares that while there shall be a judgment of the heathen in the valley of Jehoshaphat, there shall be a blessing reserved for Judah, and while Edom and Egypt shall be wasted, "Judah shall abide for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation" (iii. 20, R.V.).

SUMMARY OF THE BOOKS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

3. QUOTATIONS. St. Peter (Joel II. 28, 29) on the day of Pentecost alludes to the promised outpouring of the Spirit upon old and young, servants and handmaids (Acts II. 16-21); and St. Paul in his Epistle to the Romans (x. 13) quotes the promise of the call of the Gentiles (Joel II. 32).

AMOS.

1. AMOS (burden) was a native of Tekoa in Judah, about twelve miles from Jerusalem, a "herdsman and a dresser of sycamore trees" (vii. 14). In the reign of Jeroboam II, king of Israel, and Uzziah, king of Judah, he was sent to Beth-el to prophesy against the worship of the calves. Accordingly he presented himself in the very sanctuary of Beth-el, to encounter not the king, but the chief priest Amaziah, who warned him off the sacred precincts. Thereupon Amos denounced to Amaziah the coming of a day, when, captured by the Assyrian invaders, his wife should be reduced to earning her living by infamy (vii. 17), his sons and daughters should be slain by the sword, and Israel should go into captivity, and the priest himself should die in a polluted land. After delivering his message at Beth-el, and also at Samaria (for he rebukes the vices of a capital—extreme luxury, revelry, and debauchery, combined with cruelty and oppression of the poor), he returned to Tekoa, and there committed to writing the book of his oral prophecies while at Beth-el.

2. STYLE. The peasant-prophet and tree-dresser is a true "child of nature." The imagery of his visions is full of country life. We have the "lion roaring in the forest" (iii. 4); the shepherd rescuing "out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear" (iii. 12); the "bird falling into a snare" (iii. 5); "blasting and mildew" (iv. 9); the "hooks" of the fisher (iv. 2); "rain within three months of the harvest" (iv. 7); dangers from "lions and bears" (v. 19); "the king's mowings" and "the latter growth" (vii. 1); "corn sifted in a sieve" (ix. 9); "the plowman, the reaper, and the treader of grapes" (ix. 18); "a cart pressed that is full of sheaves" (ii. 18, R.V. marg.).

3. SUMMARY. I. (i. 1—II. 3) The prophet denounces the sins of Israel and of the nations bordering on Israel and Judah—Syria, Philistia, Tyre, Edom, Ammon, and Moab. II. (ii. 4—vi) He describes particularly the state of Israel and Judah, especially the former; denounces the inevitable doom of Samaria, and laments the impending calamities, the ravages of locusts, the failure of corn and wine. III. (vii. 1—ix. 16) In five striking visions he sketches the impending punishment of Israel which he predicted to Amaziah. IV. (ix. 11—15) He utters last words of hope and promise, and depicts the raising up of the fallen tabernacle of David, and the final restoration of God's people (cp. Amos ix. 12 with Acts xv. 15-17).

OBADIAH.

1. OBADIAH (worshipper of Jehovah) bears the same name as the minister of Ahab who protected the prophets of the Lord (1 Kings xviii). Of his personal history we know absolutely nothing. It seems certain that he wrote after the captivity of the Northern tribes, and shortly after the capture of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, B.C. 587. As Nahum had foretold the downfall of Assyria, and Habakkuk that of Chaldaea, so Obadiah predicts that of the implacable foe of Israel, Edom, who, as the city of Jerusalem fell, shouted "Down with it, down with it, even to the ground" (Lam. iv. 21, 22; Ps. cxxxvii. 7).

2. DATE. Jeremiah has employed in his prophecies (xlix. 7-22) very similar language to that of Obadiah (1-9) respecting Edom. This has caused a doubt which of the two prophets repeated the denunciations of the other; and therefore the exact date of this book is rendered uncertain, some advocating its priority to that of Jeremiah, others ascribing it to a later date. Dr. Pusey maintains that the Hebrew future determines the question in favour of the priority of the Book of Obadiah. Those who take the opposite view conjecture that the occasion of this prophecy was the hostility shown by the sons of Esau to their brethren the Israelites at the time of the Babylonish invasion. They seem to have rejoiced in the downfall of Jerusalem, and to have cut off those Jews who attempted to fly through Idumaea into Egypt. Hence arose the prayer of the Jewish captives in Babylon (Ps. cxxxvii. 7), and the answer to it in the denunciations of Obadiah, who predicts the Divine retribution on Edom, and the future glory of Israel in the occupation of Idumaea.

3. SUMMARY. The prophecy contains two parts. (i) The first part denounces destruction to Edom, sketching its punishment and the guilt that had called down that punishment (1-16); (ii) the second part predicts the future restoration of Israel, who, after their return, should possess the land of Edom and Philistia, and rejoice in the establishment of the kingdom of Jehovah (17-21).

4. THIS PROPHECY was fulfilled partly by Nebuchadnezzar, who after the destruction of Jerusalem fell upon Moab and Ammon, and afterwards upon Edom (Jer. xxvii. 3-6), and partly by Judas Maccabaeus, who in B.C. 166 dispossessed the Edomites from Hebron and Southern Palestine; by John Hyrcanus, who in A.C. 125 captured some of the Idumaeian cities, and forced the inhabitants to adopt Jewish customs; and, lastly, by Simon of Gerasa, who A.C. 66, in the final war with Rome, devastated the whole Idumaeian country with fire and sword. But the completion of the prophecy in the possession of Idumaea by the Israelites is still reserved for the future, and hence this book is the favourite study of the Jews to this day, with whom "Edom" is "the cryptograph for Rome, the Christians, and all their enemies."

JONAH.

1. JONAH (dove), the son of Amittai, was born at Gath-hepher, a village in Zebulun. Jewish legend represented him as having been the son of the widow of Sarepta, whom Elijah restored to life, and the youth whom Elisha sent to anoint Jehu, king of Israel. These legends at any rate mark the age in which he lived. He was the same prophet who was sent to Jeroboam II to announce the victories which should cast a gleam of prosperity over his reign (2 Kings xiv. 25).

2. SUMMARY OF THE BOOK. The life of the prophet is the summary of the book which bears his name. I. Commissioned to proceed to Nineveh, the capital of Assyria, he hastens to Joppa, and takes ship for Tarshish, or Tartessus, on the south coast of Spain. A furious storm arises, and the mariners at his own request fling him into the sea. Here a great fish swallows him, and he remains in its belly three days and three nights (chap. i). II. He prays earnestly, and the sea-monster casts him forth on land (chap. ii). III. Bidden a second time to go to Nineveh he dares not disobey, and proclaims there his message, "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown." King and people repent. Their penitence is accepted, and the judgment is deferred (chap. iii). IV. Disappointed and angry, the prophet sits in a booth of woven boughs outside the city, waiting in vain for the judgment he had denounced, and the book closes with an exhibition of his petulance and God's tender mercy (chap. iv).

3. THE BOOK OF JONAH has always been regarded as canonical both by Jews and Christians, and this is corroborated by the character of the language, the archaic idioms which pervade it, and the accuracy of its historical and geographical details. No Jew anxious to exalt his hero would have painted the picture of a prophet of his nation so narrow, so ungracious, so selfish, so intolerant.

4. ALLUSIONS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT. Twice does our Lord allude to incidents recorded in this book. In reply to the Pharisees asking for "a sign from heaven," He gives them a sign from beneath, and declares that the swallowing up of Jonah by the sea-monster and his restoration to life after apparently certain destruction was a figure of His own resurrection from the grave (Matt. xii. 40; xvi. 4). He also declares that the repentant Ninevites shall stand up in the judgment and condemn "the children of the kingdom," who had so many privileges and improved them not (Matt. xii. 41) ¹.

MICAH.

1. MICAH, whose name is identical with Micatah (1 Kings xxii), and a contraction of Mi-cahahu (who is like unto Jehovah?), was a native of Moresheth-gath, in the Shephelah or low-lying plain of Philistia (Micah i. 14). He flourished during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, i.e. for a period of fifty-one years, from B.C. 748 to B.C. 697. Jeremiah expressly refers to him, and tells us how on one occasion, when in danger of his life on account of his denunciations of the sins of his countrymen, he was saved by an appeal to the precedent of "Micatah the Morashtite," who was spared by Hezekiah in spite of his bold testimony against the men of Judah (Jer. xxvi. 8-24, R.V.).

2. SUMMARY. Although the prophecies of Micah were probably delivered at different times, they have been cast into one complete whole in their present form, and are divided into three sections, each marked by a formula "Hear ye," each beginning with denunciation and ending with promise. (a) In Section I (i-iii) threatening predominates. The advent of Jehovah is denounced for judgment of the sins of Israel and Judah, and the guilt which rendered it necessary is described, especially that of the false prophets. (b) In Section II (iv, v) promise predominates: restoration is promised of Zion, of its temple, and of its people, with a gathering in of all nations under the sovereignty of the Messiah. (c) In Section III (vi, vii) the sadder tone again prevails: we have a magnificent colloquy between Jehovah and His people; a justification of His government of the nation, and an assurance that in the midst of judgment He will remember mercy.

3. THE CHIEF QUOTATIONS in the New Testament from his writings are (i) the prediction of Beth-lehem Ephratah as the birthplace of the Messiah (v. 2), quoted to Herod by the Jewish rulers (Matt. ii. 5, 6), and by some of the multitude (John vii. 42); (ii) the strife in families (vii. 6), quoted Matt. x. 36; Mark xiii. 12.

NAHUM.

1. NAHUM (consolation), "the Elkoshite," was a native of Elkosh, a little village in Galilee, or, according to some commentators, identical with Alkosh, about thirty miles to the north of Mosul. By some he is thought to have prophesied after the captivity of the ten tribes, and between the two invasions of Sennacherib, whom Hezekiah had bribed with the treasures of the Temple. By others it is concluded that he prophesied at a period considerably later, during the reigns of Manasseh, Amon, and Josiah, B.C. 660-630.

2. SCOPE OF HIS PROPHECIES. Whatever his precise date, he comes forward as a consoler from Jehovah, foretelling the death of Sennacherib and the overthrow of Assyria. His book is chiefly a sequel to that of Jonah. Jonah had already warned Nineveh of impending punishments, which God remitted on its repentance; Nahum now repeats the denunciations. It is the peculiarity of his prophecy that it is devoted to a single theme, the destruction of Nineveh, then at the height of its power. Of Israel and Judah he has scarcely anything to say.

3. THE PROPHET'S COUNTRY. Those who identify Elkosh with Alkush on the Tigris, consider him to have been the son of an Israelite captive. They hold that the prophet could not have described the doom of Nineveh in language so pictorially vivid if he had not drawn the scenes from personal observation, and point to the interspersed Assyrian words in his book as indicating that country to have been the scene of his prophecies. But others deny that internal evidence favours any other than a Palestinian origin of the work, which accords with the greatest weight of external evidence.

4. SUMMARY. In spite of the warnings of Jonah, Nineveh had sunk back into its old sins of brutal violence, cruelty, and bloodshed, with blasphemy and hostility against God. Nahum pronounces its sentence. Its destruction was near, and would be swift and complete. There are three very distinct predictions: (i) The denunciation of coming judgment, from which Nineveh cannot escape (chap. i); (ii) the certain fall of Nineveh, with a vivid picture of the siege and sack of the city, aided by the sudden inundation of the Tigris (ii); (iii) its utter destruction and desolation (iii)—a desolation so complete that Nineveh vanished entirely from view, and Alexander could march over it, "not knowing that a world-empire was buried under his feet"; nor was the city ever seen again till in modern times the labours of Botta, Layard, and others revealed to the world the wrecks of its former splendour.

HABAKKUK.

1. HABAKKUK (close embrace) seems to indicate a name which might have been bestowed on a dearly-loved child. Of the prophet himself we know nothing, but from the musical directions attached to chap. iii. 1-19 it has been conjectured that he was a Levite. It is most probable that he prophesied in the reigns of Josiah and Jehoahaz, when the invasion of Nebuchadnezzar was imminent. He did not accompany the captives, but, like Jeremiah, lamented the iniquities of his country in the midst of its ruins.

2. SCOPE OF THE PROPHECY. Writing after the great reformation in the days of Josiah, the prophet had to sustain hope and to teach patience under difficult circumstances. Sincere repentance and earnest turning to God, the removal of the high places, the great national fast, had not brought the removal of the scourge of invasion which threatened the kingdom of Judah. The suffering of the chosen people of God from cruel, ruthless oppressors, "fiercer even than evening wolves," was a mysterious trial.

3. SUMMARY. The whole prophecy is a colloquy between the prophet and Jehovah. (i) In chap. i he appeals to God, and asks how long the Most High will suffer His own people to endure the fierceness of the Chaldean tyranny. (ii) In chap. ii he stands upon his watch and waits for the answer; and while he is told that "the just shall live by his faith," he is assured that the Chaldean scourge shall be removed and the oppressor shall perish. (iii) In chap. iii the prophet breaks forth into a note of prayer, which introduces the great hymn of faith, recounting the miraculous deliverances of old as earnest of future ones, and closing with the vision of God's enemies prostrate, but faith exultant in the God of salvation.

4. QUOTATIONS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT. To Habakkuk belongs the special distinction of having furnished (ii. 4) to the Apostle Paul the doctrine which forms the key-note of the Epistles to the Romans and Galatians, "the just shall live by his faith" (Rom. i. 17; Gal. iii. 11). He is also quoted by the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews (x. 33), and in Acts xiii. 41.

ZEPHANIAH.

1. ZEPHANIAH (hidden by Jehovah) was a great-grandson of Hezekiah (i. 1). He tells us himself that he prophesied "in the days of Josiah, the son of Amon, king of Judah." We may fix the date of his prophecy about B.C. 630, before the destruction of Nineveh (ii. 13), which took place B.C. 625.

2. SCOPE OF PROPHECY. Josiah attempted a partial reform in the twelfth year of his reign, and, while it was yet in process, many paid but nominal worship to Jehovah, and were still addicted to Baalism, and "the worship of the host of heaven upon the housetops" (i. 4, 5). This idolatry Zephaniah denounces, follows up his words with judgments threatening Philistia, Moab, Ammon, Ethiopia, and Nineveh, and concludes with a special reproof to Jerusalem, and a promise of restoration to glory in the latter days.

3. SUMMARY. The prophecy may be divided into three parts. (i) The prophet denounces the idolatry of Judah and pronounces judgment (chap. i); (ii) he calls on the nations around to repent if they would escape judgment, with stern announcements of which he mingles his appeal (ii. 1-iii. 7); (iii) he promises to Zion a day of restoration, when the judgment of wicked nations is overpast (iii. 8-20).

HAGGAI.

1. HAGGAI (festive), the first of the prophets after the Exile, was a contemporary of Zerubbabel and Joshua, who led those that returned from Babylon. Though mentioned with Zechariah in Ezra v. 1; vi. 14, he was in all probability much older than his brother prophet, and had seen the glory of the old Temple before its destruction (ii. 3). He was inspired by God to rouse the people to support Zerubbabel and Joshua in building the Temple, after the work had been suspended for fourteen years in consequence of the counter-edict obtained by the Samaritans from Artaxerxes.

2. DATE. His prophecies consist of two chapters, and he has carefully preserved, even to the very day, the date of their commencement. They all belong to the second year of Darius Hystaspes, B.C. 520, and were delivered in the sixth, seventh, and ninth months of that year, very probably orally in the hearing of the people at the festivals of the New Moon, and of Tabernacles, and the season of the autumn rains. They have all one object in view, to reprove the lethargy of the people and encourage the completion of the Temple.

3. SUMMARY. The book divides itself into four sections:—(a) The First (chap. i) rebukes the apathy of the people in not devoting themselves in earnest to the great work of restoration, and in listening to those who sought to persuade them that the time was not opportune for continuing the enterprise. (b) The Second (ii. 1-9) encourages them with the assurance that the glory of the latter Temple shall be greater than that of the former. (c) The Third (ii. 10-19) promises them that from the day they commence in earnest the work of restoration, the defective harvests shall cease, and the years of drought and famine be changed into blessing. (d) The Fourth (ii. 20-23) contains a special word of encouragement for Zerubbabel to be up and doing in rebuilding the Temple. The key-words of his prophecies are worth noting. They are, Be strong, be strong, be strong (ii. 4); Consider your ways, consider, consider (i. 5, 7; ii. 15, 18).

4. QUOTATIONS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT. Two passages of Haggai's prophecies find allusion in the New Testament. His words concerning "the shaking of the heavens and the earth" are quoted in Heb. xii. 26, and the promise to Zerubbabel that he should be as a signet-ring on the right hand, was accomplished when his name stood enshrined in both the genealogies of our Lord as one through whom "the sure mercies of David" were preserved to the house of David (Matt. i. 12; Luke iii. 27).

ZECHARIAH.

1. ZECHARIAH (whom Jehovah remembers), was the son of Berechiah and grandson of Iddo (Ezra v. 1; vi. 14). Iddo was the head of one of the priestly houses (Neh. xii. 4-16), and as he returned from the exile with Zechariah, the prophet must have been a young man when he commenced his work. A contemporary of Haggai he began to prophesy two months after him (Zech. i. 1), and continued during two years, encouraging the Jews to prosecute the erection of the National Sanctuary.

2. STYLE OF HIS PROPHECIES. The object he has in view is the same as that which Haggai proposed to himself, the rousing of the people from their lethargy. But his style is very different. In a series of night-visions received while the building of the Temple is going on, he seeks to rouse in the people a national enthusiasm for the great work; and, as might be expected from one whose prime had been spent under Persian rule, his visions are all tinged with Persian imagery.

3. SUMMARY. The book may be divided into three parts: I. Chaps. 1-vi; II. Chaps. vii-viii; III. Chaps. ix-xiv.

(a) Part I narrates a series of visions. Vision i. The angel hidden among the myrtle-trees (i. 7-17). Vision ii. Four horns and four smiths, symbolising the approaching judgment of the heathen (i. 18-21, R. V.). Vision iii. A man with a measuring line enlarging the boundaries of Jerusalem, symbolising the inclusion of the Gentiles (ii. 1-9). Vision iv. The cleansing of the Priesthood, and the Advent of "the Branch" (iii). Vision v. The golden candelabrum fed by two olive trees, symbolising the rebuilding of the Temple, and future glorification of the Church by the union of the Holy Spirit (iv. 1-14). Vision vi. The flying roll, or vengeance on the ungodly (v. 1-4). Vision vii. The woman pressed in the ephah and borne eastward, symbolising the repression and banishment of idolatry (v. 5-11). Vision viii. The four chariots issuing from two brazen mountains, or the course of Divine Providence (vi. 1-8). Vision ix. The crowning of Joshua the high priest, a type of the union of the regal and priestly offices in the person of the Branch (vi. 9-15).

(b) Part II. After the last vision there is a pause of two years in Zechariah's prophetic activity. But in the fourth year of Darius, B.C. 518, the word of the Lord again comes to him. The people of Beth-el send two messengers (vii. 2), whose Assyrian names, Shazzer and Regem-melech (friend of the king), reveal traces of the Captivity, to put a question about fasting on other days than those prescribed by the Mosaic Law. To them the prophet by the word of the Lord expounds the nature of a true fast (vii), and the conversion of fasts unto feasts of joy and gladness, when many nations shall encourage each other to go and worship at Jerusalem (viii).

(c) Part III presents greater difficulties than the rest of the book. Some critics hold that the chapters it covers are really earlier than Zechariah. Others think that there is not enough evidence to justify us in affirming this, and that their chief difficulties would remain even though we were to push them back into the time of Hosea. Chapter ix describes the future destiny of the Jewish Church and the coming of its King as the Prince of Peace, who shall win the Gentiles to Himself whilst delivering Israel from its oppressors. Chapter x shows that Israel will share with Judah in the coming prosperity, being restored as from Egypt. Chapter xi attributes the troubles which had befallen them to their rejection of the Messiah, whom they had merely valued at the price of a slave. Chapters xii-xiv give a pictorial description of the process of restitution, setting forth a bright prospect when the Holy City should be purified and the nations should acknowledge Jehovah and worship Him there.

4. THE REFERENCES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT to this prophet are numerous and important. The lowly king who comes riding on an ass (Zech. ix. 9), is quoted in Matt. xxi. 4, 5; John xii. 14-16; the betrayal of the Good Shepherd (xi. 12, 13) for thirty pieces of silver, in Matt. xxvi. 8; "they shall look unto Me whom they have pierced" (xii. 10, R. V.), in John xiii. 37; the fate of the Shepherd of the sheep (xiii. 7-9), in Matt. xxvi. 31; Mark xiv. 27.

MALACHI.

1. MALACHI (messenger of Jehovah) was the last and therefore is called "the seal" of the prophets. His name is probably contracted from Malachi'ah (messenger of Jehovah), as Abi (2 Kings xviii. 2) is contracted from Abijah (2 Chron. xxix. 1). Of his life and personal history no single fact is recorded. It seems probable that he was of the priestly order, or had close relations with the priesthood. The conjecture that "Malachi" was not a name but an office may be certainly rejected.

2. TIME OF COMPOSITION. Internal evidence is conclusive in favour of his having written in the period after the exile, when Ezra was dead and the second immigration of captives had taken place. The indications point to the days when Nehemiah was absent for twelve years at the court of Artaxerxes, and the abuses which that governor had sought to check had broken out afresh, and the mixed marriages and profanity of the priests had again become conspicuous. (Cp. Mal. ii. 8 with Neh. xiii. 15, 29; Mal. ii. 10-16 with Neh. xiii. 23-27.) We may therefore place the beginning of his prophecy about B.C. 420, and then we see that he stood in the same relation to Nehemiah during the latter portion of his work at Jerusalem that Haggai and Zechariah had occupied in relation to Zerubbabel.

3. SUMMARY. In the LXX and Vulgate the book consists of four chapters, as in our Version, but in the Hebrew chaps. iii and iv form but one. The prophecy divides itself into three sections: I. After dwelling on the affection of God for Judah as a loving father and ruler of His people, he rebukes the priests as the leaders of the spiritual defection (i-ii. 9). II. He rebukes the mixed marriages and divorces, portrayed by the deserted wives weeping at the altar (ii. 10-16). III. He predicts the coming of a faithful Messenger, who shall carry out a sifting of the true ore from the dross in Israel, purge their silver and gold as in a furnace; and bids them remember Moses, who had given the Law, now revived by Nehemiah and Ezra, and look forward to the advent of Elijah before "the great and dreadful day of the Lord" (ii. 17-iv. 6). Thus the last prophet of the Old Dispensation closes with the promise of the forerunner of the New.

4. IN THE NEW TESTAMENT we have three prominent references to the prophecy of Malachi: His prediction (1) of the Messenger of the Covenant (iii. 1), in Mark i. 2; Luke i. 76; vii. 27; (2) of the coming of the prophet Elijah (iv. 5), in Matt. xi. 14; xvii. 12; (3) of the approach of the Day of the Lord (iv. 1-3), in Matt. iii. 12. Also, the love of God for Jacob in preference to Esau (i. 2, 3), in Rom. ix. 13.

IX. BRIEF SUMMARY OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.

1. THE PRIMEVAL PERIOD.

THE PROMISE OF A RESTORER OF THE HUMAN RACE given at the fall of man is the starting-point of Sacred History, and the Old Testament becomes a true introduction to the New, because it reveals the several steps whereby the Divine wisdom provided for the fulfilment of the promise. As originally given it was undoubtedly indefinite. It was not indicated whether the Promised Seed should be one or many, the collective race or a single deliverer. On these points greater light was shed as time rolled on. First through Shem, the son of Noah, the promise was limited to a single race (Gen. ix. 26); then secondly, through the call of Abraham to a particular nation, of which his family were to be the destined progenitors. "In thy seed," said the Almighty, "shall all the families of the earth be blessed" (Gen. xii. 3; xxviii. 14, R.V.).

2. THE PATRIARCHAL PERIOD.

ABRAM, called by God to leave his native place, "Ur of the Chaldees," on the western bank of the Euphrates, proceeds to Haran, with his father Terah and the rest of his family. On Terah's death, five years later, he is again bidden to travel towards the south-west, passes through Damascus, and reaches Shechem in the centre of Palestine between Ebal and Gerizim. Here he builds his first altar to the Lord (Gen. xii. 6, 7), and God meets him and makes a covenant with him. Thence he moves southward to Beth-el, and eventually, in consequence of a famine, to Egypt; but is bidden to return after various adventures, and retraces his steps to the neighbourhood of Beth-el. Here his nephew Lot leaves him, and after a fuller and more definite renewal of the promise (Gen. xiii. 14-17), he removes southward to the oak or terebinth of Mamre, where Ishmael is born, the covenant of circumcision is instituted, Isaac promised by the angel, and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah revealed. After that event and the rescue of Lot, the patriarch removes to Beer-sheba. Here, or at Gerar, Sarah gives birth to the child of promise, who is named Isaac. Hence also Hagar and Ishmael are sent away, and Abraham journeys to Mount Moriah and receives back his son Isaac after surrendering him to apparently certain death upon the altar he had erected in obedience to the Divine command. Under the oak of Mamre Sarah dies, and is buried in the cave of Machpelah; Isaac is married to Rebekah and begets Esau and Jacob; while Abraham, after marrying a second wife, Keturah, and becoming the ancestor of various Arabian and Midianitish tribes, dies at the age of 175. Jacob, after deceiving Esau in the matter of the covenant blessing, flies to Padan-aram, to his uncle Laban; marries his daughters Leah and Rachel; and returning after twenty years, settles with his eleven sons at Shechem, and afterwards at Beer-sheba. While here, his son Joseph is sold by his brothers as a slave to certain Midianitish merchantmen, and conveyed to Egypt, where he becomes viceroy of the land. Driven by a grievous famine from Palestine, Jacob and his family settle in Egypt, where his descendants rapidly increase in number, become a powerful nation, and occupy the district of Goshen on the N.E. frontier.

3. THE MOSAIC PERIOD.

THE EXODUS AND THE WANDERINGS. After they have remained in Egypt 215, or, according to some chronologists, 400 years, the hour for the nation's deliverance arises. The ten plagues are inflicted on Pharaoh, and Moses leads the Israelites through the Red Sea, which is miraculously divided, to the wilderness of Sinai, where they receive from God a code of laws—social, political, and religious—and a complete constitution, with civil and ecclesiastical officers. At Sinai, where the people are terrified at the thunderings and lightnings which accompanied the giving of the Law, the promise of a Deliverer receives still further development. It has been already limited through Judah to a particular tribe (Gen. xlix. 10). Now a distinct person is for the first time indicated, and Moses predicts the coming of a greater Prophet, and a mightier Lawgiver (Deut. xviii. 15-19). At the same time the unwilling testimony of Balaam centres the hopes of the world definitely in Palestine, and the witness of a heathen seer confirms the promise of the leader of the Jewish people (Num. xxiv. 17).

4. JOSHUA AND THE JUDGES.

CONQUEST OF CANAAN. After wandering forty years in the wilderness, the Israelites pass onwards round the territory of Edom to the country east of the Jordan. Here they conquer the powerful kings Sihon and Og, and make themselves masters of the country. Then crossing the Jordan under the command of Joshua they capture Jericho, and gradually reduce the whole land, and are located according to their tribes in their new settlements. The succeeding period belies the fidelity to Jehovah which had characterised the epoch of Joshua's campaigns. It is a period of listless anarchy, of alternate apostasy, chastisement, and deliverance. Both priests and people are faithless to the Theocracy, content with the indolent enjoyment of an exuberant land, of which the surviving remnants of the Canaanites, and the kindred tribes of the Hebrews,—Amalekites, Edomites, Moabites, Midianites,—try to dispossess them. During this period, Judges, or Deliverers, are from time to time raised up, who rescue the nation from its oppressors and secure for it a season of peace. Thus Othniel delivers the people from Chusim-rishathaim, Ehud from Eglon, Deborah and Barak from Jabin, Gideon from the Midianites, Jephthah from the Ammonites, Samson from the Philistines. Meanwhile the office tends more and more to become hereditary, and Eli unites in himself the functions of high priest and judge. But with Eli a new period approaches, and two new influences begin to manifest themselves, represented by the institution of the Prophets, and by the Royal Dignity. For this new epoch, fraught with so many momentous consequences, Samuel gradually prepares the people, and ushers in the great change. By his "schools of the prophets" he gives permanence and effectiveness to the prophetic functions, so that when the new order of the kings is established, speakers for God are thenceforth ready to reprove, rebuke, and exhort, to preach morality and spiritual religion, and denounce profligacy and idolatry in high places.

5. THE UNDIVIDED MONARCHY.

ANCIENT PROPHECIES had declared that kings should proceed from the seed of Abraham (Gen. xvii. 6, 16; xxxv. 11), and Moses had anticipated and provided for their election (Deut. xvii. 14-20). Saul, however, the first king, represents not so much the Divine appointment as the people's choice. His carnal self-will causes him to forget his theocratic position, and being tried and found wanting he is rejected, and gives place to David, the son of Jesse. The new king takes Jebus, and makes it the national capital, places there the restored Ark, subdues the enemies of Israel, and after a series of successful wars gives to the nation the full inheritance of its promised territory from the river of Egypt to the Euphrates (Gen. xv. 18). David is a great figure in the history of the Promise. Its blessing is especially transferred to his family, and no sooner does he succeed to his high position, than he himself speaks of a greater King, of One whom he calls his Lord, who shall "sit upon his throne," and of whose kingdom "there shall be no end" (Psa. ii, xlv, ex). He is succeeded by Solomon, who builds the Temple, and adorns Jerusalem with splendid palaces, but lapses into idolatry, and violates each and all of the fundamental principles of the kingdom, as laid down in the Law of Moses.

6. THE DIVIDED MONARCHY.

ON SOLOMON'S DEATH a civil rupture rends the kingdom in twain. Ten tribes revolt under Jeroboam, form "the kingdom of Israel," and seek to consolidate the separate sovereignty by establishing rival sanctuaries at Dan and Beth-el, and restoring the old calf-worship of Egypt. The relations between the southern and northern kingdoms are marked by four clearly-defined epochs: (i) Mutual hostility, during which the kings of Judah persist in the hope of regaining their authority over the ten tribes, and for nearly sixty years there is constant war. (ii) Close alliance, and united hostility to Syria. The northern kingdom declines into Baalism under Ahab, who cements by intermarriage an alliance between his own family and that of Jehoshaphat, probably with a view to more effectual resistance of the encroaching power of Syria. (iii) Fresh animosity, and the gradual decline of both kingdoms before the advancing power of the Assyrian and Babylonian Empires. The alliance between the two kingdoms is rudely shattered by the accession of Jehu to the throne of Israel. He exterminates the house of Ahab, and the hostility thus begun is never healed. The northern kingdom, in spite of the exhortations of numerous prophets, falls away more and more into the worst forms of idolatry, and is punished by the incursions of the Syrians, and afterwards by the invasions of the Assyrians, who capture Samaria, B.C. 722, carry the people into captivity, and colonise the country with a mixed idolatrous race, who mingle their native worship with that of Israel. From these spring the Samaritans, who intermarry with some of the Jews, borrow their rites, accept the Pentateuch, and set up a rival temple on Mount Gerizim. (iv) Struggle for national existence on the part of Judah against Assyria and Egypt alternately, and afterwards against the Chaldeans. This goes on for upwards of one hundred and thirty years, and then, B.C. 588, the southern kingdom experiences the fate of its powerful rival, the kingdom of Israel, and the nation is carried away into captivity by the Babylonians under Nebuchadnezzar.

7. THE CAPTIVITY AND RETURN.

THE CAPTIVITY. As the faith of Abraham had been rewarded by the inheritance of Canaan, so the unfaithfulness of his descendants had forfeited it, and now they are all sent back to that heathen land "between the rivers" from which their progenitor was divinely called. Here, in the usual order of things, we might have expected that the Jews would have ceased to remain a nation at all. But with them it was not thus to be. The ten tribes, indeed, are never heard of more; but the remnant of Judah and Benjamin, instead of blending with their conquerors, remain a separate people, and preserve their national institutions, their genealogies, and distinctions of rank. At length, after the lapse of seventy years, a portion of them are permitted by Cyrus to return, B.C. 536, and they rebuild Jerusalem and the Temple under the direction of Ezra and Nehemiah, while the supreme government is vested in a Persian Satrap resident at Damascus. The moral and spiritual condition of the remnant thus restored to their native land differed far from what it had been formerly. In the furnace of affliction it had been thoroughly purified from all tendencies to idolatry. The dreary years of the Captivity had not been without their salutary effect. The Jew was no longer an idolater. The Divine Unity was now the central truth of his creed, and as the undivided monarchy produced the devotional books of Holy Scripture, so the divided monarchy brought forth the earlier, and the Captivity the later Prophets. But the very sadness of the Captivity served in no small measure to correct the idea of the promised Messiah, and "the Son of David" gives place in the writings of Daniel to "the Son of Man" (Dan. vii. 13), "and His kingdom appears as the last and mightiest of the monarchies of the world!" Thus the image of the future Deliverer is drawn from the varied forms in which God makes Himself known in the history of the chosen people, and each crisis in its history serves to bring the Promise within narrower limits, and to illustrate it with fresh details. Meanwhile the failure of Israel, as a nation, to fulfil its high calling to be the "servant of the Lord" inspires the portraiture of the Ideal Servant² (Is. xlii. 1), who shall fulfil for His people the work in which they had failed, and a voice not jubilant and glad, but sad and mournful, begins to be heard. It speaks of triumph, but of triumph through suffering; of the coming of "a Man of sorrows" and "acquainted with grief;" of His being "bruised for our iniquities;" of His being "stricken for the transgressions of His people" (Is. liii. 3-10). The earliest prophecy had declared that "the Seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head," but had whispered that "the serpent should bruise His heel" (Gen. iii. 15). The latest declared that the Messiah should triumph, but that He should also die. Thus gradually and harmoniously is the silver thread of Promise woven into the evolution of the most diverse events, and the Divine purpose of the ages is wrought out step by step "in many fashions" and "in many parts." Patriarch and Lawgiver, Priest and Prophet, each points onward to Some One not yet revealed, and the history of the Jewish nation becomes the key to the history of the world.

XVI. CHRONOLOGY OF THE EARLY PERIOD OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.

INTRODUCTORY.

1. THE CHRONOLOGY OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, as given in the Hebrew text, is represented with much accuracy by the marginal dates inserted in many editions of the Authorised English Version. These dates, reduced to system by Archbishop Ussher (Annales Veteris Testamenti, 1650), were first added to the English Bible by Bishop Lloyd, in the great edition of 1701.

2. IN THE EARLY PARTS of the Bible history, however, the Septuagint version has a different series of dates; varying from the current Hebrew, for the most part, in a symmetrical fashion, as shown below. Either the Alexandrian translators followed a different Hebrew text from the present, or they misread the original authority, or they designedly introduced alterations. That the Samaritan text, and the Jewish historian Josephus, more nearly agree with the Septuagint than with the Hebrew is a presumption in favour of the tradition followed in the former; besides which, the weight of internal evidence, especially in the second period, seems to support the Greek. It must be remembered that, owing to the ancient Hebrew method of designating numbers by letters of the alphabet, all chronological and other numerical notes were very liable to error in transcription. How far this circumstance has affected the matter now under review is a question for criticism. Ussher, as we have seen, follows the existing Hebrew; the learned chronologer Dr. Hales¹ adopts the general scheme of the Septuagint.

(1) THE ANTEDILUVIAN PERIOD.

The Book of the Generations of Adam. Genesis v. 1.

3. FOR THIS PERIOD the fifth chapter of Genesis is the only guide; and the years are found by taking the age of each person in the genealogy at the birth of his eldest son.

² Another reading gives 122.

EARLY PERIOD OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.

4. THE REDUCTION OF THESE DATES to the years B.C. (or A.C., Ante Christum) is found by reckoning backwards from dates to be hereafter established; as e.g. the division of the Hebrew monarchies. But the uncertainties of the intervening period render the results so obtained extremely precarious and therefore comparatively useless. Opinions of chronologers as to the "era of Creation" vary indeed by many centuries (Ussher 4004 B.C., Hales 5411, Jewish reckoning 3760, Alexandrian 5503, &c.). The question is, in fact, insoluble.

(II) FROM THE DELUGE TO THE CALL OF ABRAHAM.

The Generations of Shem. Genesis xi. 10.

Nahor	29	179 ²
Terah at birth of Abram ³	130	130
Abraham's age at his entrance into Canaan	75	75
	427	1307

6. ADDING THESE RESULTS to those of the preceding Table we have the date, anno mundi, of Abraham's call, according to the Hebrew, 2083; according to the Septuagint, 3548.

With regard to this second Table, it may be remarked that the longer period, as given by the LXX, would allow time for the spread of population through the world after the Deluge, as well as for the growth of kingdoms like the Egyptian, Babylonian, and Assyrian, that were already powerful in Abraham's day. For all this, the space of 427 years (Heb.) is evidently insufficient.

The date 2083, as above given, is Ussher's (Eng. Bible, marg.); the LXX date, on the other hand, is shortened by Hales to 3333 by computations which need not here be noted.

(III) FROM THE CALL OF ABRAHAM TO THE EXODUS.

The sojourning of the children of Israel, which they sojourned in Egypt. Exodus xii. 40, R.V., according to Heb.

The sojourning of the children of Israel, which they sojourned in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan. Ib., LXX.

7. IN THE EARLIER DATES of this series the Hebrew and Septuagint agree.

	HEBREW.	LXX.
Abraham in Canaan to birth of Isaac	25	25
Age of Isaac at birth of Esau and Jacob	60	60
Age of Jacob at the migration to Egypt	130	130
The sojourning in Egypt	430	215
Total for the period	645	430.

Both Ussher and Hales, with the best succeeding chronologers, here follow the Septuagint, which is corroborated by the genealogies. Thus, the Exodus was "in the fourth generation" after the migration into Egypt. Gen. xv. 16; compare Exod. vi. 16-20.

(IV) FROM THE EXODUS TO THE FOUNDING OF THE TEMPLE.

In the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt. 1 Kings vi. 1.

8. THIS IS BY FAR THE MOST DIFFICULT PERIOD in which to harmonise the several chronological references in Scripture. A ready method of surmounting some of the difficulties has been to reject as an interpolation the passage above quoted from 1 Kings. For this, however, there is no warrant, unless the computation of Josephus, assigning 592 years to the period (Ant. vii. 3, § 1), may be so regarded. The LXX gives 440 years, a difference from the Hebrew text plainly due to the omission of the forty years' wandering.

9. THE RECKONING OF JEPHTHAH (Judges xi. 26) of 390 years from the conquest of Sihon on the eve of the Israelite settlement in Canaan, roughly agrees with the calculation in 1 Kings. But the reference by St. Paul (Acts xiii. 20, A.V.) seems to extend the period of the Judges alone to 450 years. Textual criticism, however, gives another turn to the Apostle's words, making them refer to a period before the time of the Judges (see R.V.); starting, possibly, from the birth of Isaac, which was the beginning of the fulfilment of the promise made to Abraham.

10. TAKING, THEN, THE STATEMENT of 1 Kings vi. 1 as the basis of calculation, it becomes necessary to shorten the apparent periods of the Book of Judges, which give in a very precise form the successive periods of servitude and of peaceful rule, from the death of Joshua to the end of the Philistine domination. These, at first view, yield a total of 390 years, as follows:—

BOOK OF JUDGES.	YEARS OF SERVITUDE.
Mesopotamia (iii. 8)	8
Moab (iii. 14)	18
Canaan (iv. 3)	20
Midian (vi. 1)	7
Ammon (x. 8)	18
Philistines (xiii. 1)	40
	111

DELIVERERS AND JUDGES.

Othniel (iii. 11)	40
Ehud and Shamgar (iii. 30)	80
Deborah and Barak (v. 81)	40
Gideon to Jair (viii. 28; ix. 22; x. 2)	88
Jephthah to Abdon (xii. 7, 9, 11, 14)	31
Samson and Eli

279

As the judgeships of Samson and Eli were included in the period of Philistine oppression, these have not been added.

11. TWO CIRCUMSTANCES, however, prevent the above summary from being taken as an adequate chronological guide:—1. The recurrence of the round number, "forty years," suggests a rough rather than an accurate calculation. 2. It is in the highest degree probable that in some cases the oppressions and the judgeships overlapped one another, being referable to different portions of the land.

Bearing these two points in mind, the 480⁺ years may be distributed thus:—

Journey through the Wilderness	40
Government of Joshua (Jos. Ant. v. 1, § 29)	25
Period of the Judges (say)	320
Government of Samuel (Jos. Ant. vi. 13, § 5)	12
Reign of Saul (Acts xiii. 21)	40
Reign of David (1 Kings ii. 11)	40
Solomon, to commencement of Temple	3

480

1 And in Luke iii. 37.

2 Another reading gives 79.

3 Terah was 70 years old at the birth of his eldest son: but Abram was evidently not his eldest, having been but 75 years old when Terah died at the age of 205; Gen. xi. 32; xii. 4.

XVII. CHRONOLOGY OF THE KINGS OF JUDAH AND ISRAEL.

THE DATA FOR THIS PERIOD are the explicit chronological statements of Scripture, chiefly in the Books of Kings and Chronicles. These assign to each reign its duration; and, after the division of the kingdom, give cross references to the times of the contemporary kings. The difficulty is that the lists of Israel and Judah do not agree. From the accession of Rehoboam to the sixth year of Hezekiah, the year of the destruction of Jerusalem, 255 years appear to be enumerated in the line of Judah, 241 in that of Israel. Some unknown fact would very possibly place the lists in harmony; and it is probable either (1) that there were in the Israelite line intervals of interregnum, so lengthening the period; or, (II) that in the line of David there were times of associated sovereignty—father with son—the years in the annals being counted to both, so shortening the period. The former explanation is generally adopted in the older Chronologies, but the latter appears the more satisfactory. There can be little doubt that Jotham¹, for instance, reigned for several years conjointly with his father Uzziah, who himself had previously been associated with Amaziah. The following Table² gives approximately the duration of the Hebrew Monarchies according to the Scripture account:—

¹ It is remarkable that the same description is given in several instances of the state of the kingdom both under Uzziah and Jotham. Comp. 2 Chron. xxvii. 4 with xxvi. 10; xxvii. 5 with xxvi. 8; also (perhaps) xxvii. 3 with xxvi. 9.—Church Quarterly Review, January 1886.

² In comparing the Table with the Scripture account, it must be remembered that the Hebrews counted the unfinished years of a reign as complete. Thus a reign beginning a little before the end of one year, and ending a little after the close of the next, would be reckoned as of three years, although really hardly more than one. It follows that the same year will be often reckoned twice, as belonging to two different reigns; and a careful comparison of the lists gives an approximate period of 230 years to the divided monarchy from Rehoboam to the fall of Samaria.

NOTES.

1. In the foregoing Table, besides the supposition of joint reigns in three instances (Jehoram with Jehoshaphat, Uzziah with Amaziah, Jotham with Uzziah), one conjectural alteration has been made, the accession of Ahaz being placed in the 17th instead of the 15th year of Pekah. The cross references between the kingdoms make some such rectification evidently necessary.

2. The accession of Shishak (Amen-meri Shashanq) is dated by Brugsch at B. C. 966¹. His invasion of Judah appears from a Karnak inscription to have been in the 20th year of his reign (B. C. 947), which the Scripture account gives as the fifth year of Rehoboam. This places the accession of Rehoboam and the disruption of the kingdoms in B. C. 952 or 951. From this point downwards, and in some measure upwards also, it becomes possible to assign the dates B. C., as in the Tables, as also the following:—

	B. C.
The Exodus, 430 years before the 4th of Solomon	1469
Birth of Isaac, 430 years earlier	1899
Abraham's entry into Canaan (25 years earlier)	1924.

and so with intermediate years. Further back, however, for the reasons already stated, the results become very precarious. The dates B. C., e. g. for the Deluge, and for the creation of Adam, differ in the system of every chronologist.

3. Zerah the Ethiopian, invaded Judah in Asa's days (2 Chron. xiv. 9). So (2 Kings xvii. 4) was apparently Sabaco, the second king of the 25th dynasty. Tirhakah (2 Kings xix. 9) is identified with Taharaka I, the last king of the 25th dynasty (B. C. 693-666). Pharaoh-necho, overthrown by Nebuchadnezzar at the battle of Carchemish (Jer. xli. 2), was undoubtedly Nekau, second king of the 26th dynasty (B. C. 612-595, Brugsch).

4. As regards the Assyrian records, the main synchronisms are given in the latter part of the above Table. In referring to the "Eponym Canon," a list of yearly governors, and to the chronological data constructed from it by Assyriologists, the most serious difficulties arise from the fact that "Ahaz" and "Uzziah" appear to be placed much later than the Biblical account allows. But strong reason has been shown for reading here "Jehu" and "Ahaz" respectively. Whether this solution be accepted or not, the Scripture statements are too detailed and self-consistent to be summarily set aside, especially when the records that would displace them are far from yielding, as yet, a harmonious and satisfactory scheme. In the latter part of the Table the invasion of Judah by Sennacherib has been placed in B. C. 701, according to the Assyrian monuments, which have been abundantly confirmed. In 2 Kings xviii. 13 the expedition is stated to have taken place in the 14th year of Hezekiah, or B. C. 711, just ten years too early. Different ways have been proposed of solving the difficulty. The simplest is that which would read 24th for 14th. The annals of Assyria and of Judah during this period will thus well synchronise.

XVIII. CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF THE PROPHETS.

THE FOUR PROPHETS placed first in our Bibles are called "Major," the remaining twelve "Minor," not because of their comparative importance, but because of their respective length. This classification being entirely conventional, and apt to mislead, may be disregarded. Daniel, as we have seen above, p. 24, was not reckoned by the Jews among the Prophets, but was placed in the Hagiographa between Ezra (including Nehemiah) and Esther. Many modern critics, chiefly on internal grounds, regard the Books of Isaiah and of Zechariah as each composed of the writings of at least two prophets, a "second Isaiah," who wrote chaps. xl-xlvi, and prophesied cir. B. C. 540, and an "earlier Zechariah" (chaps. ix-xiv), cir. B. C. 730-720. (See pp. 23, 28.)

¹ It is necessary to note that Brugsch's dates are approximate only, being based on generations of 33 years each.

² See George Smith's Assyrian Eponym Canon, p. 172.

XX. THE WITNESS OF MODERN DISCOVERIES TO THE OLD TESTAMENT NARRATIVE.

1. THE HISTORICAL CREDIBILITY of the Old Testament Scriptures has been often assailed, especially in the present century, and the events related have been treated as the products of distorted tradition, and regarded as of merely mythical origin. But the same century has been remarkable for the discovery and decipherment of monuments, and the exploration of Eastern lands, which have been fertile in unexpected testimonies to the truth of Biblical history. From three sources special light has been thrown on sacred history in the course of the nineteenth century: viz. discoveries (i) in Egypt; (ii) in the valleys of the Euphrates and Tigris; (iii) in Palestine, and in the Sinaitic peninsula.

(1) EGYPTIAN RESEARCHES.

2. UNTIL THE BEGINNING OF THE PRESENT CENTURY our knowledge of the history of Egypt and its people was derived from the Bible, and from Greek authors such as Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus. The comparatively meagre accounts of that country given in the Bible were most valuable, for they were evidently drawn from authentic sources at first hand. Those, however, which came down to us through the Greeks were believed to be much distorted through the misunderstanding and ignorance of the writers; and it is now proved beyond a doubt that if we wish to know what the Egyptians thought and did we must go to the native documents, and not to histories which were compiled by foreigners who only knew Egypt when she was in her advanced old age. From the 16th to the end of the 18th century many attempts were made by learned men all over Europe to read the Egyptian inscriptions, copies of which had been published by such men as Kircher; but all failed. Each student professed to have discovered the key to the locked secret, but the translations which each gave to the world showed at once that the patient and learned worker had not even found out what the problem to be solved really was, much less the solution thereof. The first good piece of work done in deciphering Egyptian inscriptions was that of Zoega the Dane, who showed that the hieroglyphs were letters, and that each cartouche (i.e. the oval in which the name of a royal person is enclosed) contained a name. In the year 1799 a French officer named Bouchard discovered a large black basalt stone at Fort St. Julien, near Rosetta, or the ancient Bolbitane, which from this circumstance has always been known by the name of the "Rosetta Stone." It was inscribed in hieroglyphics, Greek, and a third class of writing which is now called demotic, because it was the common writing of the people as opposed to the hieroglyphic which was the writing of the priests. The Greek inscription upon the stone was easily made out, and it was found to consist of a decree drawn up by the priests of Memphis in honour of Ptolemy Epiphanes, who reigned about B.C. 198. It was at once evident that the Greek inscription on this stone was a translation of the hieroglyphics, and here, at last, the key of the secret was found. By the fortunes of war the Rosetta Stone was surrendered by the French to General Hutchinson, and it was subsequently presented to the British Museum. Accurate copies of the text were made forthwith, and distributed among the scholars of Europe. Among the earliest workers at the inscriptions were Silvestre de Sacy and Akerblad the Swede; the former was able to identify in the demotic version the equivalents of the proper names in the Greek, and the latter succeeded in giving phonetic values to several of the demotic characters. In 1817 Thomas Young published the results of his labours on the hieroglyphic inscription on the Rosetta Stone, in which he assigned correct values to several hieroglyphics, and identified the hieroglyphic names of Ptolemy and Berenice. About the same time Champollion was engaged upon the decipherment of the hieroglyphics, and as he was better equipped than Young (through possessing a good working knowledge of Coptic), he succeeded in making out an alphabet of hieroglyphic signs, and in identifying a large number of cartouches. That Champollion possessed Young's treatise on the hieroglyphic decipherment is now well known; but although it is more than probable that he obtained many ideas from it, we must ascribe to him the honour of the larger share in the decipherment of Egyptian inscriptions. His system was adopted by Lepsius in Germany and Birch in England, and the subsequent labours of Brugsch, De Rouge, and Chabas have proved that it was based upon a sound method of induction and work. When it was once shown that the Egyptian inscriptions could be read, the most important results were anticipated, and a new impetus was given to excavations in Egypt. The political representatives of the great countries of Europe made collections of antiquities in Egypt, and travellers spent much time and money in opening tombs and digging out ruins. The tombs have given up not only their dead, but with them the books which the Egyptians read, the furniture which they used in their houses, the ornaments and articles of the toilet of the Egyptian lady, the weapons of the warrior, the tools of the handicraftsman and labourer, the dice of the gambler, the toys of the child, and the portrait statues and figures of the men and women for whom they were made. The many-lined inscriptions upon the tombs give us their ideas about the future world, the judgment of the dead, the paradise of happy souls, and the transmigration of souls, and they enable us to control the statements of those Greek writers who professed to understand and to describe with accuracy the difficult religion of the educated Egyptian. Briefly, the Egyptians believed that man possessed a soul (ba), a genius or "double" (ka), and an intelligence (khu). The soul returned to the body after a long period of years, and the body was carefully preserved by means of bitumen, spices and drugs, and laid in the tomb to await its arrival. After death the conscience, symbolised by the heart, was taken into the judgment-hall of Osiris, the god of the underworld and of the dead, to be weighed in a balance against righteousness or the Law. There were present at the weighing on behalf of the deceased his soul, his luck, and the goddesses who presided over his infancy. The weighing was watched by Anubis, the god of the tomb, and by the god Thoth, who reported the result to the great cycle of the gods to whom he was the scribe. On the centre of the beam of the balance sat the cynocephalus or dog-headed ape, whose duty it was to take care that the beam was exactly and evenly balanced. Near Thoth stood a monster, part crocodile, part lion, and part hippopotamus, called the "Devourer," ready to make away with the heart in the event of its proving light in the balance. When the heart exactly balanced the Law this result was proclaimed by Thoth to the gods, the gods decreed that the deceased was "justified" or "triumphant," and he was then led by Horus, the son of Osiris, into the presence of Osiris, to whom he made offerings. The trial in the judgment-hall being now over, the deceased passed into everlasting life.

(2) BABYLONIAN AND ASSYRIAN RESEARCHES.

3. THE DECIPHERMENT OF THE CUNEIFORM INSCRIPTIONS is due to Professors Grotefend, Lassen, and Sir Henry Rawlinson. Professor Grotefend deciphered the names of Cyrus, Darius, Xerxes, and Hystaspes, and thus obtained the true determination of nearly one-third of the entire Persian cuneiform alphabet. The results of his labours were announced at Göttingen in 1802, but his memoir was never published. Professor Lassen assigned accurate values to twelve characters, and an account of his work was published at Bonn in 1836. In 1835 Major Rawlinson began to copy the cuneiform inscriptions at Hamadán, and having no access to the works of previous writers on the subject he deciphered independently the names of Hystaspes, Darius, and Xerxes; when he had collated the first part of the Behistun inscription he deciphered also those of Arsames, Ariaramnes, Teispes, Achamenes, and Persia, and thus was able to give accurate phonetic values to eighteen letters of the Persian cuneiform alphabet. In 1837 he copied the greater part of the trilingual Behistun inscription, and sent translations of the first two paragraphs, which recorded the titles and genealogy of Darius Hystaspes, to the Royal Asiatic Society. As these paragraphs would have been untranslatable by the systems of Grotefend and Lassen, and as subsequent investigations have proved beyond all doubt the general accuracy of the translation of the two hundred lines of the monument of Darius at Behistun, and of the values assigned to the characters of the Persian cuneiform alphabet, the credit of the decipherment of the cuneiform inscriptions is mainly due to Sir Henry Rawlinson. The Babylonian and Scythic versions of the trilingual inscription at Behistun subsequently formed the subject of the labours of Norris, Hincks, and Oppert; and although each of these scholars was able to make philological discoveries in the course of his enquiries, and to supply information on points of detail, the net result of their work only proved the accuracy of Sir Henry Rawlinson's system of decipherment, which he also applied to these versions. In the year 1842 M. Botta began to make excavations at Kouyunjik, the site of the ancient Nineveh, but meeting with little success here, he decided to excavate at Khorsabad. In 1845 Mr. (now Sir Henry) Layard undertook excavations at Kouyunjik for the Trustees of the British Museum, and succeeded in uncovering the palaces of Sennacherib, Esar-haddon, and Assur-bani-pal, and in bringing to light the terra-cotta tablets which formed the great library founded by these kings at Nineveh, and of which some twenty-two thousand are now preserved in the British Museum. An examination of these tablets soon showed that they consisted of historical inscriptions, astronomical reports and calculations, grammatical lists, &c., and scholars began to apply Sir Henry Rawlinson's system of decipherment of the Babylonian version of the Behistun inscription to the texts inscribed upon these tablets. Certain sceptics having stated that no genuine progress had been made in cuneiform decipherment, Sir Henry Rawlinson, Hincks, Oppert, and Fox Talbot determined to translate independently the historical inscription of Tiglath-pileser I, inscribed on a cylinder found at Kalat Sherkat, and to submit their versions to a committee for examination. The translations were at length made, and as there could be no suspicion of collusion, and as the translation of each scholar bore the marks of the individuality of the author, and as the general meaning given to the inscription by each scholar was the same, and as the general accuracy of this fourfold translation has been established by subsequent researches, it is proved once and for all that the system of cuneiform decipherment now in use is based upon a sure foundation. A large portion of the history of Babylonia and Assyria is now revealed to us, and the knowledge of the language of these countries has thrown much light upon the language, literature, history, and learning of the Jews. The excavations which have been carried on in Mesopotamia for the last fifty years have yielded the most valuable results; and the inscribed slabs, monolithic stelæ, boundary stones, gate-sockets, bricks, seal-cylinders and tablets, now preserved in the British Museum, afford an abundant supply of material from which Bible customs and language may be freely explained and illustrated. The cuneiform writing is, at least, as old as B.C. 3800, and there is evidence to show that it was in use as late as B.C. 80. It is generally believed now that cuneiform writing was introduced into Mesopotamia by the invaders from the East at a very remote period, and that it was adopted by the Semitic inhabitants of the country, who wrote their own language in it. Cuneiform writing was originally pictorial, but the modifications in the forms of the pictures which were necessary when inscriptions were carved in stone or impressed upon clay, caused the characters to assume the forms now familiar to us.

(3) PALESTINE AND THE SINAITIC PENINSULA.

4. IN THE EARLY PART OF THIS CENTURY comparatively little was known about Palestine. The student indeed had the Bible, Josephus, certain itineraries composed in early times, and the narratives of pilgrimages and crusades in the Middle Ages. But while sacred places were multiplied, comparatively few sites were identified on intelligible principles, and there were no scientific enquiries into the physical geography of the land or into the ways of the people who inhabit it. But within the last half-century the writings of many distinguished travellers have awakened a keen interest in everything connected with Sinai and Palestine, and made the natural history and antiquities of the East a special pursuit. At length in 1865 the Palestine Exploration Fund was opened and excavations were begun in Jerusalem, which are still, though under great difficulties, being carried on. Since then have followed researches in the South, East, and North, geological investigations have been made, natural history collections have been formed, enquiries into nationalities and customs carried out, and above all a complete trigonometrical survey of Western Palestine set on foot by officers of the Royal Engineers, who have enabled us to localise towns, villages, hills, valleys, watercourses, wells, cisterns, notable trees, and other landmarks and remains. In 1868 a party of engineering officers and other experts left England to make a scientific survey of the Sinaitic Peninsula. This they effected, making plans and models, taking 300 photographs and 3,000 copies of inscriptions, with collections of specimens bearing on the zoology, botany, and geology of the country. The results of the enterprise were published in 1872, by authority of the Treasury, in five massive folio volumes. A similar course of exploration is now being carried on in the Delta and other parts of Egypt by the Egypt Exploration Fund.

(4) RESULTS.

THE RESULTS of the foregoing researches and discoveries may now be briefly indicated:—

(i) The Primæval Period.

ASSYRIAN TABLETS give accounts of the Creation and Deluge.

(ii) The Patriarchal Age.

CLEARER KNOWLEDGE HAS BEEN OBTAINED as to the position of Ur of the Chaldees, now represented by the Mound of Mukeyyer in Southern Babylonia, about six miles from the Euphrates on its western bank; indisputable evidence has been afforded of the advanced state of literature and commerce in the old "Chaldee" or Babylonian Empire in the time of Abraham, including writing on bricks and tablets in the conventional cuneiform characters; Haran or Charran has been recovered, its important position recognised, its religious condition investigated; the invasion of Canaan by Chedorlaomer has been shown to be in accordance with the national movements of the age; Egyptian monuments have also furnished numerous illustrations of the important chapters relating to the life of Joseph in Egypt, as also of the internal and external history, the religious and civil observances of his times; and mummies of the most ancient kings—some anterior to the patriarchal age—have been discovered.

(iii) Moses and the Exodus.(See 'Glossary of Antiquities' in this vol., Art. Exodus.)(iv) The Land of Canaan.

THE REGIONS THROUGH WHICH THE PEOPLE PASSED towards the Promised Land have been carefully surveyed, and numerous illustrations of the forty years' wandering have been found. As regards Canaan itself, the position of the places and boundaries of the Tribes in the days of Joshua have been generally ascertained. Ancient towns on the East of Jordan have been brought to light, and their position found to corroborate with accuracy minute statements in the Book of Numbers, so that "few stronger confirmations of the historic and authentic character of the sacred volume can be imagined than that furnished by a comparison of the Land and the Book!"

(v) The Period of the Kings.

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS throw considerable light upon this period. Not only are the dynasties of the Egyptian kings at this epoch ascertained, but we find the invasion of Judah by Shishak recorded on the walls of Karnak, and we are enabled to trace the movements of So (Sabaco), Tirhakah, Necho, and Hophra. The Moabite Stone, discovered in 1869 among the ruins of ancient Dibon, now in the Museum of the Louvre at Paris, is a monument erected by Mesha the contemporary of Ahab, and throws light on the condition of Moab and the conquests of Mesha, about 890 B.C. The monuments also chronicle the names and military successes of the Syrian kings, Ben-hadad, Rezin, and Hazael.

(vi) The Assyrian Empire.

THE ASSYRIAN LINE OF KINGS and their dealings with the kings of Israel and Judah are amply illustrated by the Assyrian monuments. Assur-nasir-pal (B.C. 866-860) ruled from Elam to Syria, and from Armenia to the Persian Gulf. Shalmaneser II (B.C. 850-824) records victories over Syria and over "Jehu, the son of Omri." Ramman-nirari III (B.C. 811-782) imposed taxes on various kingdoms, including Omri (B.C. Israel). Pul (2 Kings xv. 19) has but recently been discovered. He is thought by some to be the same as Tiglath-pileser III (but see 1 Chron. v. 26), and is the Porus whose name is on the list of Babylonian kings at about this period, and who is called Phulvis by Berosus. Tiglath-pileser III (B.C. 745-727) took tribute from Rezin of Syria, Menahem of Samaria, Pekah, and Hoshea, and threatened or attacked Ahaz of Judah, called on the monuments Azriyau. Sargon, a usurper (B.C. 722-705), named in Is. xx. 1, conquered Ashdod, and attacked the regions all round as far as Egypt; he also reduced Merodach-baladan, King of Babylon. Khorsabad was built by him. Sennacherib (Sargon's son, B.C. 705-681) attacked Hezekiah, took forty-six of his cities, shut him up in Jerusalem like a caged bird, built towers against him, gave his cities to the Philistines, imposed on him a tribute of thirty talents of gold and 800 of silver, and sent his daughters and his treasures to Nineveh (comp. 2 Kings xviii. 14-16). Sennacherib also attacked Philistia, Egypt, Syria, Phoenicia, and he warred against Merodach-baladan, who seems to have incited the Babylonians and Elamites to revolt. Among the gods to whom he specially appeals on the occasion of appointing Esar-haddon to succeed him are Bel and Nebo. (See Is. xlvi. 1.) Clay cylinders give an account of the reign of Esar-haddon (B.C. 681-668), and we learn that he conquered twenty-two kings, including Manasseh, King of Judah; he conquered the son of Merodach-baladan, and Tirhakah of Ethiopia, and restored Babylon and called himself king of it (2 Chron. xxxiii. 11). Assur-bani-pal (B.C. 668-626) again subdued Tirhakah, and gained victories over his rebellious brother, Sharash-shum-ukin, and over the armies of Elam and the surrounding regions. After his time the glory of Assyria faded away.

(vii) The Babylonian Empire.

THE SECOND BABYLONIAN EMPIRE now comes to the front. Lists of very ancient Babylonian kings have lately been brought to light, and they are important in connexion with the chronology of the Patriarchal Age. More important, however, for the coincidence of the Biblical with the Babylonian-Assyrian chronology are the so-called Eponym Canons referred to above, which were discovered by Sir Henry Rawlinson in 1862, and the Synchronic History of Assyria and Babylonia, published by the same scholar, which relates the vicissitudes of the two empires from B.C. 1500 to 820. Finally, the copy of a Babylonian chronicle was published in 1887, giving an account of the events in Babylonia and Assyria during the time from B.C. 750 to 650. Babylon was then playing a far more important part than we should ever have dreamed of. If we had only the historical books of the Bible and the old classical authorities to guide us. We have indeed a reference to Merodach-baladan as "king of Babylon" (2 Kings xx. 12), and to the surprising fact that the King of Assyria took Manasseh captive to Babylon (2 Chron. xxxiii. 11); but that is all. Now, however, we learn that Babylon was a considerable power in those days. We find Tiglath-pileser III, King of Assyria, styling himself Lord of Shumir and Accad and King of Babylon, and worshipping Bel, Nebo, Zir-bani, and other Babylonian deities. Then Merodach-baladan comes on the scene (cir. 731 B.C.) in the last year of Tiglath-pileser. Merodach is overthrown by Tiglath-pileser, but speedily reappears, and figures as King of Babylonia. He suffered defeats in three of Sargon's campaigns, B.C. 721, 710, 709, but seems to have recovered himself each time. Several tablets show that he reigned at least twelve years. Many important inscriptions of Nebuchadnezzar II have been discovered. His father Nabopolassar, a Babylonian, of whom also inscriptions have quite recently been found, had seized the Babylonian throne and had cast off the Assyrian yoke. The son puffed himself up as if he were an incarnation of the god Nebo, and described the glory of Great Babylon and of the temple at Borsippa, which was "made to shine as the stars of heaven." Thousands of square bricks have been found stamped with his name. His favourite god was Bel-Merodach. He left no record of his time or disease and humiliation. There are a few monuments of Evil-Amil-Merodach, and of Nerigissar; and a large number of records of the days of Nabonidus have been discovered. Belshazzar seems to have been associated with him on the throne. It may be mentioned incidentally that the cylinders of Nabonidus are of special value for determining the chronology of ancient Babylonia as far back as B.C. 8750.

(viii) The Persian Empire.

PASSING TO THE PERSIAN EMPIRE, we have first a tablet of the age of Nabonidus telling us that in his seventeenth year (? B.C. 538), on the third of October, Cyrus entered Babylon and appointed Gobryas to be governor; secondly, a fragment of a cylinder of Cyrus, giving his own account of the taking of Babylon and also giving his ancestry. His grandfather's name was Cyrus, and the dynasty containing this name may have been in existence as far back as the days of Isalah. His forces are described as marching like a cloud, his army like the waters of a river; opposition comes to nothing before him; the gods are favourable to him, especially Merodach, Bel, and Nebo, and he restores their temples, though himself possibly a monotheist. No light has been thrown on the name and exact position of Darius the Mede, who may possibly have been Gobryas. The newly-discovered list unfortunately stops short here, and Ptolemy gives no name between Nabonidus and Cyrus. Some modern critics have thought that Darius the Mede was Darius the son of Hystaspes, in whose reign there was a revolt at Babylon; but this is hardly probable. There is a large inscription of Darius the son of Hystaspes, in whose reign the rebuilding of the Temple was completed, at Behistun.

XXI. ETHNOLOGY OF THE JEWS AND THE SURROUNDING NATIONS.

1. THE HEBREWS WERE SEMITES, and are the accepted type of that race, whereto belonged also the Phenicians, Syrians, Moabites, Ammonites, Arabs, Assyrians, and Babylonians. We know the languages of these races, and find them nearly identical in their grammatical structure, and closely allied in their vocabularies. Dialectal differences alone separate the speeches of Sennacherib and Nebuchadnezzar from that of the Israelites, whom they subjugated. The Moabite Stone is readily intelligible to any Hebraist. Western Asia, from the coast of the Mediterranean to the Zagros mountain-chain, which bounds Mesopotamia on the east, was anciently peopled, in the main, by one race, a race nearly akin to the Hebrews, descended—we may well believe—from Shem (Gen. x. 21-31), and known to moderns as "Semites." The race had ramifications in Asia Minor and East Africa, but was planted especially in the central region of the ancient world, Mesopotamia and Syria.

2. WITHIN THIS REGION it was, however, intermixed to some extent with what seems to have been an earlier population, a population which some writers call "indigenous." We hear of Rephaim, Horim, Avim, Emim, Anakim, Zuzim, as old inhabitants of Palestine displaced by later intruders. There are no means of determining with any certainty the ethnic character of these ancient races, or, except approximately and in a general way, their habitats; for in dealing with the ancient races and tribes of the East we cannot speak of frontiers in the modern sense of the term, but at best of limits only. Ethnic names, too, are by no means decisive factors in determining race. In the case of the above names, though none of them appear to be Semitic, we must leave it undetermined whether they were those of Semitic or of non-Semitic races. Their territories are indicated in Scripture as follows:—(1) The REPHAIM dwelt on the east of Jordan in the great city of Ashteroth-Karnaim (Gen. xiv. 5) and its vicinity; (2) The ZUZIM, or ZAMZUMIM, dwelt in Ham, within the same district (Gen. xiv. 5; Deut. ii. 26); (3) The EMIM lived east of the Dead Sea, in the country afterwards known as Moab (Deut. ii. 10); (4) The HORIM inhabited Mount Seir, south of that sea, and adjoined on the Desert of Paran (Gen. xiv. 6; Deut. ii. 22); (5) The AVIM held a portion of the Philistine country (Deut. ii. 23; Josh. xiii. 8); and (6) the ANAKIM, who possessed the region about Hebron (Num. xiii. 22), must be regarded as outlying remnants of some ancient population, whose ethnic character is undiscovered, and as distinguished from the later incomers by huge stature, great fierceness, and great physical strength.

3. THE COUNTRY TO THE WEST of the Jordan was mainly possessed, prior to the Hebrew conquest, by eight principal races. These were the Philistines to the south-west; the Canaanites in the rich plains of Jordan and Esdraelon; the Jebusites, Hivites, and Amorites in the mountains; the Gergashites near the Sea of Galilee; the Hittites in the Lebanon district, and the Perizzites in some uncertain locality. All these races appear to have been Hamitic. The PHILISTINES are connected with the Caphtorim in Deut. ii. 23, and called "the remnant of the country of Caphtor (di-kaphor)" in Jerem. xlvii. 4. "Al-kaphor" is possibly the same as "Al-guptos," the Caphtorim being, as we learn from Gen. x. 14, descendants of Mizraim, or the people of Egypt. It should also be noted that Kaphur, in Egyptian, is the term for Grand Phenicia, or the coast of the Egyptian Delta. The name of the country of the Philistines along the coast (the Palastu of the cuneiform inscriptions) was applied by the Romans to the whole of Palestine. It is true that the analogies of the Philistine language, so far as it can be made out, are Semitic rather than Egyptian; but their migration from Egypt must have been at a very early date, before the Egyptian peculiarities were well developed, and in their new country they may have adopted Semitic forms and names, or even changed their Hamitic for the Semitic speech. But originally they had nothing in common with either the Hebrews or the Hyksos, who were Phenicians or Amalekites. The CANAANITES are in Gen. ix and x distinctly derived from Ham, and their antagonism to the Semites is throughout their whole history very marked. Hamitic roots, as san for "the sun," and bek for "city," belong to some of the oldest sites in their country (Beth-san, Baal-bek). With the Canaanites were closely connected the other six nations whom the Israelites drove out—the Hivites, Hittites, Amorites, Jebusites, Perizzites, and Gergashites (Gen. x. 15, 16).

4. THE DESERT BORDERING PALESTINE on the south, as well as the peninsula of Sinai, was peopled mainly by Amalekites and Idumeans or Edomites. These were Abrahamic races, descendants of Esau, Isaac's eldest son (Gen. xxxvi. 9-12). They were thus, not only Semites, but Semites of a type allied very closely indeed to the Hebrews. The AMALEKITES, the fiercest enemies of the Israelites, always remained, for the most part, nomads, and became completely assimilated in their mode of life to the Edomites or Idumeans, that is, the Arabs of the Peninsula, in whom they seem to have been ultimately absorbed. They are considered to have been the oldest of the aboriginal races, and are constantly referred to as such by Arabic writers! The IDUMEANS showed at Petra something of the Egyptian genius for architecture, and something of the Hebrew talent for trade and commerce. Though bitter opponents of the Jews during the greater portion of their career, they were ultimately acknowledged as "kindred" (Josephus, Antiq. Jud. xiv. 8 § 1), and under Antipater and Herod the Great became blended with the Jews into one nation.

5. ANOTHER ABRAHAMIC TRIBE (Gen. xxv. 2), located towards the south, but of wandering habits, was that of the MIDIANITES. The Midianites intermingled with the Ishmaelites, and probably also to some extent with the Canaanites. Their general habits were those of Arabs, though in some respects they had adopted Canaanitish customs before their first contact with the Israelites, and hence their influence upon Israel was evil and tended to corruption. We have no record of the Midianite language, excepting that which is contained in names. These are undoubtedly Semitic, and often common to the Midianites with the Israelites.

6. EASTWARD WERE CERTAIN TRIBES connected with the family of Abraham, the most important of which were the Moabites and Ammonites, descendants of Abraham's nephew, Lot (Gen. xli. 37, 38). We know little, comparatively speaking, of the AMMONITES, who have left no records. They worshipped the Supreme Being under the name of Moloch or Milcom, the Semitic word for "king"; and their capital city was Rabbath-Ammon, or "Great Ammon," where again we have a Semitic prefix. With their kindred, the MOABITES, we are better acquainted, both from the prophecies of Isaiah (chaps. xv and xvi) and Jeremiah (chap. xlviii), and from the important recent discovery, the "stone" erected by Mesha at Dibon in Moab. This "stone" shows that the Moabite language was, in the ninth century B.C., almost identical with the Hebrew, and that the modes of expression in the two countries were similar. The differences of language are merely dialectal, such as anak for anoki, "I," and the like. The numerals are the same; the dual termination -aim is of frequent occurrence; and a common element in the names of towns is Beth. The Moabites and Ammonites were settled races, like the Hebrews; their cities were many and strong; they cultivated the vine (Is. xvi. 8-10), grew great quantities of corn (Jer. xlviii. 32, 33), and were graziers also upon a large scale (2 Kings iii. 4). The distinction is very marked between them and the Arabs, on whom they adjoined, who dwelt in tents and wandered freely over the desert. While the nomad tribes, such as the Midianites, had no protracted existence, and their names gradually disappear from history, the settled (agricultural) tribes—such as the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites—are not only frequently mentioned in the cuneiform inscriptions, and by early Christian writers, but are even traceable at the present day in names of places. There was always a tendency of nomads to become agriculturists, but not vice versa.

7. ON THE NORTH, after the decay of the Canaanitish races, the principal neighbours of the Jews were the Phœnicians and the Arameans or Syrians. The Phœnicians were in all probability sprung from an Hamitic tribe (Puna or Punt) in South Arabia and the opposite coast of East Africa, and after settling on the coasts of Canaan completely assumed Semitic customs and language (Lepsius). At any rate, the Semitic character of the Phœnicians in historical times is undisputed. Their remains—consisting, unfortunately, of inscriptions only, the oldest of which are not much earlier than B.C. 600—have been completely analysed by the great Semitic scholars, Gesenius and Deutsch, who have shown the Phœnician form of speech to be closely akin to the Hebrew. The Phœnician ethnic character presents also certain analogies to the Jewish, combining, as it does, warlike energy and great tenacity of purpose with a remarkable aptitude for trade and commerce; while, on the other hand, they had the character of being unscrupulous and untrustworthy. They were famous for their manufacture of glass and of purple stuffs, and were the greatest traders and navigators of antiquity in Western Asia.

8. NOTHING CERTAIN IS KNOWN of the original home of the STRIANS or ARAMEANS. "Aram" appears at an early period as a designation of certain districts in Syria and Mesopotamia. The language of the Arameans gradually occupied all Syria, and "last of all, Palestine became Aramaised. Towards the east this language was spoken on the Euphrates, and throughout the districts of the Tigris south and west of the Armenian and Kurdish mountains. In Babylonia and Assyria, a large, or perhaps the larger, portion of the population were most probably Arameans, even at a very early date, whilst Assyrian was the language of the Government" (Nöldeke).

9. IF, FROM THESE IMMEDIATE NEIGHBOURS OF THE JEWS, we pass to those more distant ones with whom the circumstance of war, invasion, and conquest from time to time brought them into contact, we find that, on the south, they were liable to attack from two great nations, the Egyptians and the Ethiopians; on the east they had dealings, military and other, with four—the Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Elamites; and the Persians; while, on the north, they came into collision, in their later history, with four races—the Scythians, the Greeks, the Romans, and the Parthians. A few words must therefore be said, in order to complete this sketch, concerning the ethnic character and affinities of these ten remoter nations.

10. THE EGYPTIANS. According to Gen. x. 6, Mizraim was "the son of Ham." Egypt is called repeatedly in Scripture "the land of Ham" (Ps. cv. 23, 27; cvi. 22). Its own native name was Kam, which has been explained as "the Black Land." The physique of the Egyptians was very marked and striking: they were tall and thin, with large hands, and large and flat feet. They offered a marked contrast to their Semitic neighbours upon the east. Their language had certain Semitic analogies, and received through contact and immigration a not inconsiderable infusion of Semitic words into it; but fundamentally it was non-Semitic.

11. THE ETHIOPIANS (CUHITE) were distinct from the Egyptians, with dark complexions, thick lips, and sloping profiles. Their descent from Ham is distinctly asserted in Genesis (x. 6). Egyptian civilization was readily received among them, but suffered deterioration in the process, and failed to raise the race very much above the savage condition. There were times when Ethiopia—that is, the ancient kingdom of Aksum in Abyssinia—threatened to become one of the "Great Powers" of the Eastern world; but some inherent weakness caused it to relapse after each success into a comparatively unimportant position.

12. THE ASSYRIANS, who came into contact with the Israelites before the Babylonians, were pure Semites, as appears both from the Book of Genesis (x. 22) and from the native inscriptions. Their physiognomy, physical type, and manners are also clearly Semitic, and render any doubt upon the subject impossible. In features, as represented in the sculptures, they closely resemble the Jews; in general ethnic character they are not dissimilar. Their descendants, the "Chaldeans" of the mountains near Mosul, still speak a corrupt Aramean dialect, and have features closely resembling those of the Hebrews.

13. THE BABYLONIANS. The oldest inhabitants of Babylonia of whom there are records were the Akkadians and Sumerians, different in race from Hamites and Semites. They were at a very early period absorbed by their Semitic neighbours, the Assyrians and Babylonians. The latter, when first brought into contact with the Jews, were scarcely distinguishable from the Assyrians. The languages spoken by Sennacherib and Nebuchadnezzar differed less than Spanish and Portuguese; the two nations had an almost identical religion; and their physical type was not very different. The Babylonians were somewhat shorter and clumsier in figure, their noses more depressed, their foreheads lower, and their expression altogether more commonplace.

14. THE ELAMITES (so called from Elam, i.e. High-lands) were the inhabitants of Susiana, which extended east of the Lower Tigris and north of the Persian Gulf to the mountains in the north and east, and was watered by the rivers Choaspes and Euleus. They were of one race with the Akkadians, Sumerians, and Kossæans—that is, Turanians—and enjoyed well-regulated political institutions. According to the Babylonian inscriptions, they subdued Babylonia as early as 2280 B.C. The native name of their country was An-zan. Their chief city was Susa, their language was akin to the Akkadian. Since the middle of the sixth century B.C., Elam has ceased to be mentioned in the cuneiform records.

15. With the PERSIANS we come upon an entirely new and distinct nationality. The Persians belonged to the Aryan (or Indo-European) family, as Darius Hystaspes emphatically asserts in the inscription upon his tomb. Indeed the word "Iran," which is the native name for the country ruled by the Shah, is the actual word "Aryan" in another form, corresponding to the Ariané of the Greeks. The language of the Persians exists in four stages, and can be traced from about B.C. 1200 to the present day. It appears as Zend—or, more correctly, Old Bactrian—in the Zend-Avesta; as Achaemenian Persian in the inscriptions of Cyrus, Darius, Xerxes, and Artaxerxes; as Pehlvi (with a large admixture of Aramean words) in the inscriptions of the Sassanians and the Pehlvi version of the Zend-Avesta; and in the poems of Firdausi and his contemporaries, about A.D. 1000, it enters at once on its modern stage of development. In due course it has received a considerable accession of Arabic (more recently also of Turkish) words. In its most ancient form Persian is closely akin to Sanskrit, in its most modern to Hindustani; in all its forms it has close analogy with the tongues of the West. And the ethnic character of the people was in many respects Western. They were lively, enterprising, spirited, worshippers of a single god, Ormazd, tasteful in their architecture, possessed of a considerable power of organisation.

Their physique was decidedly what has been called "Caucasian"—a high forehead, a well-formed nose, large eyes, a short upper lip, a well-rounded chin. Their limbs were slighter than those of their Semitic neighbours the Assyrians and Babylonians, but were well knit and muscular.

16. The name of SCYTHIANS was given by the Greeks to a race of the Indo-European (Aryan) family closely allied to the Iranians (Müllenhoff), and settled on the northern shores of the Black Sea. They are the same race that Herodotus denominates Scolotes, who were probably only a Scythian tribe. They are called Sakas by the Persians, and are mentioned by that name in the cuneiform inscriptions of Darius. They themselves came from the east and drove out the Kimmerians from the northern shores of the Pontus Euxinus about the eighth century B.C. With later historians they appear to have lost their individuality; by them all the rude tribes of the Sarmatian plains are called Scythians irrespective of nationality, and they are credited with the most cruel habits and rites. They were probably the rudest of all the races with which the "chosen people" came into contact; and it was fortunate for that people that the contact was once only in their history, and for a short time.

17. The ethnic character of the GREEKS and ROMANS is too well known to need many words in this place. The Hellenic and Italic races are universally recognised as two main branches of the great Aryan stock, and the two which in the ancient world carried Aryan civilisation to the highest point. Possessing languages nearly akin to each other, and not remotely allied to Sanskrit and Zend, possessing moreover vast energy and high intellectual power, they became respectively the masters of the East and West. The Jewish nationality narrowly escaped absorption into the Greek at the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, and both in Egypt and in Palestine received permanent Hellenic impressions. Before Rome it refused to bend, and the refusal led to its destruction.

18. As with the SCYTHIANS, so with the PARTHIANS, there was one occasion only when the "chosen people" came into contact with them. In B.C. 40, not long after the defeat of Crassus, a Parthian army crossed the Euphrates, and defeating the Romans under Decidius Saxa, occupied and ravaged the whole of Syria and Palestine. Jerusalem itself was plundered by them, and Antigonus placed upon the throne as Parthian viceroy, a position which he occupied for three years.

PART III.

THE APOCRYPHA.

XXII. SUMMARY OF THE BOOKS OF THE APOCRYPHA.

INTRODUCTORY.

1. THESE BOOKS form part of the sacred literature of the Alexandrian Jews, and with the exception of the Second Book of Esdras are found interspersed with the Hebrew Scriptures in the ancient copies of the Septuagint, or Greek Version of the Old Testament. They are the product of the era subsequent to the Captivity; having their origin partly in Babylonia, partly in Palestine and Egypt and perhaps other countries. Most of them belong to the last three centuries B.C., when prophecy, oracles, and direct revelation had ceased. Some of them form an historical link between the Old and New Testament, others have a linguistic value in connexion with the Hellenistic phraseology of the latter. The narratives of the Apocrypha are partly historical records, and partly allegorical. The religious poetry is to a large extent a paraphrase upon the Poetical and Prophetic Books of the Hebrew Canon. In the paraphrases upon the latter there is often a near approach to New Testament teaching, especially upon God's care for the heathen world.

2. AS TO THEIR CANONICAL AUTHORITY, Josephus seems to reject it as a whole, but appears from his use of I Esdras rather than our Canonical Ezra to have accepted the authenticity of at least that work. The early Christians differed in opinion respecting them, but received them as part of the sacred literature of Israel. Several of the books of the Apocrypha were more generally accepted than the disputed books of the New Testament Canon. Melito (cir. 170), referring to the Hebrew Canon, separated them from the authoritative and Divine records; while Origen (cir. 230), following the LXX, included in Daniel (and so among the Canonical Books) the history of Susanna; and speaks ambiguously about the Books of the Maccabees. Jerome, a century later, called them "apocryphal" (hidden, secret, and so of uncertain origin and authority), affirming (when speaking of Wisdom and Ecclesiasticus) that "the Church doth read them for example of life and instruction of manners; but yet doth it not apply them to establish any doctrine." In the Western Church they gradually rose in esteem, until the Council of Trent affirmed the canonicity of the greater part; but they are treated by the more critical Roman divines as "deutero-canonical," thus making some distinction between them and the books of the Hebrew Canon.

(i) THE BOOKS OF ESDRAS.

THE FIRST OF THESE BOOKS is quoted largely by Josephus and by Athanasius, and the second by some other early Christian writers, but they were not included in the Canon of the Council of Trent.

(a) The First Book.

THIS IS EVIDENTLY A COMPILATION of narratives by different authors. With the exception of chapters iii-v, 6, the book is little more than a transcript of the last two chapters of the Second Book of Chronicles, with nearly the whole of our Ezra, and one portion of Nehemiah (viii. 1-12). The portions corresponding to Ezra ii-iv, 6 and iv. 7-34 are transposed so as to cause a great confusion of the historical sequence. The rest is in its proper order. The additional matter contains two sections; the first (chaps. iii, iv) records a very interesting legend about Zerubbabel, showing how by his wise answer to the king he brought about the return of the captives; the second (v. 1-6) is the beginning of a list of the captives who returned under Jesus (i.e. Jeshua) and Joacim the son of Zerubbabel, and has no connexion with the list which actually follows. The book is generally ascribed to the first century B.C., but sometimes assigned to the second. It has been suggested that it was the work of a Jewish writer in Egypt who wished to gain the favour of the Ptolemies for his people. Only Greek and Latin versions of the book are known to exist.

(b) The Second Book.

THE MORE ANCIENT TITLE of THIS BOOK was the "Revelation of Ezra," but it is more commonly known as the "Fourth Book of Ezra." The original text seems to have been in Greek, but, with the exception of a few verses found in quotations, it is entirely lost. From it a Latin, Ethiopic, and two Arabic translations have been made; but the English version, as also an Armenian, was entirely taken from the Latin. This text contains certain interpolations (chaps. i, ii, xv, xvi), which are evidently of Christian origin, and omits in the later MSS., which our version followed, a long passage after chap. vii. 35, on the "intermediate state" and "intercession of departed souls." The omission arose from the accidental loss of a leaf in a ninth-century MS., which leaf is now recovered. From internal evidence the original portion of the book would seem to have been written in Egypt, by a Jew, between B.C. 100 and A.D. 100. It consists of angelic revelations and a series of visions, teaching some of the mysteries of the moral world, and the final triumph of the righteous. It may be divided as follows:—

(i) Historical Introduction (iii).

(ii) Revelation 1. On the unsearchableness of God's purposes, and the signs of the last age (iv-v. 14).

2. How the plan of Providence progresses in spite of man's difficulties in understanding it, and good finally triumphs over evil in judgment (v. 21-vi. 34).

3. A passage omitted in the Authorised Version (vi. 35-vii. 35). The narrow limits of Israel necessitated by Adam's sin; and the paucity of the redeemed explained by natural analogies. It contains also an account of the state after death and final judgment (vii. 36-ix. 25).

Vision 1: A woman (Sion) lamenting the death of her only son (i.e. the city of Solomon) on his bridal day; but her sorrow is turned into joy at the appearance of a newly-built city (ix. 26-x. 59).

2. An eagle (the fourth kingdom of Daniel), rising from the sea, spreads its wings over the earth, undergoes various transformations, is rebuked by a lion (Messiah), and is burnt up (xi. 1-xii. 39).

3. A Man (the Son), flying on the clouds, destroys by the blast of His mouth the opposing powers of the world, gathers the lost tribes of Israel, and gives them the city of Sion (xiii. 1-53).

4. The appearance of the Lord in a burning bush, with a promise to Ezra of a restoration of the books of the Law which had been burnt (xiv. 1-26).

5. Ezra dictates to the scribes the whole of the Law "to be published openly," and seventy books of secret mysteries which are not to be divulged (xiv. 27-48).

(ii) THE BOOK OF ESTHER.

THIS BOOK consists of certain interpolated passages found in many copies of the Septuagint version of Esther, which are not in the original Hebrew copy. Their object was partly to supplement the narrative of the canonical Esther, partly to give it a more distinctly religious tone by pointing to God as the Prime Mover in the events, whereas His Name nowhere occurs in the original. These interpolated passages are supposed to have been inserted at a later date by the Alexandrian Jews. Jerome removed them from the text, and placed them in the order in which we now have them in the English text among the uncanonical books. The disconnected fragments were printed consecutively, as if they formed a complete continuation of the canonical book, whereas the first alone followed directly after the conclusion of our canonical Esther. The dream of Mordechoes (Mordecai), chap. xi, and the conspiracy of the two eunuchs (chap. xii), were introduced at the beginning of the book; the copy of the letters of Artaxerxes (chap. xiii. 1-7) after iii. 13; the prayers of Mordecai and Esther (chap. xiii. 8—xiv. 19) at the end of chap. iv. The description of Esther's entrance before the king (chap. xv) is an expansion of chap. v. 1, 2; and the letter of Artaxerxes (chap. xvi) was added after viii. 12. These fragments are usually assigned to some period of the first or second centuries B.C.

(iii) THE BOOK OF WISDOM.

1. THE ORIGINAL BOOK seems to have been in Greek, and is contained in the chief Biblical MSS.; but there is an ancient Latin Version older than the time of Jerome, and translations in Armenian, Syriac, and Arabic, of which the last two are paraphrastic.

2. SUMMARY. It consists of two main parts: I. The praise of wisdom in its moral and intellectual aspects: 1st, as the source of immortality in contradiction to the theory of sensualists; 2nd, as the practical guide of moral and intellectual life (chaps. i—ix). II. The doctrine of wisdom in its historical aspects: (1) an illustration of the influence of wisdom in the reward of the virtuous and the punishment of the vicious, both in the case of individuals (from Adam to Moses), and of nations, e.g. the Egyptians and Canaanites (chaps. x—xix); followed by (2) a contrast between the fortunes of idolatrous and religious people (chaps. xv—xix). The harmony pervading the whole book contradicts the opinion that it is a compilation from several authors who wrote at different times, though some have attributed the two sections to separate authors. It possesses the highest literary excellence, and is comparable for sublimity of thought, rhetorical power, and command of language with some of the finest productions of classical antiquity.

3. ITS DICTION, as well as its doctrine, points to a Greek original, unfettered by Hebrew idioms. Its date is variously conjectured, from B.C. 217 to A.D. 40. We find in it the doctrine of the creation of the world from uncreated matter, of the pre-existence of souls, of the pervading influence of the Divine Spirit throughout the universe; but there is no mention of the Christian doctrine of the resurrection of the body, nor any reference to the regeneration of humanity by the Messiah, while immortality is vividly depicted as the reward and consequence of wisdom. These facts all point to Alexandria as the place of its composition, and to a period anterior to Christianity, in which Hebrew thought and Greek philosophy of various schools had become fused together. Moreover, its style and diction seem to point to an earlier date than that of Philo, to whom it has been sometimes ascribed. Some passages in the Epistle to the Hebrews suggest that the writer was acquainted with this book, but no direct quotation from it is found earlier than the first half of the second century A.D., when it seems to be treated as inspired Scripture. The doctrine concerning wisdom already found in Proverbs, Job, and Ecclesiastes is here still further developed, being treated as an existence co-eternal with the Creator, acting on created matter, as the source of life, and continuing in the land of spirits. And so the foundation is laid for the Christian doctrine of the existence and influence of the Divine Word and Holy Spirit.

(iv) ECCLESIASTICUS.

1. THIS BOOK is so CALLED in the Vulgate and Authorised Version from its local name in the African Church, gained from its practical use as a book of instruction in the Church. Its earlier titles were "Proverbs" and "The Wisdom of Jesus the Son of Sirach." Both internal evidence and the testimony of Jerome sufficiently attest the existence of a Hebrew original (now lost), which was subsequently translated, with some additions, by a descendant, probably the grandson of the author, resident in Alexandria, in the reign of Euergetes II (see the Prologues; the meaning of the word translated grandfather in the first prologue is doubtful). The date of this translation is rendered uncertain from there being two monarchs bearing the title of Euergetes, viz. Ptolemy III and Ptolemy VII. There is also a similar uncertainty about the date of the original work, as the appellation "Simon the son of Onias," who is mentioned among the Hebrew worthies in chap. i. 1, and evidently as a contemporary of the writer, might equally apply to Simon I or Simon II. But the fact that the Syriac version reads "Simon the Just" gives us some warrant for believing that Simon I was meant, and, if so, the translation most probably belongs to the time of Euergetes I.

2. THE HEBREWS DID NOT PLACE THE BOOK among the Canonical Scriptures, nor is it so classed by Jerome; but it is quoted as such, and even attributed to Solomon, by many Christian writers after the second century. The text of the Greek translation is found in the LXX, and from it were derived, with a few apparent exceptions, the Vulgate and the Authorised Version. On the other hand, the Syriac Version is an independent translation of the original Hebrew, and of great value in restoring the text and explaining obscurities. Quotations from the original Hebrew, and others translated into Aramaic, are found in the Jerusalem and Babylonian Talmuds. There is considerable difference both of the text and of the order in the several authorities. The book is half philosophical, half ethical in its character, and belongs to what is called the Wisdom literature of the Jews. In its view of wisdom it is transitional between books like Proverbs and Job and the later Alexandrian Book of the Wisdom of Solomon.

3. THE TONE OF THE BOOK is mainly Palestinian, with but few traces of Greek philosophy. Such traces as there are, however, as a comparison with the Syriac shows, are mainly the additions of the translator. God is the Creator, Preserver, and Governor of the universe; the hope of a future life is dim and uncertain. A good name and grateful remembrance by posterity are the reward of the righteous. It contains, however, some sublime passages on the works of creation and on the praise of wisdom (ch. xxiv, xlii, xliii), and its testimony to the Hebrew Canon from Genesis to the latest prophet is of great value. It is commonly ascribed to a period between the termination of the "Great Synagogue" and the rise of the Maccabees.

(v) THE BOOK OF BARUCH.

1. THIS BOOK, which bears the name of the companion of Jeremiah, was not regarded by the Jews as canonical. No reference is made to it in the New Testament, or by the Apostolic Fathers; but subsequently Christian writers refer to it as the work of Jeremiah. No Hebrew version of it is known, and all others seem to be derived from a Greek original. The so-called EPISTLE OF JEREMIAH (chap. vi) is an entirely independent production, composed probably by an Alexandrian Jew to warn his countrymen against heathen idolatry.

1 All the questions connected with this book are fully examined by the Rev. W. J. Deane, in his edition (Clarendon Press, 1881). Also by Dr. Farrar in the Speaker's Commentary, Apocrypha, vol. i. (Murray, 1888).

2. THE BOOK OF BARUCH contains paraphrases upon Jeremiah and Daniel and other prophetic writings. Like Ecclesiasticus it dwells upon the temporal promises of God and national restoration, and there are no traces of those hopes of immortality which were awakened in the Maccabean period. In this respect it differs from the later Syriac treatise, "the Apocalypse of Baruch."

3. THE FIRST PART (i.—iii. 8) consists of an introduction, followed by a confession and prayer on the part of the captive exiles. THE SECOND PART (iii. 9 to the end) contains a gentle rebuke of Israel for their sins, and a sublime passage on the condensation of God in manifesting His Law and His Presence to them, and a lamentation by Jerusalem over her children. This is followed very abruptly by a triumphant apostrophe to Jerusalem, foretelling the return of her children and their abiding glory.

(vi) APOCRYPHAL ADDITIONS TO DANIEL.

THESE THREE FRAGMENTS are not found in the original text of the Book of Daniel, but have a place in the LXX Version, and seem to embody certain popular traditions embellishing historical facts. They are probably all derived from Hebrew sources.

1. THE SONG OF THE THREE CHILDREN.

THIS BOOK supplements the narrative in Daniel iii, and gives a supposed prayer of Azarias for deliverance from the fiery furnace, and an account of the means by which the Three Children were saved, followed by a hymn of thanksgiving, sung by them in the fire, which has been used in Christian worship, under the name of the "Hymn of the Three," ever since the fourth century A.D. Accordingly, it is found in the Appendix to the Alexandrian Psalter. Expansions of this story are common in Talmudic literature, and it is probable that this came originally from some early Midrash.

2. THE HISTORY OF SUSANNA.

THIS NARRATIVE is prefixed to the Hebrew Book of Daniel in the copies of the Septuagint and other Greek versions. There are also Syriac and other versions, differing widely from the Greek text and giving additional details. It is the subject of a Latin poem by Hildebert of Tours, A.D. 1100. According to Origen it is connected with the history of Ahab and Zedekiah in Jer. xxix. 22. A similar story is found in early Jewish literature. The writer's object was to censure the judges of Israel, in his own day, by a comparison of the guilty elders with the virtuous youth Daniel.

3. BEL AND THE DRAGON.

THIS BOOK, called in the LXX "Part of the Prophecy of Habakkuk, the son of Joshua, of the tribe of Levi," contains the history of the destruction of two objects of Babylonian worship, with an account of Daniel's deliverance from the lions. The event is placed in the time of Cyrus, and Jewish tradition regarded it as a distinct incident from that recorded in the canonical Book of Daniel.

(vii) THE PRAYER OF MANASSES.

THE ORIGINAL PRAYER of the penitent King of Judah existed when the Book of Chronicles was written in two distinct documents (2 Chron. xxxiii. 18, 19). This version is found in some copies of the LXX, and in the Apostolic Constitutions, with a legend of his miraculous deliverance from captivity. Its date and authorship are both uncertain. It is cast in a poetical form, and is based upon the prophetic Scriptures, and was probably of Hebrew or Aramaic origin.

(viii) TOBIT.

1. THE ORIGINAL OF THIS BOOK was probably in Hebrew or Chaldee, though the extant Hebrew versions are later than the Greek book in the Septuagint. The Vulgate was translated by Jerome from a Chaldee version done for his special benefit into Hebrew; but this version differed from the Chaldee Tobit now in the Bodleian Library in Oxford, which is based upon the LXX. It is supposed that the author's purpose was to impart moral and religious instruction rather than to record an historical event. The story is connected with the captives of the ten tribes in Nineveh and Media. The ministry of angels here described is based on the teaching of Genesis, and is wrongly traced to a Persian origin.

2. FROM INTERNAL EVIDENCE the writer seems to have been a Jew, resident in the East (perhaps at Babylon), while the kingdom of Media was still standing and the complete restoration of Jerusalem was not yet effected. This would fix the date between Nehemiah and Alexander the Great, most probably about B.C. 350; but several of the versions are much later. The book has been more highly esteemed by Christians than by Jews. It presents a most vivid and pleasing picture of domestic life, and of the influence of religion upon it, among the captive Jews, and in this respect it bears a strong affinity to the historical part of the Book of Job.

(ix) JUDITH.

IT IS PRACTICALLY CERTAIN that the Greek text of this book is derived from a Hebrew or Chaldee original. As in the case of Tobit, Jerome made his Vulgate translation of the book with the help of a Chaldee version translated for the purpose into Hebrew. But the carelessness with which this was confessedly done makes it extremely difficult to decide which of the two texts, the Greek or Chaldee, is closer to the original, or what is their relation to each other. The geographical and historical references in the book are so irreconcilable with known facts that there is little doubt that the book is an historical fiction, intended to revive a spirit of heroism in the Jews of Palestine, when it had been completely crushed out by a long period of oppression. It may be that the invasion of Judaea by Antiochus Epiphanes (B.C. 168), and the atrocities committed by Apollonius at Jerusalem, with the heroic resistance offered by the unknown mother and her seven sons, who all suffered martyrdom (2 Macc. vii), suggested this story, to stimulate others to follow their example, and that to it is due the patriotism which resulted in their deliverance under the Maccabees; others refer it to the time of Hyrcanus II. It is probable that the leading characters were taken from historical personages of the period, disguised under fictitious names, though some have regarded them as purely allegorical.

(x) MACCABEES.
